Corporate Communion was held at 8 a.m. with the rector as celebrant.

The members afterwards partook breakfast in the basement of the church, served under the convenership of Miss Edna Millard and her committee.

A vote of thanks was extended to the social committee by Mrs. E. Gibson.

At 11 a.m. there was held Morning Prayer and sermon. Rev. T. H. Floyd taking as his text, "Christianity beginning as a Youth Movement."

Brain of St. John's; also A.Y.P.A. members from St. John's and St. All Saints' members were unable to attend owing to their own anniversary services.

Rev. Brain, in his sermon, took his text from St. John, where Pilate wrote a title and put it on the Cross, and the writing was "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews."

Afterwards a sing-song, led by W. Anderson, with Mrs. R. King at the piano, was held in the basement and was enjoyed by all. The program being in charge of Mrs. O. Laderach and her Worship committee. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Jean Ray "Holy City"; Miss B. Curtis, "The Lost Chord"; duet by Mrs. W. Farr and Mrs. J. Cooper, "In The Garden."

A vote of thanks by W. Davies, vice-president, was extended to all who had helped to make the A.Y.P.A. Sunday a success.

It was also one yea rago on Sunday when Rev. Floyd held his first services as rector of St. George's Church.

Light refreshments were served and the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close a most successful A.Y.P.A. Sunday.

M. H. Park Sings At Queen's Alumnae Concert

Mr. Maurice H. Park was enthusiastically received in three groups of songs at a concert of the Queen's Alumnae of Smith's Falls on Friday evening. A two-piano team from Brockville, Mrs. B. F. Lewis and Miss S. Sheridan, who were heard ni four delightful groups, were artists on the same program.

Mr. Park, who was accompanied at the piano by Gwen Craw, sang as his first group Handel's "Wher-e'er You Walk"; Quilter's "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal"; Di-Capua's "Beneath Thy Window," as his second group, Quilter's "Come Away, Death"; Lalo's French song, "Vainement, Ma Bien-Aimee"; Verdi's "La Donna E Mobile," and his third group, Lane Wilson's "A Sailor Loved a Lass"; Kennedy Fraser's "Eriskay Love Lilt", Lane Wilson's "Mary of Allendale"; and Carey's "Sally in Our Alley."

DOROTHY DIX

Except In Rare Cases Marriage Is Only For Those Who Can Afford It—The Bills To Be Paid Often Offset The Romantic Advantages.

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a couple in love and want to get married. My husband-to-be and I are both 24 years old and he insists on our being married at once, but if we do we would have to live in a furnished room for a few months, have a very simple wedding, no bridal trip and none of the trimmings of a real wedding. Besides, he and I both have some bills that we have to pay on for several months anyhow. Although my fiance has a good government job, to keep it will require him to go to school five nights a week for three years or longer. That will leave me at home alone on these nights. I have a decent job that will take care of my own needs, but if we get married his school and the incidental expenses will exhaust that. Do you think that we should wait until all bills are paid up and we can have a regular wedding and move into an apartment? Or should we get married now, with nothing to look forward to for several months at least? —ANXIOUS.

ANSWER:

Necessarily you must make your own decision in such an important matter. A sentimentalist would tell you to go on with the wedding without stopping to consider the state of your finances. He would say that love can turn the dingiest and most squalid room into a paradise, and that bread and cheese are angels food if flavored by kisses.

But a realist would say WAIT. He would say love that is not strong enough to last over a few months of waiting is a poor thing that will not endure a lifetime. He would say that anything that is worth having is worth working for and sacrificing for. He would say that marriage isn't all romance; that it is bills for food and lodging and heat and light and clothes and amusements and sickness, and that if it is not adequately financed it will go bankrupt just as surely as any other venture would.

He would say that he has known so many marriages that have gone on the rocks just because a boy and girl were so anxious to get married that they would not wait until they were ready to marry. He would say that if only they had waited until they were free of debt and had saved enough money to go to housekeeping in even the simplest way they would have had a happy and a prosperous life together. But they didn't do it.

They married and piled new debts on old debts until the sound of the bill collector was the first thing they heard in the morning and the last thing they heard at night. They never had a chance to be free, to be happy, to grow together. For they had not even anything pleasant to talk about and in time each came to blame the other for their plight.

So I urge you to consider the practical as well as the sentimental side of marriage before you rush into it. Whether you are married in a white satin dress and orange blossoms or a street suit does not matter. But having enough money to live in a decent place and meet the grocery bill does matter. For you will be just as hungry after marriage as you are before; you will take just the same interest in the new styles and you will want to go to the movies just the same. You can get mighty sick and tired of looking at the same man or woman if that is everything you have to do. So put off your marriage until you can afford it.

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a family of six with a grand mother and father. All of us children are married and we visit our parents as often as we can and have lovely times that are only marred by the presence of one of my sister's husband. He is college bred and tries to show his superiority by continually correcting Father and Mother about their grammar or pronunciation or some homely phrase they use. He interrupts them in the midst of anything they are saying, no matter who is present, and frequently bursts out laughing loudly at some error they make. How can we stop him? Mother and Father are deeply hurt by his conduct, and we all feel so sorry for them and so resentful at him for humiliating two of the finest old people in the world. —OHIO GIRL.

ANSWER:

Inasmuch as your brother-in-law seems to have none of the instincts and upbringing of a gentleman, you will have to use brutal tactics in dealing with him, as that is the only thing that he can understand. Hence my suggestion is that your two brothers and the other son-in-law take this uncouth chap aside and tell him just exactly what they think of him, and that they will not stand for his insulting their parents, and that if he expects to sit at the family table any more he has to conduct himself with at least common civility. We doubt this man considers himself far superior to th family he has married into, an that is his way of showing of Well, it will do him a world of goo to have his egotism deflated a little It is unfortunate that college education so often goes to the heads of shallow-brained fools, but it does And there is nobody more insufferable than the intellectual prig.

DEAR MISS DIX—I was a widow with two daughters, 12 and 14, when I married my present husband. I admit that they were spoiled and

On the east coast of Britain ships have been going down while travelling in what are known and regarded as neutral lanes. The Royal Dutch mail liner Simon Bolivar was one of them, and there was a loss of life—men, women and children—to the extent of 140.

Great Britain and France announce every mine field they lay, and that is in accordance with international law. The danger area must be declared and shipping warned to keep away.

This new peril of the sea and of shipping lanes is Germany's newest attempt. They plant or "seed" neutral waters with floating mines, knowing that no German vessel will strike them and hoping British and French craft will encounter them. If the shipping of neutral nations gets blown to bits then it's just too bad. It will be a warning to them to keep their vessels tied up.

The Dutch liner Simon Bolivar had nothing to do with the war; no more to do with it than the Dutch folk themselves. The Simon Bolivar was not carrying passengers or cargo to Britain or France, but was starting on one of its regular trips to the West Indies. The passengers on board were not fighting Germany; they were not armed; they were for the most part people returning to their homes in the West Indies or other ports where the liner would call.

If any one nation is gifted with the faculty of doing stupid as well as damnable things then that nation is Germany. Berlin may boast of its capacity for carrying on propaganda, but spreading floating mines which may hit enemy and neutral alike is about as asinine as anything which a low-grade mind could concoct. By its own action Germany has made it clear to the world that it cannot be trusted; that it will kill those against whom it has made no war. It has no regard for international law to which it has itself in times past subscribed. Much in the same class as the man who secretly lays poison for his neighbor's pet dog.

They Do Not Make Sense

The Examiner has previously commented on the wide range of prices offered for farm produce on the various farmers' markets of Ontario, and that wide range shows no indication of being remedied. It remains wide and in some cases is becoming wider.

Hindquarters of beef are much the same in any locality; it would require just about the same amount of feed to produce on any farm. Yet it is reported that this beef was selling in Cobourg at 14 1-2 to 19 1-2 cents per pound, while Ottawa sends a report that hindquarters were selling there on the same day at 6 to 8 cents per pound.

So staple an article as butter was quoted in Brantford at 26 cents, while in St. Catharines the price was 33 cents, a spread of 7 cents a pound. The low price mentioned for chickens was registered at Kingston at 17 cents, while the low figure at Sarnia was 25 cents, and that is a spread of eight cents, or about 40 cents on a fair-sized bird.

Baled hay is mentioned as something which is sold on a farmers' Saturday market, but our belief is that those who have it for sale seldom go to market with it. Hamilton reports it was worth from $13 to $14, while Stratford puts the price at $8 and nothing more. We can think of nothing at all which would make baled hay worth from $5 to $6 more in Hamilton than in Stratford. Producers would cut about the same crop per acre. Hay runs from two to three tons per acre—and three is high—so selling hay at $8 means a mighty poor return. We are moved to doubt whether there is actually that spread between Hamilton and Stratford.

Oats and wheat come under the same classification. That is, they are not commonly offered on the market, but the difference in the price quoted is marked. Hamilton has a mark of 35 cents per bushel, while it is recorded from Ottawa that 25 cents was the price of a similar quantity, while wheat was as low as 49 1-2 cents in London and 65 cents in Woodstock and Kingston, a difference of 15 1-2 cents per bushel.

Nor is there anything in the price of so common an article as potatoes to suggest equality. Ottawa quoted 85 cents for a bag while Woodstock and St. Catharines said $1.25, and 40 cents is a wide spot between prices unless there was an equal range in quality which is not likely.

Why there should be such a difference in prices is something which we do not know. It cannot be that the law of supply and demand would cause it because there is a generous distribution of all the articles mentioned throughout all the places where they were being sold. The cost of production would not vary much from one section to another, and when the farmers came to spend the money they secured from market sales they would not encounter such violent differences in the price of articles which they purchased. Whatever the explanation the stubborn fact remains that the quoted prices are at times so far one from the other that they do not make sense.

He Might As Well Sit Down

In several papers we have seen pictures of the ex-Kaiser, Wilhelm Hohenzollern, who has been living in exile or seclusion in Doorn, Holland, since the last days of the war. It will be recalled he went there with considerable rapidity, and never since has he returned to Germany.

The reason—or the excuse— for publishing his picture is that he is said to entertain high hopes that the Hohenzollern dynasty will be restored in Germany. What method he has for keeping informed is not known, but possibly he does get word through now and again from the monarchist group in the fatherland.

Actually we doubt if the gentleman of Doorn has much on which to build his hopes. Nor do we believe the world would feel much happier if he were returned to power, or if his son were to be called in.

In the days of his might he came to the conclusion that he had built the German army to the point where it could conquer the world, and the world is ready to admit it discovered he had a remarkable fighting machine. It has never been recorded that he has changed his mind. Certainly in his day there was a greater degree of personal liberty in Germany than there has been under Nazi domination, but the spirit of might is right was there just the same.

Our guess is that the aged monarch in Doorn might just as well reconcile himself to the daily routine of lesser affairs to which he has grown accustomed. If he thinks the finger of fate is being crooked in his direction he is making a mistake. We doubt if many in Germany want him and we know the Allies would have none of him. He had his chance as it has been given to few others in history and he almost wrecked the world for four full years.

They Tell Little

Nearly every day brings its story from Detroit telling of the strike in the Chrysler auto plant. There is reason for these frequent reports because 100,000 workers being idle is important in any community. And when it runs on for five or six weeks and hundreds of homes find themselves without any cash or credit there is an added touch of domestic tragedy.

The public at best is not well informed regarding the actual working conditions because none of the reports tells the story in such a way that people can understand what it is all about.

There is much said about the men desiring to have a voice in the speed at which the assembly line shall operate, but that is vague because the average reader knows nothing about an assembly line and how much speed is required to keep up with it.

There was more about a demand for an extra ten cents an hour, which was afterward dropped to five cents, but not at any time has it been stated what the average wage of these workers amounts to. A short statement giving such figures and showing the average number of weeks worked in a year would give the public a clearer idea of the reasons for the struggle than all the reports yet presented.

He Walked On The Tracks

Alex. Gollan, 82 years old, and also deaf, was going to attend the funeral of a life-long friend. He was walking and in order to save steps decided to take a short cut and walk on the railway tracks for part of the way. A freight train was due about the same time, and Mr. Gollan was struck and killed.

Possibly a number of people would say Mr. Gollan took a chance which no one should have accepted when he started walking on the track. He was deaf and could not hear the approach of a train and it might be possible to have quite a lot to say about that.

Actually we do not believe Mr. Gollan was taking anything like the risk which a good many people accept when they start walking on the highways at night. There would be very few trains on the track at Lucknow, likely not more than two or three a day. Most of the time the man could have walked there in safety.

On the highway there is no time table, and at night there are all manner of cars. Those who drive at night have often enough been thankful they have been able to notice some person in dark clothing walking along the edge of the pavement, and even those who walk as they should facing oncoming traffic are not always clearly visible.

Years ago people used to carry lanterns when they went down the road at night, but they do not do that often now, although there is ten times the reason for it than ever existed in the days of horse-drawn vehicles.

There must be hundreds of people taking a good long chance every night in the week walking on highways and taking it for granted drivers will see them. They are taking a greater risk than the unfortunate gentleman at Lucknow who happened to walk the track when the freight train was due to come along.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Quebec 1940 auto licenses are being placed on sale now to stimulate the sale of new cars. That looks like salesmanship. Sell a man a license and he will want to buy a car to go with it.

Then there was that thrifty Scottish woman. The doctor said her man was about to die so she sold his clothes. He surprised the community by recovering and meantime he has to remain in bed.

Out on the highway the other day we noticed a man who had pulled off to the side and was on his back underneath the thing. It has always been a puzzle to us what there is to see when a person crawls under a car.

A soldier in Ottawa was arrested for trying to ride a milkman's horse at 4 in the morning, and the cadi said the fellow must have imagined he was in the cavalry. As a rule it is difficult to know what a chap imagines when he is out until 4 in the morning.

We notice where one damage suit with an award of $10,500 is being paid at the rate of $10 per month. If there is any normal rate of interest being charged the amount owing at the end of 80 years will be greater than the amount of the award.

We read that every time a person in United States breathes the government has spent $1,000. That may be an interesting way of computing amounts, but if a person were to stop breathing the expenditure would continue just the same.

Detroit was planning to undertake a project calling for the expenditure of $750,000 in extending its street lighting system, but it was called off because there were not sufficient skilled workers to carry it through. It may be that our present machine age does not produce a sufficient number of this class.

California man of 40 years is in trouble. He left his wife of the same age as himself, and then married a girl of 20 and a few weeks afterward did the same thing again. He may have worked it out by mathematics that he was entitled to change a 40 for two 20's, but the law does not see it that way.

Youth of 17 was released on probation in London, Ont., after being charged with threatening his step-father with a rifle. Next day he was arrested for fraud of $45 extent. When a boy of 17 gets off to that kind of a start it would be well for our experts on such matters to determine the sort of mentality with which he is equipped.

Petrolia, Ont., has a queer situation after it fired its two policemen. The ones who were fired refused to retire, and the ones who were fired in order to make way for those who were hired are now on duty with those who were hired to take the places of those who were fired. We have tried to make the situation clear and we hope you understand just how the matter stands at the moment.

MECHANIC

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I put the storm door on last night, and tried to fit it good and tight, like lead poured in a mold; I knew if it got fixed that way, it would come handy night and day, at keeping out the cold.

¶ The handy man just up the street, has got his on correct and neat, I watched him as he toiled; when he was through the thing was slick, and it would neither bang nor stick, it worked as though 'twere oiled.

¶ I made a note of how he did, and sunk it all inside my lid, his technique was superb; he just worked quietly at the thing, until he had it so 'twould swing, and never said a word.

¶ I nailed my door on like I should, as snug as any worker could, I smiled when I was through; I even stopped to stroke the pup, then found it wouldn't open up, like what it ought to do.

¶ I took the storm door off once more, paid more attention than before, I measured top and butt; I calculated now and then, like all keen-thinking clever men, and then it wouldn't shut.

¶ The third time on was fairly good, it doesn't work like how it should, not quite a perfect fit; I think that I can shut it tight, if I can wiggle it just right—and pull it quite a bit.

Mystery Of The Various Armies Which Vanished

IT SEEMS almost impossible that several thousand well-armed soldiers, each wearing distinctive regimental insignia, could disappear off the face of the earth.

A small body of men might be wiped out in an engagement, their bodies burned or buried by the victors; but when an army of 3,000 soldiers, in wireless contact with headquarters, together with their artillery, tanks, horses and the rest of their equipment, simply vanish, one is inclined to be a little incredulous.

Surely, one asks, one man escaped from the carnage to tell the tale? Or if they were all killed, surely the victors would not take the trouble or spend valuable time burying 3,000 corpses when they might be advancing to further glories? And if they were buried, surely the victors would tell of the engagement, or a trace be found of the buried men?

One cannot inter 3,000 men without leaving a trace of them. Yet the fact remains that armies have disappeared off the face of the earth, no trace ever being found of them.... men, animals, guns, tanks, equipment, the whole lot, lock, stock, and barrel.

How?

During the Spanish conflict an army of 4,000 well-trained, well-armed fighters vanished among the ice and snows of the Pyrenees.

In the same way a column of Italian troops, fighting in Abyssinia, went into action, never to return: an expeditionary force set out to search for them; squadrons of aeroplanes scoured the country for miles around; all to no effect. The men had gone.

Could a force of 1,000 men, armed with machine-guns, backed up by aeroplanes and heavy artillery, be overcome by ill-equipped natives, their bodies being buried? If this was so, surely the clothes and equipment would be retained by the badly equipped Abyssinians? And if this was the case, there is no doubt that in time at least one Abyssinian wearing the equipment of one of the missing 1,000 would be captured. Yet no trace was ever found of them.

It is impossible for so large a force to have deserted to the Japanese without the news being blazoned across the world. Three men might desert without the fact being found out....but not 3,000.

Going a little further back, one comes to the missing battalion of Bolivians fighting in the Gran Chaco War. One day 2,000 men marched into the jungle: never to return.

What happened to the Norfolks? Together with the Lancashire Fusiliers and the Anson Regiment they went into action against the Turks at Gallipoli in an effort to clear the Ridge. Somehow they were surrounded when the Ansons and Lancashire Fusiliers retired in the face of annihilating machine-gun fire.

When the Ridge was ultimately cleared, questions were asked about the Norfolks. "Killed to a man!" said the Turkish prisoners.

To the British request to be taken to the bodies the Turks could not answer. The Norfolks had, they said, been buried, but they could not say where they had been buried.

Search parties scoured the district thoroughly for a trace of them: but nothing so much as a button was ever found. Three hundred men simply vanished. Not a peaked cap, a rifle, a badge or a button was ever found.

The strangest case of all concerns that of the 500 French Foreign Legionnaires and the 150 crack Spahis, who vanished in 1904, after marching out of Saigon with orders to quell what threatened to be serious disturbances among the natives.

That force of 650 men, among whom were to be found the toughest, most relentless fighters in the world, was considered strong enough to deal with a large force of badly-armed natives: it was backed by light field guns, quantities of ammunition and enough food to last it during a long expedition.

Yet the 650 men were never seen again. They marched out of Saigon never to return. No news of major engagements filtered through. No natives could be persuaded to say that they had seen the Legionnaires.

RADIO'S PERSONALITY

JOURNALISM has a fine tradition of anonymity which might serve as an example. It is accepted, for instance, that the name of the writer of an editorial is of no interest to readers, because whether it is written by the editor-in-chief or the office boy it is printed as representing the considered opinions of the newspaper. The actual writer is an agency for putting into words the views the paper wants to express. Radio announcers might be vested with an equal impersonality.—Ottawa Journal.

Letters To The Editor

JOBS AND TECHNOLOGY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—"Labor-saving machinery by which productivity will be increased and jobs eliminated has recently been installed by two companies in West Toronto" is the theme of the leading article in a recent issue of Steel News, Bulletin of the West End Lodge, S. W. O. C., Toronto.

This article states that in the Canadian Acme Screw & Gear Co. a new automatic machine increases the productivity of one operator by over 130 per cent. And a new installation by the Massey Harris Co. is capable of turning out more than five times that of the machine replaced—an increase exceeding 455 per cent. Both of these machines, says Steel News, reduces the production season as well as displacing man-hours of labor.

Every piece of machinery introduced since the beginning of the use of tools has resulted in some job or other's requiring fewer man-hours then previously. In the industrial growth of North America new tools and machines were introduced but slowly at first. There came the steam engine, then steamships and railroads. There was the cotton gin, the reaper, and better plows. Man-hours were displaced in communication when the telegraph, and later the telephone, superseded the pony express. During the last fifty years, the whole works has blossomed forth into the finest and most complex array of industrial equipment ever seen by the eyes of man. And without exception each and every one of these developments has resulted in the doing of the job in hand with fewer man-hours than was ever before the case.

Where does all this lead us? To more jobs, or more jobless? The answer is both; first the one, and then the other. In the pioneer days there were more than enough jobs for all. Even at that time jobs were being eliminated; but for the period from about 1800 to the first World War, industrial production was increasing at about 5 per cent per annum, while population was growing at only about 3 per cent, and so, for that period, the birth rate of new jobs exceeded the death rate of old ones. And the birth of new industries for that period and the expansion of old ones created more jobs than the introduction of new labor - saving equipment eliminated.

Since the first World War, however, a different aspect has presented itself. For reasons financial, rather than technological, industrial production has been leveling off in its rate of growth; but, since man-hours cost a minmum of twenty cents each as compared to kilowatt-hours at a rate of one cent or less each, and since a kilowatt-hour will do more than ten man-hours, quicker and better, and not talk back, it is more profitable to employ more and more of the latter and correspondingly less of the former. Technological development with its introduction of labor-saving machinery is proceeding apace; and as so much yet remains to be done, Technocracy Inc. ventures to suggest that it will continue to do so indefinitely. Production, meanwhile, has leveled off, and the death rate of old jobs now exceeds the birth rate of new, resulting in a corresponding dimunition of the total man-hours required to maintain the operation of our social mechanism—a state of affairs which most probably will also, with only temporary reversals, continue into the indefinite future.

For a given number of total man-hours per year, any number of men may be employed, providing the working day is made short enough. It is conceivable that technological advance might continue to such a point that, in order not to have an army of unemployed, the length of the working day would have to be reduced to five, or even three, hours per day, and it still be necessary to pay for the shorter day an amount equal to or greater than that now paid for a day of eight or ten hours.

This would be disturbing, for it would strike at the root of one of our fondest illusions, namely, that a man somehow earns what he receives. Should our citizens who perform socially necessary functions reach a state wherein they were paid a handsome standard of living for relatively small expenditure of effort, they might possibly put on airs and pretend that they were as good as bankers and others who perform no socially necessary function, and who allow themselves graciously to be served. This would be very detrimental to our great North American institutions, and so is not to be countenanced if any convenient alternative can be discovered.

NOT NORMAL TIMES

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—If one may be guided by recent references to the wheat problem, alike in the editorial and market columns of The Examiner, there seems to be a battle of titans in progress, as between the organized wheat-growers and the private grain-traders, as to what should be this country's sales policy for the duration of the war.

According to the news columns, the chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board is among the personnel accompanying Hon. T. A. Crerar to London. It seems probable, therefore, that some vital decisions may be arrived at, whereby the Canadian wheat farmer can go ahead with a little more confidence than under the present fog-bound conditions.

For some reason, the grain trade makes but slight reference to the suggestions of Mr. Justice Turgeon, who inquired into the conduct of the international wheat business very thoroughly in 1937-38. However that may be, I find much meaning today in the following paragraph from the Report of the Turgeon Commission: "I am therefore of the opinion that under what may be called normal conditions—open markets in the United Kingdom, a fair relationship between world supply and import demand and no danger clouds on the immediate horizon—the Government should remain out of the grain trade...."

Here, it seems to this reader, would be a sufficient reason for the Ottawa authorities to follow the British example (in closing the Liverpool wheat-pit) at Winnipeg? These times could hardly be described as "normal conditions"?

FAIR DEAL.

CANNOT BE PUBLISHED

The Examiner is in receipt of two letters today which cannot be published. One deals with the difficulty of young people finding places of employment in stores, etc., and contains a threat that a boycott is being launched against certain stores. That is a form of intimidation and therefore cannot be published.

The other letter complains of working conditions in Peterborough and the manner in which unions have diminished in size and extent. At the end there is the signature "True Canadian," and that is all.

• Judge Would Have Hit the Policeman

Back in the month of June while flowers and gardens were getting under way in the city of London, Ont., a policeman arrested a woman who took a ball which had been battered into her garden. He called the police patrol wagon and had her taken to the station. The whole thing looked strange enough at the time, but when Mr. Justice Godfrey dealt with the case it is likely enough the officer in question wished he had acted otherwise. It is reported this way:

A judgment of $300 and costs against Constable Forest Fansett of the city police force because he arrested a neighbor's wife and took her to the police station when she refused to surrender a child's ball she had seized, was given by Justice Godfrey in non-jury Supreme Court. The judgment was awarded to the woman who was arrested, Mrs. Lorintha Emmerton of 4 Riverview Avenue, interior decorator and wife of a postal clerk.

"It was undoubtedly a serious assault, false arrest and false imprisonment," Justice Godfrey declared in his judgment, given after a day-long trial. "I think the damages should be much heavier, but I'm going to be moderate."

The judge was outspoken in condemnation of the policeman's action and called it "stupid, scandalous and outrageous." He said he believed the constable lost his head and expressed the hope he wouldn't lose his job. He said he believed Fansett would make a much better policeman as a result of the experience. Fansett has been on the city force for more than ten years.

Evidence was that Mrs. Emmerton's flowers had been broken by a ball. Later, when ball-playing was resumed, she dropped the ball into her gardener's basket and refused to surrender it when the policeman, who lives nearby, demanded it. He took her by the arm and held her until a neighbor summoned the police car. Then she was taken to headquarters, where police got the ball and she got her freedom. Her claim was for $2,518.

Medical evidence was called about the bruise where her arm was seized by the constable. Dr. M. A. Platt said he was consulted six or seven times about it, and prescribed treatment. Mrs. Emmerton said it is still painful, although the incident was on June 13.

When Sergt. G. F. Tomblin, who was on duty at headquarters when Mrs. Emmerton was brought in, was called for the defense, Justice Godfrey exclaimed: "You thought it was an outrageous thing for this man to bring this woman there under the circumstances?"

Sergeant Tomblin said he believed the dispute could have been passed over.

When he placed his hand on her arm, Mrs. Emmerton became hysterical and called to her nephew in an upstairs window to call the police, the constable testified.

"A technical arrest," replied Constable Fansett.

"There's no such thing as a technical arrest. You detained her?"

"Yes."

"That was a stupid thing. I never heard of such a stupid thing and all over a paltry ball," said Justice Godfrey.

"I wouldn't say all. She hit me and hitting a police officer is a serious thing...." said Constable Fansett.

"She should have hit you over the head....it was an outrageous thing. he lost his head," said Justice Godfrey.

Don't you regret what you have done now?" asked His Lordship.

"Yes, my Lord," said Constable Fansett.

"That will take something off your damages," said Justice Godfrey, adding: "If I had been there, or that woman's husband, I would have hit him with whatever I could get my hands on. It was such a trivial thing, very silly and very foolish."

THOSE WAR DEBTS

UP TO THE CLOSE of the World War, America had always been a debtor nation; at the close of this war it had become a creditor nation. Lombard street was forced to yield its former supremacy to Wall Street.

Unfortunately, America did not know what to do in the circumstances; it did not appreciate the situation. Foreign countries were deeply in debt to the United States, and the overwhelming majority of Americans wanted these foreign nations to pay their debts, but it refused to allow them to pay their debts in the only way by which they could be paid.

A great hullabaloo went up when the debt-owing nations defaulted, but we had, by means of hostile tariffs, which grew even more and more hostile, slammed our doors in the face of Europe, and then condemned the debtors for not doing what it was literally impossible for them to do.

America is not free from guilt in the matter of the war that is now going on in Europe.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Finance Puzzle Baffles Her Sally Admits

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21 — (AP). — Sally Rand, of fan and bubble dance fame, made a personal appearance before a standing-room-only audience in bankruptcy court yesterday and said she really couldn't explain very much about her tangled finances. It was all too complicated.

"You'll have to ask my attorney, Mr. Walsh, about that," she said frequently, in reply to questions about her assets posed by Arthur P. Shapro, attorney for John O. England, receiver for her estate.

The documents filed say that the estate consists of $8,067 in some very doubtful assets. The debts amount to $64,631.

Spic and chic in a black tailored suit with diaphanous white jabot, and snowy turban of coque feathers, the dancer appeared nervous as the questioning began, and occasionally dabbed a perspiring brow with her handkerchief as it proceeded.

Indignantly she denied a gossip column story read into the record by Shapro, relating that the reason the receiver didn't find anything of value when he visited Sally's nude ranch and Miss America concessions at the Golden Gate Exposition was that her troupe of girls smuggled everything out under their clothes.

The account said some of the girls carried so much, including Sally's four fans, worth $250 apiece, and 30 balloons, $365 each, that they "looked twice their normal size and amazingly deformed."

"I know there were an awful lot of attachments going around those last few days," she said, "but I don't know what they were all for."

She told Referee in Bankruptcy Burton J. Wyman and a roomful of creditors she was supposed to get half of the net proceeds from three Treasure Island concessions. "Gay Pare" folded up quickly, she said, and she got nothing from it but $148 for expenses. From the nude ranch and "Miss America" she got a gross income of $74,830, but it all melted away with payrolls, expenses, agents' fees, publicity, and what not else.

She had to mortgage her expensive car for $600 to pay a $500 hotel bill for her penthouse so she could get out of town, she said.

The hearing was continued to December 20.

French Report Front Quiet

PARIS, Nov. 21 — (AP). — The French high command's communique this morning said: "Nothing of importance to report during the night."

A 37-minute air raid alarm in Northwestern France last night apparently resulted from a German scouting flight. Last night's War Ministry communique noted only "reduced activity on the front," including some patrol and artillery action.

(Observers in Luxembourg told of French shellfire between Perl and Apach. They said the Moselle and Sauer Rivers were flooded, barring infantry action on that northern extreme of the front).

German Revolt Will Upset Adolf Hitler's Regime

"You can't say when a revolt will come in Germany because a dictatorship is always strong until ten minutes before it falls." That was one of a hundred pithy remarks made at the Kawartha club Monday night by Wilson Woodside of the University of Toronto in an address at the annual meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. H. W. McKiel, dean of the engineering faculty of Mount Allison university, and Dominion president of the E.I.C., was also a guest speaker.

Mr. Woodside returned to this country just as war broke out after an all-summer journey through European countries. He said the present time is too early to look for a revolt by the German people because they have not yet reached the starvation point they had in 1918. But he did believe that revolt may come from armed groups within the country—either a rightist revolt by army leaders or a leftist revolt by radicals within the gestapo and S. S. troops. A rightist revolt would probably mean restoration of the monarchy, a leftist would as likely see the National Socialist party become the National Communist party, he believed.

Purge Army Leaders.

If Himmler carried out a successful purge of army leaders he might well be successful in a leftist revolt, but unless he acted with great speed he would find his cause lost, he thought. Underlying all his conjecture, however, was the inference that either the people, the army, or the Nazi party, will shortly break away from Adolf Hitler's leadership.

He did not think that the Allies, if the war is fought out, will completely destroy the German army, for that would mean anarchy in Germany and the success of Joseph Stalin's plans for a Communist revolt there. Nor did he believe that a peace like that signed at Versailles at the end of the First Great War, would follow an Allied victory. He believed, rather, that statesmen will go to a peace conference with the full knowledge of what happened last time, and determined that it shall not happen again. And he looked to the day when there will be a federal union of European countries. That union, upon which peace depends, is already forming outlines, he claimed, pointing to the close relations enjoyed by France and Britain, Holland and Belgium, the Balkan states, and the Scandinavian states. That was the hope he held out for the future. "I hope I'm not too much of an optimist, and I don't expect all this will come in a minute, but it may very well be that this is our darkest hour."

Just One Great Push.

Dwelling on the possibility of a vast German offensive, he believed that country "has just about as she had in 1918, enough for one great push." But Germany is not the "prosperous, fat country she was in 1914; she is neurotic now, full of poison." With the passing of every day she grows weaker and the Allies grow stronger, "and that's Hitler's dilemma."

He drew intimate word pictures of the lands he had visited just before the outbreak of war. Most tragic was that of Poland, whose people he found "cocky," who said, "We never count our enemies until after the battle is over." He described them as "the Irish of Eastern Europe," just as he found the Czechs to be "the Scotch of Central Europe." Hungary was "the handsomest nation," the one that would be bets suited to rule all that part of the continent. Bulgaria was a small, poor, honest country trying to make the best of what she had—"like an Horatio Alger country." Rumanians were "of a different ilk"—"delightful, almost too hospitable, but not strongly organized and a poor ally."

Dislike Germans.

He visited Italy to find there a fondness, despite propaganda, for Englishmen and a dislike for Germans. Germans were known in Italy as "penny tippers" he said, and "they walked about the streets and through the cathedrals as though they were visiting a colony." He believed Mussolini had "pushed these good-natured, tolerant people as far as he could in the direction of Germany," and that the trend is now definitely away from the axis.

Switzerland won his admiration with her supreme love of freedom. "These people were not going to yield to the pistol," he said, describing the [illegible] defence measures that country had taken to teach Hitler that a march across Swiss territory would not be a short-cut to France.

The England and France that he saw were entirely different from the countries he had known a year before. Preparedness in place of its lack, unity in place of dissension, were keynotes. "There was no enthusiasm, no delusion, only grim determination," he declared.

Police also said Niven was carrying an unloaded revolver. He was charged with theft of the automobile and carrying concealed weapons.

Millbrook Band Gives Concert

MILLBROOK, Nov. 21—(ENS).—The Citizens' Band gave a successful concert in the Town Hall Thursday evening, under its leader, Lieutenant W. H. Peryer, the draw for the geese and ducks, which was made by Gerald Lowery midway in the entertaining program, resulting as follows for holders of the luck tickets; Lyla Whtye, Anna Rowland and Vanita Ingram, a goose each; Rosemary Stinson, and Mrs. A. L. Sisco one duck each.

The program opened with an appropriate march. "United Empire," followed by a classical selection, "Echoes from Oera Land." Adding variety was the vocal solo, with piano-accordion accompaniment, "South of the Border," by Alfred Pooley, of Peterborough, who chose as his recall, "Beer Barrel Polka," in which the audience joined. Tom Best was heard in a cornet solo, "I passed by your window,' and the march, "Leander was the band's next offering.

At this point Lieutenant Peryer took the opportunity of announcing that the band intends sponsoring three picture shows in the not distant future, at each of which coupons will be given away, the lucky coupon, at the final entertainment, netting the holder a basket of groceries; sixteen other prizes will be given and the dates will be published shortly.

Mr. Pooley gave as his second solo, "Why my dreams come true," a selection of college songs, a hymn, "Euphany," and the National Anthem bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

Drifting Mines Branded Code Violation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—(AP).—Outlaw sea mines, drifting in the path of neutral shipping in the war zone to take a heavy toll of non-combatant lives, have shocked world opinion.

Whoever laid them or however they came to be floating in the sea lanes as blind and terrible menaces to all shipping, those mines are outlawed by The Hague conventions of 1909 to which all sea-using nations, including Germany, Great Britain and France, have subscribed.

The British Admiralty's contention that Nazi submarines have deliberately sown the seas with floating contact mines outside formally proscribed areas raises a graver charge against Germany than even the unrestricted U-boat warfare of the last war with its "sink-without-trace" slogan. The Germans have entered a denial, saying that an inquiry showed a German mine "could not have been responsible" for the sinking of the Dutch ship Simon Bolivar.

Might Be Hazard for Years.

A floating mine that does not conform to the rigid specifications of The Hague conventions might jeopardize lives in waters far removed from the war zones. Drifting with wind and currents, such mines could wander the seas for years, a peril to all vessels, before rust and corrosion rendered them harmless.

The Hague rules provide that unanchored mines, fused to explode on contact, may be used by warring sea powers, but only if so safeguarded as to become harmless within an hour after they are launched. The clause permitting short-lived mines was inserted to meeting a special condition of warfare. It is designed to cover the case of a belligerent war vessel, or even a fleet, fleeing from a stronger enemy in close pursuit.

Floating mines, dumped overboard by the fleeing craft, offer an hour's leeway for escape. The pursuers would not dare close in from directly astern if they knew that floating mines might be awaiting them. Yet The Hague rules require that such "unanchored automatic contact mines" must be fitted to sink or become harmless within an hour after the "person who laid them ceases to control them."

Anchored mines must be fitted with devices to sink them or disconnect their contact firing mechanism as soon they they go adrift. A torpedo must be similarly fitted to become harmless when it reaches the end of its run without hitting anything.

Laying of Mines Restricted.

The Hague articles further provide, in any case, that contact sea mines shall not be laid "off the coast and ports of the enemy, with the sole object of intercepting commercial shipping." They require that "every precaution" be taken "for the security of peaceful shipping" in planting mine fields.

A casual reading of the conventions makes clear the gravity of the charge against Germany brought by the British Admiralty. The verdict of world opinion will be rendered on whatever substantiating evidence is brought to support the charge that Nazi leadership, in a desperate effort to frighten all neutral shipping away from British ports, has ignored its obligations under The Hague conventions.

Convincing circumstantial evidence of the source of the floating mines that sank half a dozen or more ships, most of them under neutral flags, over the week-end, and caused a still unknown loss of life, cannot be long in coming. Where so many floating mines exploded, there must be others.

Sooner or later one will be brought in intact by British mine-sweeping patrols. Discovery anywhere at sea of a German-made floating mine lacking the fittings to render it harmless would set up a prima facie case against Germany on which the verdict of world opinion would be rendered.

Chest Wheezing Means Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied with a rapid wheezing and feeling of tightness across the chest.

There is a rising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light color, but as the disease progresses becomes yellowish or greenish, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucus, and help nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Another Refugee

When the S.S. Penland docked at Hoboken, it brought, among other things, this German refugee from war, "Rolf," a German shepherd, who had a narrow escape from death. "Rolf," owned by Mr. L. Soon after war broke out in Europe, the Belgian government announced that all large dogs would be destroyed to conserve food. The servants at the Lex home wired Mr. Lex in New York and the result was the arrival of "Rolf" with a "luggage left behind" tag on his neck. Freight charges amounted to $52.

Officer Douses Bomb In Time

LONDON, Nov. 21—(CP).—A police constable was revealed to-day as hero of Saturday night's four bombings in Piccadilly Circus, attributed by the authorities to outlawed Irish Republican Army members.

No one was injured in the blasts which did some damage to property.

Police Constable, Leggett, attached to the Vine Street station, discovered one of the unexploded time bombs near a shop window in Park Lane. He carried it across the street and tossed it into Hyde Park and a few minutes later it was doused in a pail of water.

Another bomb was rendered harmless by another police officer. Two others which failed to explode were found in Piccadilly after the explosions.

Police termed the bombings a renewal of the "nuisance" terrorism by I.R.A. members. The Saturday night explosions marked the first concerted outbreak since war began.

Windows of at least four stores were smashed by the blasts and one theatre front was damaged.

Child Artists Do Excellent Work

OTTAWA, Nov. 21 (CP) — Visitors to the National Gallery of erations were not unusually active Canada today saw life in London as it appears to youthful eyes at an exhibition of paintings by British school children.

The 140 paintings—colored drawings to be more accurate—by boys and girls of London from five to 15 years, will be shown here during the next two weeks and then exhibited in cities across Canada.

The enthusiastic response across the Dominion last year to pictures by Canadian boys and girls led H. O. McCurry, acting director of the National Gallery to arrange the present exhibition when in England a few months ago.

These pictures are no cramped copybook imitations. They depict when the youngsters saw or imagined in old London town and then set down on generous sheets of paper. Some children even chose wrapping paper.

Most are familiar subjects such as "the Oxford and Cambridge boat race," "the Royal family," "old ladies sitting by the window," or honest drawings of father and mother or other family portraits with an unconscious and not intentionally unkind sense of caricature.

Plenty of Ideas

Too there are market and street scenes, complete with shoppers and buses; impressions of Mickey Mouse; a battle between cowboys and Indians; and Jewish refugees sitting in a railway station.

There are patterns so fascinating they were purchased by London merchants in preference to the deliberately devised creations of professional designers.

As a whole the display has the same fresh attractiveness as last year's exhibition by Canadian children under 15 and, while the London collection appears neither as free nor as vivid as the Canadian group it is just as sincere.

There is a definite similarity of treatment, despite different environment. In some of the English children's work there is that kindred touch that marked "expulsion from the Garden of Eden" by a 15-year-old Canadian boy who showed Adam and Eve in red bathing trunks, eating apples, and riding out of the garden on an elephant preceded by an ostrich, while a well-fed snake hissed a jubilant farewell from its spot in the grass.

Mother Faints When Her Son Given 3 Years

A mother collapsed in a fainting condition in the county judge's criminal court Monday afternoon after hearing her 21-year-old son sentenced to Kingston Penitentiary for three years.

The unfortunate youth was Gordon Druce who elected speedy trial before Judge S. L. Smoke and pleaded guilty to a charge of having unlawfully possessed instruments for coining.

It was the second time that he had been sentenced to the penitentiary by Judge Smoke. Three years ago he had been sent to that institution on a charge of armed robbery after he had been inplicated in the wounding of a north end grocer. He was released in June last.

Scene In Court

After Druce had been sentenced and was being removed from the court room and Judge Smoke was also leaving Mrs. Druce, the prisoner's mother who was sitting with her daughters and son-in-law fainted and at the same time one of the daughters hysterically screamed her opinion of Canadian justice. Only the court attendants heard the outburst.

Druce was arrested on Hallowe'en night by Sergt. W. E. Wigg and Constable Percy Sexsmith who were patrolling in a cruiser car when they noticed the young man and a companion near the corner of Monaghan Road and Homewood Avenue and placed them under arrest on a charge of vagrancy. Later on that night police, armed with a search warrant, searched Druce's home on Sherbrooke street and on the shelf of a clothes closet found a mould or matrix made of wood from a cigar box and plaster of paris, evidently capable of being used for coining.

Druce had his preliminary trial in police court last week after electing to be tried by judge and jury.

Monday however he appeared before Judge Smoke and elected to be tried immediately and promptly said "Guilty, sir" when asked to plead to the charge.

Defence Witnesses Heard

John A. Bradshaw who appeared in his behalf asked permission to call three witnesses.

The first was Mrs. Vera Thompson, sister of the accused, who said her brother's conduct had been good since he returned home last June.

"What do you know, if anything, about this exhibit?" asked Mr. Bradshaw, producing the mould found by the police in Druce's bedroom.

"I saw my brother making the box. That was on October 28th," witness said.

"And when was he arrested?"—"On October 31."

Mrs. Evelyn Harland, another sister gave similar evidence as to the making of the box. "I think he has been perfect ever since he came home," she told the court.

William Harland, brother-in-law, who lives at the Druce home, said that the accused had been very quiet and remained in a great deal since he came back to Peterborough. Harland swore that he had seen Druce making the outfit on the Saturday previous to Hallowe'en.

"The whole thing?" queried the defence counsel. "The whole thing," replied the witness.

"Did you know what it was that he was making?" asked Judge Smoke.

"No, I didn't know."

Moves For Sentence

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., moved for sentence.

Speaking on behalf of the accused, Mr. Bradshaw said that the code made it quite clear that intent had no place in the offence but he was also quite convinced that in the matter of punishment it should have some bearing.

"It is quite clear where he learned how to make this mould," he said, "and it is a sad commentary on our so-called reform system that he did learn it there."

Defence counsel added that it was a possibility that the mould was made without any improper intention. "He would know, I submit," said Mr. Bradshaw, "that it would be wrong to issue coins so made but I doubt if he knew it was wrong to make the mould."

He pointed out that Druce had made the device openly in the presence of other members of the household and voiced the suggestion that it had never been used. Declaring that there had been no vicious intention on the part of Druce he urged that the young man should not be sent back to the penitentiary.

A Serious Offence

In imposing sentence Judge Smoke reminded the accused that parliament had made the offence with which he was charged one of the most serious short of those punishable by death.

"In passing sentence on you," he continued, "I must take into consideration what I know of your record, although perhaps I do not know your whole record. I realize that you were confined for some considerable time as the result of punishment I meted out. On that occasion I made the term exceedingly light and expressed the hope that when you regained your freedom you would endeavor to rehabilitate yourself. The fact is that you, as your counsel has intimated, were released in June and after five months you are again in the toils."

"What were your intentions in regard to this mould I do not know. Your counsel has suggested one reason; I could suggest another."

"Had I not paid attention to what your counsel has said," continued Judge Smoke, "I would have imposed an extremely severe sentence."

"Not Proper Place"

It was impossible, however, His Honor said, to act upon the suggestion that the prisoner should not be sent back to the penitentiary. He realized that in the latter the accused would come into contact with men with long records.

"However, your conduct in the past," he said to Druce, "indicates to me that it is not your intention to endeavor to reform and accordingly I do not thing the reformatory is the proper place to send you."

"Taking into consideration the seriousness of the offence and the further fact that it appears to be indicated you did not have this matrix long enough to have issued any spurious coins I am going to make the sentence what I consider a reasonable one but at the same time a sentence that leans in your favor."

His Honor then sentenced Druce to three years imprisonment in Kingston Penitentiary, reminding him that there would be still time for him to reform and make something of himself when he came out.

Council Plans

Ryan of Port Hope, chairman of the committee, informed the council that he would procure Justice Barlow's report for the use of the committee. The matter of the grand jury had its origin in a resolution of Ontario County Council, read at Monday's meeting, in which it was pointed out that as the taxpayer was already overburdened with taxes, the cost of grand juries in the edministration of justice, was an unnecessary item. The resolution further pointed out that under the present efficient magisterial system, the case of an offender was given due attention without a grand jury passing on the nature of the evidence as to whether it was sufficient or otherwise to warrant the offender going to trial.

Duties Duplicated

Ontario County Council, in the same resolution, went on to state that the duties of the grand jury in regard to the inspection of public buildings were only duplicating those of other officials. Dealing with the petit jury, the resolution recommended that the number sitting on a petit jury be reduced from 12 to eight and that the jury panel summoned be reduced in size from 48 to 36.

The communication from the Department of Municipal Affairs regarding 1940 elections was at first received and filed but deputy-reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope took exception to this disposition of the matter.

"We are a large elected body and as such we should express our opinion on this matter of extending the term of office. I would therefore move that we rescind the resolution receiving and filing the letter, and refer it instead to the legislative and by-laws committee for discussion," stated Mr. Ryan. Carried.

Aid Provincial Police.

A communication from the Attorney-General's Department in regard to the re-allocation of Provincial Police last August, suggested that the counties make some arrangement for telephone and office as the police had been instructed to assist in county policing. The letter was referred to the Finance Committee. A resolution was received from Durham County Trustees and Ratepayers Association suggesting that the Ontario Government be requested to provide an increase in state support of education until it equalled 80 per cent. of the total cost in order to provide equal opportunities for all children for education. Referred to the Schools Committee. In regard to a request from the Cobourg Red Cross for permission to address the Council, other members pointed out that their local Red Cross groups were collecting and had inquired if the County Council was going to make a grant. There was a distinction between the local groups and the national organization and this should be gone into, Council was informed yesterday.

Elgin County Council resolution urged that the Ontario Government amend the administration of justice Act to take care of costs where cases received a change in venue; referred to Legislative and By-laws Committee. A resolution from the same County Council urging that Christmas tree vendors be licensed, was referred to the Finance Committee. Hope Township, in a communication to the Council yesterday, informed the Council that it was unwilling to pay the 1938 county rate until it knew more definitely what it consisted of; referred to the Finance Committee.

The report of the special committee appointed to look into the alleged excessive costs of children's aid work was referred to the Finance Committee. The following financial statement was presented by Major E. L. McNachtan, counties clerk and treasurer, covering the period up to November 20, 1939:

Administration of justice costs, $8,092.95; counties roads, $84,950.59; maintenance of indigent patients, $6,951.33; net cost of counties home maintenance, $8,309.61; children's aid, $8,674.69; municipal expenditures, $11,715.53; cost of education. High and Continuation Schools and Collegiates, $62,203.10; debenture payments, principal, interest, $45,915.02; county rates received, $19,400.13; balance of debentures owing, $523,940.12, and loans $211,000.00. The December payment on debentures will come out of the above debenture balance and the county rates to come in in December will be applied against the above loans figures.

Council resumed its session at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon.

German agents surrounded the institution and were met with a volley of tiles, laboratory equipment and busts of Adolf Hitler.

"It was magnificent but crazy," the attache was quoted as saying. "They tumbled down desks and cupboards on to their attackers and the machine-guns of the armored cars spurted into action.

A 2-Hour Losing Battle.

"It took the steel-helmeted Nazis two hours to take the building. The students fought from floor to floor. About 300 were shot and injured before they were overpowered and the (Czech) flag was torn down.

"Eighteen more students were identified by the Nazi professors as ringleaders and were shot on the spot."

Demonstrations followed all over the city. Five Czech police chiefs who refused to act against their people were shot. The next day artillery was used to put down disorders in the streets.

TORONTO, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Other communities, some just starting their drives, were prompted in their contributions to the Red Cross Society today by the records of such Ontario centres as Waterloo, Kingston, Chatham and Simcoe.

Waterloo already has contributed three times its original objective to the $3,000,000 Red Cross budget, while Kingston and Chatham have gone over their objectives. Simcoe, budgeting for a considerably larger sum than bigger municipalities, has submitted $46,000 and is after more.

Larger centres are slower to make returns but Toronto's total to date has approximated $450,000 and Montreal collectors reported yesterday that $540,025 had been contributed so far in Quebec province.

Meanwhile the organization's work has gone ahead. Dr. Fred W. Routley has arrived in England to direct establishment of the overseas organization.

The society announced last night that $16,000 had been sent to the Nova Scotia Red Cross for providing hostel facilities for navy and merchant marine sailors in Halifax. Organizations there have not been able to cater adequately to the needs of the crews of scores of vessels stationed there, it was reported.

Both leaders won handily in their constituencies. Mr. Dysart, with 6,473 votes, led his nearest Conservative opponent in Kent by 2,720 votes, while Mr. Squires, elected in Carleton, polled 934 votes more than the highest Liberal.

The defeated Cabinet Ministers were Attorney-General J. B. McNair, who lost out in York, and Hon. E. J. Henneberry, president of the executive council, and Dr. A. P. Paterson, Minister of Education, Federal and Municipal relations, both of whom were defeated in Saint John City where the Liberals lost four seats.

So close was the voting in Albert County that returns there first showed one Liberal elected and a Liberal and Conservative tied for the second seat. A check up, however, gave the Conservative, Lewis Smith, a former Agriculture Minister, a three-vote margin.

marine victim. Eleven of its crew were missing. Another was dead in the lifeboat from which the Netherlands steamship Algenib rescued 22 after the sinking off the Irish coast on Thursday. The survivors were landed at Cork to-day.

Other losses disclosed yesterday were the British Fensilva, Torchbearer, and Wigmore, all sunk by mines.

(There have been 136 vessels with gross tonnage of 543,226 lost in the war at sea. The cost in lives has been more than 2,000.)

Largest of the five neutral vessels sunk in the week-end of sea disasters was the 8,308-ton Simon Bolivar of the Netherlands. An officially-revised casualty list showed 86 persons missing or dead, superseding earlier estimates of 140. Sixty-six of the casualties were passengers.

London naval writers interpreted the minings as the result of the comparative ineffectiveness of submarines and surface raiders. Some speculated whether magnetic mines had been introduced. Authorities in Berlin have denied German mines caused the shipping losses, heaviest in any week since the war began.

German Liner Raiding.

Existence of a new German surface raider was reported by Reuters News Agency. It said the 16,662-ton German liner Windhuk slipped out of Lobito Bay, Angola (Portuguese West Africa) on Friday, and quoted German residents there as saying the ship was starting a wartime career for which she was built in 1936. They were quoted as saying the liner carried full equipment for raiding and was disguised to resemble a British ship.

With Great Britain and Germany at each others food and supplies, the Food Ministry announced rationing of butter and bacon to start in Britain some time after consumer-registration is completed Thursday.

Morning newspapers devoted much editorial space to the German mine-laying which the Daily Herald called "ruthless and discriminatory."

New Secret Weapon.

The Daily Express said that Britain could, if she chose, retaliate with a terrible weapon.

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, "has only to touch a bell on his desk at the Admiralty to have plans of the world's most terrible secret weapon brought out of their steel hiding place," the paper said. It did not elaborate on the remark.

The Daily Herald said that Germany's use of mines would completely justify extension of Allied contraband control to cover German exports as well as imports.

The Hearld said that use of magnetic mines undoubtedly was the "secret weapon Hitler threatened to bring into play against Britain.

"The secret was not entirely secret, the paper added. "Admiralty scientists have already been at work on ways and means of encountering it.

Not Effective Long.

"It may be effective for a while, but not for very long. It is a ruthless and indiscriminatory weapon and cannot distinguish between warships and merchantmen, between belligerents and neutrals."

"That the Nazi Government is guilty of another atrocity is not open to question," said the Times. "The outrage against humanity is distressingly visible at the hospitals in London and elsewhere in which survivors, largely women and children and all non-combatants, are being tended.

"Nazi propaganda, never hampered by considerations of consistency, will presumably take its usual course of hailing the destruction of British ships as a triumph of German naval skill and daring, while proclaiming that the mines that sank neutrals were personally laid by Mr. Churchill.

Batten Party Gets Quota Of Deer

Richard Batten's party wound up the hunting season late Monday afternoon at their camp north and east of Stoney Lake. Its sixteen members shot their limit of deer, with an extra seventeenth allowed on a camp license providing steaks during the two weeks. Some of the men stayed for the two weeks without getting a hit, and by contrast Verne Selkirk took only one day off from business, and that was the last day, Monday, packing into his brief outing two deer.

Herb Routley was away most of last week, and Mrs. Routley was a camp visitor for part of the time. The Batten party roamed the woods three and four miles south of the Canadian Nephaline Company's quarry, and also south of the Crown game reserve.

Among those in the party were: Richard Batten, Chris Hughes and his son Jack, Verne Selkirk, Claude Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Routley, and the following members from the Warsaw district: Ralph Wasson, Frank Harding and son, William Crowe, George Hawkins, Mark Lonsberry.

REMOVING CABLES

Last vestiges of the Bell Telephone Company's old system began to disappear downtown today as workmen removed the old underground cables that have been replaced under the dial system.

LAKE SPARKLED.

Little Lake was a deep blue flecked with rolling white caps this morning. It glinted and sparkled in the November sunlight. The creek at Townsend Street was covered with ice, and out on the rip-rapped point several workmen were unloading soil and levelling it.

GETS OFF LIGHTLY

William McVeigh, transient, who pleaded guilty yesterday to vagrancy was allowed to go without punishment by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after the Crown Attorney had stated there was nothing against the man.

A RADIO FINE

For operating a radio without a licence J. N. Brown of Young's Point was fined $3 and $3.50 costs in police court this morning when he entered a written plea of guilty to the charge. Two other cases were withdrawn at the request of the radio inspectors.

WITHHELD FIRE AID.

Because the city's fire fighting equipment is below par, and also for the reason that neighboring communities had declined an arrangement proposed several years ago by which the city would respond to fire calls, Mayor Bone of Belleville refused to let firemen respond to a call from Foxboro where a house was badly damaged.

JOBS BECOMING SCARCE.

Registration of job hunters at the Employment Service of Canada is beginning to climb to new peaks now that winter is setting in, Superintendent Bill Mellis said today. "Outside work is mostly over for the season and our rolls will continue to mount until something new opens up," he said. "Fall ploughing is just about finished now and farm help is beginning to drift back to the office for new jobs. The A. & P. store work and the Market Hall work are done."

Creeks Are Low Wells Down

"November sunshine doesn't fill wells and creeks," a farmer remarked to The Examiner this morning, expressing concern about a lack of water supply throughout the country.

"These weeks of sunny weather feel good and cut off a lot of chills, but it didn't soften up the land for plowing, and right now there are creeks that should be flowing at this time of the year, and they are only a trickle. Wells are down to a low level, at least that is my own experience, and most farmers could do with less sunshine right now, and more rain."

Ministers To Meet Here In Convention

A convention of ministers of Pentecostal Assemblies of the eastern district will be held here on Thursday and Friday this week with an attendance of between 100 and 150, Rev. George Chambers informed the Examiner to-day.

Three services will be held each day. Rev. Gordon Atter will be the special speaker at the two evening services, and other noted Pentecostal ministers who are taking a prominent part in the convention are Evangelist Frank Madden of Erie, Pa., and Rev. C. B. Smith, District Superintendent.

The convention will be followed by four weeks of evangelistic meetings which will be held every night featuring old time Gospel message.

Veteran Engineer Is Congratulated

Congratulations were extended by Dean H. W. McKiel of Mount Allison University, president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, to a Peterborough man who is one of the Institute's oldest members.

He was W. A. Logan, for many years associated with the Trent Canal System, and who is now in his 86th year. Mr Logan was at last night's annual meeting, never having missed once in the 21 years they have been held.

Another revelation by Dean McKiel last night was that he is no stranger to this district. He said that his first job was at the Canada Cement Company's plant at Lakefield.

Condition Critical

Richard Walsh, prominent stock buyer of Hastings was reported in a critical condition in St. Joseph's hospital today as a result of peritonitis. Early Sunday evening he was stricken with an attack of appendicitis and was immediately rushed to hospital where an operation was performed "His condition is fair," hospital authorities reported today "He seems to be doing as well as can be expected"

Conant Upholds Changes In Guard System

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Re-organization of the veterans' anti-sabotage guards, by making them members of the Ontario Provincial Police, was done "with a view to the best interests of the veterans, consistent with the effective guarding of vital public works and the best interests of the taxpayers," Attorney-General Conant declared at Queen's Park.

Mr. Conant's statement was made in reply to a communication from Major C. B. Lindsey, chairman of the National Veterans' Security Committee, in which he said that the reorganization into a body called the Veterans' Guard, Ontario Provincial Police, had caused some dissatisfaction among ex-service men.

Major Lindsey said that men of the old Provincial Police reserve force, "Hunter's Hussars," formed at the time of the C.I.O. threat in 1937 and now placed in charge of the different guards' posts, were below military age in 1914-18 and in some cases replaced ex-service men. The introduction of a five feet six inches height standard, he said, had produced a sense of unfitness.

No Smaller Than in 1914.

"The short men took the stand," said Major Lindsey, "that they had been regarded as fit to stand off Germans for four years and they had not grown smaller in the meantime."

It was felt, too, he said, that the medical requirements in the guards' force were too strict and that they had barred from service many man who were capable of duty, and in a number of instances dropped many veterans who had been employed before the re-organization was effected.

In reply, Mr. Conant stressed that the reserves had been trained and had been uniformed, and that it would cost considerable money and would seriously impair the force if they were dismissed and new men trained to take their places. Since the guards were made, in fact, members of the Provincial Police, he felt it was only reasonable that they should approximate the five feet nine inches height standard of the regular force.

When the veterans were first engaged, at the time the emergency broke, about Aug. 27, he continued, there was no time to engage men according to qualifications.

He said it was felt that Class B military qualifications were too high and a lower standard was adopted. He claimed, too, that if any ex-service men had been dismissed by reason of these requirements, they had been replaced by other ex-service men. "The original veterans' guard, and the present veterans' guard, Ontario Provincial Police, is made up entirely of ex-service men," he added.

Tweed Volunteers Save Farm Home

TWEED, Nov. 21—(ENS)—Being hampered by a stiff breeze which was blowing towards the adjoining out-buildings and also by the absence of any but the most mediocre fire-fighting equipment, Foxboro volunteer fire fighters were extended to the limit on Sunday to save the farm home of Mr. Elmer Breese when fire caught in the roof and almost completely gutted one side before being brought under control.

Believed to have started when a spark from the chimney ignited the wooden shingles, the fire had gained considerable headway and was blazing fiercely up the side of the roof before the owner became aware that anything was amiss. Rushing to a neighbor, Mr. Breese immediately sounded the alarm, but before volunteer fire-feighters could form into bucket brigades, and get water pouring on the flames, the fire had eaten completely through the sheeting into the attic and had also burned away a number of the rafters.

With the house being a full two-storey construction and also built upon a high foundation, the fire-fighters were seriously hampered by their lack of equipment, and it was only after hacking away portions of the roof that the source of the flames could be reached.

The fact that the wooden shingles were set in mortar apparently checked the spread of the flames sufficiently to allow fire-fighters to obtain mastery. In addition to the actual fire damage resulting, the decorating and furnishings in the upstairs rooms were damaged by water.

Aims Of Rotary

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21. — (ENS)—A short sketch on Rotary and the aims and duties of club members formed the subject of an interesting discussion by S. A. Maguire at the club's weekly luncheon held Monday. "The theory of service is the true basis of happiness," declared the speaker. At the conclusion of Mr. Maguire's remarks members discussed means of bringing up the average attendance. Garnet Bennett, Spencerville was a guest at the meeting.

Sixteen Prize-Winning Bantams Stolen From The Coops Of Harry T. Lush

Harry T. Lush has four of them, but he doesn't rate them as mysteries—just plain, but smart thievery.

Sixteen of Mr. Lush's prize-winning bantams disappeared from their coops some time ago. He looked in at their roosts one morning, and they were gone, and weeks of quiet sleuthing have failed to turn up a clue. They were some of the best birds in the fancy class which had been winners everywhere they had been shown this year, including the Canadian National Exhibition.

Mr. Lush told the Examiner he did not suspect anybody living in Peterborough. He believes somebody from across the border stole them, but partly offsetting that idea is the obvious fact that the thief knew where to find these bantams and also knew their quality, selecting some of the best.

This is the fourth loss of prize fowl by theft from the Lush chicken pens in recent years The latest inroad annoyed him most, because he had about concluded that his losses had ended. At that, he was running a considerable risk, according to his own statement, in that he had left most of the coops unlocked; nor were there burglar alarms.

He is now planning to set up a series of noise-making contraptions to be set off by any person wandering about the yard at night, trying the latches and doors of hen houses, and generally taking unlawful liberties with the property.

Engineer Is Destined To Play Role Of Ever-Increasing Importance

The engineer is destined to play a role of ever-increasing importance in a world of to-day and to-morrow, H. W. McKiel, dean of the faculty of engineering at Mount Allison university, forecast at the Kawartha club Monday night, speaking as president of the Engineering Institute of Canada at the Peterborough branch's annual meeting.

With Canada at war, the importance of the engineering profession is being recognized as vital and he told of numerous leaders in Canada's war effort who are engineers —men like Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, the Deputy Minister of National Defence, Major-General McNaughton, commanding officer of the First Division, and many another. "Those names are the best illustration I could give of the part being played by the engineering profession in this national crisis," he said.

He asked that engineers remain at their present work until such time as the government has decided how they can be used to their country's best advantage. The highly-skilled mind of the engineer is going to be of great value to Canada in war, but not in the front lines, he intimated. Similarly, university students of engineering are being encouraged to continue their studies, and high school pupils who had normally intended to enter engineering courses, are being advised to do so, he claimed, because Canada will have great need of their skill.

Outlook Changing.

The engineer in peace-time is changing his outlook, Dean McKiel claimed. He said that in former years engineers looked upon themselves as highly skilled technicians only, but that now the thinking engineer is recognizing a duty to society, and is becoming a true professional man.

"I believe that the engineer is partly to blame for the economic situation of the past few years," he declared. "For more than 50 years the engineer has been thrusting his developments on an unprepared public with no thought as to their consequences." He said that had the engineering profession worked more closely with the other sciences of economy and sociology, the result might not have been as severe.

He warned that engineers will be called upon to do a major share of the rebuilding of the world when peace comes once more and he urged high fidelity to the purpose of establishing the best possible world.

Chairman of the meeting was B. I. Burgess who introduced Dean McKiel. Guests included C. E. Sisson, works manager of the C.G.E.'s Toronto plant; G. R. Langley, works engineer of the C.G.E.'s Peterborough plant; Dr. H. V. Dobson; C. A. Salmonsen.

R. L. Dobbin proposed a toast to the Institute, to which Dean McKiel replied.

Youth Is Given 18 Months In Reformatory

Joseph Fontaine, 19, was sentenced to eighteen month definite and twelve months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K. C., in police court this morning after he had pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering the store of R. H. Childerhouse and committing theft and the store of John Dennis, 405 George street south, with intent to committ an indictable offence.

In addition Fontaine will have to complete the sentence from which he was released on parole in August.

The youth had previously elected trial by judge and jury but his morning asked permission to change his election and take summary trial. When the request was granted he entered a plea of guilty to both charges.

"This was not a planned escapade," said John A. Bradshaw speaking on behalf of the accused. "The fact is that he had been drinking and I think the police are willing to admit that he gave evidence of that when he was brought in some time after the offences had been committed. "I ask your worship to consider his youth and make the sentence a light one."

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., produced the accused's record.

Out on Parole.

C. F. Swayze, parole officer for the Ontario Board of Parole asked that in imposing sentence His Worship should order the term to commence at the expiration of the sentence which Fontaine was serving when he was paroled from Guelph in August.

"Despite objections," he said, "this boy was allowed out on parole on condition that he work at Nogie's Creek. He should not have left there and having broken his parole he should now have to complete his sentence. We have to show these men that we mean business."

"My information is, said Mr. Bradshaw, "that the reason he left was because he was neither being fed nor paid."

"He did not communicate those facts to me," said the Parole Officer.

Easily Led.

Chief Constable Newhall recommended that instead of a penitentiary sentence Fontaine should be sent to the reformatory for as long a term as possible. "He might become stronger there," said Chief Newhall. "The trouble is that he is easily led and he regards himself as a little hero. And then he tries these things and he is caught every time."

"He may have tried it sometimes when he was not caught," suggested the Magistrate but Chief Constable Newhall said that he did not think so.

Magistrate Langley then imposed sentence, ordering that the eighteen months term should commence on February 2 which is the date of the expiration of the sentence Fontaine had been serving.

200-Pound Bear Is Shot In Burleigh

A big black bear, weighing well over 200 pounds, is the proof of hunting prowess that Bert Buott, 294 Townsend street, has brought home from the northern part of the county.

The large bruin was shot by Mr. Buott on Saturday in Burleigh township between the Burleigh Ranch and Magee's Lake.

"When I first saw him he had his head and shoulders out of a hole," said the hunter in describing his experience with the bear. "My first shot hit him in the head and another wounded his nose. Then he climbed out of the hole. I fired another shot hitting the bear in the back and he toppled over. I think it was the bullet in the head that did the trick, however."

Mr. Buott was a member of a hunting party which included Harry and Jack McIlmoyle and Harry Buott. He had to get help to get the dead bear out of the bush in which it had been shot.

Home Is Found In Raceway Of Auburn Mill

In an old covered raceway underneath the ruins of the Auburn Mill where the job of cleaning up the last remaining traces of what was once a flourish industry is being completed, workers have discovered that some Peterborough opportunists have been making a home for themselves.

The raceway, which is dry of course, is some thirty feet down and there a rough house has been made by putting up a crude partition. The evidence indicates that there may have been two people living there and a bed, table, two chairs, a stove and a lamp were found in the crude quarters.

The discovery was made Monday when it was proposed to dynamite the covering over the raceway. On finding signs that some one had been using the raceway as a habitation the police were called and they removed the furniture to permit of the operations being carried on. Just who the persons who have been living there are is a mystery, but they had solved the problem of getting a rent-free home in a healthy district.

Given Ten Days On Non-Support

That a local married man with a wife and six children had been earning around $18 a week and paying nothing toward the support of his family while the city relief department had paid out $169.44 to take care of them was the statement made in police court this morning by Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C.

The man in question, Fred Forsythe was charged with non-support and pleaded guilty.

His explanation for his failure to provide for his wife and family with whom he has not been living was that he had been paying up bills that he owed and for which he was being pressed. He said he had given his eldest son money for haircuts and other things.

"My wife did not lay this charge," he declared.

"No, she was afraid to lay it," replied Crown Attorney McElderry. "It was laid under my orders."

Although he said he doubted the value of imprisonment in such cases, Magistrate Langley sentenced the accused to ten days in jail. "It may bring him to a realization of his duty," he said.

KRUG AND DEADEY CATCH PLACES ON THE O.R.F.U. ALL-STARS

Six Of The Places Are Allotted To Members Of Imperials With Two Each To The Other Teams

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 21 — (CP). — Sarnia Imperials, already grasping one handle of their ninth consecutive Ontario Rugby Football Union senior championship, were recognized to-day in the election of six players to the league's 1939 all-star team.

Thirteen coaches and sports writers in the four O.R.F.U. cities, who selected the team for The Canadian Press allotted half the places to the Imperials and two each to Montreal Westmounts, Toronto Balmy Beach, and Peterborough. The vote was "weighted" so that equal voting strength prevailed in all cities.

Here is the team:

Flying wing—Joe Woodcock, Sarnia.

Half—Bernie Moroz, Sarnia.

Half—Eddie Thompson, Balmy Beach.

Half (secondary defence)—Johnny Ferraro, Westmounts.

Quarterback—Curly Krug, Peterborough.

Snap—Henry Living, Sarnia.

Inside—Bob Reid, Balmy Beach.

Inside—Pat Butler, Sarnia.

Middle—Tommy Burns, Westmounts.

Middle—Cliff Parsons, Sarnia.

Outside—Leo Deadey, Peterborough.

Outside—Ike Norris, Sarnia.

It was a tribute to a Sarnia team which has not been so highly regarded as some previous Imperial machines, but which looked good enough to rank with the best in spilling the Westmounts 13-1 in the first game of finals at Sarnia last week.

The bulwarks of the surprising, veteran oiler wingline were there together with the hard-tackling Norris, the high-scoring Moroz and the pile-driving Woodcock, representatives of the younger element in Art Massucci's rebuilt club.

Given the swift, sure-gaining running of Thompson and the passing and plunging of Ferraro, that team would give Krug something to work with for a change. The selectors realized that Curly, a former Woodstock junior star, got the very best out of Peterborough material that didn't win a game but made almost all of them close.

Great Kicker Lacking.

The team lacks only a great kicker and there really hasn't been one in the Union this year besides Hank Galloway of Sarnia, who missed the early games. But Thompson, who did all Balmy Beach's punting, could do that chore capably enough on this kind of squd.

Moroz, who won the eastern scoring championship, was given 22 of a possible 25 votes for one halfback position and the other three for secondary half, while only one selector failed to put Thompson at one position or another and two missed Burns. The rest of the ballots were more evenly distributed, though Living and Ferraro were well up with 19 apiece.

Alex Fleming, who made the mythical team in 19388, drew 11 votes to 16 for Butler and 18 for Reid. Bert Haigh, Balmy Beach's great pass-catching end, was two votes behind Norris and four behind Deadey.

Four of Last Year's Team.

Only Ferraro, Thompson, Reid and Burns were carryovers from last year's team. Hugh Stirling and Mike Clawson, only Sarnia representatives on the 1938 allstars, have retired along with Ab Box, who made the quarterback post with Balmy Beach in the last campaign.

Playing despite leg injuries, Living and Butler have helped the aging Parsons build up a strong protective system for the kicking of Young Galloway and a charging line to block opposition kicks. That was the kind of play that paid off against the Westmounts Saturday.

Never the spectacular type of plunging lineman, Reid hasn't slipped a bit from the steady style that brought him into the lineup last year. The driving, quick-tempered Burns—the ace line—smasher of the conference—is as different from Reid as night from day yet they are equally desirable.

Deadey was a standout receiver in a Peterborough passing attack that sometimes shoved the adversary right back on its haunches. He and the tall, lithe-limber Norris would be excellent insurance against end-run weakness.

This league is beginning to click in great style. Some very fine bowling being turned in every week. As the second section gets under way some teams will probably strengthen up to make the league closer than it is now—if possible. This league is one of the most interesting in the city and has a full turnout every night.

Good scores rolled were as follows: W. Bennett had a nice single of 327 in his 678 for three and also a 203. Alfie Mattucci had high three for the night 771 (256-285-230), D. Crary 730 (231-280-219), George (Turk) Walton 704 (260-214-230), J. Gray 613 (238), R. Clifford 688 (232-234-222), Joe Anthony 654 (299), Joe DeNoble 634 (248-237), Lud DeCarlonis 614 (232-221), W. Ferguson 651 (227-217-207), Pat Blodgett 611 (277), Tommy Martin 638 (235215), R. Bennett 608 (249), Jimmy Hickey 611 (200-228), Charlie Clarke 656 (216-211-226), N. Downer 676 (275 210), Bill Downer 640 (210-232), Bill Harris 633 (260-245). Bill (Rosebud) Masters after going great guns for weeks collapsed last Wednesday and had only 530. Tough, Bill.

Tommy Ryan had a grand 810 with two 300 games (338-318) to take high three honors to date. A small 154 game to start spoiled Tommy's chance to run up a real high set of games. Other good scores are as follows: B. Jones 667 (241-234), Fred Jones 650 (219-264), F. Pepe 606 (225), Fred Meagher 640 (240-237). As the first section nears a close in this league Babe Anthony's team with 16 points is tops followed by F. Meagher with 14 and B. Jones and J. O'Brien 12 each.

Thwarting The Attack By The Pinion Method

Gus Giesebrecht, Detroit Red Wing centre, was demonstrating a favored method of preventing an opponent from getting at the puck when this picture was taken in Madison Square Garden while the visiting Detroiters were downing Red Dutton's Americans, 4-2. Art Chapman, American centre, is the enemy involved, and he's effectively pinioned behind the goal by the arms and stick of Gus, while Sid Howe comes up on the other side to assist. Chapman had shoved the puck at Tiny Thompson in the Detroit goal, and Tiny is sitting on it here. Ebbie Goodfellow is the Red Wing at the left, rushing to help out his teammates.

Schriner Has Missed Only One Game In Pro Hockey

TORONTO, Nov. 21—When the management of Toronto's first-place and undefeated Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League decided to not use the entire line of Schriner, Chamberlain and Kelly in Sunday's game at Detroit, they unknowingly disrupted Dave (Sweeney) Schriner's record of continuous service in pro hockey. It was the first game that Schriner had missed taking part in since he started in monied ranks in the season of 1933-34.

Schriner never had been out of the lineup because of injuries or illness since he moved from Calgary Bronks' amateur ranks to become a farmhand of New York Americans and play for Syracuse in the campaign of 1933-34. It was the only season he spent in the minors. Then came five years as an Amerk and in two of these winters (1935-36 and 1936-37) he led the N.H.L. in scoring. Sweeney has never bothered to figure out the total of consecutive games he played in pro company.

Starting this season as a Maple Leaf, the crack left-winger has been toiling under the handicap of delayed conditioning because of a serious operation he underwent last summer. The surplus of players on the big Toronto squad gave Manager Smythe and Coach Irvin a chance to send forth players into action for the second game of the week-end's doubleheader with Detroit—and Schriner was given the benefit of a rest.

Nobody in the Leaf's camp knew about Schriner's hitherto unbroken record in pro hockey until after the team returned here from Detroit on Monday. Then Sweeney let the cat out of the bag during a fanning bee. He insisted, however, that he didnt care in the least .... that what was best for the team was also best for him . . . and that he never had any intention or desire to try to beat Murray Murdoch's "iron man" record.

Murph Chamberlain made the trip to Detroit, but was not dressed to play.

"I got a special thrill out of that game," Chamberlain reported yesterday. "It was the first chance I ever had to see the Leafs in action from a spot high up in the blue seats of any rink. And I never before had a chance to fully enjoy and appreciate Syl Apps' great playingf. In the last half of that game, about three or four thousand Detroiters close to me were standing up and cheering every time that Apps wound up and started one of his rushes."

Leafs came home to settle into another week of exacting practice before playing still another week-end pair of games with New York Amerks next Saturday and Sunday. They acquired no casualties in Detroit, although Kampman brought back a black eye. Nine of the squad held a light workout at the Gardens on Monday, but Kelly, who came out of Saturday's contest with a sore shoulder, was excused from duty.

Coach Irvin was extremely well pleased with the work of Taylor, Heron and Don Metz, the new Kid Line, in their N.H.L. debut as a unit during Sunday's smashing victory. But it was to Goalie Turk Broda that the coach gave major credit.

"It was Broda who held up our team until we got the first goal and started going to town," Irwin said. "The Red Wings applied very heavy pressure during the first ten minutes or so, and since about five or six or our youngsters were skating for the first time on Olympia's big ice surface it took some time for the kids to get straightened away. Broda simply baffled the Red Wings while that was going on."

Key-noter for the Leafs, as they looked forward with no particular pleasure to another week's layoff, was that well-known stump speaker, Mr. Apps, who exclaimed vehemently yesterday:

"By hum! We can't let those old Amerks beat us now! By hum!"

Poor Old Gabby Hartnett Still On The Hot Spot In Chicago

By IRVING VAUGHAN
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—For the time being Gabby Hartnett, the Cubs' boss, appeared to have weathered the storm which, upon the closing of the city series with the White Sox, began to swirl about his throne.

His employer P. K. Wrigley, has swallowed his disappointment over the fourth place finish and subsequent flop in combat with the Sox. Hartnett, instead of being bounced as was threatened, is to remain at least until after the 1940 race is under way.

Worst Yet To Come?

But will the season's opening bring another storm so violent that the recent unpleasantness will seem, by comparison, only a mild breeze?

Gabby is already in as tough a spot as ever was occupied by any big league manager, but he should be consoled by one thought, which is that if he can fight his way out his future as a leader will be assured.

Wrigley owns the ball club, and what he chooses to say about it for publication is his own business. If he is only 50 per cent. sold on Hartnett as a manager, that also is his own business. But what will be the attitude of the players under Hartnett's command next season? Will they respect his authority? Or will they hold him in disregard and thus precipitate his finish?

The above mentioned internal condition might not arise, but the seed for it has been planted. There's still time for Gabby to rout out the objectionable seeds if he can find them. And there is still time for Wrigley to squelch possible internal rebellion by giving Hartnett a vote of confidence as well as a few ball players above a mill-run standard. The latter are not easily obtained overnight.

Must Have Pennant

Hartnett will be expected to win a pennant. Barring extensive trading during the winter he will have to perform the feat with a weak hitting team, a team which is shy on steady pitching and has weak catching unless Hartnett himself can continue to carry the receiving load. He can do the catching well enough, but will have to supply some of the missing power from his own bat. He slumped off as a hitter last season and next season will be a year older. And he will have all those extra worries to carry, not to mention Dizzy Dean.

Hartnett already has some definite ideas about trades but can't be induced to uncover any of his secrets. He's reserving those for the annual meetings at Cincinnati early in December.

Colts' Manager Is Hap Wilgar

Hap Wilgar was re-appointed manager of the junior "B" Colts at an executive hockey meeting held here last evening. The coach was not named for the time being. Wilgar managed last year's Colts and there was no argument over his appointment this season, it being felt that with only one junior club in the city he had a bigger choice of players and could form a first-class team. Frank Buckland and Bill Jackson were delegated to attend the annual O. H. A. jubilee meeting in Toronto this week-end, where President R. M. Glover of the local club would also be in attendance as an O. H. A. life member.

It was decided to run a draw in order to help defray training expenses, a $50 first prize and a number of others being offered. Tickets may be obtained at Ed. Riley's and the box for stubs will be in that store. Further details will be announced shortly. It was pointed out that this early training was necessary if the puckists were to start their schedule in as good shape as rival teams, and this training cost money. Meantime, arrangements are being made for home-and-home exhibition tilts with Oshawa Generals and possibly an exhibition game in Owen Sound. Junior plans will be checked upon in the immediate future.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC PERDUE

A kindly correspondent writes to tell us the possible reason for The Examiner being on the mailing list of Finland's Olympic Committee—something we wondered about last week when a photo book came to us from Finland. It seems one Johan Munck, young lawyer in Helsingfors, has relatives in Peterborough. He speaks Swedish, Finnish, German and French fluently, Russian fairly well—maybe he'd better learn that language thoroughly, eh?—and is now learning to read and write English. So he requested folks here to send him some papers and magazines from Canada, which was done—including copies of The Examiner from time to time. And, no doubt, he read through 'em pretty thoroughly, Johan evidently being a thorough chap.

* * * * * *

"As the Finns, Norwegians and Swedes,' the letter states, "are almost born on skis, Johan was interested in the progress the sport is making in this country. He was especially pleased to read the write-up of the big ski meet held here a year ago. The kind words and good wishes expressed for little Finland in her dark hour in the Nov. 17th, 1939, edition of the Peterborough Examiner will certainly be read with great pleasure by friends in Helsingfors, Finland." The correspondent requested the name of the writer be deleted.

* * * * * *

It's A Small World

Much obliged for the letter, it being interesting to learn how small the world is at times—and how there is a contact between peaceful Peterborough away over in Canada and war-worried Finland in the shadow of the Red menace. We trust we hear more from this party. Reporters and elephants are sometimes said to have long memories—and it occurred to this scribe when perusing the distinctive penmanship of the above epistle that it bore a considerable likeness to one we received a year ago—but, alas, have long since destroyed. We mean one addressed in 1936 to "Mr. Seesall Perdue" and complimenting us in breezy form for our sagacity (foolhardiness? crazy guess? wishful thinking?) in predicting a possible win for the local Orfuns over the Imps. Which happened. Maybe we're wrong, but we wonder.

* * * * * *

More and more is sport being given its proper recognition, and we note with interest—after all, it's our bread and butter with a slice of ham occasionally—in the Globe: "Sport is being recognized in preparation for this war much earlier than it was in the last. Although this is true mainly of the Canadians, as the British Army had taken up sport seriously some time before 1914. In fact, the Old Contemptibles have been termed the finest body of athletes in the world. A British general said truly that leather played one of the chief parts in winning the war, and that few people realized what was owed to the boxing glove and the football—two great factors in upholding or restoring morale among the troops." Wonder if there'll be any war sports correspondents needed.

There Is Ice Here

Whilst the plutocratic Petes hold sedate twice-a-week puck workouts in Oshawa, the junior prospects and scrub players have hied themselves o'er the crest of Armour Hill and located a frozen hunk of canal to drill upon. A gang of lads skated and played shinny on Mr. Trent's waterway yesterday and no doubt will do the same today. Dunno how safe it is but no report of anyone being ducked has filtered through the censor's hands so far. Meantime, the senior hockeyists are off again this p.m. for the Motor City arena for their third official practice and it won't be long, mes miserables, ere a few more heads will be lopped off and the team begins to shake down into its streamlined 1940 model. We'll have to mosey along one of these times and see how the squad is shaping up with the winter schedule just a block or so away.

* * * * * *

At an executive hockey meeting here last p.m., Hap Wilgar was re-appointed manager of the junior "B" Colts for this winter—no coach being named yet. Wilgar is an excellent choice and we can expect some junior action now. Frank Buckland and Bill Jackson were delegated to attend the annual O.H.A. meeting this week-end. Home-and-home exhibition tilts with Oshawa Generals are being lined up and possibly a fray in Owen Sound. A draw will be held for a $50 first prize and others. Ducats may be obtained by sellers at Ed Riley's, where the box for stubs is located. Officials hope for a big response from the public as the Petes have heavier expenses getting in this early training this year in order to be in the w.k. pink when their four-team (they hope) schedule opens in December.

Girl Cagers Begin

Ladies' City Cage Loop opens next Friday e'en in the Y.W.C.A. Six teams in, Quaker Aces, St. John's, Westclox, Quaker Debs, "Y" Gym and the Orfuns. C.G.E. isn't playing this season. Orfuns were in the L.O.B.A. last winter and will play in the league but won't compete for the city trophies at the end of the schedule. They may get a bye into Ontario playdowns come spring. Aces are senior champs now and Westclox won junior honors. Friday jousts are: Westclox vs. Quaker Debs, "Y" Gym vs. St. John's and Quaker Aces vs. Orfuns. More again on the gal basketeers.

Canadian Press all-star squad has been named and includes two of the Orfuns, Curly Krug at quarter and Leo Deadey at outside. We picked these two and also Don Crowe—and still believe that Ferraro didn't rate a spot this semester, having slowed up considerably. Otherwise the all-star selections suit us okay. Imperials had six named and the selectors' judgment is vindicated by the fact that the Imps have since come on fast to have the championship practically wrapped in cellophane and awaiting delivery. Orfuns didn't do so badly, either, for a winless team—having as many all-stars picked as the Beaches and Westmounts. The Deadey-Krug passing team had a good season with a mediocre outfit and both veteran senior gridders deserve the honor this year.

TORONTO, Nov. 21. — Oshawa Generals paraded their 1939-40 purchasing talent for the first time at the Gardens last night and impressed as they reeled off a 6-3 victory over Guelph Biltmores in a bruising S.P.A. encounter. Joe Primeau's Upper Canada College sextet had no trouble accounting for the junior "B" opener, 9-1, over Woodstock.

Generals struck swiftly to build an insurmountable first-period lead. Inside two minutes after reaching the four-minute mark, Jud McAtee, Wally Wilson and Sawyer whipped home shots on potent thrusts. It was 4-1 at the end of the period, 6 to 1 at the close of the second. Guelph managed to inject some cohesion into their loose-jointed, ineffectual passing plays in the finale, rapped in two goals, but found the gap too wide to close.

Tracy Shaw's squadron displayed a wealth of talent. The two McAtee boys, Jud and Norm, were travelling faster than ever, working prettily on passing plays and teaming effectively with Buddy Hellyer, Montreal recruit, on the first-string unit. Nick Knot and Roy Sawyer, two holdovers, collaborated with Wally Wilson, up from Oshawa Bees, to form a potent second line. Wilson is the boy who must fill Billy Taylor's shoes. His first start indicated he intends to make a good fist of it. He picked up three points from a goal and two assists.

Members of these two lines accounted for all Oshawa goals. Sawyer and Jud McAtee headed the parade with two each. Defensively Frankie Eddols, from Montreal; Don Daniels and George Ritchie stood out. Eddolls can really hit incoming forwards.

Guelph turned in a fair effort, but their team play was away below par. Oshawa's leech-like checking had a lot to do with this factor. Most successful of the forwards were diminutive Red Kelly and Vic Gregg. Cosens, Brown, Finkbeiner and Young were others above the ordinary. Harry Dick, ex-Midland player, created a lot of excitement and hard-feeling with his robust, albeit bull-like bodychecks.

Upper Canada College had too much combination and condition for Woodstock, building up a 9-0 lead before yielding the first goal to the enemy. Stafford, Mara and Urquhart stood out in the victory.

TORONTO, Nov. 21. — Driver Al Colton of Rochester, N.Y., sustained a fractured hip at Dufferin Park yesterday when Villanova, the horse he was driving in the second heat of the Class E event, fell going down the back-stretch the first time around.

Unable to avoid a collision, Chief Grattan swerved into the Colton sulky and the Rochester driver suffered his injury. He was removed to St. Michael's Hospital.

Colton, who has a string of four horses stabled at Dufferin, has encountered tough luck at Little Saratoga. Last year at the West-End oval he was driving Cap Grattan when that horse dropped dead during a race.

Miss June Dillman, 17-year-old Victor, N.Y., girl, duplicated her Saturday's successes over male competitors by driving Saki, an 18-year-old trotter, to victory in the con- including heat of the Class D.

She was not quite so successful in the Class C division in which Clint Hodgins drove Todd Britton, the only trotter in the race, to victory in two of the three heats. Miss Dillman finished fourth with Betty Boop in the second heat, but wound up in the thirteenth place in the third heat when Betty Boop made a bad break and was withdrawn.

Puett Starting Gate In Operation

In the news of late has been the Puett starting gate, a starting device for race horses with a growing popularity. What brought it more to the fore was the recent failure of one of the stall-gates to open at the start of a race at Pimlico, but this was the first time a flaw had been recorded. In case you are not familiar with the gate we present a picture of the start of a race at Bay Meadows, California, wher the Puett gate made a successful debut throughout the recent 25-day meet. In Canada the Puett gate is used on the Pacific coast, while the prairie provinces have found the Cowell gate, a similar device in some respects, satisfactory. In both types the horses are led into the stalls from the rear, and then the rear door is closed. At the start the front gates are sprung open—the Puett electrically, the Cowell by handlever—and the horses spring out evenly and with little loss of time. The gate stretches across the track and the picture shows just part of it.

Quit Playing In Salvation Army Band For Career In The Boxing Ring

TORONTO, Nov. 21—In his 23-year span of life young Wally Hally, Flashy Los Angeles lightweight who meets Dave Castilloux, Canadian featherweight champion, here next Monday night in the main bout of Jack Corcoran's fight show, has done a variety of things.

Before he became interested in the ring and its possibilities, Hally and his father and mother were members of the Salvation Army and Wally played a trombone in the Los Angeles district band.

Up until a year ago his manager, Frank Bachman reveals, Hally's father always sat in his boy's corner during a bout. After he began fighting in clubs up and down the coast and particularly around the film colony Hally was offered small bits in pictures because of a friendship with many movie players, principally dapper George Raft. He spurned these offers, however, because of his desire to make a name for himself in the ring. His record shows that his intensity of purpose was not a misguiding quality.

Hally is training now in Stillman's gym, New York, and his fight here will be his first since he returned from Australia, where he beat the Aussie lightweight champion. He arrives here Friday morning with Manager Bachman.

Castilloux comes to Toronto tonight and will start training at the Apex gym tomorrow afternoon. Matchmaker Corcoran announced yesterday that Joey Bagnato, popular local lightweight who has lost only about four bouts in his meteoric pro career, has been signed to do duty in a semi-final bout. Corcoran expects to be able to announce his opponent today.

16-Year-Old Girl With Grad Cagers

Margaret is the youngest of the 10 players being tried out for the four vacant spots on the eight-player roster of the Underwood International trophy holders. The others are Kay MacRitchie and Winnie Gallen, who played as spares with Grads during the fall, Betty Bawden, Flo Plante, Frances Gordon, Rena Fraser, Victoria Ewasiuk, Dorothy Allan and Hilda Hughes.

Brothers Neil and Mac may be able to claim a bit of the credit if their kid sister makes the team. Last summer they bought her a ball and in the backyard of their home they built a hoop standard so she could could get lots of shooting practice.

Backyard hoops are not new to Grad players. Similar ones brought very good results to Noel MacDonald, former captain who retired this fall, and Joan Williamson, veteran who is expected to succeed Noel as centre.

Sweeps Industry Is War Casualty

DUBLIN, Nov. 21—(CP)— Irish hospital sweepstakes staffs have received notice that drastic cuts in personnel and salaries may be expected.

Promoters are understood to be considering schemes for carrying on their activities in wartime in view of the difficulties of getting money through the mails while other countries are maintaining censorships. One suggestion put forward is that sweeps might be held in aid of the International Red Cross and that neighboring countries might be induced on this account to relax their regulations.

A large part of the sweepstakes offices at Ballsbridge, to the south of Dublin, have been requisitioned by the Ministry of Supply, and the Minister, Sean Lamass, has already taken up quarters there.

As the sweepstakes are about the second largest industry in Eire it will be realized that their future is viewed with anxiety by the thousands of persons who are employed as clerks during the peak period.

Drillon On Top Of List With 9 Points

MONTREAL, Nov. 21.—(CP)—Three good reasons why the Toronto Maple Leafs are leading the National Hockey League were revealed last night in the league's first official scoring list of the season, showing the Leafs' ace line of Gordon Drillon, Syl Apps and Bob Davidson holding down the first three places.

The smooth-skating Drillon, league scoring champion two seasons ago, is alone out in front with nine points, five goals and four assists, while his line-mates are tied for second place with seven points each. Apps has five goals and two assists and Davidson a goal and six assists.

Veteran Cecil Dillon, wearing the color of Detroit Red Wings this season after a long period of service with New York Rangers, is next with six points, while right behind him are Ken Kilrea of Detroit, Toe Blake of Montreal Canadiens, last year's champion; Milt Schmidt of Boston and Mac Colville of Rangers.

Drillon and Apps share the lead as goal-getters with five, while Davidson's six assists place him in front as a playmaker.

Babe Pratt of the Rangers, with 16 minutes in penalties, is leader in this department. Murph Chamberlain, Toronto forward, has served 13 minutes for second place.

Sprague Tries Politics

OTTAWA, Nov. 21—(CP).—Dave Sprague, towering middle wing of the Ottawa Roughriders Football Club, has decided to take a whirl at municipal politics. He announced Monday that he will be an aldermanic candidate in Elmdale Ward in the coming civic elections here.

Jack Adams Thinks Toronto Leafs' Syl Apps Is "Best Player Who Ever Had Skates On"

DETROIT, Nov. 21—(CP).—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings makes no bones about it—he thinks that Syl Apps of the Toronto Maple Leafs is "the best player who ever had skates on."

Disappointed that his Wings lost two straight to Toronto during the week-end, by scores of 3-0 and 7-1, Adams was high in his praise for the eLafs as a team — and even higher in praising the 190-pound centre of the Drillon-Apps-Davidson line.

The Detroit manager does not think there is any doubt about it; if the playoffs of the National Hockey League were to start tomorrow, the other teams might just as well ship the Stanley Cup to Toronto.

"Syl Apps is a greater hockey player than Howie Morenz ever was," is the way Adams described the Leafs' star. Terrific speed both ways, an almost uncanny ability to follow the puck, and an unfailing sense of opportunism are Apps' outstanding traits, Adams added.

lazy and undisciplined. They never picked up their clothes and had been allowed to do and roam around as they pleased. Now, my husband is one of the finest men I ever knew. He is clean and neat and wants everything just so. He has never had any children of his own and my children get on his nerves with their slovenly way of living and doing things. He hasn't said anything, but he looks so unhappy that I am wondering if he is not going to leave me. Of course, in a few years the girls will soon be either married or at work, but what can I do until that time comes? I don't want to lose my husband.—WORRIED WOMAN.

ANSWER:

I don't think that even a lion tamer would have the nerve to try to discipline two adolescent girls and teach them new tricks. Hence your case looks pretty hopeless, for no agony could be greater than that which a neat old bachelor would experience in having to live under the same roof with two youngsters who scatter their belongings all over the place and who show no regard for his personal treasures.

Only a man who was a he-angel would endure such martyrdom, and so you need not be surprised if you find some day he has folded his tent and faded away. Your only chance of preventing such a catastrophe is in sending the girls off to some school in the Winter and to a camp in the Summer.

But why did you raise your daughters up to be hoodlums instead of ladies?

DOROTHY DIX.

Patrick Differs

New York, Nov. 21 (CP)

LESTER PATRICK, manager of New York Rangers, took issue today with the statement of Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings that Syl Apps is "the best player who ever had skates on."

Patrick said the Toronto National Hockey League centre undoubtedly is "the greatest in hockey today" but for an all-time ranking he still picked on Fred (Cyclone) Taylor, the former Ottawa and Vancouver star who now is president of the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

He made that choice several years ago and Patrick said he had seen nothing to make him change his mind.

Want Winning Pitcher As Christmas Gift

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Nov. 21—(AP).—If Santa Claus has any special presents for Bill Terry, he hopes it will be a good winning pitcher.

Arriving here for a brief inspection of spring training quarters, the New York Giants' manager was outspoken about what he would like the whiskered gent to leave in his stocking.

"I just want another good pitcher and I don't care if he's a right-hander or a left-hander as long as he wins," Terry confided.

He still has faith in Pitcher Carl Hubbell, once voted the National League's most valuable player.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, November 22

EVENTS MOVE rapidly toward ambitious goals on this day, judging by the benefic chain of planetary configurations These promise conspicuous achievement in affiliation with large and important groups and organizations, where innovation, fresh methods and high deals hold sway. The young and progressive may obtain high place, possibly by means of quick intuitions or insight into live issues of public, financial or educational importance.

Those whose birthday it is will find themselves under highly stimulated, expansive and liberal urges during the year, with many high ideals, noble purposes and ambitious objectives pushed and ambitious objectives pushed to pleasant and powerful culminations. Public, group and idealistic issues seem involved, and there is a prospect of substantial co-operation from powerful interests.

A child born on this day may be brilliant and adaptable to many splendid achievements in life through its alertness, keen grasp and intuitions. It may have liberal, generous and humanitarian ideals, possibly lifting it to public service and popularity.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 — (AP). — Henry Armstrong is 2-1 over Lou Ambers in opening quotations.... They fight December 1....St. Louis newspapers say Brooklyn Dodgers can have Joe Medwick if they're willing to break up their infield and part with Cooky Lavagetto and Pete Coscarart....One up and coming Southern football school took a star halfback away from two other bidders merely by making him a present of an overcoat last July.

Johnny Longden, Taber, Alta., jockey, finished the 175-day New York racing season with 96 winners to his credit, 39 behind Don Meade who led the pack with 135 firsts.... Basil James was second with 134 and Ronnie Nash, Toronto apprentice; fourth with 85 . . . Longden was handicapped by a 10-day riding penalty.

Bob McCully, New Haven right winger, in the International-American Hockey League, scored on three out of four penalty shots last season and has banged home one out of one so far this season.

South Australia Wins

ADELAIDE, Australia, Nov. 21 — (CP Cable(—South Australia defeated Victoria by three wickets here today and New South Wales triumphed over Queensland by the same margin at Brisbane in the season's opening Sheffield Shield cricket matches.

Led by Don Bradman, Australian captain, the South Australians ran up totals of 261 and 301 for seven wickets in reply to the visiting eleven's scores of 207 and 363. New South Wales compiled 287 and 268 after dismissing the Queenslanders for 290 and 263.

Only One Solution To World Is Tragedy

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 21 (ENS) — World conditions particularly from the British point of view were dealt with in an interesting manner by Rev. B. Simpson Black who was guest speaker before members of the Seymour West Women's Institute. "There is," he said, "only one solution to the world's tragedy and that is the Christian solution. It is the Kingdom of God applied to the whole round of life, to the personal life, as well as the social and economic life of nations and their political relationships. Against the selfish and competitive principal is that of 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' Dictatorships demand absolute obedience to an earthly ruler whereas the Kingdom of God puts God's will first. Therefore Christianity must be entirely eliminated from the Nazi of Communist state."

Mrs. Fred McCulloch the president introduced the speaker and also presided during the business portion of the meeting. Other items on the program included current events by Mrs. Art Rutherford; and a humorous reading by Mrs. Charles Craighead. In responding to the roll call "Christmas Recipes" members offered a number of suggestions for decorating the Christmas table and contributed several new recipes for candy as well as ideas for decorating the cake. Misses Irene Curle and Beatrice Rutherford were on the program committee and the lunch committee consisted of Mrs. Fred Hendy, Mrs. James Waters, Mrs. Harry Hoard and Mrs. Ed. O'Connor.

Wind Gave Out

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 21

THE STORY of a wolf which regretfully learned its wind gave out before the steam of a locomotive engine, was told here today by Engineer Jimmy Gordon and Fireman Joe McColl.

The men chased the wolf almost to exhaustion with their train along the tracks of the Algoma Central Railway. They then hopped from the cab and killed the animal with engine tools.

The unlucky wolf ran in front of the train at the mouth of the Agawa Canyon. After it was winded it started to run up a snowbank but the two men brought the train to a halt and caught it.

Scaring Wilhelm

Doorn, The Netherlands, Nov. 21 (AP)

THE STAFF of former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany was alarmed today when a sudden windstorm uprooted three large trees in the garden of Doorn Castle.

The 80-year-old former Kaiser was only 50 yards from where the trees fell and returned to the castle in a highly nervous state.

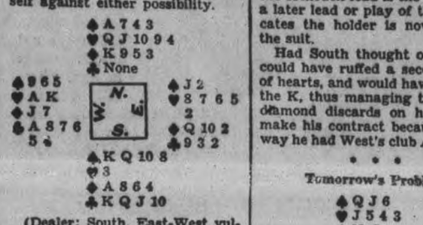
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

DO A BIT OF THINKING

JUST A LITTLE use of that decorative adornment on top of your neck is needed to prevent some of the most disheartening calamities that otherwise may befall you at the bridge table. Only brief reflection is required in many spots to show that a certain lead, play or bid does not necessarily indicate the first thing that comes to your mind. It may also betoken something quite different, and if you think of this alternative you may find a way to protect yourself against either possibility.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South bid 1-Spade here, West 2-Clubs, North 3-Clubs to proclaim no losers there and a fine fit, then South a mild slam, ace-showing bid of 3-Diamonds, whereupon North tried 5-Spades and South 6-Spades, which West doubled.

West led the heart A, and South went into a brief study. He decided instantly that the lead denied possession of the K. Therefore East had the heart K, which would be caught in a ruffing finesse. When West, to prevent ruffs, then led the spade 9 to the 10, South quickly took the spade K and spade A, then led the heart Q. East played small on this, and South let it ride. The K won, setting the contract.

In the post-mortem, South maintained stoutly that his play was right, because West was known to the group as a thoroughly orthodox leader and could be depended upon to lead a K from A-K combinations. North corrected him. If the A-K combination had no small cards with it, the orthodox lead is the A, so that a later lead or play of the K indicates the holder is now void of the suit.

Had South thought of that, he could have ruffed a second round of hearts, and would have dropped the K, thus managing to get two diamond discards on hearts and make his contract because of the way he had West's club A trapped.

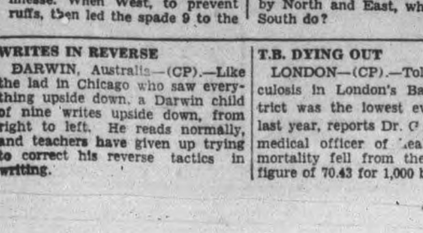
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

In a match-point duplicate game, if West's 1-Spade is passed by North and East, what should South do?

Millbrook School Staff Is Given Praise

MILLBROOK, Nov. 21—(ENS).—The School Board, at its regular meeting last week, accepted with much pleasure the report of the Continuation School Inspector, G. L. Gray, who spoke in the highest terms of the thoroughness and efficiency with which the staff is doing its work, both in the teaching periods and in connection with other activities of the school.

On motion of ex-Warden P. Stinson and G. F. Harrington, the agreement with the Department of National Defence re Cadet equipment was left in the hands of the chairman and secretary for carrying out in detail.

Plan Commencement.

The annual commencemetnt of the M.C.S. will be on December 15 and 16, and preparations are now under way for the program. Miss Flora E. Morgan, B.A., principal, gave the talk at the last meeting of the Literary Society, the theme, "Remembrance Day," being appropriately dealt with in practical manner.

Group leaders for 1940 are Ruth Richards, Bea Fallis, William Kerr, and Willim Deyell. A sing-song of old-time war songs, with Robena Tate at the piano, and Alan Brown with the violin, was a fitting closing feature of the program.

New Flag Poles.

The new flag pole in front of the Armouries was put in place last week, and the one on the new Post Office building is being completed. The name in gold letters has also been put on over the main entrance to the Post Office, and the work of painting, lathing, and plastering inside, etc., is being proceeded with at present. The contract for the boxes, etc., has not yet been let, but the installation of the furnace and the plumbing has practically been completed. The building is being done with great care and completeness in every detail, and is a decided addition to the main street of the village, the vacant corner, bought by the Government for a Post office before the last war, having been somewhat of an eyesore until, within the past two or three years, when the Horticultural Society was organized locally and planted shrubs, etc., which beautified the plot greatly.

Behind Adolf

Berlin, Nov. 21 (AP)

PRINCE AUGUST WILHELM, fourth son of the former Kaiser and a Nazi Storm Troop leader, told foreign correspondents today the Hohenzollerns are solidly behind Germany in the present struggle.

"My entire house," he said, "is absolutely against all efforts to injure Germany, and whatever is against the Fuehrer is against Germany."

He said "we were shocked" at the supposed attempt on Adolf Hitler's life at Munich Nov. 8.

The prince reported that his eldest brother, the former Crown Prince, was in Berlin today and that he was engaged daily in the administration of Hohenzollern properties.

Nazis Get Rid Of U.S. Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—(CP).—Nazi control of news from Germany is a "subtler and more corrosive kind of control" than that exercised by the war-time censorships of Great Britain and France and "the totalitarian fear of facts and thoughts is more corrosive than anything that the democratic war governments know," the New York Herald Tribune said editorially today.

In a copyright despatch to the paper from Amsterdam, Mr. Conger said he had been advised by German authorities "that it would be best to leave" as a result of a story he sent to the Herald Tribune to which the German government "took violent exception."

In the dispatch in question, telephoned from Berlin and printed last Tuesday, Mr. Conger reported that Nazi Germany probably is "more confused to-day than it has been since the days of 1933 when the Hitler government first came to power."

He said that among factors contributing to the confusion were the alleged attempt to assassinate Hitler in Munich and the asserted refusal of the German army high command to invade a neutral country to break the western front stalemate.

Demand Denial

In his Amsterdam dispatch, the correspondent wrote that Nazi officials told him a complete denial of the story would have to be issued otherwise telephone privileges would be revoked. Mr. Conger said he was ordered to leave the foreign press conference last Thursday and "later the same afternoon I was told I could no longer send or receive long distance telephone messages, telegrams or letters."

In its editorial, the Herald Tribune said Germany has no official press censorship but added: "Of the way in which this liberal system operates, the Herald Tribune can now offer a first-hand example. Mr. Conger was not expelled; and there is still no censorship on any similar dispatches which other correspondents might send. But the effect would seem to be very much the same.

"The Nazis have not established a formal censorship because for years they have perfected the totalitarian art of censorsing by stopping up all news sources on the one hand and holding the sword of intimidation over the correspondents on the other.

"In the long run it is not the severity or success of war censorship that is impressive; it is its relative futility in concealing the broad shape of things. Its fears give it away; its silences are revealing; and the really big facts—like the Prague riots and their bloody suppression, for examples—are beyond its concealments."

British Troops Rapidly Becoming Experts In All Branches Of The Army

With thousands of British troops already in France, thousands more are rapidly being whipped into shape to follow their comrades across the Channel or to take up positions with home defence units. One of the projectors of a searchlight detachment, stationed in the middle of open country, somewhere in England, is shown, UPPER LEFT. When and if, Nazi air raiders sweep over England, these powerful searchlights will illuminate the enemy planes for anti-aircraft guns to shoot down. An artillery-man, UPPER RIGHT, is shown bringing up shells from an ammunition dump to a gun emplacement somewhere on the coast. Under the critical eyes of a sergeant, soldiers standing in a trench adopt the correct position for throwing hand grenades, LOWER LEFT, during training at a barracks near London. This laddie, LOWER RIGHT, is not just relaxing after a hard drill, but is a "spotter" seated in his specially constructed chair with his rifle across his knees and powerful binoculars up to his eyes, scanning the skies for signs of enemy aircraft.

Erosion Of Soil Hits Ontario

TORONTO, Nov. 21.—Right here in Ontario there is soil erosion that is as bad as in any country in the world, R. F. Legget, assistant professor of civil engineering in the University of Toronto, told the Royal Canadian Institute on Saturday evening in Convocation Hall.

"Something must be done about it and done quickly," he warned. "Here is a scientific problem calling for the work of botanists, foresters and engineers. But nothing can be done without public support. We must conserve our natural resources or suffer the consequences."

He showed a picture of a bleak, barren-looking countryside where the results of erosion stuck out like a mass of sore thumbs. "That picture was taken less than 25 miles from this room, in King Township," he said. "That is the sort of thing that is being allowed to go on right here in our own country."

He flashed another slide on the screen. "That is an example of what is taking place in Peel County. Those gullies you see are the size of a man. If you don't remember anything else about the lecture, I want you to remember this picture. It is an amazing instance of what can happen if nature is let go her own way."

His lecture dealt with "foundation engineering," the parts of a structure which remain hidden from sight, but a branch of work that seemed to have a special attraction for the layman, judged from the peekhole investigation carried on by "otherwise respectable citizens" in connection with the excavation work for the Bank of Montreal at King and Bay Streets, Professor Legget said.

DAIRY BLAST

TORONTO, Nov. 21—(CP)—Burned by live steam when an underground tank in the basement of a dairy plant exploded yesterday, Alex Constable was in hospital today in serious condition.

The blast threw Constable against a brick wall of the basement and left him with a fractured right leg and serious burns on his legs, face, and back. The explosion shattered the tank, cut half a dozen steam pipe lines, broke up the cement floor of the basement and so damaged the cement foundation of the furnace that the boiler on it was tilted to one side. Steam filled the basement.

Tanker Explodes; 3-Way Probe On

BAYONEE, N.J., Nov. 21—(AP).—A three-way investigation of an explosion that rent the deck of the Standard Oil Company's 11,147-ton tanker, J. A. Mowinckel was underway today.

Bayonne police, the marine department of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation sought to determine cause of the blast that could be heard for miles.

The Mowinckel which docked on Wednesday with 109,000 barrels of oil from Venezuela is operated by the Panama Transport Company, a Standard Oil subsidiary, and is of Panama registry. The oil was unloaded by Friday night. No one was hurt by the blast.

The explosion occurred Sunday in an empty double tank in the hold and ripped a hole 65 feet long and 35 feet wide in the deck, breaking steel plates backwards as though they were on hinges.

Twenty of the crew of 45 were on shore leave. On board were 15 tank cleaners and several private detectives employed as watchmen.

Crew members said it was a "miracle" none of the men aboard were injured.

Only after two thorough scrubbings was one baby girl, first thought to be a Negro, discovered to be white.

After a first washing she still seemed colored and was unclaimed, but the fifth yielded the second time. Another infant was identified by the size and number of his teeth.

LONDON, Nov. 21—(CP).—Food rationing in the United Kingdom will not start until the government compiles the results of the census which began Sept. 29 and is expected to end Thursday, Food Minister W. S. Morrison said to-day.

Red-Jap Dickers Take Turn For The Better

MOSCOW, Nov. 21—(AP).—Soviet Russian official sources reported progress today in negotiations to improve relations with Japan, while the press continued to attack Finland for "increasing preparations for war."

Tass, Soviet News Agency, announced agreement had been reached on the "composition and functions" of a mixed commission to establish a boundary between Sovietized outer Mongolia and Japanese-protected Manchoukuo.

The commission, which will attempt to settle frontier problems left unsolved when the two countries concluded a truce Sept. 16 after more than four months of border fighting, will meet soon at Chita, Siberia, Tass said.

At the same time, Tass reported the Soviet premier and foreign commissar, Vyacheslaff Molotoff, and Japanese Ambasador Shigenori Togo had found "a community of views" after "exchanging opinion on the fundamental principles upon which a Soviet-Japanese trade agreement must be based."

(A Japanese spokesman said last Friday conditions were more satisfactory "than ever before" for settlement of outstanding questions between the two countries.)

Claim Finn Troops Active

The communist party newspaper Pravda, meanwhile, said in a dispatch from Helsingfors, "Finnish troops are marching everywhere on the eastern frontier" which Finland has refused to revise in accord with Soviet demands.

"There are nightly blackouts," Pravda said, "but on the Soviet side everything is normal."

Finnish military and "ruling classes," Pravda added, are "increasing preparations for war" against the desires of the masses.

(Advices from Finland reported signs of relaxing tension along the Soviet-Finnish frontier. The universities of Helsingfors and Turku planned to reopen later this week, while some long-darkened restaurants resumed operation.)

Peterborough Man Makes A Remarkable Statement

...ffered With Stomach Trouble, Headaches and Rheumatic Pains in Joints and Muscles. Tells How Syntona Brings Grand Relief After All Other Treatments Failed.

"I can't praise Syntona too highly after what it has done for me," said Mr. Samuel Toplis, 241 Murray St., Peterborough, Ontario, in a statement recently verified.

"Being a commercial traveller, I am out in all kinds of weather and I am constantly eating in different hotels and restaurants, so I suffered terribly with indigestion and constipation. My stomach got so bad that even a glass of water caused a scalding feeling and gas pains in my side. Sour acids would rise right up into my throat and there was a burning feeling in my chest. I often felt nauseated and so bloated with gas that I could hardly draw a full breath. The acids seemed to go all through my system so I developed rheumatic pains in my limbs and back and I was subject to frequent headaches.

"Needless to say, I tried many medicines and prescriptions, but nothing gave me any real relief until I began taking Syntona. With the first bottle of Syntona, my stomach felt better and my bowels became regular, so I kept on until I had taken seven bottles in succession and as directed. Now, I am happy to say, I can eat regular meals and enjoy them. I am free of headaches and rheumatic pains. My nerves are more relaxed now, I sleep better and I feel more healthy and energetic in every way."

The reason such good results are produced by a medicine that is compounded to act on the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels at the same time is simply this: The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related in their functions that when one becomes ailing, it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should supply nourishment and resistance, only ferments in the stomach. Soured particles are fed into the blood-stream and soon the whole system is rundown.

This pure herbal compound is now being introduced in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George St. Make up your mind to go there today and find out how Syntona can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Allied Fighters Bag 7 Nazi Craft On French Front

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP) — German air raiders bombed the Shetland Islands today and set fire to a Royal Air Force seaplane in two sharp thrusts.

"A raid warning was sounded in the Shetlands this morning. An unsuccessful attack made on shipping in this area. The attack driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

"The enemy then attacked with bombs a Royal Air Force seaplane lying at its moorings and set it on fire. We suffered no casualties."

WHILE returning from viewing a couple of deer bagged by one of their camp members, the cook and two cookees became lost in the Township of Effingham, on the limits of the Sawyer Stoll Lumber Company.

Fortunately they were able to find sufficient material to keep a fire going during the night, and in the morning the search party found them a considerable distance in the bush. It was near noon when the lost members returned to camp, and they were glad to reach the base, having spent a miserable night in the bush, with the wolves howling on nearby hills.

Missing Girl Hid In Barn Several Weeks

The mystery of the disappearance of fourteen-year-old Doreen Smith, who failed to return to her foster home in North Monghan after leaving early on Hallowe'en night was solved by city police today when they located the missing girl in Campbellford.

The discovery came close to being followed by tragedy for soon after the arrival of Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher, Constable Archie Menzies and Police Matron Mrs. L. A. Maguire at the house in Campbellford where the girl had been staying for the past week she swallowed a number of tablets and only prompt action by the police in calling a

Crerar Finds Allies Grim Nations

War's Romance Gone Every Man Aiding For Victory

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(CP).—People of England and France are mobilising "every atom of their strength" in the war against Germany, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Canadian Minister of Mines and Resources, declared in a broadcast to the Dominion to-day.

As a member of the party of Empire ministers in London for discussions with the British government, Mr. Crerar just completed a tour of the war operations in England and France, including a visit to the front line.

Romance of war had been "blacked out," the minister said, and people everywhere were grimly engaged in playing their part in the struggle, realizing that the war could not be fought and won entirely by military forces in the field.

Discussions with the Empire Minister had been most helpful, Mr. Crerar said, in revealing the complexity of the problem and providing suggestions for meeting it.

"In great Britain it is impossible not to be impressed with the spirit of quiet resolution one finds everywhere," he declared. "But there is little warlike excitement or the blaring of bands.

Parades In Background.

"The romance of war has been pretty well blacked out, and that, perhaps, is a good thing. Parades take second place to utility and efficiency."

Apart from the "magnificent spirit of the people," Mr. Crerar said the thing that impressed him was the magnitude of the task the British people had set for themselves.

"The people have not made the mistake of thinking this war can be fought and won by the armed forces alone. They have determined that every atom of their strength, military, financial and economic shall be

Paris, Nov. 22 (AP)

THE French Government will relax its war measures and—in the interest of tradition and marriage — permit Parisians to dance next Sunday for the first time since the war began.

They will celebrate the festival of the 1914 class of "Catherinettes," girls who have reached the age of 25 without marrying.

The fete of Saint Catherine every year is one of the most picturesque of Paris carnivals. On this day the "Catherinettes" don special bonnets and set out in search of husbands.

In the evening there are balls to which the "Catherinettes" invite their special candidates for matrimony.

Heavier German Artillery Tried On French

PARIS, Nov. 22—(CP).—The waiting war on the Western front settled back into routine, the French high command indicated today.

French general staff said that German artillery began to boom yesterday in a sector of the Alsace front where such action has never before been noted.

Military analysts said this development may be highly significant, and may herald a determined offensive by the Nazis.

The French government's decision, paralleling that announced yesterday by Prime Minister Chamberlain, is in reprisal for the unrestricted German sea warfare of the past week.

Henceforth the Anglo-French naval patrol will not have as its aim the seizure only of contraband bound for German ports, but will also stop exports leaving Germany for neutral ports in neutral ships.

Three Nazi Planes Downed.

An announcement confirmed yesterday's score in the air. Three German planes were shot down by the French, while British aircraft sent a German scouting machine down in flames into the North Sea.

Air raid warnings were sounded again this morning through northwest France.

The alarm, begun at 10:25 a.m., was ended at 11:45 a.m. without incident. The same area experienced an air raid alarm last night, lasting from 7:32 to 7:47 o'clock.

German artillery fire was particularly lively yesterday in the Blies sector, where 105 mm. field pieces are increasingly repiacing the smaller 77 mm. gun as the basic armament of German infantry divisions.

Fire was centred on French advance posts, and brought an immediate return barrage by French artillery against the enemy's gun emplacements, as well as a sharp bombardment of German troop positions.

In the Wissenbourg region, east of the Vosges, artillery fire was noticeably lighter. Increase of exchanges along the portion of the Alsace front which is marked by the Wissembourg gap and the edge of the Bien forest had led military observers to wonder whether the Germans had some movement afoot there.

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP). — Mrs. Louise Baillie Reynolds (Mrs. G. M. Robins), author of more than 40 novels, died here today. Mrs. Reynolds was president of the Society of Women Journalists in 1913 and head of the Writers' Club in 1911, 1919 and 1929.

2 Britons, German Blamed In Munich Explosion; Nazis Say U.K. Financed It

Crime Himmler's To Stir Hate Strassler States

PARIS, Nov. 22 — (CP-Havas).—Otto Strasser, exiled Nazi opponent of Adolf Hitler, who was officially accused of organizing the Munich bombing, today accused Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler of planting the bomb himself.

"The Munich attempt on the Fuehrer's life was organized by Himmler," Strasser told this correspondent today. "I have just received formal proof through a member of the party who is deeply devoted to me. The whole project was planned by Himmler himself.

"He told Hess (Rudolph Hess, Hitler's deputy in the party) that he needed an attempted assassination in order to unleash a 'campaign of hate' against Great Britain and also to have a pretext for dealing with internal enemies, especially members of the Black Front."

The Black Front is Strasser's organization which broke from the Nazi party in 1934 after the blood purge, in which Gregor Strasser, his brother, was murdered. Both Strassers were among the founders of the Nazi party.

Agree On Victims

"Hess agreed, on condition that there be no victims," Strasser said. "Himmler insisted, saying there had to be victims, or else no one would believe it to be a real attempt.

"The two men finally agreed that there should be victims, but no one of importance. Everything then went according to prearranged schedule.

London Says Report "Fairy Tale," Men Kidnapped

LONDON, Nov. 22 — (CP Cable). — London newspapers today featured the arrest by the German secret police of two British agents.

The Daily Express in its headlines called the German story of the arrest "fantastic" and said "Berlin tells a fairy tale."

The Foreign Office formally declared that neither the British Government nor any of its agents had any knowledge of the German charged with placing a bomb in the Munich beer cellar.

Blame British Agents.

BERLIN, Nov. 22—(AP) — Two captured British secret service agents were blamed today by German authorities as direct links in the Munich bomb explosion which missed Adolf Hitler by 11 minutes November 8.

Officals alleged the agents were responsible for the beer hall blast jointly with Gorg Elser, a former Munich resident said by the Nazis to have confessed setting the time bomb, and Otto Strasser, German exile who lives in France.

The two agents, listed as Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best, were seived at the Netherlands frontier November 9. German secret police, who have questioned them since then, declare Captain Stevens is chief of the European division of Britain's secret service.

Previously the German Gestapo chief, Heinrich Himmler, had not linked the two Britons directly with the bombing, but had announced Elser planted the Munich timebomb at the instigation of Strasser with British funds.

The Gestapo report said of the Britons: "Contradictory claims whether they were captured while still

A $4 Quarrel

Aberdeen, Wash., Nov. 22 (AP)

TWO MEN were shot to death and a woman injured in gunplay and fire that climaxed a quarrel over $4.

William Gessner, mill worker, accused a son of his landlady, Mrs. Glenice Ostrich, of stealing $4. Mrs. Ostrich fled. Gessner opened fire. A bullet nicked her finger.

Frank Fergestrom, filling station operator, attempted to protect her. Gessner shot him.

Gessner then set fire to the Ostrich house with gasoline and was badly burned as the fluid exploded.

Joe Ostrich, 15, shot and fatally wounded Gessner, who confessed killing Fergestrom before he died.

Italian Liner Survives Mine Blast

Tugs Take It In Tow Off East Coast; Sub Sinks Trawler

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP) — The Italian steamship Pianona, 6,660-tons, was reported today to have struck a mine off the southeast coast of England.

The ship was holed badly by the explosion, which occurred last night, it was said, but still was afloat today while tugs tried to pull her into port.

None of the crew of 33 was reported injured. It was not at once clear if the Pianona carried any passengers.

The damage to the Italian liner was announced just as observers in London foretold swift acceleration of the war at sea in view of Britain's new measures of retaliation for what Prime Minister Chamberlain described as the "ruthless brutality" of German attacks on merchant shipping.

Stirred by the sinking of 15 ships —including five neutrals—in the last five days, the admiralty moved to intensify the blockade against Germany by seizing all German exports on the high seas.

Explaining the order, which Mr. Chamberlain announced to a cheering House of Commons yesterday, a government spokesman said Ger-

German Sailors Cornered Beach Vessel

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(CP).— The Admiralty announced to-day that a German freighter, the Bertha Fisser, had been intercepted by a British warship near Iceland.

A brief announcement here said the German crew started to sink their ship and took to the boats, and that they later were picked up by a British warship.

The Bertha Fisser is a 4,110-ton freighter, built in 1919, belonging to the Emden firm of Fisser and Von Doornum.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Nov. 22.—(AP).— A freighter of uncertain identity, reported to have been shelled by a warship off the coast of Iceland, was breaking up today on rocks outside Hornafjord harbor.

The stricken vessel bore the name "Ada of Bergen" painted on its side. Wreckage drifting ashore, however, carried the name "Bertha Fischer."

It was reported here the ship had been pursued by an unidentified warship off the coast Monday, fired upon and set afire.

Britain Takes Action To Clean Up Mines

LONDON (CP)—The British program to combat German mine warfare will include an advance-guard of minesweepers before each convoy and distribution of mine-destroying apparatus among merchant ships, it was said today. The convoy activity by minesweepers, which are increasing daily in numbers, will supplement their 24-hour patrol of the sea lanes.

Ontario's Labor Conditions Improve Greatly

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP)—Labor conditions throughout Ontario seem to be greatly improved, according to a report issued by Hon. Norman Hipel, Minister of Labor, today. Several municipalities report fewer men on the relief rolls now compared with a year ago.

War employment is reported to account partly for this as textile manufacturing, transportation and munition works are showing an increase in employment.

At Belleville all laid-off employees of the Canadian National Railways have been called back while at Hamilton many railway workers there have been able to resume employment.

Relief rolls in Hamilton show fewer on the lists since 1937 while at Brantford there are 300 less on the lists than last year.

Building construction is showing some improvement with a number of houses and a factory unit being built at Frankford, excavations for a new hangar for the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton, a large factory under construction at Dundas, a new building for an aluminium company at Kingston.

Textile factories in Hamilton, London and Stratford are working full time and in some cases double shifts are on the job to turn out war orders.

There is a demand for domestic help at Hamilton, London and Oshawa.

Brantford Loses W. F. Cockshutt

Conservative member of parliament for Brantford from 1904 to 1917, president of the Cockshutt Plough Company in 1885 and 1886, Mr. Cockshutt had widespread interests in public and private life.

Born in Brantford, a son of Ignatius Cockshutt, pioneer merchant and philanthropist, he started his business career in the produce house of Thomas Furness and Company in England.

He returned to Canada as a young man and became associated with his father, whose work he carried on after Ignatius Cockshutt's retirement.

Hunger Striker Loses 24 Pounds In 5 Days

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 22.—(CP).—Twenty-four pounds lighter than when he started his hunger strike last Friday, Sam Hoffman, 38, farmhand charged with breach of the Defence of Canada Regulations, today still was refusing food.

Fred Wight, warden of the county jail here, said Hoffman drinks plenty of water but won't eat. Hoffman was bathed last night and accepted some orange juice afterward, but left his breakfast untouched this morning.

He is being held for trial following alleged statements "intended or likely" to cause disaffection to the King or to prejudice rearulting.

Last Minute News Flashes

BERLIN (CP - Havas) — Field Marshal Hermann Goering's newspaper, the National Zeitung of Essen, in an article headed "neutral shipping is in more danger than ever," today advised neutral ships to keep away from the British coasts, while other German newspapers raged against Great Britain's decision to blockade Reich exports.

Workers To Get Wage Arrears

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 — (AP).—Eleven major knitted garment manufacturers and sellers acknowledged in Federal Court on Tuesday that they had violated the United States Wage and Hour Law.

As a result, 10,000 home workers will receive approximately $250,000 in wage areas.

The companies consented to the entry of a permanent injunction restraining them from any further violations of the law, either directly or by subterfuge.

Those involved were: Regal Knitting, Inc.; May Knitting Company; Blue Bird Knitwear, Inc.; Newport Knitting Co., Inc.; Fay Infants Wear, Inc.; Cupid Knitwear Company, Inc.. Knitown Togs, Inc.; Famous Infants Knitwear Corporation; Sternberg Knitting Company, Inc.; Morris Bernstein and Samuel Bernstein, doing business as Infanta Sweater Mills, and Julius Berger.

The government's complaint charged the defendants with evading the law by devising a purchase and sales plan from which it appeared that their former home workers had lost the status of employees and had become "Independent manufacturers and producers."

2 N.B. Recounts May Go Liberal

SAINT JOHN, N. B., Nov. 22—(CP)—New Brunswick speculated today over the choice of successors in the provincial cabinet to three ministers defeated in Monday's general election while the possibility arose that the victorious Government's representation in the legislature might be increased by two.

J. B. Leger, returning officer in Restigouche County, indicated last night an official count next Monday of votes cast in Restigouche might give victory to two Liberal candidates reported defeated on the basis of unofficial returns election night.

According to Leger corrected returns gave majorities to Philibert Le Blanc and Samuel Mooers, Restigouche Liberals, over Conservatives Henry Diotte and David Stewart.

Confirmation of the returning officer's corrected count next Monday would increase the re-elected Government's following in the 48-seat legislature from 27 to 29 and leave the Conservatives with 19 seats.

Meanwhile the Government leader, Premier A. A. Dysart, faced the task of naming successors to Attorney-General J. B. McNair, Hon. E. J. Henneberry, president of the executive council and Hon. A. P. Patterson, Minister of Education, Federal and Municipal relations.

Attach No Blame Into Deaths Of 3 Children

NORWOOD, Nov. 22—(ENS). — The grim tale of how three little children lost their lives as a result of being trapped in a flaming house in Dummer township November 15 was unfolded here Tuesday afternoon before a coroner's jury. Deliberating for forty-five minutes, the five jurors returned a verdict of accidental death as a result of burns sustained when Hazel 12, William 6 and Hilda 4, children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lytle of Dummer, were badly burned following an explosion which occurred after Hazel had inadvertently thrown gasoline into the stove in their farm home. The blaze demolished the home and eventually claimed three lives.

Rider Is Added.

Adding a recommendation to their verdict, the jurors suggested that the laws regarding the handling of gasoline be more strictly enforced.

Mrs. Charles Lytle, mother of the dead children, was unable to attend the inquest due to shock. She was to have been the principal witness. Her eldest daughter, Ruby, aged 16, who was with her mother when the rescue was effected, took the stand as main witness at the investigation and related the gruesome story immediately surrounding the tragedy. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., of Peterborough, questioned the witnesses.

Ruby Lytle told the jurors that she and her mother had left their home about 9 o'clock in the morning to clean up a hunter's lodge 200 yards from their home and that four children had been left alone in the house. About 12.30, they saw smoke

Attaining 166 per cent of its $15,000 objective, Peterborough has responded with approximately $25,000 to the first appeal of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The actual amount reported in subscriptions last night was $24,294, with other prospective returns that are expected to swell the city's contribution to the round numbered total of $25,000.

The local campaign was concluded last night on a high note of elation at dinner in the Y.M.C.A. at which the entire corps of canvassers were guests of the Canadian General Electric Company, represented by Carl A. Salmonsen.

The three "front line" divisions turned in a total of $10,135. Three eighteen teams in three groups led by captains with divisional majors.

John A. Dewart's companies reported $3,127; John A. McKone's, $3,933, and J. G. Wharry's division, $3,075.

Torontonian Empire Booster Wins English Tory Seat

CHESTER, England, Nov. 22—(CP Cable). — W. Garfield Weston of Toronto to-day was returned by acclamation to the House of Commons as Conservative member for Macclesfield.

His election unopposed, to succeed J. R. Remer, Conservative, who retired, was made possible by the political truce among the various parties for the duration of the war. Under this plan vacancies are filled by the party previously holding the seat.

Last summer, enclosed by the oak panelling of his big music room, an active young man paused in his energetic harmonica accompaniment of a lusty barber shop chorus. And for a while the quiet rustle of the Thames at the end of the long avenue of trees on his Marlow, Buckinghamshire estate could be heard.

"This is what the Old Country needs—some good, fresh pep from the Dominions," he laughed, and then seriously, "I'm a great believer, you know, in bringing the Empire closer together. That's the only way we'll have real understanding and prosperity."

Once more he sounded the key and once more the usual dignified stillness of the Thames-side echoed with deep Canadian voices singing a popular ballad.

It was Garfield Weston's final salute to his Canadian guests—the Toronto Argonaut eight, brought to England at his expense to race at the Henley Royal Regatta and also, as he put it, "to help bring about that closer understanding I'm always talking about."

Also huddled around the harmonica-playing host was a smattering of Australian oarsmen, and watching the performance was a more starchy group of English men who, nonetheless, seemed to be enjoying the show. The group was made up of the Canadian

We Can Wait, No Dissension In Allied Ranks Says Hore Belisha As Men Pour To France

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP Cable). —It is a war of endurance, with time on the side of the Allies, Leslie Hore-Belisha, Secretary for War, told the House of Commons when reporting on the general military situation to-day.

"Every day that passes finds us stronger," the War Minister declared. "On the economy of the enemy the passage of time has not the same effect. To win, he would have to break through the Allied defences. An assault upon these is awaited with confidence by the French Supreme Command (General Gamelin).

"On our side we can afford to choose our opportunity. There is no dissension in our ranks. There are no conflicting councils. Our strategy is predetermined and so is the issue in this struggle."

Britain is sending thousands of men to France each week to reinforce the original British expeditionary force of 158,000 officers and men. Nearly 1,000,000 men are under intensive training in Britain.

Manpower is still a decisive factor in this war, Mr. Hore-Belisha said, because whereas Germany has to defend 200 miles of frontier, Britain and France must envisage the possibility of aggression by Germany along 900 miles from the North Sea to the Alps.

The War Minister, who returned earlier this week from an extended tour of the British and French sectors of the Western front, summed up his impressions in one sentence:

"Everywhere there is activity, everywhere there is mud."

He desribed the construction of defence works along the British sector and the preparations for any eventuallity along the 800-mile defensive line.

Thousands' More Weekly.

"We had 158,300 men in France when I last spoke to this House," he said. "Since then some thousands each week have followed them.

Belgium Takes Grave View Of Sea Blow To Neutrals

ANTWERP, Belgium Nov. 22—(AP).—The Belgian Government, a Foreign Office spokesman said to-day, takes a serious view of Prime Minister Chamberlain's announcement that neutral ships will be halted and searched for German exports.

Stopping of neutral ships would raise Belgium shipping rates and living costs and reduce Antwerp traffic, this official said. Shippers, expressing concern over the announcement, said about one-third of Belgium's shipping trade is in German goods.

No explanation was given, but the step followed announcement by Great Britain yesterday that German export cargoes on neutral vessels were subject to seizure on the high seas.

The ship owners met to consider the current hazards to shipping, including danger from mines.

The Holland-America liner Rotterdam left Rotterdam early today for New York before the rule was enforced. Doubt was expressed the Statendam would return from the United States until the situation is clarified.

Ten million tons of German exports were trans-shipped from Rotterdam and Amsterdam in the first nine months of 1939.

BERLIN, Nov. 22 — (AP). — Great Britain's plan to seize German exports is certain to call forth German counter measures, authorized sources asserted today. They declined, however, to disclose the form these might take.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons yesterday was described as "a clumsy attempt to give the cloak of morality to a new form of piracy whereby neutral shipping will be endangered and vital neutral interests hit."

COBOURG, Nov. 22.—The Road Commission and the work on the village road in Warkworth came in for a lively discussion in the closing minutes of yesterday's session of Northumberland and Durham counties with Reeve Charlie Cummiskey of Manvers township, Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy, Warden Reid, Deputy-Reeve W. Smith of Murray and the roads superintendent as the main participants. An eleventh hour participant was Charles Poynton of the Highways Department who interjected the explanation that "shilly-shallying of the road commission" was at the bottom of it. The argument started with the innocent-appearing question of Reeve Mallory as to whether or not the road commission had a report at this session.

Reeve Cummiskey replied that the only report was that handed to the clerk in which the commission recommended that all matters relative to taking over of county roads be left to the 1940 commission due to the prevailing conditions arising out of the war.

"Of course if anyone wants to ask us any questions we will be glad to do what we can," offered Reeve Cummiskey.

Reeve Mallory commented that he had some questions.

"Reading between the lines I know what you are getting at," replied Reeve Cummiskey. "There was that piece in the Warkworth Journal criticising the commission. I'd like to tell those present here that I don't mind criticism when we are doing the work, but to get it all after all the work is done, as the Journal printed it, is not very fair."

Road a Disgrace.

"The work was not started when the article was written," insisted Reeve Mallory. "You all know what the road was like. The warden said himself that it was a disgrace to the counties."

"We told you at the June session that we couldn't guarantee anything until we knew what funds were available. We arranged to do what we could in the meantime," explained Reeve Cummiskey. "We had planned to cover it with a surface, paying half in 1939 and half in 1940, but the department said that we had to pay as we went and couldn't do next year's work now. Therefore we had to do the best we could. As far as that article in the Warkworth Journal was concerned it was dated October 5th and the work had been done before that date."

Deputy-Reeve W. A. Smith of Murray township, stated that the road was a disgrace and "unfit to drive a team of oxen over it."

The Warden observed that half the road was patched and that Reeve Mallory should be aware that there was no appropriation now for the work. It would have to be

Ontario Cheese To Get Call As Army Ration

TORONTO, Nov. 22 — (CP). — Canadian dairymen may be called upon to supply Great Britain with butter, cheese and evaporated milk if the war is of long duration, J. F. Singleton, associate director of dairy products marketing for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, told the Ontario Creamery Association convention here to-day.

"These are products," he said, "which the Canadian dairying industry is most suitably organized to supply in volume. Quantities of these commodities which may be required are as yet unknown, but the British Ministry of Food has made inquiries concerning only cheese and evaporated milk.

"That inquiries have not as yet been made concerning butter is probably due to the fact that officials of the British Ministry of Food are aware that there is no important surplus of butter in Canada, and that maximum prices of butter in the United Kingdom and the Canadian market are not in such relationship to each other as will permit of export."

Demand for cheese, which will apparently be freely used in troop rations, probably will be more urgent than demand for butter as there is no similar substitute for cheese as margarine provides for butter.

But if hostilities are prolonged, it is possible and indeed probable that increased quantities of all three commodities, namely butter, cheese and evaporated milk, may be required from Canada.

services may be called upon again. Recalling a similar appeal in the Great War, Mr. Diplock said that in November, 1915, one year and two months after the Empire took up arms, Peterborough assumed an obligation to raise $12,000 for the Red Cross and fulfilled its undertaking.

Within the last two weeks and nine weeks after Canada's declaration of war against Germany, the city again rallied to the Red Cross with a campaign to raise $15,000. At that point Mr. Diplock turned from these recollections to the present actuality, calling for reports from the different group leaders. He made special mention of the fact that the $10,135 raised in the general canvass was contributed by 1,707 persons, the most significant fact indicating the broad lines of the response by the people of Peterborough.

Col. Ackerman informed the dinner gathering that his committee had collected their $5,662 from thirty-four factories and nine stores. This amount was received from employees and does not include the sums given by the heads of factories. His returns could not be completed up to yesterday, and outstanding reports are still to come from seven of the places on his list. In one factory approximately 500 cards have not been turned in.

Col. Ackerman said he expected the total collection by his committee to amount to around $6,000.

Evidence Of Efficiency

G. Harry Thompson congratulated the group managers and their teams on the efficiency and systematic way in which returns were made. He was campaign chairman during the last war and also for the city's war memorial fund to raise $32,000.

"Although we did good work on that other occasion, I must say that it was not so efficient as the way this present campaign was carried out," Mr. Thompson said.

Gordon Matthew's $7,897 from the special names committee was received with warm applause; and as a last note Mr. Diplock stated that although the campaign was officially closed he expected more money would be received within the next few days.

Appreciation Of Work

Judge Smoke, chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Peterborough branch of the Red Cross, expressed congratulation to all those who had assisted in the success of the funding campaign.

"I wish to say how much I and all the members of the Advisory Committee appreciate the effort you men have put forth," His Honor stated. "Several days ago I expressed the opinion that our campaign would go over the top and might reach $25,000. From what we have heard tonight I think that by the time all the contributions have been reported we shall probably have $25,000. I wish to thank Mr. Diplock, Mr. Shaw and Colonel Ackerman for their efforts, all the majors and captains and their fellow workers. They have all done well."

Ross Dobbin conveyed thanks to the young ladies who served supper, and made a witty appreciation of the "repast given by the Canadian Generous (General) Electric Company," and thanked George Broadley, the pianist, for his accompaniments in the community singing.

We Can Wait

"By interposing a delay of several weeks the Poles facilitated concentration of the French Army and during this time the British Army was also assembling in its positions. It would be a mistake to suppose that the resistance then offered by the Poles was the last stand to be made by valiant action in these hostilities. Already at this moment the Polish Army is being resuscitated on friendly soil and the cause which they are so resolute to vindicate attracts like a magnet their countrymen from all parts of the world."

Referring to the thousands of men who have followed the original expeditionary force of 158,000 men, Mr. Hore-Belisha added: "By spring of next year they will have been reinforced by no inconsiderable armaments. So will it continue until the cause is won.

"We could not have completed our formations in France without the assistance of the Territorial Army whose peacetime training has adequately justified the generous sacrifice of leisure it entailed.

Nearly Million Training.

"Territorial units reached France at a very much earlier stage and in greater numbers than in 1914. Nearly 1,000,000 men are under intensive training in Great Britain."

Existing defences of Great Britain from aggression by sea, land and air and the barrier set up by the British unity with France, has given Britain "five years' cover to our preparations," he added.

The sector of the front at present allotted to the British army has been provided in advance with field works "and the task which fell to our soldiers on arrival was to add and improve upon these," he said.

"This is a fortress war. Everywhere there is activity and everywhere there is mud. Organisation of almost inconceivably great dimensions has been established, a world within a world."

The War Secretary announced that replacement bases have been established in France for the British army, that new engines will be sent from Great Britain and that permanent railway lines will be laid out.

"But it is still a question of vehicles, vehicles and more vehicles," he said. "We have already sent to France over 1,000 tons of spare parts and accessories."

Concerning home defences, he said:

"Our anti-aircraft coast defences remain continually manned by personnel whose conditions of service in many cases are as hard and more lonely than those in France and whose duty is as important. We have taken, besides the militia classes called up, over 85,000 voluntary recruits since the war began."

He went on to pay tribute to the women's auxiliaries and added: "those in munition factories are doing equally valuable work, for on them depends the speed with which additional contingents can participate in the war theatre.

"It is a war of endurance, a quality for which the British people is renowned."

7 German Planes Bagged

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, Nov 22—(AP) — British and French fighter planes swept the skies clear of German reconnaissance raiders today, shooting down seven. An eighth enemy machine was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

In the day's fighting the French lost two fighters, the British none.

Some German fliers were made prisoners.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.—(CP-Havas) —A German plane crashed on Belgian soil today during an aerial fight involving German, French and British planes.

The German plane, damaged in the fight, managed to get over the border in the vicinty of Turnout. It was riddled with bullets and three of its four occupants evidently were killed.

The pilot landed by parachute and was captured. The plane crashed.

Britain had transformed itself almost overnight from a peaceful nation to a powerful war machine, not because of dictation "by a despot from a castle" but because of the voluntary determination of a democratic people.

In France Mr. Crerar said he found the same quiet determination and the same complete mobilization in which all do their bit.

Strength of the Maginot Line had not been exaggerated. Built at a tremendous cost and with great vision and foresight by the French people, it stood a virtually impassable barrier to the invader.

In France there was "no wild enthusiasm — no military swashbuckling," but a grim determination that recurring German threats to European peace must be ended forever.

Missing Girl

Ross Kimball, 19, of North Monaghan is being held by police in connection with the affair.

According to the police report Kimball is the youth who took the girl for a ride in a car on the night she disappeared.

He said afterward that he had let her out of the automobile near her home and had not seen her since. The authorities believe however that he took the girl to his home and kept her hid in a barn there for several weeks after which she was taken to Campbellford where she succeeded in getting a job in a beauty parlor.

Hurriedly Swallowed Tablets

This morning Kimball was rounded up by the police and accompanied them to Campbellford. When they found the girl and told her that she would have to accompany them to Peterborough she asked permission to gather up some clothes and it was after she had entered her room that she was seen to hurriedly swallow the tablets.

Prompt medical attention soon had her out of danger and she was brought to Peterborough. The police took no chances, however, stopping at Havelock to allow Dr. Holdcroft to examine the girl and then radioing the police station to have a doctor ready here when the party reached the Children's Aid Society shelter at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. R. F. Nott was on hand and reported her as in no danger.

"It's not a usual sight to see a landlord in this expensive part of the country playing a mouth-organ especially when the house is full of television sets, player pianos and gramophones, and especially when the landlord is actively interested in a bakery and food supply business which has 38 plants in Britain alone, and which employs 32,00 workers in Canada, Britain, and the United States.

But Englishmen have grown accustomed to their Canadian neighbor and his hearty Canadian ways. In fact they like it.

Now Garfield Weston at 41 has carried his Dominion "pep" injections a step farther by entering the Mother of Parliaments representing the Macclesfield Division, heretofore most staid of Tory strongholds. And his predecessor, J. R. Remer, retired through ill-health after 21 years, predicted at the National Conservative convention which selected Weston that the Canadian "is destined to take up a great position in the councils of state."

Asked why he was taking on an extra worry like politics, Weston declared: "When you have a large family you have to do something about it." He has eight children ranging down from 16.

A sapper in the Canadian Expeditionary Force at 18 he told his constituents his bitter disappointment at "the peace we have lost" and how proud he was of Canada's response to the Commonwealth war effort. He also told them he wants a share in solving the problems of the next peace and hopes to contribute, as a business man, to question of unemployment and business stability which are bound to rise after the war.

Weston, who only invaded the British business field a few years ago, has already had a share in helping unemployment by establishing plants in the "distressed areas." In this scheme he has had the close collaboration of Viscount Nuffield, a frequent visitor at his Marlow home.

Canada Turns Out Speedy Bomb Craft

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)— New equipment for the Royal Canadian Air Force, a fast, twin-engined reconnaissance bomber, has just been put through its paces at Rockcliffe Air Station, near here. The machine, a British-designed Bristol Bolingbroke built by Fairchild Aircraft, Ltd., at Longueil, Que., has been accepted by the air force, and seventeen others are to follow.

The Bolingbroke which streaked across Rockcliffe field at 300 miles an hour is a Canadian version of the Bristol Blenheim, which has the top performance of all twin-engined Royal Air Force types. Weighting a little more than six tons when fully loaded, this sturdy ship can carry a half-ton of bombs with a range of 1,000 miles at a steady 220 mile an hour.

The Blenheims flew from England in the first week of the war to take part in a damaging raid on Wilhelmshaven, German North Sea naval base.

Fighter or Bomber.

Their speed and manoeuvrability make them formidable as fighters or bombers, and their long-range flights over enemy territory. Nominally bombers, these machines are being used by the British on the West Front now as trench strafers and dive bombers.

Normally they have one machine gun firing forward and aimed by the pilot, and a second gun pointing to the rear and manned by a gunner in a glass-enclosed turret which is revolved by hydraulic power. Lately, however, extra machine guns have been placed in

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22 — (CP). — In featureless trade, wheat futures closed around the previous closing levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. The close was ¼ to ⅝ lower with November at 70¼, December 70⅛, May 75, and July 76⅝ cents.

It was a nexceptionally dull day with only odd lot sales during the morning. Some export trade was reported, but it was not believed heavy.

In the Winnipeg cash wheat pit, trade was again listless.

Mills offered excellent support for oats i nthe coarse grain market, but there was little demand for barley, rye or flax.

Great Crowd Attends Funeral Of Beloved Physician

"The attendance here today is a tribute to Dr. McPherson far more eloquent than any words could be," said Rev. Dr. E. W. Young in his address in St. Andrew's Church Tuesday afternoon during the funeral service for the beloved physician and citizen whose death has brought grief to the community.

The church was filled to the doors by friends of Dr. McPherson, a representative gathering that was a cross-section of the citizenship of Peterborough. Gathered there to take farewell of one they had learned to love were business men and professional men, members of the city council and the Board of Education, Rotarians, Masons, gray-haired athletes who had battled alongside Dr. McPherson in many a hard-fought game, comrades of the Great War and of militia service at home, women who remembered with tear-dimmed eyes the family doctor who had brought aid in times of illness and a sense of security in moments of fear and anxiety.

Members of the medical profession attended almost to a man and floral tributes from organizations and individuals brought a colorful testimony to the regard and affection in which Dr. McPherson was held.

The service was brief, simple and impressive, conducted as it was by Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, the pastor of Dr. McPherson's church, assisted by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, a neighbor, as he said, for more than a dozen years of the man to whom final honors were being paid by a mourning community.

After the opening prayer and hymn, in which the choir of St. Andrew's assisted, Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe read the scripture lesson and then paid a personal tribute to the memory of Dr. McPherson.

A Neighbor's Tribute

"Some people like to talk about their neighbors," he said. "I like to talk about mine, but in a different way because they are such good neighbors. Among them was Dr. McPherson, a good neighbor, tried and true for more than a dozen years, a next-door neighbor. It was given to me to converse with him on all manner of things because his interests were varied, and the greatest matter of all, the matter of his own personal religion had come up more frequently in recent months."

Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe said that in conversation with a woman whose family doctor Dr. McPherson had been over a long period of time she had said: "He was the best doctor in the city and we all loved him." "Other doctors," said the speaker, "will understand that and rejoice in it, too."

He had heard, also, from the lips of a member of the medical fraternity things that were good for the soul to hear about the friend who had gone.

Rev. Mr. Sutcliffe said that Dr. McPherson was a good doctor and a good man and added that that was perhaps the finest tribute that could be paid for there was nothing as noble and high as goodness. He was a devoted husband and a noble father, the speaker said.

Dr. Young's Address

In his address Rev. Dr. Young spoke from the text, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints" as found in the 15th verse of the 116th Psalm. "Most of us shrink from death," he said, "we see the vacant place, the loss in the family, the lack of a public servant whereas the psalmist saw the open door into a new life."

Of Dr. McPherson the speaker said that he had borne an untarnished name throughout his life, and the attendance at the service was a tribute far more eloquent than any words could be. He recalled Dr. McPherson as an athlete in his younger days, "one who always played the game and came out the soul of honor," as the family doctor beloved by the people for his cheerful manner, the marvellous contribution he had made in the sphere of public health. "We think of him today, too," said the speaker, "as a friend of children. All children loved him. We think of him also as a soldier who heard the call of his King and Country and went forward to give his services. Soldiers liked him because of his ready wit and gay humor."

Dr. Young added that to have known Dr. McPherson at his best was to have known him in his home and he paid a tribute to the home life of the physician whose memory was being honored. He stressed the fact that while Dr. McPherson had a ready wit there was no sting to it. "It never hurt because behind it was a heart of love."

"A full life has been cut off," said Dr. Young, in pointing out that the death of Dr. McPherson was a challenge to the young men of the community. "Every city needs men like him," he added, and urged his younger hearers to resolve to be better men and to serve the community when called upon.

The service ended with a hymn and the playing of the Dead March on the organ by R. B. Harle, organist of St. Andrew's.

Then the long motor cortege moved off to Little Lake Cemetery where all that was mortal of a most spected citizen was laid to rest. The service at the graveside was conducted by Rev. Dr. Young.

The honorary pall-bearers were: Dr. Norman Buchanan, Harold A. Morrow, Ald. R. M. Glover, Lieut.-Col. Charles H. Ackerman, W. J. Thompson, Lieut.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, Dr Andrew Scott, London, Lieut.-Col. Frank Bradburn, M.C., Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, F. M. Dela Fosse, Dr. S. Y. Walsh, Dr. C. Raymore Scott, Thomas H. Hooper, J. K. Hughes, Dr. H. M. Yelland, Dr. J. A. Morgan, John Comstock, J. S. McLean, Toronto.

The active bearers were: Keith G. Lech, Claud H. Rogers, Fred Collins, George A. Macdonald, Chicago, Mayor James Hamilton, and Fred Hills.

Among the floral tributes from organizations a partial list includes wreaths from the Peterborough Rotary Club, the Sisters of St. Joseph, The Quaker Oats Company, the Peterborough Hockey Club, the Peterborough Softball Association, the Peterborough Rangers, the Teachers' Institute, Rogers Majestic, Toronto, the Corinthian Chapter A.F. and A.M., and Delta Upsilon fraternity, Toronto.

"I serve" is the motto of the juniors, and the newly-formed organization, which received its charter on Saturday, is to be known as "The Florence Nightingale Junior Red Cross Society." To help children in need in other lands is an objective, and the fact is noted that while the United States leads the world in its junior Red Cross membership, the second largest in numbers, at least prior to the war, was Czecho-Slovakia.

Crokinole Party

Nine tables were in use for play at the progressive crokinole party, sponsored by the Young People's Union, and held in the basement of St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening, games, contests, and music being other features of the enjoyable occasion.

Prize winners were Ruth Richards, for the ladies, Dorothy Sisco taking the consolation; Ken and Jack Kidd were tied for the gentlemen's highest score, and draw giving the latter the advantage; Tom Hard got the consolation.

Over $6 was cleared, and the serving of candy brought to a close a successful and happy party.

Ultra-Violet Light Guards Baby Ward

TORONTO, Nov. 22 (CP)—Sheets of germicial ultra-violet light, instead of doors, now guard six cubicles in the new infants' ward of the Hospital For Sick Children. Germs are killed if they try to break through the light barrier.

Other germicidal lights under reflectors bathe the little rooms within the ward and kill off the germs, Dr. E. Chant Robertson, research fellow in the department of pediatrics, told the Toronto section of the Illuminating Engineering Society last night.

Preliminary experiments proved that bacteria could be killed off 99.8 per cent almost immediately in these cubicles by germicidal ultra-violet lamps.

Dr. Robertson related that it had been found in United States experimental centres that a beam of this germicidal light thrown across a hospital corridor prevented chicken-pox germs from passing the light barrier, to infect other wards. Brain surgeons always use the germicidal lamps over the wound while they are operating, Dr. Robertson said.

New Horror At Sea

People who know little of the sea and still less of warfare at sea are not familiar with mines and the regulations adopted for their use. Floating mines are now at large, and vessels of neutral countries as well as those of belligerents are running into them, being blown up and sinking quickly.

An expert on such matters writing under a Washington date line explains that the use of mines is all covered by The Hague conventions of 1909, and all sea-going nations subscribed to them — including Germany.

The Hague regulations provide for the use of these floating mines, and they also place rigid restrictions. They are for the purpose of allowing a vessel an opportunity to escape when attacked. They can be thrown overboard, but they must be so made that within one hour they shall sink or become useless. The same ruling applies to a torpedo. It must be so fitted that it becomes useless and harmless after completing its run without hitting anything.

The mines which have been set adrift to find their way into neutral channels of shipping are regarded as a menace for years to come. They may drift with wind and tide and wander for years until some ship comes in contact with them. Then they will explode.

The Washington writer notes that Germany has already claimed she has nothing to do with this business, but his conclusion is it will not be long before some British mine sweeper pulls into shore with a specimen—and it will be of German origin.

It's An Old Problem

A young man of 21 years was sentenced in court at Peterborough to three years in penitentiary, the charge being that he had made and had in his possession a matrix or mold such as is used for the making of spurious money. In June of last year he was released from penitentiary, the previous sentence having come from his part in the armed robbery of a store.

The point was raised by counsel for the accused that no bogus money had been made, and no proof had been submitted of intention to do so. The accused, it was intimated, had learned about the process during the time he was serving his first sentence at the penitentiary, and if that is correct then it is further evidence that the work of reformation does not flourish within prison walls.

Judge Smoke, in passing sentence, reminded the prisoner that he was still a young man; he had dealt leniently with him on the first occasion, and he would not impose the maximum sentence on this offence. His Honor also expressed the hope that upon completion of his term he might decide to try and make something out of himself. We have not the least doubt that the wish was spoken with sincerity. A good many times the presiding judge must have the same sort of feeling when he sees a young man of 21 going to prison — especially for the second time.

If one were inclined to think seriously of the matter he would give utterance to the same sort of desire, but in doing so he would also know that the records indicate that the business of "making something out of himself" is hard for one who has served two terms in prison. During his first term he apparently was in the company of those who were serving time for making counterfeit money; the process and the materials needed were probably fully discussed. The "makings" of the second offence were imparted to him while he was paying the price for his first misadventure.

It is readily possible to recall the statement made by a former warden of the penitentiary who claimed the sympathetic general public had much to say about the treatment of men in the prison, but the man who needed sympathy and assistance was the one who was leaving the institution and going back into the world with the mark of an ex-convict registered against him. And that claim is true as can be. The outside world is suspicious of him; he finds it hard even to the point of impossible to secure employment, and without employment he cannot make an honest living.

Wants To Taste Porcupine

Writing in the St. Thomas Times-Journal "Hank" tells of a friend who has eaten a number of strange dishes but longs for yet one more. Going over the list he mentioned venison and bear steaks, racoon, groundhog and muskrat, but he has not yet tried roast porcupine and he wants to. The St. Thomas writer concludes it is funny what some people will eat just to satisfy their curiosity or have something about which to talk afterward.

We have met a number of Indians in our district, and they have their likes and dislikes the same as other people. If one were to ask them to place in order their preference among the lesser animals they would say—porcupine, muskrat and groundhog.

When the season for trapping the muskrat arrives they will save sections of the animal after removing the hide, preserving them in brine for future days. Chief Dan Whetung of Curve Lake reserve delights to tell of times when he has fed American tourists on muskrat stew without having labelled the dish in advance. They passed back for more.

The Indian is right when he claims the porcupine, muskrat and groundhog are all clean; they are exclusively vegetarian in their diet, and the "muskrat" seems to have been misnamed because in habit he is more like a small edition of the beaver. So if the man in St. Thomas has tried groundhog and muskrat he need not fear the time when he may taste a bit of porcupine. It stands at the top of the list. (At least our Indian friends say so).

Should Save Money!

Premier Hepburn announced in Toronto he was going to put his foot down on relief for those who work part-time for the city. He is reported as saying: "A man is lucky these days to make $940 a year and he should be able to save."

Taking 52 weeks in the year such a man would have $18 per week, and out of that he should be able to keep up a home in Toronto and save some money.

We have known a number of young men who have gone to Toronto, and they have never made much money at the start. Their experience is that by the time they pay for their room and meals, laundry, mending, street car fare and so on, and keep themselves clothed they spend about $15 per week. And they have not been wasting much cash either.

Toronto is not an inexpensive place in which to live; in fact no city comes within that classification. A married man with family responsibilites on $18 per week in Toronto would have a continuous struggle, and telling such a person that he is lucky and should be able to have money is getting dangerously close to the nonsense class.

There Is Ample Proof

There is probably no definite purpose in proving something which has already been been made quite clear, but in this instance the importance of the incident justifies repetition of the proof — that Hitler did not believe there would be war.

Finjiro Fusiwara, a Japanese industrialist, had been invited to the Nuremberg Nazi rally. He landed in Bremen when the crisis was at its height and intended to go to Stockholm. At that time he received a personal note from Hitler asking him to remain in Germany because there would be no war. The man from Japan apparently had his own ideas of the situation and decided to leave the country at once. His comment is just this: "There is no doubt that Hitler believed he could bluff Chamberlain, and that is where Germany made her great blunder."

All evidence which we have seen points in that direction. When Hitler was part way through with his inroads on Poland he took time out to deliver his address in which he advanced the half-cracked plea that it would be a splendid time to discuss European peace. All that would have been necessary was to have forgotten what had taken place in Poland, leave him free to pocket the loot and do nothing about it. Hitler must have believed in his own ability to conclude such a deal otherwise he would not have been foolish enough to place such a suggestion before the world.

Some of the best writers, those who are well informed, agree that is what has held up the war. Hitler did not believe there was going to be one, and plans for the direction and method had not been formulated. His own desire was that an assault be made against the Maginot Line, but he could not persuade his general staff of the possibility of success. That situation accounts for the silly things he has been saying since becaue he is undoubtedly hard pressed to explain to the people at home why it is that he has brought them into war.

We Must Meet It

Devon Francis, aviation editor of the Associated Press, paid a short visit to Canada, and on his return said the chief concern of Canadians is that tourists from United States might come to look upon this country as a place at war and therefore refuse to come north for their vacation.

Mr. Francis found nothing at all which would inconvenience a tourist. He found there were many young men receiving training for military service, but their movements and location were kept secret. He found too that thousands were in training for air service, and that the number would increase until Canada was the centre of such activity for the British Empire.

But the visitor found nothing at all which would cause either trouble or inconvenience to a tourist from United States. Not a thing, and he has done a good service to this country by saying so in print.

The method by which U.S. forces interested in tourist travel in their own land operate is at best shady. They do not come out in the open with the statement that Canada is a nation at war and therefore not a safe place to visit. Rather do they seek to impress upon their people that United States is the desirable place to see during the war. They stress that fact and by so doing leave the impression wide open that it is better not to venture into Canada.

There have been reports brought back telling of the stories which are freely circulated in United States. They are to the effect that it is dangerous to come to Canada. People coming here would be in the same position as those caught in any other land during war; they might have trouble enough getting home again and therefore it is not wise to take the risk. These claims are not advanced openly, but they are deftly put into circulation. They are difficult to deny before they are not formally presented where they can be openly attacked or denied.

This country needs tourist business from United States and our district is one which would be adversely affected if the feeling of fear were sufficiently spread in United States to cause the people there to refuse to cross the international border and head up in the general direction of our welcome and excellent vacation lands. Our governments should not hesitate to spend money to present our case plainly to the people across the line. We cannot afford to stand aside and see our tourist trade placed in jeopardy.

Oshawa is going to scrap its street cars and use buses. Street cars there have operated north and south and the buses will go east and west as well. Oshawa is getting along and the next move will be to incorporate the place as a town.

Lad of 15 was sent from Chatham to the Reformatory as his previous record indicated there was no other place where he could be sent. If he is regarded as somewhat hopeless now what will he be after associating with the crowd he will encounter in Reformatory?

New Brunswick election was one of those pleasant affairs which pleased all. The Liberals were returned to power, so they were pleased. The Conservatives gained a number of seats so they are happy. There are few such satisfactory results in these hectic days.

STRATEGY

¶ When Uncle Rufus comes to town, the relatives all knuckle down, he visits up the street; he's full of years and has the gout, and finds it hard to get about, he runs them off their feet.

¶ They all go down to meet the train, and ask if he is much in pain, and if he's warm enough; and then they scatter here and there, work singly or will make a pair, to carry all his stuff.

¶ And when it's time to go to bed, they lay their planning well ahead, they always warm the sheet; and then before that job is through, hot bottles they'll place one or two, just where he rests his feet.

¶ And when it comes to breakfast time, they bid dear Rufus rest his spine, they bolster up his head; a rest will do him so much good, they want to treat him like they should, and breakfast him in bed.

¶ As long as Uncle Rufus stays, they all unite to sing his praise, do errands by the score; they ask him what he'd like to eat, they plan for him some little treat, and romp toward the store.

¶ But Rufus is an awful grump, perhaps it's right to say a chump, he'd give most folk the itch; he hollers that they jump and go, I guess they do it 'cause they know—that he is old and rich.

Students Have Topic Now For Their Letters

SEVERAL DAYS AGO Professor Adair of McGill University addressed members of the Montreal Rotary Club, and during his discourse he became severely critical of British foreign policy and took occasion to refer to the stupidity of Premier Chamberlain.

The Montreal Star did not like it and neither did the Montreal Gazette. Editorial pens swung into action and Professor Adair was made the target for some rather outspoken writing.

The aftermath has been many student letters appearing in Montreal papers, among them being one from McGill Law Undergraduates Society. It was published in the Montreal Star. Here it is:

PROFESSOR ADAIR'S SPEECH

McGill University,
November 16, 1939.

The Editor,
The Montreal Star,
Montreal.

Dear Sir,—We are sure many people must be deeply concerned about the attitude towards Professor Adair's speech to the Montreal Rotary Club, taken in their editorial columns yesterday by two of our most important Montreal papers. The question they have raised is no less than that of the continued existence of individual liberty — the freedom which we are supposed to have entered this war to defend.

"Vicious" is the only word that seems suitable to describe the editorials in yesterday's "Star" and "Gazette" on this matter. They illustrate a tendency which becomes daily more noticeable, a tendency that seems about to destroy the very foundation of democracy in this country. Surely a man whose knowledge of the historical method must be regarded as adequate, should be allowed to draw his own conclusions from contemporary events. Everyone knows that Poland was in no sense a democracy; that her treatment of minorities left much to be desired; and the fact that her weaknesses greatly out-balanced her strength ought to be obvious from the success of Hitler's "lightning" war. The "stupidity" of Chamberlain may not be so obvious; but the wisdom of his foreign policy, and that of Baldwin before him, is certainly a legitimate question for discussion and one concerning which many divergent views are held.

Loyalty ought not to be blind; our leaders are not, or until war broke out were not, Fuehrers. They appear to tend that way, however. We are ostensibly fighting a war for the preservation of freedom; if, in order to be successful in that effort, it has become necessary to suspend the ordinary democratic rights of free speech, free press and academic freedom, then, logically, the war is not a just one, and should be stopped at once. Satan cannot cast out Satan; if we adopt the tactics of our enemies, we give them the real victory.

"The Star" and "The Gazette" should be reminded that loyalty is not incompatible with criticism, for it is by criticism that our institutions exist. The policy of both these papers lately seems to be aimed toward a deliberate fanning of the flames of war-hysteria — and what good purpose that serves it is difficult to see.

Professor Adair might have told the Rotarians that history abundantly shows that, when freedom is once lost, it is very difficult and sometimes impossible to regain it. If we have any war aim, it ought to be, as in 1914-18, to "make the world safe for democracy." It is hard to see how such an aim can be achieved unless democracy is safe-guarded here and now, on the principle that "charity begins at home."

(Signed) RUSTON LAMB.

By authority of a Resolution moved and passed by the McGill Law Undergraduates Society at a meeting held on Thursday, November 16th, at McGill University.

THE EDITOR EXPLAINS

At the end of this letter there appeared a note from the editor of the paper in which a little explaining was done, and there is also a sting in the tail which should not be missed.

(Note.—On Friday last The Montreal Daily Star received the above letter. Curiously enough, on Friday last also the McGill Daily contained a copy of the same letter together with a fierce attack on the Montreal Gazette for not having published it! The Montreal Star's editorial page for Saturday was made up at the time the letter was received. It is not our custom to publish letters that have already appeared in any other paper, but we make an exception in this particular instance in order to show to what lengths of misrepresentation hot-headed youth can go.—Ed., Star.)

JOBS TO TORIES

We have heard complaint after complaint in Kingston that the majority of the war appointments made in this district have gone to Conservatives, also that the Conservatives are getting a goodly share of local war orders. We are informed that this matter was brought to the attention of the sitting member, the Hon. Norman Rogers, and that in defiance of his own executive and probably at the risk of endangering his political future in this city, he stated boldly that he was going to live up to the Government's declaration of no patronage and he was willing to let the chips fall where they may.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

• And They Pay Him $6,000 A Year

MAY we be excused for asking just why Alberta should continue to pay L. D. Byrne $6,000 a year for such tripe as this:

"It is now recognized that the only persons who won the last war were the international banking houses. Everybody else lost. International finance alone emerged from the struggle immeasurably more powerful than it was. This power was acquired through the staggering debt structure which it was able to build up under the stress of war."

Mr. Byrne, Alberta's $6,000 a year imported Social Credit adviser, is quoted in The Ottawa Citizen of October 18 as making the above statement.

Mr. Byrne who, was presume, was living in the Old Country during the last war, should know that, had Kaiser Bill and the Huns won, then there would have been no namby-pamby Versailles Treaty imposed by Berlin; he knows that the Germans would have moved into Britain and would have made the British people their slaves, just as Hitler has made slaves of the Czechs and the Austrians during the past two years. Mr. Byrne, suggests the Lethbridge Herald, would not now be talking about the "international bankers" had the Germans won the last war in 1918; he would probably be existing in a Nazi internment camp.

If Mr. Byrne would really like to know who is the loser in a war, he might look at Poland today. Poland is quite satisfied that the war in that country wasn't won by the "international bankers."

The Canadian people these days are fighting a war. Perhaps the full impact of the war has not come home to them as yet as it has come home to the British people who carry their gas masks wherever they go. But the Canadian people are determined that they are going to do their share to keep the British Empire from becoming the vassal state of Hitler and his Nazis, and in consequence they do not appreciate one of their servants—Mr. Byrne at $6,000 a year salary—telling them they are the dupes of the "international bankers." We doubt if the Canadian people appreciate Mr. Byrne's own particular idea of a good recruiting speech. We are very much inclined to believe we could get along without that particular kind of effort to arouse Canada to do its part in the war.

The hokum that is being talked about the conscription of wealth—never yet explained by any Social Crediter—and the conscription of industry; the tripe that is being parroted about "international finance" bringing about the war in order to make big profits, must we continue to listen to and read this kind of thing when every day young men are reshaping their lives, offering to make the supreme sacrifice? Everyone knows that no one ever wins a war, not even the "international bankers" of Mr. Byrne's imagination; everyone knows that everyone loses a war, even the apparent winner. Wealth is based upon goods and services. When goods are blown away wholesale in war, there can be no possible profit in the transaction.

Mr. Aberhart would please Albertans by sending Mr. Byrne to follow Mr. Powell back to the Old Country, where he might find a worth-while job helping his compatriots to win the war against Hitlerism.

• Still Puzzled By The Inaction

THE German military machine knows the strength of the Maginot Line and is no more anxious than the French to risk losses which might be disastrous in an endeavor to break through a well nigh impregnable fortress. It is for this reason that the Germans have been considering invading France as in the last war through Belgium.

As for the invasion by air of Britain one can only surmise why the delay. It can be dismissed that it is due to softness of heart. Any nation which has treated Poland as has Germany is in no danger of being suddenly seized with any qualms of conscience.

The most sensible explanation which has been advanced is that Germany has discovered that it is not safe to send her bombing planes to Britain unaccompanied by fighting pursuit planes. The bombing planes have the cruising power, but they are awkward to manoeuvre and have no means of fighting back.

The pursuit fighting planes, on the other hand, cannot carry enough gasoline to fly from Germany to London and back. Of the bombing planes which have visited England and Scotland a large porportion have been lost. This accounts for the talk of Germany invading Holland. If Germany controlled the coastline the flying distance would be cut down 300 miles and invasion of Britain would be feasible.

In the meantime, says London Free Press, the delay in Germany's attack has been precious hours for France and Britain. It has given time to strengthen their defences and to consolidate their positions. It has been a gift from the gods. Every hour which passes increases the superiority of the Allied position. The resources of the Empire are being mobilized in order to meet the blow when it comes. And come it will unless Germany breaks down sooner than one can hope. After all the blustering talk of Hitler and his lieutenants it is hard to believe that the Nazis will surrender without a last desperate struggle.

TOO MUCH GOSSIP

SOME NEWSPAPERS are full of querulous nonsense on these lines: "Why aren't we doing something? Why didn't we save Poland, bomb Krupps, attack the Siegfried Line?" and so on. And this in spite of the fact that the war is only a few weeks old! No doubt the Government should have taken the public more into their confidence. Titbits saved up for the prime minister's Wednesday statements are a poor substitute for a regular flow of news. But that is no excuse for giving space to ignorant, ill-informed gossip and speculation.—London Daily Express.

EXIT STARAGE

NAME SUCCCESSORS

Hitler has nominated Goering as his successor and that seems to be quite a Nazi idea, for Kritzy Kuhn, leader of the German - American Bund, across the line, who is having quite a spot of trouble with the police, has named one Whilhelm Kunze as his successor as head of the Bund. In democratic associations, it is the members who elect their leaders.—Niagara Falls Review.

Tariff Looming Major Issue In U.S. Election

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 — (AP). The tariff promises to climb back upon the fence dividing the two major parties in the United States in the 1940 Presidential campaign and sit there among the important issues pretty much as it did for over a century before reciprocal trade agreements shoved it off. And just as of old, not all Democrats will agree with the Democratic stand; some Republicans will back away from the Republican position.

A dispute in Congress will intervene. The authority by which State Secretary Cordell Hull has been making trade agreements, such as those with Canada and Great Britain, expires next year. If the policy is to continue and new agreements are to be made with more foreign nations, a bill extending those powers must be enacted.

Some Democrats have argued that that best policy would be for the administration to allow this proposal to be set aside, along with taxes, until after the election, thereby helping to limit the field of dispute in the next campaign.

If this were done, the power to make new agreements would simply lapse. The agreements now in effect would continue. The issue could be raised in Congress again in 1941.

Yet, it is doubtful that Secretary Hull would allow his pet economic theory to be shut up in Congressional closet for a year. His affection for the pet would be one reason.

Fight Stirs Interest.

Morever, a good fight always enlivens interest in a man. It is not likely that anyone who has been spoken of highly as a Democratic presidential possibility would forget that. A running battle over trade agreements, in which the secretary would be depicted by his backers as a man contending for a modern way of tearing down international trade barriers and fostering friendship among nations, would not be calculated to do his chances any great harm.

Beyond this, the Republicans are anxious to air the issue. Some of the country's most powerful high pressure organizations, operating in both farm and industrial fields, are attacking the trade agreements policy.

A particularly sharp complaint comes from the Rocky Mountain states and from sections of the middle west where there is criticism in some quarters over the movement of Canadian cattle into the United States.

Springville Young People Hear Excellent Address On India

SPRINGVILLE, Nov. 22 (ENS).—A very helpful Young People's meeting was held in the United Church on Sunday evening with a splendid attendance. The service was in charge of the president, Miss Zetta Wilson. The worship service was in charge of Mrs. Everson, missionary convener, who was assisted by Duncan Seymour, who contributed a solo entitled "Have you ever felt discouraged?" Miss Pearl Davis read the Scripture lesson; Mrs. Eddie Kimball told the lesson story, giving a brief sketch of the early life of William Carey and of his experiences as a missionary in India. Prayer was offered by the minister. The remainder of the program was in charge of Mrs. E. Shaw, the associate missionary convener, and consisted of a solo, "Have you ever had a kindness shown?" by Bernard Preston; reading on "The Life and Work of Frances Willard." by Miss Eleanor Staples; the story of a little Indian girl named "Sunshine," by Miss Mina Dunford; an essay on "The fruits of Missionary Work in China," by Mrs. Shaw, and a very instructive blackboard talk on "The Untouchables of India" by Clairmont Morgan. Mr. Morgan presented a graphic picture of this unfortunate caste.

Congratulations are being extended to Miss Lois Windrim, who previous to her coming to Springville a few months ago, was organist in the Mount Pleasant United Church Sunday School. Miss Windrim underwent a serious operation about the time of her family's departure from Mount Pleasant. Her many friends in that Sunday School and congregation seized the opportunity during her recent visit to her old community to present Miss Windrim with a beautiful Bible and hymnary as an expression of their appreciation of her past services.

Training School.

A standard training school, consisting of two classes, one on "The Bible and Christian Education" which is being taught by Rev. W. E. Honey of Cavan and another on "The Growing Life," which is being taught by Rev. J. F. Everson, is being conducted in Springville United Church. Sessions are being held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 21, 22 and 23, and on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 28 and 29. Each session begins at 7.45 p.m., with a fifteen-minute worship service arranged by Melville H. Johnson, who is acting dean of the school.

Mr and Mrs. Harold Cathcart and family spent Sunday on a trip to Callander in appreciation of the birthday of Donald and Miss Dorothy.

Sidney Fairbairn, who has been suffering from an infected leg for the past several weeks, is slightly improved.

Congratulations are being extended to Mrs. John Bothwell, who recently observed her 87th birthday. The many friends of Mrs. Bothwell will be glad to learn that she is still enjoying fairly good health, and although unable to attend divine service as she once did she has not lost any of her interest in her beloved church. Mrs. Bothwell was born a few rods from her present home and has lived all her long and useful lifetime on the Eleventh Concession of Cavan. Joseph Madill, who lives just across the highway to the east and is widely known, is a brother.

Red Cross work is getting under way in this community. The ladies of the Springville congregation, under the direction of Miss Jessie Schaffer, met in the church basement on Monday evening and distributed materials for sewing and yarn for socks.

The Board of Church Managers, under the chairmanship of Harry Young, met in the basement of the church on Monday evening.

German Tanks Not Built For West Front

LONDON, Nov. 22—(C.P.)—Study of German equipment has convinced Allied Military Authorities that the German High Command never expected to wage war in the west, the military correspondent of the press association reported yesterday.

German tanks, according to these authorities, were designed solely for the "Blitzkrieg" in Poland, and are not adapted for an attack on the heavily fortified Maginot Line, he said. The German Tanks were built for speed, and are not armored to stand up under fire either from stationary batteries on the western front or from the heavily-armored, heavily-gunned allied tanks.

The German general staff, the press association correspondent said, apparently had relied on Adolf Hitler's diplomacy to avoid hostilities with the western powers and to limit fighting to Poland. The correspondent said it is extremely doubtful that Germany will be able to build more heavy tanks in large quantities.

Britain, he said, is daily increasing her production of a heavy tank reputed to be the most effective ever designed.

Educational Studies To Go On For Troops

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Young men of the naval, land and air forces of Canada will be able in a large measure to continue their educational studies even though on active service, it was announced Tuesday, at a special meeting of the directorate of the Educational Branch of The Canadian Legion War Services.

This is made possible by collaboration wtih the Canadian Association for adult education and with the support of the departments of Education of all nine Provinces, as well as the Universities and Municipal authorities in all parts of the Dominion.

Lieut.-Col. Wilfrid Bovey, chairman of the Education Branch, said that programs would be arranged locally wherever there are concentrations of troops and committees formed to carry them out.

"The method of instruction will be principally that of modern education, such as talks, discussions and alotted reading rather than mere lectures," he said.

Thinks War To Be Won On Economic Front

LONDON, Nov. 22—(CP).—Lieut.-Col. T. W. MacDowell of Montreal, who won the Victoria Cross in the first Great War, thinks the present struggle will be decided mainly on the economic front. But he warned "Nobody can tell what's going to happen."

In London on private business, he plans to return to Canada shortly. He told The Canadian Press he didn't know yet exactly what he would be doing in this war.

"But," he added quietly, "I'll find something to do."

Two daring exploits won him the V.C. First he captured 50 German prisoners and three machine-guns and later took 75 prisoners and two machine-guns.

Any attempt by either antagonist to break through on the western front would mean tremendous slaughter, he predicted. He recalled the huge losses suffered at Passchaendale and on the Somme in the last war when machine-guns mowed men down in thousands. With two gigantic defence systems like the Maginot and Siegfried lines gains in this war would be even more costly.

Army Hut Drive

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP).—Lieut.-Col. Claude Brown, president of the Knights of Columbus Canadian Army Huts, a chartered auxiliary war service, to-day announced the organization will conduct a campaign for funds from Dec. 3-11.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Suggestions the ships sunk off the east coast of England in the last few days were victims of magnetic mines give rise to speculation as to whether the terrible new weapon Adolf Hitler threatened to use against Great Britain is now in use.

Germany's intensified illegal mine-laying probably is designed to terrorize neutral shipping rather than effect an actual reduction in the amount of goods reaching British ports by sending ships to the bottom. In this respect it may have the effect of inducing other neutral countries to adopt in practice the cash-and-carry principle embodies in the amended United States Neutrality Act.

Seek To Frighten Neutrals Out Of British Waters

American ships by law are prevented from carrying goods to the United Kingdom. If the Germans can frighten other neutral countries into keeping their merchant ships out of British waters Great Britain will have to rely entirely on British merchant shipping to carry the goods required by the civilian population and the war industries.

The fact that British authorities will not be caught unprepared for such tactics is evidenced by British shipbuilding activity. For months past British shipyards have been working at capacity and since the outbreak of war the shipbuilding industry has continued to speed up construction.

Britain Is Prepared To Meet Threat

No country in the world is better prepared to meet such a threat than Great Britain because of its huge merchant fleet and its shipbuilding capacity. One of the measures which would probably be taken to repair any shortage caused by the withdrawal of neutral ships from the services entering British ports would be the renewal of British merchant ships operating in other parts of the world; in other words a more effective mobilization of the British merchant marine for service in and out of British ports.

Gen. Constantine Is Moved East

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP)—Major-General C. F. Constantine, District Officer Commanding Military District No. 3 at Kingston, has been appointed to command Military District No. 6 at Halifax, Defence Minister Rogers announced last night.

Brigadier H. E. Boak has been transferred from his appointment as District Officer Commanding Military District No. 6 and is to replace Major-General Constantine in Military District No. 3.

The Minister said that under existing circumstances it is considered desirable to have a general officer in command of the important military district at Halifax. The transfers are effective immediately.

The long and varied experience of Major-General Constantine "determined his appointment to the special duties for which he has now been specially selected," Mr. Rogers said.

He was Commander of Military District No. 7 at Saint John in 1930-31 and Commander at Halifax from 1931-32. He seved as Commandant of the Royal Military College at Kingston from 1925 to 1930 and has had an extended term as Adjutant-General of the Canadian Militia.

Brigadier Boak has held several senior staff appointments including Director of Military Training and staff duties at defence headquarters here from 1929-34. He was Commander of Military District No. 12 at Regina from 1935-38 when he was appointed to his Halifax post.

WITHOUT A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Each morning this telephone man climbs into his green truck and goes about his job of making telephones talk. Safety rides with him as he drives through city streets and over country highways.

Last year he, and other Bell Telephone men throughout Ontario and Quebec, drove 810 telephone cars and trucks more than 6,750,000 miles—the equivalent of 275 trips around the world—without a serious accident. There were a few scratched fenders to be sure . . . but over 700 regular Bell drivers received safe Driving Awards last year, and many of them have driven six or more consecutive years without an accident of any kind. Bell drivers have often been the means of saving life and helping the injured, for every one of the 810 vehicles carries a First Aid kit, and 95 per cent of all outside Plant workers are proficient First Aiders.

EVERY DOLLAR YOU GIVE WILL HELP SAVE LIVES, RELIEVE SUFFERING

The RED CROSS needs your help—Now!

DURING THE LAST WAR, the Canadian Red Cross raised in Canada 9 millions of dollars for the benefit of Canadian soldiers. The Canadian Red Cross contributed an additional 6 million dollars to the British Red Cross to assist in its great work. The Canadian Red Cross also sent to the front 347,000 bales of goods conservatively valued at 20 million dollars. The total contributions of the Canadian Red Cross in the last war amounted to approximately 35 millions in cash and goods.

Now the Canadian Red Cross has again swung into action. Faced with definite tasks which had to be undertaken at once, the Canadian Red Cross has already pledged itself to carry out the following undertakings:

1. To build and equip a 300-bed hospital for Canadian soldiers at Taplow, England. This is to be called Canadian Red Cross Hospital Number One. The cost of this undertaking is conservatively estimated at . . $250,000

2. To purchase wool, cloth and all types of materials for the immediate needs of Red Cross branches throughout the Dominion. For this purpose, the Canadian Red Cross has already borrowed from Canadian banks and has expended, or appropriated for immediate expenditure $408,000

3. To furnish all branches of the Red Cross in Canada with the wool and other materials they need for the next eight months (conservatively estimated at $150,000 a month) $1,200,000

4. To carry on the normal work of the Red Cross in Canada, to maintain the Red Cross outpost hospitals and nursing stations, to carry on the work of the Red Cross in frontier districts. During the last two years the cost of this work was $2,293,000. For the coming year the Red Cross will endeavour to keep the cost of this effort down to $950,000

These Four Items Total $2,808,000

Canadians are being asked to contribute $3,000,000 in this drive, which will leave but a small margin to provide for unexpected emergencies, to assist the allied Red Cross Societies with goods and money, and for other needs which are almost sure to arise.

Local Senior "B" Puck Prospects In Practise At Oshawa Look Like Best Team In Years

A stream-lined senior "B" squad in the O. H. A. is indicated by the Petes in their puck practices to date. The team gave promise at last night's drill in Oshawa of developing into the fastest-skating hockey aggregation to represent Peterborough in the Ontario Association since the senior championship days of 15 years ago.

It was only the third workout of the puck prospects this season, and there are some players requiring more conditioning, others needing some rough edges polished up, and the whole bunch requiring a lot of teamplay practice—but the promise is there of a fast, well-balanced team. They will workout again at the Motor City arena Friday and twice next week—later lining up home-and-home exhibition jousts with Oshawa Generals before their O. H. A. schedule commences.

There were 16 players on the party, last evening, several others being unable to attend—but planning to take in further drills. These included: Jim Ellis, Honey Tompkins, Earl McNabb, Les Burton and Dude Brady. Players present were: Ray Harding, Dick Ouimet, Frank Jopling, Art Heal, Bun Kingdon, Joe Blewett, Jack Jopling, Archie Weir, Don Crowe, Jack Gardner, Eddie Starr, Don Coughlin, Bob Parnell, J. Wade, Buster Whitton and D. Brown. Coach Frank Buckland and Manager Bill Jackson were also on hand as well as vice-president Wes Champ of the Hockey club, Hap Wilgar and Secretary Cliff Cadd.

Had a Game.

Following a preliminary warmup on the ice, the squad was split into two teams, with several subs on each side, and they played a brief game. On one side was Harding in goal, Gardner and Weir on defence, with J. Jopling, Kingdon and Blewett on the front line; the other gang included Bill Jackson in goal—in the absence of McNabb—F. Jopling and Crowe on defence, with Heal, Starr and Coughlin on the forward wall. The other players alternated from time to time.

Later on, the players made sorties in trios down the ice as hard as they could go, passing the puck and trying to get by a defence pair and fool the goalie. Every player was given plenty of chances to show his ability in this way as long as the practice hour permitted. They later staged another short scrimmage and wound up with fast skating around the big arena before taking to the showers.

Forwards Star.

One front line that stood out in this practice session, showing condition, plenty of speed and puck ability, was the Heal-Starr-Coughlin threesome. Blewett and Kingdon also showed up to fine advantage and would no doubt click in star fashion with Tompkins. Several of the defencemen indicated plenty of form at the blue line, with Drake Jopling giving promise of being a big help on the rear guard. Gardner was travelling fast, also, and checking well. Crowe and Weir turned in some neat checking, too. Buster Whitton, obviously on the ice for the first time this year, still showed flashes of what he can do when in shape, proving as tricky as ever. Jack Jopling, Ouimet, Parnell, Wade and Brown worked hard and made several neat rushes. And Ray Harding sparkled in goal and will, no doubt, have another big year between the posts.

All in all, the officials expressed satisfaction with the Petes' showing at this stage of the season. Given more practice, and cutting off a few of above list of players—and adding several who were not on hand—and the senior "B" squad should be faster and better-balanced than a year ago. Everyone of the forwards packs lots of speed already and will be even faster in actual competition, and at least two of the defencemen are faster than average. It was a good practice session for the gang.

Two Grid Teams Face A Fadeout

(Canadian Press.)

Tardy fans who arrive late at Saturday's football games in Toronto and Montreal will miss out on some of the games' best fireworks if the promises of the Argonauts and Westmounts are fulfilled.

Forced to shoot the bolt if they are to wipe out deficits from the first games of their Union playoffs, the Toronto and Montreal teams are planning rapid-fire attacks in the hopes of gaining an early touchdown.

Total Points.

Argos took an 11-0 drubbing from Rough Riders in Ottawa last Saturday in the first game of the Big Four playoffs while Westmounts were trounced 13-1 by the Imperials in Sarnia. Both series are total-points affairs.

At Toronto last night Argos spent two hours going over plays they think may lead to a quick touchdown. Westmounts did the same thing and expressed the opinion that "if we get a converted touchdown early in the first quarter, we'll win."

At Ottawa, Riders, expecting a sustained forward pass attack from the Argos, drilled on defence formations but at the same time polished up their offensive, working on the theory that a strong attack is every bit as good as a strong defence.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

A meeting which may have unique results upon thousands of local athletes or sports enthusiasts is called for tomorrow eve at eight in Duffus'. It's to organise an Industrial Hockey League, along somewhat similar lines to last summer's Industrial Softball Loop here. Six shops are already set to enter teams and other Peterborough factories are expected to do ditto. Those interested should be represented. What makes this session so important is that it may result shortly in the forming of an Industrial Sports Committee here — one which will supervise all types of inter-factory athletics in Peterborough the year 'round. This is a manufacturing centre with a dozen or more big firms interested in sports for their employees, so you can see how big such a committee might become.

* * * * * *

What the outcome of such an organization might be is something only time can tell. Every once in awhile one hears the remark that sports in a city like this should have one central executive. It was tried—but unsuccessfully, for a number of reasons—some years ago with the formation of the P.A.A.A. Aside from half a dozen social or independent athletic bodies—such as the Petes' ball, lacrosse, hockey and grid teams, and church loops—most sports here are more or less directly under industrial auspices. And certainly most local athletes work in factories of the town. So, an Industrial Sports Committee—starting off modestly—might become quite a big civic organization within a few years.

Not Much Change

Sandy Burrows of Belleville is the only one in Central Ontario running for office at the annual O.H.A. meeting this Saturday in Toronto. He is after a spot on the executive. Four will be elected of six nominees, others being A. A. Bradley of Elora, J. J. McFayden of Galt, Geo. Panter of Gravenhurst, Roy Reynolds of Chatham, and J. M. Roxburgh of Simcoe. These officers will be re-elected this year: President, James Douglas of Brantford; first vice-president, R. E. Clemens of Hamilton; second vice-prexy, F. W. Moore of Port Colborne; secretary, Bill Hewitt of Toronto; treasurer, G. S. Dudley of Midland. R. M. Glover is a life member. Peterborough will be represented at the session by Frank Buckland and Bill Jackson.

* * * * * *

Tommy Burns, Westmounts hot-headed but starry plunger—who'd like to come to Peterborough for the next grid season—gets a neat plug on his showing Saturday by the Sarnia scribe. He says: "Tommy Burns, a bunch of boils padded with a bath towel, may be one of the roughest linemen playing football, but even his worst wishers have to admit he is one of the best. He went the full 60 minutes neither asking nor giving quarter and, despite the titantic offensive and defensive load he was carrying, he was still in there ploughing when the final whistle blew." The Orfuns could use a few footballers of that type, eh?

Some More All-Stars

And now the Canadian Press is taking a vote on an All-Eastern football squad for 1939. It will be released early next week. It means the poor writers and coaches must pick the 12 best players—in their opinion—among the Intercollegiate, Interprovincial and Senior O.R.F.U. loops, that is a dozen clubs. Quite a task and largely a matter of guesswork as few if any writers or coaches have seen many games in groups other than their own. Personally, we haven't laid eyes on a collitch or Big Four game this year, and know nothing about teams outside of the Senior O.R.F.U.—aside from what is printed in the papers. However, they can't sue us for guessing nor can they blame us for tossing several O.R.F.U. stars aboard the mythical All-Eastern outfit.

* * * * * *

Down in Oshawa last e'en, the Petes had a good puck workout and this corner was impressed with the speed shown already by local forwards. The senior "B" entry from here in O.H.A. competition should be faster than any Peterborough team in a good many years. It was plenty swift a year ago but the addition of such lively-legged lads as Ellis, Heal, Drake Jopling, Jack Jopling and Blewett—along with guys like Starr, Kingdon, Tompkins, Coughlin and Gardner—will make the gang a greased lightning crew on ice. Other good prospects include Crowe, Weir, Whitton, Harding and McNabb.

Rounding Into Shape

They had a lively drill and are beginning to get into shape, but of course need plenty of practice yet to really round into a team clicking on all six. Coach Buckland will carry 15 players, dressing seven forwards and four defencemen each game, besides the goalie. Berths aren't allotted yet but over half a dozen are gold-plated cinches already. Some of the other boys will be dropped after this week but there'll still be a big gang working away for a while. Their exhibition tilt with Oshawa Generals has been put back a week. Two promising looking forward lines at present are the Starr-Heal-Coughlin trio and the Blewett-Kingdon-Tompkins threesome. Buster Whitton, when he gets back into hockey condition, might prove a tricky, experienced and colorful figure with the locals. They drill again Friday.

* * * * * *

Trenton Fliers copped a 5-3 VanHorne Cup series win o'er the Signalmen in Kingston the other night, finishing strong to turn the tide. The Airmen, sporting brilliant new uniforms of scarlet trimmed with blue and bearing the R.C.A.F. emblem, used a new player in Toots Day of Ottawa—formerly with Wembley Lions. He provided plenty of punch on the attack, something the Fliers have not been showing in workouts to date. They will drill hard under Coach Holway and play Queen's on Friday. With the big enlistment at the Airport now, there is no reason to expect that the 1939-40 edition of the Aviators in senior "B" competition will be a pushover for the Petes or anyone else. This should be the Fliers' year; but will it be?

Apps Is Faster Than Morenz Managers Agree

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 22 — (CP). — Swooping Sylvanus Apps may not be the greatest player in hockey history but everyone agrees he's good enough to start an argument on that point.

The swift-skating centre of Toronto Maple Leafs, who simultaneously is a magnificent individualist and a sterling team player, has been so torrid this National League season that managers are debating whether he's better than Cyclone Taylor, Howie Morens and Eddie Shore—to mention a few.

Jack Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings, started it all after Apps led the Leafs to two overwhelming victories over the Wings last week-end. He called Syl "the best player who ever had skates on" and "a greater player than Howie Morenz ever was."

Lester Patrick of New York Rangers shot back that several years ago he had picked Cyclone Taylor, the former Ottawa Valley and Pacific Coast star, and had had no reason to change his mind since then about the greatest of all time.

Goes Fast Faster

Dick Irwin, who played against both Taylor and Morenz, contended that Apps "goes by the players today faster than Taylor or Morenz ever went by me."

But Manager Art Ross of the world champion Boston Bruins hadn't been heard from. And Ross is always heard from.

"Shore, in my opinion, was the greatest hockey player of all time," he submitted on behalf of his colorful defenceman, who is closing his career.

Irvin, perhaps in better position to judge than anyone, wouldn't express an opinion on whether Apps was the greatest player in history.

"You're going to miss the point altogether if you go off on that tack," he told the questioner.

Comparison Impossible

"The point is this: Syl Apps goes by the players of today faster than Taylor and Morenz went by me. That isn't the whole argument but it's something.

"As for comparing Apps directly with Taylor, that's almost impossible because conditions are so different. In Taylor's day there were seven men to a side and that made an entirely different sort of game."

These things Irvin said for Apps: (1) He hasn't reached his peak yet and may cause even more conjecture when he does; (2) He is a better playmaker than Taylor and Morenz, who weren't passers at all to Irvin's way of thinking; (3) He is the most graceful player on record; (4) He is more greatly admired by his contemporaries than any player ever was.

Ottawa May Lose Pro Ball Rights

OTTWA, Nov. 22—(CP) — If Ottawa Senators of the Canadian-American baseball league do not obtain a new site for local games, the franchise will be moved to a northern New York town, probably Schenectady, business manager Vic Wagner said last night.

In a letter to the Ottawa Board of Control in which he requested a new site for games here Wagner pointed out that the team can no longer continue to use Lansdowne Park, the club's home park for several seasons.

A full week of home games are lost each year because of the Central Canada Exhibition and unless a field is obtained where the team can play out its schedule the franchise will be transferred.

Wagner has requested a site on Bayviewv Road here at a nominal rental. The club would build stands, put the field in condition for baseball, and install lights for night games.

The Board of Control will deal with the matter Thursday.

Goalless Wonder Has Ten Points

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22—(CP)—Max Kaminsky, Springfield's goalless wonder, was forced to share the scoring leadership in the International-American Hockey League today with Butch McDonald and Conny Brown of Indianapolis Capitals.

Kaminsky, in the van since the season opened, was credited with no goals and 10 assists for a total of 10 points in league statistics made public here.

McDonald scored a goal and assist in Sunday's game against Cleveland Barons to give him 10 points—two goals and eight assists—while Brown recorded an assist to put him into the three-way first-place tie with four goals and six assists.

St. Catharines Defeats 3-2 Hamilton Team

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Dominions new entry in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association this season, have won but one game in four played but it's a good bet they'll be strong contenders in the playoffs come the end of winter. They've got the fighting finish that makes champions.

All the Dominions need now is a formula on how to play hockey in the first two periods as they do in the third and final one. They just can't get started, it seems, until late in the game.

Their rally came too late again in St. Catharines last night and they lost 3-2, after scoring both their goals in the third period. Last Friday they were edged 5-4 by Toronto Goodyears and scored all their goals in a fighting third-period finish.

Over at Port Colborne last night, the hometown sailors went on a scoring spree to submerge the winless Galt Moose club 8-1. It was Galt's fourth straight loss and the sailor victory gave them a first-place tie with Toronto Goodyears and St. Catharines.

Earl Laroche and Doug Runions picked up five scoring points each in the Port Colborne win and went into a tie with Hugh Barlow and Johnny Conick of Hamilton for the scoring leadership of the major amateur league. Each has seven points in the four games played.

An outstanding defence bulwark in the sailor victory was Bas Bastien, goalkeeper formerly of North Bay's junior trappers. He performed sensationally throughout and the only shot to beat him came from the stick of clever Carl Liscombe on a pretty combination play with Keith Cooper, a Brantford native.

At St. Catharines, the saints scored all their goals before the scarlet Tigers stalked. Rudy Pilous shot the first counter in the opening period and Pete Backor added the others, one in the second and the other early in the third.

Conick snared the first Hamilton goal halfway through the period and Barlow added the other with less than three minutes of play remaining. Dominions continued their desperate rally and kept the Saints hemmed in their own end of the rink but Ran Fordor, who goaled in England the past several seasons, held them at bay.

In to-night's only game, Goodyears will attempt to go into undisputed possession of first place when they tackle Niagara Falls in Toronto.

Plans To Work Seabiscuit On Saturday In Preparation For Santa Anita Track

SAN BUNO, Cal., Nov. 22.—Seabiscuit, the Pacific Coast's favorite race horse, will take his first hard step along the comeback trail when he is given a mile gallop at Tanforn next Saturday. The son of Hard Tack, with his regular rider, Jockey (Red) Pollard, in the saddle, will be sent once around the track between races that day and, if his trial is satisfactory, he will have lengthy gallops at regular intervals until he returns to active competition during the Santa Anita meeting.

Saturday's test of the famous Howard racer will be his first public appearance in eight months. The mere fact that he will appear on the track, assures the Tanforan management of a large crowd. The six-year-old last appeared at Santa Anita. He has been given a long rest at owner Howard's Mendicino County ranch. He arrived at Tanforan several weeks ago.

After his workout Seabiscuit will be loaded in a van Sunday morning and sent to Santa Anita where he will be pointed for another whirl in the rich Santa Anita Handicap, in which he has twice been beaten by noses. A victory in the Santa Anita Handicap would make Seabiscuit the leading money winning horse of all time. At present he is about $36,000 short of Sun Beau's record.

While the return of Seabiscuit will be the highlight of Saturday's sport, the running of the $5,000 Lassie Stakes will also attract considerable attention. The pick of the California-bred filly crop has been named for the Lassie. Among those expected to start are Bettina, Bonnie Breeze, Iron Heart, Archives, Ardello, Wellesley, Air Lane, Tacita, Aye Aye Sir, Ticksabrule, Erin Pan, Nony G. and Amy Lee.

Jacobs Denies Fights Are "Fixed"

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(CP)—Mike Jacobs said today he has more than $100,000 invested in boxers and "there have been no championship fights fixed."

The fight promoter was replying to charges voiced in Washington yesterday by Representative J. A. Kennedy, Maryland Democrat, who said he would introduce a bill at the next session of Congress to create a Federal agency to regulate professional boxing.

Without naming the men, Kenney said he had learned that one heavyweight champion had contributed 5 per cent of his earnings to another in the same class because the second man had "made it possible for him to get into championship circles."

To this Jacobs replied: "There is no truth in the statement that any former champion is getting 5 per cent of the earnings of Joe Louis." He added:

"Since I began my promotions I have staged twenty-seven championship fights, in thirteen of which the title changed hands. I have over $100,000 invested in fighters, and there have been no championship fights fixed."

BOSTON, Nov. 22 — (CP). — There is a feeling around the National Hockey League to-day that the experts have been fooled again by the unpredictable Montreal Canadiens.

Rated as of championship calibre a year ago, Canadiens barely managed to squeeze into the playoffs, and were eliminated in the first round of the post-season series. Consigned to a cellar berth this season, the Habitants are perched on top in a tie with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Only Canadiens have the answer to the reason for this transformation, but from their showing so far it looks as though Coach Pit Lepine has instilled in them some of the greatness of the Howie Morenz era during which they won the cognomen of the Flying Frenchmen.

For Canadiens were flying as they beat the champion Bruins here 2-1 last night for their fifth straight game without a loss. And it was their ability to come back as quickly as they went forward that brought them victory over Boston.

Art Ross' men definitely had the better of the play as their 30 shots on goal against 14 by Canadiens will attest, but they were so harassed by Montreal back-checking that only rarely did they get through for point-blank shots on little Claude Bourque.

Ro Conacher, the league's leading goal-getter last season, sent the Bruins into a first period lead on a play with Mel Hill, but Toe Blake, who topped all point scorers last season, evened the count in the second period after taking a pass from Doug Young.

Two newcomers to Canadiens, Earl Robinson and Marty Barry, combined on the winning goal which came in the ninth minute of the final period. Robinson banged in a hard shot at Frankie Brimsek and then drove home the rebound.

Declines To Talk

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Harry Thomas, barred from Illinois rings after claiming he "threw" fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento, declined to talk when he appeared before the New York Athletic Commission today.

Thomas declined to make any statement on the grounds that it might "incriminate and degrade" him.

"I don't feel I want to be sent up the creek for anything I say here just to help the commission," he said.

Cuba is distributing seeds to children and will give prizes for the best crops produced.

City Is Described As Hot Ski Centre

Following is an excerpt from the annual C.P.R. ski-ing survey across the country, the story being written by R. J. O'Leary of Montreal—a former resident of Peterborough:

Toronto, which lays claim to the largest ski club in Canada from the point of membership, has to go afield for skiing. The Queen City seems to be just outside the steady snow belt and as a result ski trains to outside points are popular. One of the more favored districts is Dagmar, 33 miles from Toronto by Canadian Pacific Railway and in the direction of Peterborough.

Toronto skiers claim that it is the best terrain they have found in the Toronto vicinity. The highest point in the region is 1350 feet and there are open slopes and bush trails for all types of skiers. Five hundred acres of land are open for the sport. The Toronto club has a ski lodge at Dagmar and has cut many trails and made other improvements.

Peterborough itself, scene last year of the provincial championships, is a hot ski centre and the sport is extending this year to Bethany where there are some interesting hills. Muskoka, North Bay, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, and Huntsville are but a few other places where skiing has become big-time winter sport.

DeLancey, Cardinal Star Of 1934 Series Defeats 'White Death'; Plans Comeback

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22 — (AP). — One winter day four years ago a pale young man was bundled into an ambulance and carried to the railroad station for a trip to Arizona, where it was hoped the dry climate would save his life.

Doctors said they feared Bill DeLancey would never play baseball again.

The sensational St. Louis Cardinal rookie, who caught every inning of every game of the 1934 World Series, contracted a lung ailment after the 1935 season.

But Bill was determined to whip the illness. It appears he succeeded.

At any rate, big Bill DeLancey is going to report to the Cardinals next spring for what should be one of baseball's most dramatic comeback attempts.

He will be carried as a third-string catcher, but if his health is as good as he says, Mickey Owen and Don Padgett will have their hands full of competition.

DeLancey took the catching job away from Virgil Davis in 1934—the year the Cardinals' famous "Kid Battery" of DeLancey and Paul Dean was the talk of the World Series with Detroit.

"For his own good we will not let him work too hard," said President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals in announcing he would give DeLancey a chance to come back as a big league star. Youth is on his side—he will be 27 years old next week.

Long ago Bill's collapsed lung came back. The Cardinals gave him a job as manager of the Albuquerque Club in the Arizona-Texas League. He quickly made good — his club won two pennants—and gradually worked himself into condition by playing catch, chasing grounders, pitching to batters in practice, walking ten miles every day, and occasionally appearing as a pinch-hitter.

"Just don't expect too much of me," he wrote Boss Breadon, "and you might get a pleasant surprise."

Reducing Size Of Legislature Is Termed A Petty Economy

Warden James Milby opened the concluding sessions of the County Council on Tuesday afternoon with some of the members absent, presumably attending a farm conference in Toronto. They were Reeves W. A. Anderson, James Gifford, and Allan B. Mann, John McColl and Deputy-Reeve M. H. Johnston.

The business of the afternoon was confined briefly to the reading of communications and their reference to committees.

A Perth County resolution opposing reduction of the present number of members of the Ontario Legislature as a petty economy, and suggesting that something substantial might be accomplished by eliminating some of the 1,100 Civil Service employees whose salaries rate from $2,500 upward.

Peterborough City Council's proposal that the county deed to the city Victoria Park to be used always as a public park was referred to the Property Committee.

Dufferin County sought support to their resolution asking the Government to assume the total cost of the 20-foot strip of provincial highway through towns and villages.

Ontario County suggests that Grand Juries be abolished, the panel of petit juries be reduced to eight, and that the number of petit jurors summoned for court duty be cut down from 48 to 36. This resolution was sent on to the Legal Committee.

A letter from A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., requested the Council to name a successor to the late John McIntosh as a member of the Suburban Area Commission.

Ontario Government's proposal to enact legislation to extend the terms of municipal councils for two years as a war measure was referred to the Legal and Legislation Committee.

A. S. Miller, the road superintendent, explained to the council that it had been planned to resurface it. There were the usual delays due to the regular routine in regards to contracts and so on, that held up work on it. Later it was learned that at this time the commission could not go ahead and resurface it on account of the financial restrictions imposed in regard to such work this year. The alternative was to patch the road up.

"The road is satisfactory now, is it not?" the road superintendent asked Mr. Mallory. The latter nodded affirmatively.

During Mr. Miller's remarks, Charles Poynton, Dept. of Highways engineer entered the council chamber and climaxed the discussion with his observation on it.

"I heard Mr. Miller talking about department of highways red tape; I want to say that it was not red tape by the department but the shilly-shallying of the Road Commission that was at the bottom of the trouble," declared Mr. Poynton.

Request Red Cross Grant

F. C. Richardson of Cobourg, on behalf of Major L. T. Burwash of the Cobourg Red Cross, explained that the request of the local Red Cross for a county grant was for funds which would go to the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

A communciation from Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C., counties solicitor, informed the council that he had received notice from the solicitor for the plantiff in the Wooler School case that an appeal would filed against the judgment in Supreme Court which had dismissed the case. Council passed a resolution to buy eight acres for reforestration purposes, at a price of five dollars per acre. The report of the Reforestation Committee, given by Deputy-Reeve H. Woodley of Hope Township, stated that inspection of the Northumberland and Durham forests had revealed everything to be in good shape.

Motion of Reeve F. T. Tougas of Brighton village, seconded by Reeve P. Gooding of Brighton Township that the county take over the 1¾ miles of road leading from Brighton to the government part at Presqu'ile, pointed out that this road had to be kept up by the village with no equipment to do it with and that the village derived no benefit from it; referred to Roads and Bridges Committee.

Council adjourned late in the afternoon to inspect the work done at the House of Refuge, session to resume at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon.

County Road Report

Following was the report of A. S. Miller of the work done on county roads during the year, covering an expenditure of $86,218.34:

The report covered the period from December 1st 1938 until October 31st, 1939, the cost being divided in the proportions of $46,689.54 for maintenance; $29,296.49 for construction and $10,232.31 for general work. The total appropriation was for $100,000.00 but the report covers only until the end of October. the nose so that the bomber in his glass cage can fire straight down at enemy troops when the pilot puts the machine into a vertical dive.

Streamlined as a barracade, the Bolingbroke carries all its bombs within the fuselage. When the bomber, lying prone in his position in the very nose of the plane, gets his sights on the target and presses the bomb triggers, springdoors open in the belly of the plane and the bombs hurtle to the ground.

Also newly arrived at Rockcliffe Air Station are a number of Westland Lysander army co-operation planes manufactured at Malton Airport, Toronto. These gull-winged monoplanes, with a top speed of 229 miles an hour, are the work horses of the air force. They form a liaison between the air force and the ground troops. They carry a pilot and an observer, and work directly with the army.

Gun Spotters.

These planes are not fighters, and, therefore, are armed only for self-defense. They do artillery spotting relaying to ground batteries by radio the result of artillery fire and suggesting corrected aim. They drop supplies of food and ammunition by small parachutes to troops.

Beneath the body of the plane is advanced or isolated units of a slender pole with a shepherd's crook at the end. Ground troops rig two sticks or rifles with bayonets fixed in the ground with a cord between. Somewhere along the cord a message may be tied, and the Lysander swoops to within a few feet of the ground. The shepherd's crook is let down by a lever and the cord with its message is picked up to be relayed to army headquarters.

"It is highly desirable," said Mr. Singleton, "that in so far as is consistent with supplying requirements of Great Britain, no one branch of the Canadian dairying industry should be permitted to expand unduly during the duration of the war at the expense of other branches of the industry, and thereby accentuate the evitable shock of the post-war adjustment period."

Available butter supplies for Britain, he judged, might only be 60 per cent. or even less of the volume available in 1938, and butter consumption would be about half the peacetime average, with margarine making up the difference. Anticipating a butter shortage, the British Government accumulated large stocks of vegetable and whale oils before the war for the preparation of margarine.

Butter prices in Great Britain had been stabilized by a fixed maximum of 34.83 cents a pound to the consumer compared to the present Canadian price of around 28.48 cents a pound on the Toronto market.

Plenty For Home Use.

Adequate stocks of Canadian butter for domestic consumption during the non-producing winter months were assured, said the government official. Stocks now are about the same as they were a year ago.

Prices of cheese on rural cheeseboards had risen sharply since the outbreak of war, advancing from about 10¾ cents to slightly more than 16 cents a pound, largely due to speculative buying. Canadian cheese has been selling in Britain, he said, at about 16 cents ex-warehouse in Montreal for the Canadian producer.

Exports of Canadian cheese from Montreal in one week of November totalled 106,938 boxes to the United Kingdom, 1,546 boxes to Newfoundland, the West Indies and the United States compared with a normal average weekly export of some 50,000 boxes. Stocks of cheese in the hands of Canadian exporters, he said, were "extremely low, and if not lower than ever before at this time of year, are lower than for many years."

He added that Germany had consigned large shipments of machinery and other products to South American nations to "be transformed into local production and the proceeds sold in the United States for dollars."

Sub Sinks Trawler

Latest addition to the growing list of sunken ships was the 250-ton British merchant trawler Delphine, reported last night to have been sent to the bottom by a German submarine. The crew was believed safe. The latest neutral craft to be sunk was the 11,950-ton Japanese liner Terukuni Maru which struck a mine.

German reconnaissance planes have made several flights over the British Isles in the past two days. One bomber, a big Dornier-17, was shot down by Royal Air Force craft yesterday. It landed in the ocean near Deal.

Anti-aircraft batteries on the east coast sprang into action at 7 p.m. yesterday for the second time in the day as British pursuit ships went aloft to intercept enemy planes.

No bombs were dropped, and the all clear signal was sounded after 75 minutes.

A British civil aircraft, meanwhile, inadvertently flew into London's balloon barrage, crashing to the ground. Its two occupants were killed.

Leslie Hore-Belisha, war secretary, issued an order restricting residence in the Orkney and Shetland Islands, which have been raided several times by German planes, to persons holding special permits. The order, effective Dec. 21, also requires those desiring to visit the islands to obtain permits.

Press Approves Seizures.

The press unanimously approved the decison to seize German exports.

"All praise is due the Government for its decision to reply firmly and promptly to Hitler's new and diabolical war on neutral shipping, said the Daily Herald. "This is a just and proper retort to Hitler.

"Those who treat neutral ships as objects of attack cannot hope to use the neutral flag as a shield for their own trade. Britain's action in stopping Nazi exports will be perfectly legal and perfectly humane. Not a single life will be lost and not a single neutral trade will be penalized without compensation."

The Daily Telegraph said: "It was not only our right but our duty to take measures of retaliation against such brutal warfare.

"Germany's neighbours know very well the desperation to which our blockade is driving her. The blatant boast that neutral shipping is being sunk to frighten neutral countries will not console Holland and Italy and Yugoslavia and Japan for the murder of their citizens and the loss of their vessels. Our complete blockade of German exports may not be welcome to some of Germany's neighbours, but none of them can be surprised. There is ample precedent for it and more than ample justification."

in Holland or when in Germany are at present being examined."

Varying reports at the time of the Venloo incident agreed that after a shooting affray, several persons were carried across the Netherlands border into Germany. The Netherlands Government was reported as intending to ask that Germany investigate.)

(Strasser, accused of organizing the Munich plot, broke with Hitler in 1930, before the Nazi rise to power. He last was reported in Paris, where the Paris Soir quoted him on Monday as saying he fled Zurich, Switzerland, four hours ahead of a German extradition request.

Elser, credited by the Gestapo with actually building the bomb "in a manner unique in criminal history," said to have started machinations in September and October, 1938, and to have begun putting his plans together in August, 1939.

First, said Himmler, he built a six-day time clock into a pillar of the beer cellar and, seven days before the annual Nazi celebration there, the explosive was planted.

On Nov. 2 and 3 Elser failed in attempts to place a detonator in the bursting chamber, said the Gestapo chief, but succeeded during the night of Nov. 4-5. Then he left for Switzerland, but returned to Munich Nov. 7 to make sure all was in order and to deaden the sound of the ticking clock.

On the morning of Nov. 8, he left by way of Ulm, but was arrested that night when the border was closed as a result of the bomb explosion.

The Gestapo communique charged that the British intelligence headquarters for western Europe was located at The Hague, Netherlands capital.

Britain, it said, "sought to establish contact with what were surmised to be revolutionary organizations in Germany, having been led to believe from emigres' stories that opposition existed in the state, party and army with the aim of causing revolution in the Reich."

Officers in the security service of the Elite Guards established contact with the Britons, the statement said, and "in the belief that they were actually dealing with revolutionary German officers, representatives of the British intelligence service revealed their aims and plans."

coming from their home. "We ran as fast as we could to the house," Ruby related. "When we got the kitchen door open, I saw Hazel lying on the floor terribly burned. Mother grabbed Helen and Hazel and took them outside and I went in a little farther and found Billy and Hilda behind the door. They were very badly burned too." Quoting Hazel as saying to her mother when she reached outdoors, Ruby told the jury her sister said, "Mother, I put gasoline into the stove by mistake, please don't whip me." At this point in the questioning, the witness broke down and wept.

The Crown Attorney questioned her as to whether their mother had instructed them not to use gasoline to start a fire and Ruby replied in the affirmative. She said they were always told to use kindling wood for starting fires. Again questioned as to where Hazel got the gasoline, Ruby said she picked it up in a blue jug that was sitting beside the coal oil jug. "They were the same size and I think they were the same color," she added. "Hazel knew there was gasoline in one and coal oil in the other." She said she did not know when the gasoline jug was placed there.

Charles Lytle, father of the children, told the jurors that he had been about three miles from his home with a deer hunting party when the house caught fire. "The first I kne wthere was something wrong was when I heard somebody yelling "Help, help," and it was coming from the direction of my home. I ran as fast as I could and met a deer hunter on the road who told me that my house was burning down. I reached the hunting lodge where I saw my poor little kiddies with my wife who had brought them from the house. My home and all the buildings were burned to the ground in a few minutes. Hazel told me she made a mistake in putting gasoline in the stove. She said the jug caught fire and burst in her face. Hazel and Billy didn't know of the gasoline in one of the jugs.

John McColl, Reeve of Asphodel Township, testified that he, along with two other township officials, had passed the Lytle home about an hour and a half before the fire and on their return over the road, they found the house in flames.

"The house was burned nearly to the ground about 12.15 noon. The children had been moved to the hunting lodge. They were terribly burned and I did not ask them any questions when I saw them," he said.

"Everything was in a state of disorder and I struck out for the closest phone, about four miles away, to get a doctor. I called for Dr. Carlton at Norwood. An ambulance arrived about 2 o'clock and Dr. Holdcroft of Havelock arrived after that. When he knew there was another doctor there, he said he did not think he would be needed, but I told him there was plenty of work for the both of them."

Provincial Constable John A. Rogers of Havelock was next on the stand. He said he arrived about 2.30 the afternoon of the fire and found the children in the hunting lodge, "terribly burned." "They were being attended by both doctors then. Hazel seemed the most badly burned. I looked around the house that was burned and found parts of two 2-gallon jugs. One was brown and the other was green." He then produced a number of photos taken at the scene of the fire and they were shown to the jurors.

Had Bad Burns.

Dr. H. G. Carlton of Norwood coroner, said he was called about 2 o'clock by 'phone to attend the children. "Hazel had severe second and third degree burns, but she was still conscious. William and Hilda also had second and third degree burns. The baby seemed to have better resistance than the others, although she was burned nearly as bad as they were. She had burns about the arms and forehead. Assisted by Dr. Holdcroft, we worked over the victims for two hours before we had them removed to Nicholls Hospital in Peterborough. On arriving there Hazel had a very low temperature of 94 degrees and she died of acute shock that evening. Billy and Hilda were not so shocked and seemed to improve a little until the following morning, when they died. The baby was badly burned, and at present she has pneumonia, but we are hopeful that she may recover.

Father Recalled.

Charles Lytle, recalled to the stand, said he was not sure of the color of either of the bottles which had held gasoline and coal oil. He said he thought a brown jug they had produced at the inquest and which had been salvaged from the ruins of the home, had contained buttermilk. A portion of a green bottle produced might have been the jug which had held the gasoline. "A hunter borrowed a jug about three days before for the gasoline he borrowed," he answered to the question. "I never kept gasoline in the house."

The jury's report was as follows: We the jury appointed to enquire into the circumstances surrounding the deaths of Hazel, William and Hilda Lytle in Dummer township on November 15, find according to the evidence given that the above mentioned children came to their deaths as a result of burns caused by an explosion of gasoline used by mistake by the children in starting a fire in the stove which also resulted in the home being completely burned. We recommend that the laws governing the handling of gasoline be more strictly enforced.

County Council Is Requested To Seek For Open Season On Beaver In Peterboro'

Because they had damaged trees on properties near the mouth of Eel's Creek, an open season for the trapping of beaver was proposed to the County Council on Tuesday afternoon in a letter from Reg. Bloomfield of Toronto.

The Department of Game and Fisheries, Mr. Bloomfield wrote, would not authorize an open season without the approval of the County Council. Beavers had felled seventeen poplars around his summer cottage, causing damage which be estimated at $500. Harry Grubbe and other cottagers had suffered similar loss.

Mr. Bloomfield's letter was referred to the Legal Committee.

Rev. J. Blodgett Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Nov. 22. — Rev. John Nelson Blodgett, for the past fourteen years financial and field secretary for Wycliffe College, died Tuesday at his home, 23 Withrow Avenue, following four months' illness. He was in his sixty-fourth year.

Mr. Blodgett was widely known throughout Canada, having visited extensively among the graduates of Wycliffe in all of the provinces. During late years his work as field secretary had become almost entirely that of visitation and he had worked zealously in the interest of the alumni of Wycliffe.

Born at Roseneath, Mr. Blodgett graduated from the University of Toronto in 1908 and from Wycliffe College in 1909. Following his ordination, he was appointed in 1910 as rector of St. Luke's Church, Roseneath. From 1912 to 1917 he served as superintendent of the Caron-Herbert Mission of the Colonial and Continental Church Society of England in Saskatchewan. In 1917 he accepted the rectorship of St. John's Church, Chapleau, Ont., resigning in 1925 to become financial and field secretary for Wycliffe College.

Mr. Blodgett attended the Church of the Resurrection, Woodbine Avenue. He was a past master of Chapleau L.O.L. Surviving are his widow, Nellie Wilson Blodgett; one daughter, Margaret, and three sons: Wilson, Nelson and George.

"Mr. Blodgett had gained to an extraordinary degree the affection of Wycliffe graduates and had travelled extensively throughout the Dominion in devotion to his task," was the trfbute paid by Dr. W. E. Taylor of the staff of Wycliffe College.

Victoria Park Will Remain Within County

The property committee of the county council with Reeve J. R. Thompson, Norwood, presiding, declined this morning to accede to a suggestion of the city council that Victoria Park be vested in the city on condition that it be always used for park purposes. This reply was embodied in a resolution by Deputy-Reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan, second by Reeve Robt. Martin, Dummer.

In a later motion by Warden Milby it was decided to pay the city $100 for the upkeep of the park this year. A final resolution relating to this matter was moved by Reeve W. A. Anderson authorizing Reeve Thompson and Warden Milby to insure the county against liability in the public use of the park, the park, the amount of the premium to be deducted from the $100 grant for 1940.

"As Charlie Tanner said, there is no law against suggestions, but there should be," Reeve Gifford of Ennismore remarked.

Reeve A. B. Mann recommended that at least the committee should forward to the city a letter expressing a wish to co-operate but affirming that the county had no wish to relieve its hold on Victoria Park.

Reeve W. A. Anderson—"Any new agreement that may be entered into should require removal or planting of trees to be done under the supervision of the Warden and the chairman of the property committee. Anything that is done there should be under their supervision.

Referring to Reeve Mann's suggested soft answer to the city, Warden Milby said—"You needn't have any hesitation about giving them a blunt answer, for they were certainly blunt with us."

Deputy-Reeve M. H. Johnston—Just say "We're not going to give it to you and that's all."

Warden Milby—"When we met their committee I told them we were sorry we ever went there."

Reeve W. A. Anderson—Victoria Park is the cheapest property the city can get for that purpose. If they had to buy it, the interest and sinking fund would cost them a considerable sum. If it was privately owned, what would it be assessed at?

Miss Jennie Batten, county clerk, said the Park was used more than Confederation Square by city residents, and it was a play ground for the children of Central School.

A County Grievance

Golden Andrews of Asphodel informed the committee that a bylaw of the city of Peterborough required six months' residence as a condition to the issuing of an auctioneer's license, as compared with the county's policy of leaving their territory open to auctioneers from the city.

"I think that bylaw is very unfair," Mr. Andrews said. "I've had to refuse several parcels of business on those grounds. But, the city wants us to come here and spend our money, while they put into effect a bylaw as unfair as this one."

Mr. Andrew's complaint was referred to the legal committee.

Referred to Department

A request from Reg. Bloomfield of Toronto for the council's petition to the Department of Fish and Game to declare an open season for the trapping of beavers at the mouth of Eel's Creek was considered briefly by the legal committee. A motion by Warden Milby, seconded by Reeve E. W. Seeney, Havelock, advised Mr. Bloomfield to apply to the Department to permit the Game Warden to kill beavers in that locality, instead of the broader method of asking for an open season.

Reeve David Curtain of Galway-Anstruther said that a request of that kind had been forwarded from his township, and the Department sent a game warden to trap the animals. Mr. Bloomfield's letter that beavers were damaging his property by felling trees.

The Provincial Government's announcement of its intention to pass legislation to suspend municipal elections for two years after January 1 next was simply received.

"If we expressed our approval," said Reeve W. A. Anderson, "it would seem that we were trying to extend our term of office. Any way, the war has not been serious enough yet to say we shouldn't have annual elections in our municipalities. It would save the cost of printing voters lists."

"Shouldn't this question of elections be left to the option of the ratepayers?" Warden Milby said. "They can give an acclamation any time they wish."

Reducing Size Of Legislature Is Opposed By County Council

Further reduction of its membership would dilute rural thought in the Ontario Legislature, Reeve W. A. Anderson, Otonabee, commented in the legal committee of the county council this morning in regard to a Perth county resolution opposing change in the present constitution of the House of ninety members on a basis of county representation.

When the number of members of the Legislature was reduced to ninety, wiping out many rural ridings like that of East Peterborough, "it didn't save the ratepayers the price of an ice cream cone," Reeve W. A. Anderson said. "People agree that we have too much legislative machinery in this country, but when the membership of the Legislature is reduced the change works in favor of rich and powerful men. It has come to this in Peterborough county that a candidate living outside the city has little chance of being elected to the Provincial Legislature.

Reeve A. B. Mann, Smith township, said there was no doubt that reducing the Legislature lessened rural representation and influence in that governmental body.

The Perth resolution requesting the Government not to reduce the number of its constituencies was endorsed in a resolution by Deputy-reeve Harry Reid of Otonabee, seconded by Warden Milby. It was contended that the saving to the people was not worth the disturbance of the existing plan of county boundaries for provincial ridings.

Favors Grand Jury.

The committee, composed of all the members of the council, declined to lend its support to a resolution from Ontario county urging the abolition of grand juries, reduction of petit juries from twelve to eight persons, and that the full panel of petit jurors be cut from 48 to 36 men. The Ontario council expressed the opinion that magistrates presiding at preliminary trials adequately safeguarded the rights of accused persons. The committee's resolution was moved by Warden Milby and seconded by Reeve Martin Coughlin, Douro.

Warden Milby said the Grand Jury system was an old safeguard of liberty that had been dearly bought and should not be lightly parted with. Reeve Coughlin remarked that the economy considered by Ontario council was so small it would have no effect on the average ratepayer.

NORTH POLE, Nov. 22—(ENS).—Word was sent today to Peterborough that Santa Claus would make his annual visit to that city Friday evening, December 1.

An emergency meeting was called at once by Al Sharpe, president of the Peterborough Business Men's Association. John Lewis of Kresges, Dick Raine of the Friendly Stores and T. L. Ashton of The Examiner were authorized to act as a management committee to be responsible for the parade of welcome to the popular northern visitor. Don Scott, who made such a success of organizing last year's parade, was appointed as advisor to the committee. More complete details will be published in tomorrow's Examiner.

Two Young People Have Narrow Escape From Drowning Skating On Trent Canal

Two Peterborough young people had a narrow escape from drowning Tuesday night when they broke through the ice while skating on the lower reach of the Trent canal.

The two were Doreen Jaynes, 17, 277 Bethune street and Ken. Wyatt, 18, of Roger street. They were skating together and had just reached the C. P. R. bridge over the canal when the thin ice gave way under their weight and they found themselves floundering in the icy water. Wyatt succeeded in helping his companion to the shore and they both got out safely, although chilled by their immersion.

The two were taken to the home of Mrs. J. Payne, 255 Armour road, stripped of their wet clothing, wrapped in blankets and given hot drinks. Medical attention was required for Miss Jaynes.

Board To Seek Coordination Health Services

Coordination of public health services in Peterborough became a possibility Tuesday night when the Board of Health decided to ask for a meeting with the Board of Education "to discuss health matters in the city."

Behind those "health matters" was the hint of a new system of public health administration. Peterborough is one of the few cities in the province in which two separate bodies—the Board of Health and the Board of Education—administer such services. If Peterborough had established a school health service after 1934, the two could not be separate, the government has ruled. But because the service was established earlier in this city the government has ruled that cities in such a position can carry on as they choose. Despite that liberty, several cities have changed over to the new cordinated system, according to Dr. G. Murray Fraser, M.O.H.

Death of Dr. A. W. McPherson, school medical officer, brought the matter of coordination to a head, for the Board of Education must appoint his successor. The City Council is faced, too, with the necessity of appointing a temporary successor to Dr. Fraser, who has been granted leave of absence to accept a post in Canada's militia.

One Physician Sufficient

Last night Dr. Fraser gave his opinion that one physician, as city health officer, could do the work of both men. He said that he had been doing it since school opened this fall, because of Dr. McPherson's illness.

Coordination of health services would bring under the one head all dental, nursing and medical work. It was suggested at the Board of Health meeting last night that a member of the Board of Education could be added to the Board of Health, and that that body should direct all health services for the city.

The Board of Health will recommend to the city council at its next meeting that Dr. C. B. Waite be appointed Medical Health Officer until such time as a definite decision had been reached in regard to future health policy.

Eleven Plead Guilty Traffic Infractions

Earl Ruttle of Sutton West and Jack Dinsdale were each fined $5 and $2.50 costs on written pleas of guilty to having failed to produce a driver's license when called upon to do so in traffic court today.

Peterborough's traffic bylaw claimed more victims this morning when eleven persons pleaded guilty to infractions of the measure, most of them for illegal parking. They were: Isadore Black, Robert J. Burnside, Vernon O'Connor, Charles H. Huffman, Hymie Smith, Philip Ristow, Alex L. Elliott, M. U. Clark, Leslie Dyer and George Brown.

Chief Coroner

Dr. Donald Munro of Warsaw, who has been named Chief Coroner for the County of Peterborough. He has practised medicine in Warsaw since 1907, and is one of the district's most popular physicians.

David Anderson, Postman, Passes

Death came today to David Anderson, a letter carrier in the south end of this city for the past 10 years, at his home at 378 Stewart street. He was in his 48th year and had been ill for some time.

It was only three months ago, however, that Mr. Anderson was finally retired although he had been off duty several times through illness. He was widely known in this city and was a popular postman.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, he came to this city 20 years ago after serving in the Artillery division of the Imperial Army during the Great War. He was a member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Georgina Ingram, three brothers, William of Peterborough and James and Alex of Scotland; and three sisters, Mrs. W. Petrie of ePterborough, Mrs. E. Avery of Toronto, and Mrs. J. Lilley of Hamilton, also a niece, Miss Sadie Anderson of Peterborough.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence, Rev. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's church officiating. Interment will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Judge To Let Citizens Decide Issue

"I suppose the newspapermen are waiting for me to say a lot. I am not going to say anything except that I am going to leave it to the people of Peterborough to decide as to what I was complaining about."

This brief statement from Judge S. L Smoke, chairman of the Board, made at the end of Tuesday's session of the Police Commission, was the only reference to the police drill issue Contrary to expectations the reports gathered by Chief Constable Newhall from all the members of the force in connection with the matter were not before the Commission

The Board decided to take no action on the request of the Legal Committee that the licence of a taxi owner, William Miller, be cancelled because he had not paid $21 business tax for 1937 and had failed to pay a Police Court fine

Judge Smoke pointed out that the business tax had been levied and the fine imposed before Miller was granted his licence in the first place and the Commission agreed that it was not a proper course to grant the committee's request.

Favorable Report.

Detective-Sergeant Meagher was called before the Board to report on his visit to premises of W. Fredenburgh, holde rof a junk collector's licence on Brock Street. Neighbors had complained that the conditions at Fredenburgh's place were unseemly and unsightly, but Detective Meagher reported that he had found nothing very wrong, and on the strength of that report no action wa staken by the Commission.

"There is something radically wrong about our repair bills," said Mayor Hamilton, when bills for the maintenance of the police cars were presented and the other members of the Board agreed that the costs were too high. A suggestion that arrangements should be made to have one man service all the city's cars was made by Deputy-Clerk E. A Outram and Judge Smoke agreed that the idea was a good one, if the City Council would put it into effect.

"There is nothing that we can do about it now buy pay the bills," said the chairman.

Present at the meeting were Judge Smoke, chairman, Mayor James Hamilton and Magistrate E. A. Gee.

VISITED THE ARMOURIES

Tuesday evening a large number of citizens were guests of Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne and officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers. The purpose was to show the visitors what was going on at the headquarters of the regiment. They spent some time watching the various movements and many of the departments were explained in detail. Following there was an inspection of the regiment by the officer commanding, and many were the comments regarding the smart and orderly apearance of the men.

"What do we want with eggs and ham?"

Soldiers sang it in the last war: "What do we want with eggs and ham when we've got plum and apple jam? Oh, oh, oh it's a lovely war!" Nobody thought it was a "lovely" war—least of all the boys who fought it. But they were not going to let it get them down. So they cracked jokes and sang such light-hearted songs as "Oh, oh, oh it's a lovely war".

And just because they did keep their ability to make jokes about it, they stuck it out!

You remember Captain Bairnsfather's cartoons. They originated in the trenches. Old Bill always had his pipe and Alf. his cigarette. We in the tobacco industry are glad to recall that our products played no small part in keeping up the spirits of the troops, spirits so high that the men could laugh at themselves and their discomforts even in the most critical and arduous hours.

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 22. — (ENS)—Amid a setting of white and pink chrysanthemums and pink roses, Nellie Isobel Annie, youngest daughter of Mrs. Haig and the late John Alfred Haig, became the bride of Harold Clifford LeReverend of Toronto. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's mother on Inkerman street on Monday, and Rev. G. N. Maxwell of St. John's United Church officiated. The groom is the son of Mrs. LeReverend and the late Alfred LeReverend, Guernsey, C.E.I.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ted Hubble, Toronto, entered the living room to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by Miss Freda Dulson, Toronto. She wore a becoming street-length frock of teal blue with fitted jacket caught at the back with a large bow. Her accessories were black and on her shoulder she wore a corsage of talisman roses, lily of the valley and fern. Miss Carlotta Haig, sister of Cobourg, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid. Soldiers Need Scarfs And Wristlets

With colder weather here troops in Canada are calling to the Red Cross for scarves and wristlets. Soldiers on seaboard duty are particularly in need. The Red Cross is therefore asking all women who can knit warm scarves and wristlets, to do so, and send them to local branches to be forwarded to Red Cross provincial warehouses for distribution to the troops in Canada.

Women knitting wristlets and scarves are urged not to use wool that can be used in the knitting of socks. Wristlets should be of good length and can be made from odds and ends of wool. Stripes brighten them and simplify identification by their owners. Half-length mitts are popular with the men. Serviceable scarves of heavier grade wool than socks may be in any shade of brown and khaki, grey, navy and air-force blue.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, November 23.

A lively day, on which the personal, domestic, social or affectional obligations are paramount over more sordid and ambitious engagements, is forecast. There may be much stirring-about and excitement in connection with the happy routines, but there is a possibility of some deceits, treachery or some other malicious manifestation, possibly in relation to employers or elders. Shun rash, impulsive or extravagant indulgences.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year in which the personal pleasures of living seem to overshadow the workaday. Much social, domestic, affectional or artistic liveliness is indicated, despite some duplicity, malevolence or crafty opposition. With proper restraint, much happiness and success are possible.

A child born on this day may be talented in unusual ways, perhaps in art, music, drama, or in the social graces. It may have elements in its nature to invite malicious or deep-seated opposition that will be hazardous to its success.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

DOROTHY DIX

Although Some Types Of Girls Make Tremendously Better Brides Than Others, Husband-to-Be More Often Than Not Is Charmed By Appearance Rather Than Quality.

PROBABLY every man by the time he is in his twenties has a clear-cut picture in his mind of the girl he is going to marry. He has definitely decided on whether she will be a daughter of the gods, divinely fair, or a pocket Venus; whether she will be highbrow or lowbrow; whether she will be a society glamor girl or a cracker-jack business girl; whether she will be a clinging vine or a feminine dictator.

And then something happens that he never can explain to himself, and he finds himself married to a lady who is the exact antithesis of his dream girl. So it isn't much use for men to waste their time trying to pick out their future wives, sight unseen. Cupid gets them in spite of their best efforts to try to be sane and prudent about this thing called love and to pick out their wives with as much discrimination as they would an automobile. Nevertheless, one of the favorite diversions of unmarried men is in trying to decide on just what qualities are most desirable in a wife, and one youth asks me if I will discuss some of the different types of girls and their matrimonial rating, so to speak.

Well, that's a hard thing to do because wives are purely a matter of taste, and what is one man's wedding cake is another man's pain in the neck. It doesn't make much difference what a wife is, if she suits her husband she is all right. But, speaking as an innocent spectator, I should classify girls about like this:

THE BEAUTY: Easy on the eyes, but generally hard on the purse for it costs money keeping a living picture properly framed. Lovely ornament for the parlor, but virtually useless in the kitchen. Since beauty fades she is to be regarded in the light of a temporary investment.

RICH GIRL: Alluring prospect, but seldom pans out well. Always thinks she has bought her husband and that he should fetch and carry for her and roll over and jump through the hoop at her commands. Nothing but the grace of God enables the poor husband of a rich wife to look and act natural. Occasional exceptions, when rich wife makes a household pet of poor husband, in which case the living is easy and luxurious.

BUSINESS GIRL: Very promising prospect. Speaks man's own language and can discuss the stock market intelligently. Knows how to hold down a good job and husband doesn't have to worry over what would become of her if he should die. But she doesn't domesticate easily. She has been used to working in a crowd and seeing people coming and going and she finds it dull and boresome to be shut up in a kitchen all day by herself. Also, she seldom knows how to cook and by the end of the first year of marriage husband has generally acquired chronic dyspepsia. Still and all, it is nice to have a wife who can help bring in the bacon even if she doesn't know much about frying it.

COLLEGE GRADUATE: Grand wife for a man who belongs to the intelligentsia himself and who likes to spend a happy evening discussing transcendental philosophy, but a little trying on the Tired Business Man whose grammar and pronunciation is not above reproach. Being educated by his wife is a painful operation that few husbands have the nerve to stand.

DOMESTIC GIRL: Highly desirable, provided she does not smell too much of the kitchen. Certainly a wife who can make pies such as Mother never made, and who has a way with a beefsteak and who can turn stew meat into a ragout that will make your mouth water, is one of God's choicest gifts to undeserving man. But, after all, a husband does not live by bread alone and he can get mighty tired of a woman whose conversation never gets beyond the price of butcher's meat. The ideal domestic wife knows how to spice her society as well as she does her soup. Watch out for the paprika.

THE HELPLESS GIRL: She belongs to the "poor little me" school of feminine banditti and she always gets her man. She has slain more husbands than were ever killed in war because she works them to death, making them get her the things she demands. She can't work, so somebody else always has to support her. She can't cook. She can't sew. She can't do anything but wring her perfectly manicured hands. Beware of the girl who asks you to sharpen her pencil and check her trunk, and who asks you fool questions and tells you how big and strong and handsome and wise you are. She makes the kind of wife whose husband has to get dinner when he comes home of an evening and wash the baby's didies.

And, finally, there is MOTHER'S PET who is the worst bet of all. She expects her husband to spoil her and wait on her hand and foot and give her everything she wants, and if he doesn't make a doormat of himself for her she goes back to Mother, and good riddance for the husband.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a student preparing for my masters degree in social service. This will open up the career that I want to follow, but my fiancee insists that I give up my studies to take a job that has been offered me, because if I do we can be married at once. She says that if we don't marry now we may never be married as something unexpected might happen. I do not agree with her. I think we are more likely to be happily married if I wait until I am in a position to earn more money. What shall I do?—JOHN.

ANSWER:

Don't let any little Dumb Dora of a girl persuade you into giving up your career in order to marry before you are ready to. If you do, you will regret it the remainder of your life.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22—(CP). — Its the men who are changing their battle dress this war—the women will wear the same style of uniforms worn 25 years ago.

The soldiers have discared their buttons, puttees and Sam Brown belts and even changed the cut of their trousers but the nurses have just shortened their skirts, tilted their hats at a jauntier angle and pushed their veils back further on their heads.

Veteran soldier-patients broke into war reminiscences when they viewed the blue-uniformed figures of the young nurses who will tend the first overseas Canadian division. Their service uniforms are in the same mid-blue cotto nas last time, in two-piece style with six small shiny brass buttons on each side of the tight-fitting bodice and they still have the starched white collars and cuffs.

But the headgear will be more feminine. The severe white line of the stiff white organza veils across the brow will be relieved by soft waves or curls.

The strings of their white aprons worn over the uniform pass through shoulder bands, marked with two "pips" to dencte their rank of lieutenant, to tie at the back. The nursing supervisor has three 'pips" on her shoulder for her rank is equivalent to a captain.

Smart Setup.

On the streets in Toronto, where 46 nurses are in training at M.D. No. 2, they cut a neat pattern in their navy blue belted ulsters and their shallow soft-brimmed sports hats turned up at the back and down at the front. Their Oxfords, gloves and stockings are brown in tone carrying out the army tradition. They will have large navy envelope-styled bags to carry enough foibles for an overnight trip when their wardrobe is complete but most of their belongings will be packed in a trunk and a dunnage bag.

There will be a recreation uniform for the nurses too, but it hasn't arrived yet. It will be a three-piece navy blue woollen suit worn with a sky blue blouse and a navy tie. This uniform is to be worn at all formal fuhetions, including dances, teas and receptions, and always with the addition of the white veil.

Know Meanings to End Worries

Sound slumber rudely disturbed —and by a dream that binds and hems in the sleeper. He can't push through the entanglements, try as hard as he may.

A reason for this nightmarish dream? Psychologists would get to the bottom of it. When a man dreams of struggling through a forest, where every step is impeded by undergrowth, they know that he has a troublesome problem.

The struggle may symbolize obligations he finds difficulty in meeting. Or it may mean an undesirable association—with friends or in business.

Don't scoff at dreams, they are not idle ramblings of the unconscious mind. Rather, during sleep, our unconscious mind rises to the surface—and there is no "censor" to suppress what bubbles forth. So dreams are mirrors of our true selves.

You can discover and understand many personal problems when you know meanings of dreams. In our 32-page booklet a famous psychologist discusses dream symbols, tells how to interpret dreams, to unmask and banish hidden worries.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of THE MEANING OF DREAMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. When it's the "pain cry" give Baby's Own Tablets at once. Mrs. May Mundy, of Toronto, finds they work every time.

"I am the mother of nine children, three of them prize babies, and Baby's Own Tablets have been my only medicine in raising them to the healthy children they now are. As soon as my children became a little feverish I at once gave them Baby's Own Tablets and in a very short time the fever disappeared and the children were normal again."

Easy to take as candy. Quickly effective. Safe and harmless. Contain no opiates or stupefying drugs. Each package gives an analyst's report. Get a package today. Sickness often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Your money back if you are not satisfied.

DEAFENED PEOPLE REPORT TO DRUGGISTS

"I was troubled for 15 years, writes Martin Olson. Could not hear a train standing next to it. Then I bought AURINE EAR BALSAM at Longmore's Drug Store, Swift Current, Sask. Before I finished using it, I could hear a train whistle one-half mile away. Head noises have cleared up. AURINE EAR BALSAM is the only remedy I have tried that ever did me any good." If you are hard of hearing, have head noises, earaches, ringing and buzzing in the ears get AURINE EAR BALSAM to-day. Relief is quick. Costs only a few cents a day. Your money back if it does not help you. For sale and recommended by McDermid & Jury. Phone 8801.—(Advt.).

IT'S A BIG ADVANTAGE to 'BUY BRITISH'

WHEN IT COMES TO SAUCE

THE British certainly know how to make a sauce. Take thick, fruity H.P. for instance. This sauce is famous everywhere for its matchless flavour. In fact H.P. Sauce is known as "The Empire's Appetizer" and is found wherever the Union Jack flies.

Give this British sauce a trial in your cooking and on your table. A little H.P. imparts a distinctly enjoyable flavour to meat, fish, eggs, cheese, soups, stews, gravies, macaroni, salads and sandwiches. Being a thick sauce—a little goes a long way. It's a sauce that makes you sure there's an advantage in "Buying British".

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAKE THEM EARN IT

MANY GOOD duplicate players have an almost unalterable rule never to let their opponents play a contract of one in a suit or No Trump. Of course, if this is overdone, and your opponents get wise to it, so that they can depend on you to reopen the bidding with hands that are too weak, they can profit by luring you into some nice penalties, especially when you are vulnerable. But as a generality it is sound tactics to give them a push at least to the level of two, taking something of a chance on finding enough strength in your partner's hand if they leave you in or double you.

This deal got played at three different contracts in a match-point duplicate game. At all tables West was the opening bidder with 1-Spade. In some cases this was passed out, and the contract was made right on the head, with the loss of one trick in spades, one in hearts, three in diamonds and one in clubs.

There are plenty of good players who would keep the bidding open with 1-No Trump on East's hand, but none of them did it in this game. Several of the Souths reopened the bidding, however, and profited by it. They doubled when the 1-Spade reached them. It was almost amazing that none of the Norths answered with either 1-No Trump or 2-Hearts. They all bid 2-Clubs.

Several of the 2-Club bids were passed, the contracts being made with the loss of two tricks in spades, one in hearts and two in clubs. In two cases West overcalled the 2-Clubs with a rebid at 2-Spades, which got passed. In each case this was set one. So all of the Souths who doubled earned plus scores for their pairs, either through making their own side's contract or through getting the enemy just too high.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West doubles and then leads the heart 10, how should South play for 5-Diamonds?

$275 A Week Job "Humiliating"

LOS ANGELEC, Nov. 22 — (AP). —Tom Reed, motion picture scenario writer, testified yesterday: "I humiliated myself and lost face in the film industry by accepting a job which paid only $275 a week."

Cited for contempt of court on charges of his former wife, Mrs. Dorothy Reed, that he failed to pay alimony and support for their two children, Reed said he earned $33,000 in 1937 and $21,000 in 1938.

Payments to Mrs. Reed were to range from $300 to $750 a month, depending upon his income, but Mrs. Reed charged he owed her $1,050 in 1938 payments and $3,045 for 1939.

Reed said that maintenance of his second wife and their child and payment of $9,000 to his first wife consumed his earnings and sent him into $6,000 debt, so that last April, after being without work for several months, he took the "humiliating" $275-a-week job.

MILLBROOK

Afternoon Tea Is Held By Guild

MILLBROOK, Nov. 22—(ENS).—A cosy atmosphere and a hearty welcome greeted those who attended the annual bazaar and service of afternoon tea in the community waiting room on Friday, from 3 to 6 p.m. the event being under the auspices of the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican church.

Mrs. G. F. Harrington and Miss Muriel Smith were in charge of the table of fancy work, its many inviting articles suitable for Christmas gifts, attracting many customers; adjoining this table was the one of home baking, which, as always, drew a steady stream of patronage, its tempting wares being fully disposed of by closing time: Mrs. T. A. Campbell and Mrs. L. H. Winslow were the popular salesladies.

Mrs. (Rev.) William Simpson poured tea, the table being lovely with lace cloth, service of silver, pink tapers burning in silver holders, and a basket of 'mums on the central reflector. Assistants were Mrs. D. Sheppard, Misses Eva Howson, Anno Fair, L. Crocker and Mrs. G. Raper; each small table had a bud vase of flowers on the dainty linen cloth, and cream and sugar of silver.

Mrs. D. R. Fowler was cashier, and receipts were well over fifty dollars.

Is The Next U.S. President One Of These?

Campaigns aimed at the United States presidency in 1940 are under way. The recent trip of Thomas E. Dewey to his native Michigan was regarded as a bid for mid-western support,, and further western travels are scheduled. Still left unanswered is the momentous 1940 question—will President Roosevelt seek a third term? His recent conferences with party leaders have been regarded as significant. Regardless of F.D.R.'s decision, Vice-President Garner and Montana's Senator Burton K. Wheeler have ordered full speed ahead on their campaigns, Garner is busily setting up state headquarters. Both are angling for the support of Postmaster-General Farley. New Hampshire's Republican Senator H. Styles Bridges' plans calls for addresses in the mid-west after a flying visit to the Pacific coast, while Senator Robert Taft, son of the late president and Ohio Republicans' white hope, will follow up a tour of the west and mid-west with a speaking trip through New England. The possible presidential candidates are shown ABOVE, LEFT to RIGHT.

T. P. Lancaster Will Head Executive Of Havelock Red Cross Group

HAVELOCK, Nov. 22—(ENS).—Encouraging reports upon progress already made and plans for the immediate future were discussed at an enthusiastic meeting of the executive committee of the Havelock Red Cross Society held on Monday in the local Council Chamber.

Thanking the meeting for his appointment as honorary chairman of the executive committee, T. P. Lancaster accepted the office. The work of the Canadian Red Cross Society has been, he said, since its institution noted for its marvellous achievements. He expressed good wishes for the local branch in their future work.

Much success was reported by Mr. Lancaster in his initial effort to canvass the prominent business and professional men of the village, and the sum of $72 was handed over by him to the treasurer, Mrs. A. Anderson. When Mr. Lancaster has completed his present task of soliciting the support of these men, who will become honorary members of the society, he has been given authority to form a committee from among them for the purpose of organizing a campaign for a general house-to-house canvass.

Proof that interest in Red Cross work is rapidly spreading in this district was given by the president, Mrs. Andrew McLauchlin, who said that inquiries had been received from the women at Rush Point. The president stated that a Women's Association was being formed through the Rush Point United Church, which would work directly through the local Red Cross Society. The president, Mrs. A. Russell and Mrs. R. J. McCutcheton will reach the Rush Point W.A. this week for the purpose of assisting them in their preparation for war service work.

The Red Cross decided to assemble every Monday afternoon in the local Council Chamber, with the exception of the first of each month. The first meeting will be held next Monday, November 27, commencing at 2 p.m., and every woman or girl in the village who is interested in war service work is invited to attend. Work which has been completed will be handed in and more distributed at this time. The afternoon will be spent in knitting, sewing, quilting, and other work. Socks, sweaters, and other garments already finished will be displayed, and suggestions received and given.

Mrs. A. Anderson, treasurer of the Red Cross Society here during the Great War and also of the present organization, disclosed an interesting detail during the discussion regarding the purchasing of wool. Mrs. Anderson related that she had discovered upon looking through an old knitting book, used during the years of 1914-18, a receipt from a Peterborough firm showing the purchase of $100.75 worth of wool by Mrs. (Dr.) Joseph Holdcroft, president of the Red Cross branch during the World War. Mrs. Holdcroft, who is honorary president of the present group, was among those assembled last evening, and was able to offer valuable advice from her past experience in this work.

Since the local wool supply has practically been exhausted, the society decided to obtain samples and prices from an out-of-town firm and the sum of $50 was voted for this expenditure. A suggestion by the president that some of the garments already completed might be placed on display in order to stimulate public interest, was readily accepted and arrangements will be made to do so.

The society accepted an offer from the Havelock Dramatic Society to sponsor a dance on Thursday, November 30, the proceeds to be handed over to the Red Cross.

Several accounts were passed by the meeting, and it was decided that a statement of the society's funds should be published at the end of every month.

Committees have been appointed as follows:

Britain Buys Up U.S. Scrap Iron

NEW YORK, Nov. 22—(CP).—The New York Herald Tribune says in a newspage story today it has learned that Great Britain yesterday completed negotiations for the purchase in the United States of more than 750,000 tons of scrap iron for shipment within three months.

Terming the sale the "largest single transaction of its kind in history," the newspaper said the sale "represents an amount equal to about 25 per cent of total 1938 United States exports of scrap iron and steel and involves more than $15,000,000." The metal was sold by several of the largest scrap-marketing corporations of the United States.

The Herald Tribune said another deal completed yesterday was one under which Italy will purchase about 150,000 tons of scrap under terms and conditions similar to the British transaction.

Dutch Ponder Way Out Of Sea Tieup

Blame Mine Menace Not Seizures For Anchoring Ships

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 23 — (CP-Havas)—Dutch shipowners today sought a way out of the shipping crisis that threatens to immobilize the Netherlands' sea-borne trade.

The government's advice to shipping companies to suspend departures until the menace of mines disappears was accepted by all lines. But this suspension cannot continue for long, since merchant shipping is vital to Dutch economy.

It was explained this morning that the suspension of schedules advised by the government was the result exclusively of the mine menace. The British reprisal measure against the Reich, the seizure of all German exports, had nothing to do with the move, it was stated authoritatively.

From January to October of this year more than 10,000,000 tons of German goods were shipped to foreign ports from Amsterdam and Rotterdam. The figure for shipments during October is not known.

Mines Main Topic.

Last night representatives of the big shipping companies met at The Hague to consider the situation. It was understood the mine menace to Dutch shipping and not the British

Conant Debates Hydro Guard 5 Foot 6 Ruling

TORONTO, Nov. 23 (CP)—Hon. W. L. Houck, vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission, said today he had sought reconsideration from Hon. Gordon Conant, attorney-general, of the latter's ruling that guards at the hydro plants there must be taller than five feet, six inches. Mr. Conant had promised to take the matter under advisement, Mr. Houck said.

The meeting of the two officials folowed protests from war veterans who were, according to Mr. Conant, "not tall enough" to carry out the guarding duties. The men protested on the grounds that since they were "considered tall enough to fight in the front-line trenches in the last war, they were certainly capable of acting as guards."

Reason for the ruling it is understood here is most of the men enlisted for guard duty are tall and "it wouldn't look good to have a man who is only five feet six inches, or less, standing beside a much taller man on parades."

Ruthless Nazi Mine War On English Coast Stirs International Controversy As To Practicability Of "Magnetic" Brand

By CHARLES NICHOLS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Nazi Germany brought into play new and mysterious war tactics to-day as she sought to blockade Great Britain's coast with the aid of floating explosives.

The Exchange Telegraph reported from London that eGrman planes had dropped mines in the Thames estuary, Britain's maritime doorstep, from low-flying planes. One source said these mines were of the "magnetic" variety.

Coming on the heels of Sir John Simon's statement yesterday that Germany was employing magnetic mines—"a new abomination of German savagery"—the report set observers speculating upon the nature of the weapon.

Great Britain has adequate means of determining the construction of the illegally-sown mines which have destroyed close to 20 vessels, neutral as well as British, in the British sea lanes since the week-end.

In Portsmouth naval base there is an elaborate laboratory which was shown to newspapermen about a fortnight ago. Here are brought all the varieties of German mines fished from the sea by Britain's vast fleet of mine sweepers. The weapons are dissected, their explosives analyzed, their detonating apparatus examined.

Sir John Simon's statement suggests that magnetic mines have thus been caught at sea and examined.

However outside the Portsmouth laboratory and the naval heads of the Allies it is doubtful whether anyone knows exactly what the magnetic mines are. Authorities in various countries have been quizzed on the subject and their reports are conflicting and confusing.

2 States Rocked In Quake; Turk Toll Heavy

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23 (AP) — An earth shock which lasted an average of 30 seconds, but apparently did no major damage, was felt in many Missouri and Illinois cities this morning.

Rev. James MacElwaine, St. Louis University seismologist, said the centre apparently was 25 to 30 miles from St. Louis, either west or east.

One of the needles on the university seismograph was knocked off its hinges, so sharp was the shock.

Shocks were reported at Kansas City, Jefferson City, Ste. Genevieve Columbia Festus and Hannibal, Mo., and at Belleville, Alton Springfield and Chester, Ill.

Quebec To Doom Double Relief Racket

QUEBEC, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Closer definition of the term "needy unemployed" 'through modification of the present unemployment relief act has been asked of Dominion authorities by the Quebec Government, Premier Adelard Godbout told newspapermen today.

The premier, who returned last night from Ottawa where he and several of his minister conferred with Dominion Government officials, said object of the proposed change was removal from the relief rolls of all persons receiving other public or private charity.

"There now is a general law which enables almost everybody to be placed on the dole," said Godbout whose Liberal party defeated the Union Nationale Government Oct. 25 in Quebec's general election. "While this may suit other provinces, I think its application is somewhat difficult in Quebec due to certain special circumstances which exist here.

"It does not seem right or fair that people who are already living on charity should be allowed to receive government relief.

Find Dole Better

"This situation resulted in the relief rolls being swelled by people receiving both charity and relief and we also have evidence that many citizens, formerly supported by charity, have given that up and had themselves placed on the dole. It seemed to suit them better and, in some cases, apparently paid them more."

If Quebec's suggestion is adopted,

Paying Boys 6 Cents An Hour Brings Teachers' Protests

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP).— High School lads who work the longest hours get the lowest wages. This is one of the conclusions of a committee of High School teachers who made a survey of child labor performed by Secondary School students in Ontario.

The report is due to be presented to the annual meeting of the Secondary Teachers' Federation at Christmas.

Out of a total of 27,042 students reported on, scattered over all Ontario, 1,712 boys and girls were found to be employed outside school hours.

There were 73 boys who were being paid six cents an hour or less. They were mostly clerks or delivery boys.

And the figures also showed that there were 204 who worked 13 hours or more on Saturdays. Most of these were in the lowly-paid ranks.

"We think this condition of affairs needs an airing," said S. H. Henry, secretary of the Ontario Federation, who is a teacher in Toronto Central High School of Commerce. "Certainly six cents an hour is a pitiful wage even for a boy, and a boy not worth more than that would surely be hardly worth hiring.

"I do not know what action can be taken about it, but it should do some good to make these facts and figures known. Even the boy or girl laborer is worthy of his or her hire."

The record shows that 73 boys were working at jobs that paid six or less cents per hour, while 327 were receiving 12-16 cents per hour. This was the largest group. 325 boys were receiving 32 or over cents per hour. The large majority of students are over 14 years of age, most of them being in the 15 to 18 year range.

"A large number of the boys delivering newspapers, work only one or two hours per school day and a few hours longer on Saturdays collecting accounts. Incidentally, they are the best paid for their services, as the hourly and monthly wage tabulations will show. But we must remember that a great many of these youngsters are out delivering their papers long before we have any thought of leaving our beds."

Dominions Draw King's Praise As House Closes

LONDON, Nov. 23—(CP Cable).—Tribute to the war effort of the Dominions was paid today in the Speech from the Throne read at prorogation of parliament.

The exigencies of war necessitated all colorful ceremonies traditionally attached to prorogation being abandoned. The King did not attend in person, and the Speech was read by the Lord Chancellor, Viscount Caldecote.

The new session of parliament will start next Tuesday and there will be an adjournment over Christmas for two weeks or more.

"The issue is clear," the Speech from the Throne said of the war the Empire is waging against Germany. "With united will, my peoples here and overseas have dedicated themselves to the struggle. The spontaneous decision of my Dominions to participate in the conflict and the invaluable help which they are giving, and are about to give, to the common cause have been of the greatest encouragement to me.

"With the aid of our faithful French and Polish allies, we cannot doubt that our cause will prevail."

A Secret Sitting.

The new session of parliament probably will include a secret sitting of parliament, the first since the last war. It was intimated today that the government will agree to the Labor Party's plea for a secret sitting to discuss supply and munitions.

The Labor Party wants assurances from the government that the industrial resources of the nation are being used to the best advantage in producing war supplies. There has been agitation before for secret sessions but the government opposed them. It is understood now, however, it will accede to the wish of Clement Attlee, Opposition leader.

The Speech from the Throne said the war was being fought to preserve the birthright of liberty.

"Despite the efforts of my government to preserve peace, Germany, in violation of solemn undertaking, wantonly invaded Poland," the Speech said.

"This new instance of German aggression and bad faith was a challenge which we could not have declined without dishonor to ourselves and without peril to the cause of freedom and the progress of mankind.

"We seek no material gain. Liberty and free institutions are our birthright which we, like our forefathers, are resolved to preserve."

The House of Commons was thanked for the "prompt and ungrudging" acceptance of heavy financial burdens which "has deeply impressed the world and demonstrated the unflinching determination of my people to make every sacrifice necessary for victory."

Dropped At Night By Plane; Six More Ships Sink As U-Boats Get 3, Mines 3

Nazi Mine Plane Spotted Skimming River Others Believed Fuelling Subs; 3 British, 2 French, Greek Vessels Victims

LONDON, Nov. 23 (CP)—Evidence that German aircraft had dropped mines by parachute in the Thames estuary was probed today as six more British, French and neutral vessels were added to the heavy maritime losses of the past week.

The Exchange Telegraph Agency said it had learned the mines were exceptionally light and contained very high explosive. One plane, the agency said, could sow a large number of the mines.

The Evening Standard gave an eye-witness description of a German seaplane flying 50 feet over the water and barely 100 yards from the shore.

"I saw something splash in the water as it went past," the eye-witness said.

The Shipping Toll

The shipping losses disclosed today were:

The British steamship Darino, 1,351 tons, sunk by a submarine Sunday. Sixteen of the crew were believed missing. Eleven survivors landed on the east coast after spending three days in a submarine before being transferred to an Italian ship.

The 4,576-ton Greek freighter Elena R., sunk by a mine; 24 persons saved.

British trawler Sulby, 287 tons, sunk by a submarine off the Scottish coast; seven saved and five missing.

15 Mines Wash Ashore.

Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary secretary to the Admiralty, told the House of Commons that 15 mines, all German, had come ashore on the East coast within the last fortnight.

The Admiralty announced the destroyer Gipsy was beached on the coast Tuesday after striking a mine. Forty of her crew were missing and 21 injured. Built in 1936, she carried a normal complement of 146.

One Plane Down

Villagers over a wide area heard the bark of anti-aircraft batteries and saw searchlights grope the skies while fighting planes went up to give chase. One German plane was shot down at sea and another driven off.

The British and French forces on the western front also reported success in the air, with destruction of eight German planes yesterday. The London air ministry said the Royal Air Force made successful flights over Stuttgart, Frankfort, Hamburg and Bremen.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer said, in a broadcast last night:

'You have been reading in your newspaper of this latest abomination of German savagery—the magnetic mine—secretly deposited in channels of the sea in order to blow up without warning neutral and British shipping alike. All that skill and science can devise is devoted to meeting the new danger. We are confident our efforts will be sucessful.

Defend Italy's Shipping.

Meanwhile the Daily Telegraph said it was authoritatively informed that Great Britain is considering "energetic action" to defend Italy's "shipping and national dignity."

"Neutral reactions to Germany's campaign of murder by mines on the seaways and the reprisals of the Allies are swiftly becoming

Hepburn Claims U.S. Laughing At War Efforts

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 23—(CP).—Premier Mitchell Hepburn has declared a "truce" with the Dominion Government but hasn't surrendered the right to criticize the extent of Canada's war efforts.

Last night, at a banquet in honor of Warden Ashton Pinneo of Elgin County, the Ontario Premier declared he thought the war was not being "prosecuted the way that Canadians want it to be prosecuted." At the same time he promised to support Wilson H. Mills, Liberal Member of Parliament for Elgin, in the next federal election.

"Just now there is a truce between the Dominion Government and myself," Mr. Hepburn said. "I don't know how long it will last, but I do know that I am going to support Wilson Mills in the next general election."

He said people in the United States are "beginning to laugh at Canada's war efforts."

Ark Royal Saved By Miracle In Bomb Raid

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP).— Sir Derwent-Hall Caine, former member of the British Parliament, said yesterday the aircraft carrier H.M.S. Ark Royal was saved by a "miracle" on September 26 when a 500-pound bomb from a German plane heeled it over.

"The boy who dropped that bomb and saw our ship go over on the angle it did was quite entitled to go back to his base and say he thought he had sunk the Ark Royal," Caine told the Overseas Press Club. (The Germans have claimed the vessel was sunk; the British have denied it.)

Caine said he based his information on a letter from an unnamed Ark Royal officer. He quoted as the officer's account:

"We were steaming along slowly with four other ships escorting a disabled submarine back to port. ....I looked up and saw two Ger-

Tax Inroads Threatening Municipal Subsidy Force Deferred Elections Says Hepburn

ST. THOMAS, Ont., Nov. 23—(CP)—Premier Hepburn, speaking at a banquet honoring Warden Pinneo here last night, defended his stand on deferring municipal elections after 1940 and inauguration a two-year term for elective offices, and in this connection spoke of newspaper criticising.

"Newspapers that operate printing offices might not like the two-year election plan because it would cut down on their revenue from printing voters lists. In Toronto, the two afternoon papers might also be opposed because it would mean loss of revenue in election advertising.

"If a person wants to get on a municipal slate in Toronto, he has to go to one of the two afternoon papers and make arrangements for their support," he charged. "He has to contract for so much advertising and a card of thanks when the campaign is over. I know what election advertising costs, because I have paid some bills myself."

The Premier insisted there was nothing undemocratic about having an election every two years, particularly in these parlous times when all energies and resources should be directed toward carrying the war to a successful conclusion and also with as many people on relief and municipal and provincial loss of income tax revenue to the Province.

The increased excise tax on liquors was affecting Provincial revenues. Figures for October of this year proved that. They showed a 40 per cent falling off in revenue for the Province.

"We must economize or we cannot go on paying back to the municipalities the mill and one half subsidy that we have been paying. I think if we can save half a million dollars or more a year by holding municipal elections every two years instead of every year, we should. I don't care about the clamor of the newspapers. I've got used to that. I don't share the view of some that this will be a short war. I think it will be one of long duration."

Last Minute News Flashes

Firms in Switzerland which for business reasons have been making smaller purchases of German goods have received letters from Germany asking the reasons for the decrease.

With the British Royal Air Force in France.—(AP).—Seven German bombing and reconnaissance planes were reported shot down to-day by British pursuit planes on the western front. Authorities said all the British pilots returned to their bases.

A Mine Clue?

London, Nov. 23 (CP Calbe)

A METAL SPHERE believed to have been part of a unit used in laying a German minefield was washed up on the British coast near the area where sinkings of neutral vessels have taken place, it was disclosed today.

The German origin was indicated by the legend roughly scrawled with white paint: "If I make a good journey then Churchill will meet with a great loss."

A photograph of the object and a report of its discovery was shown by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, to Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons, providing a distraction for the front benches.

Hitler Summons His 4 Chiefs To Fall Pow Wow

BERLIN, Nov. 23 — (AP). — Adolf Hitler discussed the progress of the war to-day with the leaders of Germany's armed forces in a meeting at the Chancellery. It was Hitler's annual fall reception of the heads of the three branches of the armed forces with their staffs.

Leaders of the Chancellery were Field-Marshal Hermann Goering, chief of the air force; Colonel-General Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the army; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the navy; and Colonel-General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the armed forces high command.

It was assumed the Polish campaign and the future campaign on the western front were the main topics.

The high command reported "unusually valuable reconnoitring results" from air excursions over France and the British Isles "despite strong pursuit plane and anti-aircraft defence."

This morning's communique reported five French pursuit planes were shot down in border patrol combat yesterday but acknowledged no German losses.

(This morning's French communique reported destruction of six German fighting planes yesterday, while London despatches told of another shot down off the east coast of England last night.)

Allied Attack Repulsed.

The German communique follows:

"South-west of Pirmasens an enemy company attacked German vanguard posts. It was repulsed and suffered heavy losses. On November 22 lively scouting activity by the German air force over France and England achieved unusually valuable reconnoitring results despite strong pursuit and anti-aircraft defence.

"In the region around Sedan a French airplane was shot down. In waters around Shetland an English flying boat was set afire by German planes attacking low despite strong defence.

"In various places minor air encounters occurred in connection with border patrol flights by numerous pursuit planes. Four French chasers were shot down in connection therewith.

"At Freiburg a German plane was compelled by French pursuit to make a forced landing.

"On Nov. 21 an air encounter ensued over French territory between nine German destroyer planes and seven French pursuit ships. The French pursuiters were routed and thereby our own reconnaissance planes were enabled to continue their scouting activity. Enemy planes flying over German territory remained in the immediate vicinity of the border."

RumaniaNips Assistance To Nazi Mark

Blow To Nazi Trade; Cabinet Resigns; Britain Sends Planes

BUCHAREST, Nov. 23 — (CP-Havas)—Georges Tatrarescu, former Rumanian ambassador to France and regarded as among the most pro-ally of this country's leading statesmen, was commissioned by King Carol tonight to form a new cabinet.

If he succeeds his ministry will replace the Government of Constantine Argetoianu, which withdrew today following the resignation last night of the minister of national economy, I. Bujoiu.

Tatarescu, who has headed past governments, was designated at a crown council meeting held by the King late this afternoon.

The resignation followed closely upon Rumania's refusal to grant an increase of nearly 50 per cent in the exchange rate of the German mark —a blow at German hopes for greater trade with this country.

A German economic mission, having failed to get the rate raised from 41.5 Rumanian lei to 60 lei for each mark, left for Berlin by air last night.

The communique revealed the loss of one French pursuit craft.

The communique follows:

"The night was fairly calm on the front. There was artillery fire at various points.

Consumers Of Canada Party To Contest Every Riding

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23—(CP)— Every Federal seat in the Dominion will be contested in the next general election by candidates of the newly organized Consumers of Canada party, T. H. Elliott, national leader, announced last night. He added that the party is being organized in all 245 constituencies. Candidates will be announced within the next few weeks.

Formerly president of the Manitoba division of the new democracy movement led by Hon. W. D. Herridge, Mr. Elliott said the platform of the Consumers party is not entirely new. The party advocates th eplatform of the Sound Money Economic System Association which Mr. Elliott said was devised a number of years ago by Stuart Harris of Winnipeg.

The national leader claimed that the Sound Money plan was submitted to Prime Minister Mackenzie King in 1937. At that time the Prime Minister promised to institute the plan, Elliott added, but because he failed to do so the Consumers of Canada party was organized to advocate it.

A manifesto issued by the party said that "it is the policy of the Consumers of Canada to re-monetize silver so that a sound value can be placed behind every dollar in circulation in Canada."

The sound money plan advocated by the new political group is designed to speeu p consumption to the required amount of production which will absorb all employables in Canada into permanent employment.

Canada, Britain May Enter Food Agreement

OTTAWA, Nov. 23—(CP)— The impression is growing in circles here that the interests of both the United Kingdom and Canada could be served best during the war by agreements covering the principal Canadian food products—wheat, bacon and cheese—somewhat similar to that entered into between Britain and Australia for wool.

Britain agreed to maintain a price for wool equal to the market price just before the war and took over control of the Australian production. The price is to be maintained throughout the war for a year after the war ends.

This arrangement insures the sheep raisers against further drop in prices but the price may be increased by mutual understanding if world market conditions make it necessary.

"Britain can be depended upon to give as fair a deal to Canadian farmers as she has to Australian sheep raisers," one authority prominent in Government circles said today.

"If we entered into an agreement with Britain for our wheat, bacon and cheese I think we could rely upon it that Britain would treat our producers fairly and agree to increases if the world prices advanced."

Much will depend upon what reports Hon. T. A. Crerar, Mines and Resources Minister, brings back from the London war parleys next month, he said.

Present Set Up

"The present situation is that all the buying of wheat for Britain and France is in the hands of the wheat controller and he has to take many things into consideration. First, there is the price at which wheat can be bought in various parts of the world. Then there is the advantage of buying wheat which might otherwise find its way to Germany.

"Our wheat holds around 70 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William because the wheat controller will not buy in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange pit when the prices go higher than that. And he is about the only buyer for export."

So long as no other is forthcoming from Britain to make an agreement with the Canadian Wheat Board for a fixed price higher than 70 cents, there is no object in shifting from the present practice of selling in the open market, the authority stated.

"However, if Britain, to ensure a steady supply at a fixed price, would consider 75 or 80 cents then it might be advisable for the Wheat Board and the British Wheat Controller to enter into an agreement that would give Britain control of Canada's present surplus, wiping out public selling.

"Such an agreement, if along the lines of the Australian wool agreement, would have the advantage of assuring Britain wheat at a com-

The plane was sighted at 12.12 a.m. (7.12 p.m. Wednesday EST). It wheeled over the capital and then flew out of range of anti-aircraft guns. There were no reports of bombs dropped. The all-clear signal came at 1 a.m.

Hundreds Dead?

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 23 (AP) —Hundreds were feared today to have been killed and many villages destroyed by violent, intermittent earth shocks over a period of 24 hours throughout Anatolia, the western section of Turkey.

Six villages were reported levelled in east Anatoolia. Deaths were high especially in Erzingan, on the eastern edge of Anatolia, one report said.

export blockade was the main topic of discussion.

It was unanimously agreed, however, that Dutch ships must continue to ply the sea routes or else the Netherlands must accept economic suicide. The shipping companies will attempt to take every possible precaution before sending their vessels out.

Some consideration was given to choice of new routes, especially the possibility of a northern route to the Atlantic via the British control port of Kirkwall in the Orkney Islands. There were many objections to this on various grounds, however, and most of the shippers expressed their intention of continuing to use the English hannel, following British naval communiques to avoid danger zones as far as possible.

Argue Against Seizures.

LONDON, Nov. 23—(CP). — Representations from the Netherlands government concerning the British decision to confiscate German exports were delivered to the Foreign Office today, according to diplomatic circles.

They did not take the form of a "protest," but advanced certain arguments against the decision, the same circles said. Such action had been expected, and a protest would not have provoked surprise.

The Belgian government is expected to take no action here until after publication of the British Order-in-Council giving details of the application of the decision.

BODIES ARE RECOVERED

QUINN, Alta.—(CP)—Bodies of Jack Adams, 17, and William Lodmell, 18, were recovered from Lac Ste. Anne today. The boys broke through the ice during a skating party Sunday.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Pepless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did — even look healthy and strong, yet — you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dopey, tired and pepless.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

Limited Beaver Season Opens On Dec. 1

TORONTO, Nov. 23—A limited beaver season which, on the basis of last year's pelts, would bring to trappers at least $150,000, was announced yesterday by Hon. H. C. Nixon, Minister of Fish and Game.

The season, from Dec. 1 to Dec. 21, applies to that portion of the Province which lies north and west of the French and Mattawa rivers and Lake Nipissing, including the District of Manitoulin and the following counties or districts: Parry Sound, Muskoka, Nipissing (excluding Algonquin Park), Grey, Victoria, Haliburton, Hastings, Renfrew, Lennox and Addington, and Frontenac and Lanark.

Regulations rule that all persons who trap beaver, including farmers on whose land colonies have been located, must secure the usual trapping license. Each trapper will not be permitted to take more than ten pelts and the pelts must be disposed of not later than ten days after the end of the open season. Licensed fur dealers also must secure holding permits from the department for whatever beaver pelts they have in their possession ten days after the close of the open season.

NewBorderMaps Given Fliers

OTTAWA, Nov. 23—(CP)— Since Canadian warplanes cannot fly over United States territory while this Dominion is a belligerent, the Survey Branch of the Mines and Resources Department has just completed a rush job on a new map, with the international border clearly marked for air force pilots flying fom Central Canada to New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Survey crews have been busy clearing brush from the border between Quebec and Maine and between New Brunswick and Maine. A swath from twenty-five to forty feet wide will make the 293 miles of border separating Quebec from Maine clearly visible from the air, and the New Brunswick-Maine line which extends 323 miles, will be similarly cleared. Only seventy-eight miles of the latter border is on land, rivers, lakes and streams providing natural dividing lines for the remainder of the distance.

About fifteen miles of the Quebec-Maine border have been cleared in recent weeks and work will continue in the spring, pushing steadily through country that for the most part is a wilderness of bush, rolling hills, brule and muskeg.

Seven-foot iron shafts and concrete pillars mark off the border, and the clearing of underbrush from the intenational line is an enterprise shared with the United States authorities over the entire 5,000 miles of borderline from Atlantic to Pacific.

Sections of border more accessible from the United States are cleared by United States survey crews with a Canadian engineer as observer. United States engineers similarly co-operate with Canadian in clearing sections more easily reached from Canadian territory.

Border patrols have been increased now that Canada is at war, and the border lane is expected to be of assistance in curbing illegal entry into Canada and smuggling.

Rose Would Manage Golden Gate Fair

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(AP) — Billy Rose, the little man who does big things had a taste of a world's fair last summer, so now he wants to run one all by himself.

He telegraphed Mayor Angelo Rossi of San Francisco he is willing to put $1,000,000 in the San Francisco Golden gate exposition for 1940 if he could run it "without interference along certain constructive lines."

The destiny of the Pacific coast fair is undecided. Yesterday promotors said they had failed to raise enough money to assure a second season. The federal bankruptcy court may make the final decision.

Rose's aquacade grossed $2,400,000 at the New York World's Fair last summer.

Authorities in London are quoted as saying magnetic mines were used in the last war—that Great Britain used them herself under certain circumstances. Reports from Washington quote United States authorities as saying such weapons are quite impractical.

Nevertheless speculation has been abundant since first reports of their use were made public and the consensus seems to be this.

The mines are sown at anchor below the level touched by the shallow hulls of the minesweeper but fairly close to the surface; the deeper steel hull of merchantmen and war vessels exerts a magnetic pull sufficient to set off the detonating apparatus which causes a violent blast close to the ship's hull.

Anothe suggestion is that the mines are placed at the seabottom and released by magnetic pull to rise swiftly against the drawing agent of the vessel's hull. Some experts have expressed doubt that this would be possible. The magnetic pull would not be sufficient to penetrate to seabottom, they say.

Equally dangerous, however, are floating mines, strewn by the enemy to float at random in the merchant shipping lanes, blasting any vessel which runs across them. Even in daylight such weapons are difficult to detect in the choppy waters of the North Sea, more so at night.

Reports that mines were dropped in the Thames by parachute suggests they were of the floating rather than magnetic variety. It is presumed that the mechanism necessary for magnetic mines could not be placed from the air. They could, however, be set by submarines in the same manner as Germany sowed floating mines in the last war and appears to be doing again.

Offer Is Made To Settle School Fight

COBOURG, Nov. 23 (ENS) — Northumberland and Durham Counties Council have decided to make an offer to the Wooler Continuation School by which the latter would drop its move to appeal the recent judgment of Mr. Justice Greene in which he threw out the claim against the counties. At the current session of counties council, Col. F. D. Boggs, K.C., counties solicitor, informed the session that Mr. Callahan, solicitor for the Wooler Continuation School Board, was appealing against the Supreme Court decision which had thrown out the claim for transportation costs of county pupils. On Wednesday Reeve Leslie Wilson of Cobourg suggested to the council that an offer of settlement be made to the Wooler Board on the basis that the counties would be willing to give up the costs awarded them by Mr. Justice Greene if the Wooler Board would drop its intention to appeal. The costs, when taxed, would be about $200, Reeve Wilson thought, and it would cost about that much again if the appeal went on. Council approved of Reeve Wilson's motion to that effect, seconded by Deputy-Reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope.

The report of the Board of Management for the House of Refuge related that the counties home had been decorated during the year, a new fire escape added and other improvements made. The Board recommended the appointment of Dr. A. R. Richards of Cobourg as House of Refuge doctor, succeeding the late Dr. G. H. Ferris at a salary of $500 a year. The number in the institution as of June this

Canada's War Drive Being Directed For Effectiveness Howe States

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP). — The direciton of Canada's war effort is being determined by the Federal Government "with the fullest possible information and with the desire to make Canada's contriuotion as complete and effective as possible," Transport Minister C. D. Howe says.

There will be many differences of opinion as to what Canada should do, but the final responsibility rests on the Federal Government and, in making its decision, it is "in the closes consultation with the British War Cabinet," Mr. Howe said here last night. He added a warning that uninformed public opinion might bring pressure to bear on the Government for war policy changes which would be "as unwise as they would be unwelcome overseas."

In an address before the 50th annual dinner of the University of Toronto Engineering Society, the Minister sketched in considerable detail the state of Canada's preparedness at the outbreak of war and accomplishments since.

"Statements are being made that Canada is unprepared; that those in authority do not realize that Canada is at war; that nothing is being done," he said.

Ottawa Knows.

"I can assure you that there are those in Ottawa who know that Canada is at war. These include members of he Government, top ranking civil servants and business and professional men who have been drafted from civil life on account of their peculiar fitness for some particular war effort. Lights burn in departmental offices throughout the night and any hour in the 24 is considered suitable for conferences and committee meetings."

To many who recalled the first Great War, Canada's present effort might produce a feeling of unreality, he said. There are no honorary colonels whipping up civilian enthusiasm. A university student desiring to join up is given a card stating he has presented himself for enlistment and is sent back to university. Skilled mechanics are told to return to their employment.

Those responsible were trying to progress in an orderly way. The very lack of frantic endeavor and confusion was the best evidence Canada was prepared for the transition from peace to war, under a program laid down long before war came.

"If that transition is being made without stres sor strai napparent to the man on the street, surely a program must have been thought out in advance," Mr. Howe said.

Mobilization was begun "before the outbreak of war," a tax program was ready to lay before parliament, economic strength had been analysed. The result was 65,000 men were quickly mobilized—"all that can usefully be employed at present"—and a full division has been completely equipped, except for certain mechanical equipment, "and is ready to go forward."

Mr. Howe reviewed the numerous war organizations set up, the War Supply Board, the Foreign Exchange Control Board, the Wartime Prices Board, Internal Security Board; the supplies of copper, zinc, lead, aluminum, nickel and gold available; the abundance of wheat, now a welcome protection; the transportation facilities, vastly expanded since 1914.

Salvation In War

"The very surplus of transportation that has contributed to our railway problem in peace time will be our salvation in time of war, coupled with the efficiency that intense competition has produced from our carriers," he said.

In place of 19 independent managements in 1914, for instance, there was now the unified Canadian National system. "Just how fine is not realized by the average person because of the manner in which the operations have been confused with the financially debacle which led to their acquisition, and by the lack of traffic in the great depression," he said. Now Canada had two railways "unequalled in the world."

Regarding the Empire air training scheme, under which will be trained half of all the pilots required by the Allies, Mr. Howe said 40 air fields are ready right now without further development, as a result of the trans-Canada Airways system.

"I have no doubt that Canada was chosen for this effort largely because it has more well developed airdromes than any country in the British Empire," he observed.

Because of the changed nature of this war, fewer troops would be required. "While we cannot read the future, there is every indication that a much smaller number of men will be required than in the last war." He added that anyone taking an effective part in Canada's civil occupations need not feel that he is shirking.

Slim Turkey For Wall Street Thanksgiving With Trading Slowest In 15 Years

The stock ticker, proverbially the pulse taker of business, has recorded only faintly the boom pace in steel, textiles, machine tools and other industries.

Business barometers register the highest levels since 1929.

Share trading on the big board at Broad and Wall streets limps along at the slowest pace in 15 years.

Despite the September war spurt in dealings, transactions for 1939 have set a yearly pace well under 300,000,000 shares.

Unless a belated spring takes place in the final weeks of the year, the 1939 turnover seems likely to be only about one-quarter of the 1929 volume, when the tail-end of the epic post-war bull market and the ensuing crash rolled up transactions of 1,124,000,000 shares.

Prices At 1938 Levels.

On the average stock prices are about where they were a year ago. But business meanwhile has climbed far above figures for the 1938 autumn period.

Market dopsters have mixed up war. Business skepticism and Washington controls in an effort to explain why the ticker has failed in its legendary role as reflector of industrial trends here are some of the reasons advanced:

1. Foreign selling, mostly from London, keeps stocks from going ahead.

2. Business is skeptical of the duration of the boom, especially if the war should end suddenly.

3. Many traders suspect there may be a temporary letdown of production in the first half of 1940.

4. Business is fearful of United States tax increases, more wartime economic controls.

5. Securities exchange commission and other federal regulations act as a check on speculative boosting of prices.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23 — (CP). — Light offerings and scattered export buying proved sufficient to hold wheat futures prices comparatively steady throughout a featureless session on Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Quotations showed little inclination to move far from previous levels, and at the close were ¼ cent higher to ⅛ lower, November 70½, December 70¼ to ¼, May 74⅞, and July 76⅜ cents.

Cash wheat transactions took a new lease on life and reports indicated about 1,250,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern wheat have been taken by shippers and terminals since the close of yesterday's session.

Operations in the coarse grain pit lagged. Only light barley purchases by exporters kept the market from lapsing into dormancy.

Mrs. G. McCulloch Is Hostess To Circle

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23—(ENS)—Mrs. Gordon McCulloch was hostess to the ladies Mission Circle of St. Andrew's church at their regular meeting held Tuesday evening at which Mrs. G. N. Maxwell gave the principal address. Her remarks on interdominational mission in Quebec were greeted with considerable interest. She described various aspects of the work at the towns along the St. Lawrence river where new Canadians were welcomed by the Mission Houses. The meeting was opened with a worship service in which Miss M. Milne and Miss Lillian Hay took part.

Mrs. Jack Clark gave a brief resume of the work being carried on by the Woman's Missionary Society in foreign fields after which each member responded with a brief item of interest dealing with missionary work. Only vocal number on the program was provided by the quartette which comprised Mrs. C. Vessey, Mrs. Albert Hazel, Mrs. Ben Frederick and Mrs. Victor Hay. At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the committee headed by Mrs. A. Hazel, Mrs. C. H. MacNeill, Mrs. Finney, Mrs. R. Jarvis and Wynn Hay.

You May Doubt This

When the New York Times publishes a despatch from Europe we are disposed to believe it. That feeling is general throughout the newspaper world. The Times does not carry a comic strip nor the usual features, but has been built on news. Its world coverage is remarkable and it is so regarded because it is reliable.

For that reason we believe there is truth in a story sent from its representative in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, telling of the manner in which Germans dealt with the student demonstration in Prague and made plans to suppress the strike which threatened to grow as a protest against the treatment and killing of students. From the Times story we take these facts:

1—On November 17 German policemen broke into all student dormitories, both for men and women; they were not allowed to dress but tied in groups of three were dragged away. There were over 1,000 arrests.

2—They went to the homes to secure some and students who resisted or parents who tried to shield their children were shot down at once. The dead were left but the wounded were taken away without medical attention.

3—Several high schools were raided and boys and girls of the age of 16 were arrested. From these schools 35 students were taken last May and given a severe beating for demonstrating against a German film.

4—German police entered a large university clinic and expelled all patients, transport being provided only for those who had been operated on the previous night. The rest, bed patients included, had to walk or stumble as best they could.

5—In all 8,000 prisoners were taken to the Ruzyn barracks and to the stadium of the Sparta Football Club. Cold water was poured on them and they were left there until evening without food.

6—In the evening in the yard of the Ruzyn barracks before the eyes of their fellow students, 124 Czech youths were shot dead.

7—On the next day 8,000 students were sent by trucks to Germany.

8—Persons arrested on October 28 who have now been released were mostly found to be suffering from injuries which they will bear for a long time. They are the results of kicks.

9—Two girls aged 16 and 17 were held in prison for ten days and made to live in the guard room with German policemen. They are now both crazy.

Perhaps the reader may be inclined to think that is too much like a page from a book where some writer is describing hell. We know there may be some who may be inclined to contend the brutality is too intense to be possible. Against all such belief and contention we repeat our claim that we believe the report is correct because the New York Times published it and it came from that paper's own staff writer. We offer no comment because none is needed.

Getting Away With It

When we are closing down in this country on those who are saying unwise things during the period of war, it is not surprising that Canadians should wonder at the latitude allowed in England for that emphatically erratic Sir Oswald Mosley. He is an admirer of Nazi and Fascist rule and is certain they should have something like that at home.

He keeps on attacking the Government and campaigning for a peace move, and he is allowed to keep on printing his paper "Action." He and his paper are out to stop the war; he says that neither the people nor parliament were consulted. His paper openly asks for a plebiscite in every issue.

One recent report was that at his last meeting Scotland Yard had its own reporters taking down everything which was said. It may be the first step toward a blackout.

Meantime we are certain enough Mosley would not be allowed to operate in this country. He is saying things and suggesting courses of action which would not have even a slim chance of getting past the barriers here, and all this is taking place right in London.

When Peterborough Gives

It was suggested that citizens of Peterborough should raise $15,000 for the Red Cross. From returns which are not yet complete it is certain the amount will be more than $25,000.

There was something unusual about this campaign. There was at no time any pressure applied; there was no insistence that the people had to give in order to attest their loyalty. It was plainly placed before the citizens and they responded. In some places of employment there was a letter sent to employees, but the letter merely endorsed the movement, and told the workers they could settle the amount of their own contribution, and if they felt they could give nothing then there would be no prejudice created by such decision.

And in the final analysis the method employed justified itself. The giving was general and it was generous and the feeling is the folk in Peterborough donated to the Red Cross because they were thoroughly in sympathy with it and because they wanted to do something about it.

There have been several campaigns of a financial nature in the city within recent weeks, but that did not interfere at all with the success of the Red Cross effort. Starting out with the idea of securing $15,000 and finding that the fund will be more than $25,000 is a nice way of doing business.

Not An Expert

Duchess Eleanora of Bavaria landed in New York a few days ago, and ship reporters asked her at once what was going on in Europe. The result was that news went out to the press of the continent that there was likely to be a revolution in Germany. There was not much doubt about that.

When her view appeared in print the Duchess did not like the look of it; she had said too much, and it might be embarrassing when she went home.

So she made another statement saying she had been misquoted. Perhaps due to her accent the reporters had not taken down exactly what she did say.

The trouble may have started in reporters thinking that a Duchess coming from Europe would be an authority on what was taking place, while the truth probably is she knew no more than any other citizen. Possibly they would have been wiser to have asked her if she had a pleasant trip and let it go at that. The Duchess is not necessarily an expert on the European situation because she got off a boat coming from that direction.

The Proper Ending

Joseph Blondeau of St. Basile, Que., had an order to sell brooms to the Defense Purchasing Board at Ottawa. The brooms would have to pass inspection, and they were not in good enough condition to do that.

As the order amounted to 15,000 brooms it would be rather serious if the whole lot were turned back. Apparently there are various ways of getting around such a situation and Mr. Blondeau decided on one which looked simple enough. He handed $20 to the man whose business it was to do the inspecting for the Purchasing Board.

The inspector promptly handed the $20 to his superior office and told where and how he got it. The result was that Blondeau appeared in court and was fined $300. Also the 15,000 brooms remain as stock on hand for the man who made them.

There is no desire to magnify this incident out of proportion, but it is worth mention because too many people seem to have the impression that selling to a government or a purchasing commission is something which is not always on the up-and-up, and one who knows the ropes can come away with the business.

Well Mr. Blondeau tried it and he lost. Lost his $20 bribe; will be out the $300 fine and he still has 15,000 unsold brooms on hand.

They Would Shoot Him

Hans Dietrich Detjen of Tulsa, Okla., is a German, and his name indicates that. He is also a high-ranking aircraft production engineer. But he has no business being in United States as his papers are not in order.

Detjen was superintendent of production in an aircraft plant in Germany. In 1925 he left for United States, but later on returned to Germany so he might live with his parents.

Recently his passport papers were taken up by the Nazi agents and that meant he had to remain in Germany. It was then he escaped and made his way back to the States.

At the moment he is under $500 bond while the authorities try to settle his case. The usual method would be to deport him to the land from which he came—Germany.

In court Hans Detjen made the statement that if he were returned to Germany the officials there would take him before the firing squad. What's more the court believed him, and that is why they are holding up the answer. And that is the system which Hitler would fasten on the world!

Man With a Complaint

Tom Reed writes for the movies, and he is in the peculiar position of a man who has to support a wife and child, and a former wife and a couple more children.

He had quite a tale of woe to tell when he was in court the other day. He used to earn from 21 to 33 thousand dollars a year, but things went rather flat and he was forced to take the "humiliating salary of $275 a week."

And that is $14,300 per year but Reed spoke of it as though it were a sop tossed out the kitchen door to a beggar. He said that by having to accept such a paltry sum he had "lost face in the film industry" where they measure people by their salaries.

It possibly has not occurred to him that he is not worth any more. If he were as good as apparently he thinks he is then he could name his own salary and no questions would be asked.

Being humiliated by a salary of $275 per week is something which the average individual cannot understand. If Mr. Reed had said he had the itch or something like that people could have extended a bit of sympathy, but when a man's feelings have been wounded by having to pop off with only a $275 wad every pay day he is indulging in a patois which few understand.

That is one of the inherent weaknesses of the moving picture world. It has gone off on a tangent from the rest of the people, and it moves in financial circles which are not in existence elsewhere. When it produces people who set up a wail about working for $275 per week as though it were something which might be paid to a boy on a bicycle or an apprentice then we can't feel sorry for him and lumps refuse to rise in the throat. If he is of the school which considers it necessary to support two wives and two sets of children then he should consider that as his own private and rather nasty business and not squeal about it.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Toronto thieves removed a 400-pound safe containing $400. We never knew before that safes were built on that system.

The Czech workers decided to call off their strike in Prague, and the reason was the German masters had too many guns and were too ready to use them.

One scientist is sure that man has inhabited the earth half a million years. From what goes on today we are inclined to believe there is truth in the claim.

They have a man in Cobourg jail who has been on a hunger strike for the best part of a week but perhaps they do not serve pumpkin pie with a whack of whipped cream on top in that jail.

The world champion Holstein cow was sold at Chicago for $1,750, recalling the jingle of other days:

If I had a cow that gave such milk
I'd dress her in the finest silk,
Feed her on the finest hay
And milk her forty times a day.

Fritz Thyssen, German iron and steel magnate helped put the Nazi party in power. He is a member of the Reichstag and spoke against going to war. That is the reason why he considers it best to reside in Switzerland for the time being.

Two of the Dionne quints make the letter N backward and an expert from New York is being asked for advice. On the Tenth Concession the teacher looked after all classes from the first book to entrance and corrected defects without reference to the outside world.

Three German soldiers sought to escape from a camp in Scotland, but were recaptured. The ages of the trio are given as 17, 15 and 17. In our land we would look upon them as being of school age and too young for military service.

HEAVY

¶ My Uncle Eben came to town, and he is rather weighted down, I met him at the train; and I could scarce believe my eyes, three bags he had of monster size, he bent beneath the strain.

¶ When Eben started to unpack, I feared he's fill my little shack, can't shut the closet door; a little pile stands over there, some more upon the rocking chair and more upon the floor.

¶ For Uncle Eben feels the cold, now that he's growing up quite old, he longs for waves of heat; that's why he carries much with him, to pile upon his frame and skin, from dome down to his feet.

¶ The underwear that Eben's got, is thickest kind that can be bought, he has a padded vest; he has a scarf that's four feet long, and knitted heavy like and strong, to wrap across his chest.

¶ Of woollen socks he has a slew, of wristbands has a set or two, of mittens half a score; if he feels chilly as he goes, in spite of all his armoured clothes, why then he dons some more.

¶ I often marvel at the man, that he will carry all he can, when comes a day of breeze; there's such a weight put on his frame, I fear he'll fall beneath the strain—or buckle at the knees.

This Tells Of Siegfried Line Of the Germans

By LOUIS LOCHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN.—The fundamental idea underlying the construction of Germany's Westwall, or Siegfried Line, was that of diffusing rather than concentrating the far-flung defence system of almost 375 miles which reaches from Switzerland past France, Belgium and Luxemburg to Holland.

Hitler is reported by his entourage to have become "sold" to this idea after receiving, through his secret service, a copy of a memorandum on the Maginot Line written by a disgruntled French general who criticized his country's fortification system in detail.

Hitler's subordinates say he sat throughout one night studying a translation of the French officer's observations. When they found him still at his desk at 7 a.m., he told them he had now made up his mind on the kind of system necessary for Germany.

In later talks with general staff officers he is said to have placed a china platter beside a 10 pfennig piece and to have asked them: "Gentlemen, what is hard to hit—the plate or the coin?" To which they obviously replied "the coin."

THE WESTWALL is an intricate system of small units, subterraneously connected with each other but difficult to hit from the opposite side and from the air. The Maginot Line is a system of huge fortifications. The German general staff is of the opinion that, if once a breach were forced in the Maginot Line, the enemy troops could pour into the country.

In the case of the German Westwall, it is claimed that an immense number of shells would have to be wasted to hit the relatively small marks offered by the cupolas of the pill boxes and armored bunkers; and in the second place, the destruction of these miniature forts would make no real difference.

Another principle beside that of diffusion is that of criss-crossing the gun ranges of the various bunkers or other defence works. It is claimed that if the enemy should succeed in silencing and successfully shelling one bunker, the two adjacent bunkers could so completely cover this bunker that the enemy could not enter it.

Another principle is that of placing so many obstructions ahead of the fortifications proper that tanks and infantry would have a hard time approaching the bunkers or "panzerwerke."

Directly before the enemy frontier mines have been laid in profusion. Then follows a complicated system of barbed wire entanglements. It has meant the ruination of many a vineyard in the Rhine region and the putting out of practical use of many a piece of forest land. But military necessities overruled all other considerations.

NEXT COMES an almost diabolical arrangement of concrete-and-steel obstructions which look like dragon's teeth irregularly sprung from the earth. It is claimed no tank can run over these.

In addition, on wooded hillsides over which the enemy might come—for instance, in the Forest of Palatinate—motorized saws cut off all timber for say 25 feet from the bottom of the hill upwards, so that the unsuspecting tank driver, should he succeed in getting over the hill may suddenly slide down 25 feet and turn a somersault.

Still another surprise is a series of steel ribs that look like the ribs of a ship, into which the unsuspecting tank or armored car is supposed to run and then turn turtle which from right and left the bunkers open fire on him.

Only after all these obstructions have been passed, can the direct attack on the bunkers, pill boxes and "panzerwerke" begin.

When this correspondent asked a general staff officer whether any one man had designed the system he replied, laughingly: "My dear sir, in no single human breast does such sadism repose as is manifested in this defence system."

Fact is that the troops have started on a large-scale underground life and are nowhere massed in the open. Only further inland—the Westwall extends back for about 35 miles in four zones, two for artillery and infantry, and two for anti-craft batteries—does one see larger units. They are the men who must at regular intervals relieve the soldiers in the subterranean fortifications.

One problem with which the German high command—and presumably the French likewise—must face is that of determining what to do with small groups of men who are dependent on each other in an underground community, whose life at present is extremely monotonous, and in the event of an offensive is likely to be nerve-racking.

• Mr. Hepburn and Democracy

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—When Mr. Hepburn came into power he had some real able men in his cabinet—men who had some ideas of their own and were able to maintain them, such as Roebuck, Croll, Marshall, Faulkner and others. But Mr. Hepburn soon disposed of these and filled their places in his cabinet apparently with what in Ferguson's time were called "yes men" and in our time are sometimes mentioned as "satellites." Our elected representatives on the government's side, when a government measure is to be voted upon, seem reluctant to oppose it for fear of being read out of the party as Roebuck and Croll were. The Conservative opposition are very weak in the Legislature and unfortunately have a somewhat weak leader. Under these favorable circumstances Mr. Hepburn is in a position to railroad through any autocratic legislation that he pleases.

The war furnishes a golden opportunity for all sorts of high-handed acts under the guise of win the war. Mr. Hepburn apears to be taking advantage of such favorable opportunities as evinced in that act the object of which was to prevent any public assembly or free speech that might even insinuate a distaste for the present hostilities. The police were given hitherto unheard of and unthought of powers to arrest anyone on the slightest suspicion. This would have established a sort of reign of terror that would have put one in mind of Hitler. In this particular case Mr. Hepburn seems to have run against a snag for as yet, so far as I have been able to ascertain, the Lieutenant Governor has not signed the bill. Perhaps the honorable gentleman has too much respect for his good name to sign legislation of that type.

Another autocratic act is the proposal to interfere in municipal elections. We are told all municipal councils in Ontario must be elected for at least two years or for the duration of the war and thereafter be subjected to the will of some committee that is responsible to no one except perhaps Mr. Hepburn. The object of this undue interference it is claimed is to save the expense of municipal elections — a somewhat lame excuse as an election in a rural municipality would cost only from 080 to $100. How long would it take for a hair-brained council responsible to no one to blow in 10 times that amount? A council in no way responsible to the electors would soon become autocratic like the Queen's Park outfit and run the municipality as hopelessly in debt as this province is today. If we stand meekly by and allow our liberties to be usurped we deserve all we get. All councils should hold a plebiscite and those councils that refused to do so should be turned out this coming election. Mr. Cross says the government will not recognize any plebiscite. Very true but the Lieutenant Governor might come to the rescue as he appears to have done on the aforesaid occasion.

Mr. Hepburn would pose as a champion of democracy and he calls himself a Liberal. Is it not reasonable to suppose those autocratic acts would injure democracy more than any socialist's harangue for no one would be overly enthusiastic to maintain the sort of democracy Mr. Hepburn appears to have in mind? A free people will naturally resent autocracy and this resentment will fester out in some form that will be inimical to public unity so necessary at a time like this.

• Something For U.S. To Answer

RIGHT HERE I want to make an assertion which will, of a certainty be contradicted, by knowledgeable people. It is this: Next to England Germany hates the United States. They conceal it, deny it, but undergirding all their thought is a consuming jealousy which will never be appeased until they can clap their hands to see us as low as they were in 1922.

I have come to this conclusion slowly and regretfully, adding up many facts, weighing a lot of evidence. I said "next to England" and I am more sure of it than of any other item of Continental politics. German youth secretly nourishes the dream of Alexander of Macedon, of Napoleon Bonaparte. If she fails to realize it, the Anglo-Saxon will have thwarted her.

The twin objectives of Hitler are the obliteration of the Versailles treaty and the associating of all German folk under the German roof-tree. The first objective may be filed away as finished business. Progress toward the attainment of the second objective has caused the death of Czecho-Slovakia, Austria and Poland. In the further progress toward the realization of the second objective the United States becomes involved.

At this point many men will throw down the paper and exclaim: "The man is nuts. Does he think that the United States can be attacked, overrun and knocked stiff like a lot of middle Europas?"

The answer is no. No one conceives of an expeditionary force against the mainland of the United States, least of all the Germans. They have a manoeuvre worth ten of that. It is Step 3 of the Tactic.

It was not Germany that declared the actual war. It was the British Government, that had been jockeyed into a corner, over a matter of principle. If, as and when Germany feels that the time has come to take us on, she believes that she can manoeuvre us into a corner over a matter of principle. It will be the United States that declares the war. The cause will be the ingathering of another group of the German folk, who live in South America, under the German roof-tree,—in pursuance of the already familiar objective. The principle upon which they expect to enmesh us is that associated with James Monroe.

Arsac is a long way from New York, but I assume that the majority of Americans are thinking seriously of our relation to this unpredictable conflict. Two questions we must sooner or later answer. They are in Stage 3 of the German Tactic. We need not waste a second considering generous gestures toward England or France. This is strictly a matter of saving our own hide.

The first question:

How much do we care for the Monroe Doctrine? Enough to fight for it?

The second question:

A mad dog is loose and is headed down our street. Shall we join the boys at the end of the street in trying to scotch him? Or shall we wait until he has disposed of them and we are alone to handle him?

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this? They said unto him, Yea, Lord.

Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened.—Matt. ix: 27-30.

A. & P. IS READY TO OPEN CANADA'S NEWEST SUPER-MARKET

Shopping Is Done On Wheels Down Wide Avenues Flanked With Tiers Of Food

Canada's newest A. & P. supermarket will open its doors to the public on Charlotte street, just west of George street on Friday. Peterborough shoppers then will be introduced to the super-market of tomorrow, where shopping is done on wheels down wide smooth avenues, flanked with tiers of the choicest foods available, displayed against a background of oak and maple panelling and chrome accessories.

Eight thousand square feet of floor space hase been provided to give shoppers the utmost in selective facilities. Here are found three refrigerators for meats, butter and produce, food from the corners of the earth, fruit, vegetables, canned goods, cakes, candy, household necessities, everything for the best home, eevrything for the table. Twenty-five persons form the staff, with every consideration for their courtesy, sales ability and knowledge of the A. & P. stock.

Each department is clearly marked with wooden letters set in attractive backgrounds. There are six cashiers to speed up the business of shopping, and many new basket gliders introduced into Canada by the A. & P. chain. These eliminate the often tiresome chore of carrying baskets. A shopper places two baskets, if desired, in one of the buggies and wheels it with ease down wide shopping lanes.

Parking Lot in Rear

A flood-lit parking lot is at the rear of the new attractively-faced market and shoppers may feel perfectly at ease when they leave their automobiles parked while they shop. This is particularly attractive to Peterborough shoppers, and is another A. & P. courtesy in this supermarket of tomorrow.

The coffee department has three coffee mills to grind the breakfast beverage to suit discriminating taste. Besides the many nationally-known brands, there are A. & P.'s own three popular brands. For the first ten days demonstrations of coffee will be given by Miss Yvonne Millman of Toronto, who will also be in charge of the guessing contest being held in connection with coffee.

The dairy department features domestic and imported cheeses, finest butter, eggs, honey products, all manner of dairy produce, in refrigerated counters.

Next to it is the meat department employing 12 expert butchers. Meat is cut in the market and choicest selections are available from the highest grade of meats, prominently displayed in refrigerated counters. The produce section will feature all kinds of fresh fruits and vegetables. In these 8,000 square feet of floor space, nothing has been overlooked in the business of supplying the demand of smart Peterborough shoppers for the best at a reasonable price.

H. Corner has been named grocery manager; A. Millen will head the meat department, and Harry Stiles will be produce manager. These men have all been associated with the A. & P. store on George street, and their genial service to shoppers has made them many friends in this city.

In explaining the location of this greatest A. & P. store of them all in Peterborough, T. Tough of Cobourg, district superintendent, said: "We have had this project in mind for three years, but have been waiting until the right location could be found. Now it is completed, and this store has been built along strict A & P. specification. Our aim is to satisfy Peterborough shoppers with the values we know we have.

"Our company has confidence in Peterborough and its future. We want to be a part of the greater Peterborough that is on the way and we want to contribute to the industry of this district. Because we have this confidence, this store, the newest and largest in Canada, has been located here. We invite all our friends to visit the store, to inspect our departments and the store, whether or not they make a purchase. We are proud of this supermarket. We want Peterborough to be proud of it, too."

THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES HAVE ENROLLED!

Enrolled? Indeed they have—in an effort to combat one of Canada's most common, most burdensome ailments, constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. In all these homes, men and women are joining the "regulars" by eating a crisp, crunchy breakfast cereal, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. What's the reason? Is there a story behind this national swing to ALL-BRAN? There certainly is—a story that began many years ago.

Years ago, when people wore costumes like these, W. K. Kellogg conceived what was destined to be one of the costliest, most comprehensive studies of constipation ever made. Eminent nutritionists and medical faculties of famous universities have checked and re-checked ALL-BRAN'S ability to solve the problem of constipation due to lack of "bulk." But that isn't all. Thousands of Canadian families have proven it, too—from their own experience. Today, ALL-BRAN is growing faster than ever.

Join up at your grocer's! If you, too, suffer from common constipation, don't let it drag you down any more! Ask your grocer tomorrow for a package of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. You'll really enjoy correcting your trouble with this crunchy nut-sweet cereal. Eat it regularly with milk or cream, and drink plenty of water. Look for the red Kellogg signature on the package. In two convenient sizes at all grocers. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in London, Ontario.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

As the war at sea enters a new and grimmer phase signs indicating a Nazi intention to invade Holland reappear.

One of the latest is the German charge that the British Intelligence Service, blamed for the Munich beer hall explosion which nearly took Adolf Hitler's life, maintains headquarters at The Hague.

This charge may well be one of the steps in a trumped-up indictment against Holland designed to justify a German march to the sea through Dutch territory. However grotesque it may appear to non-Germans it is just the thing to inflame the passions of Hitler's devotees within the Reich against Holland.

Holland yesterday took the extraordinary step of ordering all Dutch ships to remain in port in an effort to avoid entanglements. The step followed and possibly was due to the British decision to stop German exports in retaliation for the indiscriminate mining of North Sea waters.

Holland and Belgium are the only neutral outlets for German export trade open in the west. As Holland's seaborne traffic is much greater than that of Belgium the British decision is likely to embarrass Dutch shipping interests by forcing them to abandon neutral traffic.

If, in the face of the British ban on the transport of goods from Germany in neutral vessels the Dutch are under pressure from Germany to resist the British policy, Holland is figuratively as well as literally between the devil and the deep sea.

Springbrook Crash Badly Damages Car

MARMORA, Nov. 23—(ENS).—An accident occurred a quarter mile west of Springbrook on Tuesday afternoon when a truck owned by M. Fitzgerald, of Springbrook was struck by a car owned by W. P. Moore of Campbellford. The truck was driven by Clinton Lough of Springbrook who stopped to pick up a friend when the Campbellford car ran into the rear of the vehicle causing considerable damage to the car.

Past Master's Night was observed by Marmora A. F. & A. M., 222. At the appointed time, Right Wor. Bro. C. H. Buskard took the chair and other officers were filled by Past Masters.

Instructive addresses were given by Very Wor. Bro. W. L. Rigg, Wor. Bro. Rev. Dr. W. P. Fletcher, Wor. Bro. Canon W. G. Swayne and Wor. Bro. J. F. Baker.

ROYALTY AT FRONT.

POTSDAM, Germany, Nov. 23—(AP)—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm said today in a signed statement that "all members of the German royal houses in so far as they are able to bear arms are at the front."

The Prince is confined to his bed with a heavy cold and fever.

"Neither I nor my brothers nor sons nor any member of the Hohenzollern house or any other German royal house has been arrested or shot," the Prince said.

Britain Suspending London Naval Pact

GENEVA, Nov. 23—(CP-Havas)—Great Britain Tuesday informed the League of Nations it had decided, because of the war, to suspend indefinitely application of the 1936 London naval pact and of the bilateral accords subsequently executed by Britain with Soviet Russia and Poland. The decision was in conformity with article XXIV of the respective pacts.

The London treaty, concluded on March 25, 1936, by Great Britain, France, the United States, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India, provided for qualitative limitation. Italy subscribed to it on Dec. 2, 1936.

The provisions of the London pact were worked into bilateral accords Britain concluded with Moscow on July 17, 1937, and with Poland on April 27, 1938.

Britain advised the league that she had received notice from the United States, France and Italy of their decision to suspend application of the London pact.

Mississippi In Clutch Of Newest Oil Boom

YAZOO CITY, Miss., Nov. 23.—(AP)—Mississippi—state with lowest per capita income of the United States—is in the happy throes of an oil boom.

An oil showing was found in Yazoo county Aug. 29, and the test was completed as a producing well a week later.

Oilmen flocked to the scene. The rush for leases and locations started. New money—estimated at more than $1,000,000—poured in.

Now, with an estimated 3,000,000 under way in a dozen counties, four acres of land under lease, surveys wells completed as commercial producers and seven other tests under drill, the upsurge is noted at every hand in the midstate sector.

Bags 170-Pound Boar With Archer's Arrow

TELLICO PLAINS, Tenn., Nov. 23—Heartened by the season's initial kill of a wild Russian boar with a steel-tipped arrow, 11 marchers trekked through Cherokee National Forest Tuesday in quest of the elusive tuskers.

Roger Raymo, president of the Knoxville Archer's Club, drove an arrow into the heart of a 170-pound boar yesterday. He was barred from further hunting because of the bag limit of one.

Game Warden Earl Weese said Raymo's tusker was almost a "perfect specimen" of the wild boar brought to the forest in 1914 from the Ural Mountains.

Japs Will Remain In China Till Reds Gone

TOKYO, Nov. 23 — (AP).—Premier Nobuyuki Abe announced today Japan would keep troops in China until "China is entirely free from the Communist menace."

In a statement published by the Japanese press, the Premier said the garrisons would operate under an anti-comintern pact which Japan would conclude shortly with a new government for China along the lines of the anti-comintern pact of Japan, Italy, Germany, Hungary, and Spain, but separate from it.

The Japanese Government, he said, is trying to establish peaceful relations with the Soviet Union, and after demarcation of the border between Japanese-protected Manchoukuo and Soviet-supported outer Mongolia another commission likely will be established to mark other borders.

The newspaper Asahi in a despatch from Moscow reported Russia had asked that a Soviet-Japanese Conference in Chita, Siberia, November 29 to discuss Manchoukuo's boundary differences be postponed.

In discussing the United States-Japan treaty which the United States has served notice will be terminated on January 26, 1940, Abe said: "It would be fortunate for both America and Japan if their relations were adjusted before abrogation. However, it cannot be helped if the treaty expires before readjustment. Measures for coping with such a situation are being studied in the various quarters concerned."

The British and Japanese Governments were said to be considering the best means of regulating their relations.

Bitter Over Naval Deal.

Toshio Shiratori, former ambassador to Italy, declared that if the war should spread into a world conflict "too many Japanese remember the bitter lesson of the Washington conference to feel inclined to fight again for Great Britain and America."

(Many Japanese feel that in the Washington conference of 1921-22 their country was compelled to accept a position of naval inferiority to Britain and the United States).

Shiratori, who was recalled after his attempts to make a military alliance among Italy, Germany and Japan failed, praised Germany and Italy in an interview. He said that Japanese relations with those powers were still close despite the Russian-German agreement.

"If the United States enters the war it will be a world war in a literal sense," he asserted, "because then it would be extremely difficult for Japan to remain neutral."

"The totalitarian nations work to establish a new order throughout the world. Japan is doing its job in the Orient. Germany and Italy are doing theirs in Europe."

Shiratori said Germany was assisting a move for Russian-Japanese understanding by acting as a go-between in their negotiations. A movement within Japan for a non-aggression pact with Russia is growing, he said.

A Brave Man

Los Angeles, Nov. 23 (AP).

AUTHOR Theodore Dreiser, he of the tart comment, isn't afraid of the ladies.

He stood before 300 members of the Los Angeles Junior League and said "Women's clubs are baloney!"

Members gasped.

"From an intellectual, social and economic angle, I say again that all women's clubs are baloney. There should be more to a woman's club than just planting graves and placing plaques."

What, a hearer asked, is he doing at the moment?

"I am writing a book of philosophy."

"Is it about women?"

"Darling," he retorted, "without women there would be no need for philosophy."

Cooking Ideas Given Havelock WI

HAVELOCK, Nov. 23—(ENS).—The second and final demonstration on "meat cookery" was presented Monday afternoon to the members of the Havelock Branch Women's Institute by local leaders Mrs. L. Weese and Mrs. William Rice. There were about twenty members present to benefit from the information passed on to them by the two representatives from here who attend the course in Norwood.

Five kinds of meat were prepared and cooked during the afternoon and at the conclusion the ladies received delicious samples from a (1) chuck roast, (2) ham mousse, (3) meat loaf, (4) sausage crown, (5) swiss steak.

SAPPERS LEAD IN "Y" CAGE LOOP WITH WIN OVER BOMBERS

Artillery Loses To Pursuits As Gunners Win

Sappers jumped into an undisputed lead over the field by downing Bombers 23-14, while Pursuit Squadron buried the Artillery 39-16 to sink the losers into the cellar in last night's House League games at the Y.M.C.A., the last in the first half. Tank Corps were forced to default to Machine Gunners, but played an exhibition game, the latter winning 33-19.

Sappers had a small margin in each half, leading 13-9 at the half and adding another 5 points to their margin in the last stanza. They held Bill Moorhead, the league's leading scorer, to 3 points and played well defensively throughout. Neither team had a great deal of combination and shooting was very spotty on both sides. Play was fairly rough and even but the winners earned their margin with a little better shooting around the basket. Stewart led the winners with 12, while Sedgewick had 7 and Levine headed the losers with 5 points.

Running Wild.

Pursuit Squadron ran wild over Artillery after a slow start, piling up a 21-6 edge in the first half and continuing on from there. They had no difficulty breaking the losers' defense and made most of their shots from in close. The artillery was very weak on the defense and missed numerous scoring chances with faulty shooting. Kingdon, Amys and J. Patterson all shared the scoring for the Pursuit Squadron, scoring 35 points between them, while Gillespie and Craig had 6 apiece for the losers.

Machine Gunners scored an easy win over the Tank Corps in what amounted to an exhibition game, wining handily 33-19. They led 23-15 at the half and clung to their margin through the hard fought final chapter. McArthur with 18 points, was high scorer for the night for the winners, with Lacheur getting 7 for the losers.

The teams:

Sappers— Sedgewick, McIntyre, West, Stewart, Whaley, Marshall.

Artillery—Currie, Gillespie, Craig, Thomas, McDonald.

Tank Corps— Lacheur, Rennie, Rogow, Patterson.

Machine Gunners — McArthur, Ward, McPherson, Fitzgerald, Dundas.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

So it's 10.30 in the a.m. Saturday for P.C.I. senior rugbyists against Port Colborne at the back campus of Toronto Varsity. The forward-passing Ports and the speedy P.C.I.-ers clash for the C.O.S.S.A. title—and their final fray of the year. Probably the Garnet and Gray gridders will have some supporters on deck since the high school squads in this town draw supporters like a magnet picks up shingle nails. Bamforth band should be at full strength—and we trust the secondary defence throws its weight into the tilt—while no casualties are reported from the Canal Town team. The Ports' lineup (if anyone cares) is: Flying wing, Rogers; halves, Smith, Shore, Funkhouser; quarter, Furling; snap, Goodings; insides, Tufts, Bearss; middles, Berwick, McAvoy; outsides, Baker, Booker; subs, Minor, Luke, Colleto, Root. Too bad the playoff could not have been lined up for here.

Wes Champ first vice-president of the Petes' hockey club, is an enthusiastic gent. Takes in the locals' practices in Oshawa and just drapes himself over the boards and watches the workout for the full hour. Mr. Champ has the distinction of first signing Eddie Shore to a pro contract, out in Regina quite a few years ago. We asked him about it and he said: "Yes, I signed him up for a thousand dollars. He was a wingman then and about 23 or 24 years old. I was advised he was just a tramp player, but he looked sweet then—and he certainly proved his greatness since that time!"

Come Ye, Come Ye

Industrial Puck Loop meets to organize for the first time this evening at eight in Duffus' and shops interested in putting in a team should be represented. Probably about eight clubs will be admitted. With the success of the first-year Industrial Softball League behind 'em—and the thought of a possible Industrial Sports Committee being formed here ere too long—the manufacturing concerns, which are interested, give promise of revamping the sports picture in Peterborough to a big extent. Of course, there will be difficulties to overcome—maybe a carload or two of 'em—but it's a healthy sign to see these shops giving the athletic side of the employees' lives real consideration.

Comes a rumor that Lakefield hockey interests are reviving and another intermediate team may be entered in the O.H.A. Possibly with such clubs as Port Hope, Cobourg, Omemee, Norwood or Campbellford and Lindsay. The rumor persists, though we haven't heard a thing officially, that the Legionnaires or someone in the village 10 miles north of this office wherein we tap out so much piffle—with the odd bit of news, too—will be back again in the puck wars. They made a good job of it last semester. It is also hinted possibly Shrimp McDougall or some other playing manager might be apointed to pilot the outfit. However, it'll all come out in the wash.

Boys Of Bella Villa

Skipper Eddie Thomas and his Belleville Redmen — who would rather like an intermediate "A" rating, though they won't admit it out loud—are drilling hard now for their VanHorne Cup series and later their O.H.A. campaign. Along with last year's crew and two imports from Prescott, they've dug up George Filion, a defenceman from Trenton, and Bill Hastie. The latter is a former Oshawa senior star. Thomas is also on the prowl for Tabby Gow, speedy Kingston right-winger. Tossing a telescopic glance down Bella Villa way from atop the cereal company's tower, we'd say the Redmen are gonna be plenty potent in senior "B" circles in another month. Still and all, the Petes like 'em tough.

All six Girls Basketball League teams swing into action at the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow eve when the schedule commences at 7.45 sharp. J. H. Vernor will officially open the 1939-40 season and Westclox start it off against Quaker Debs. Second tilt at 8.45 is betwixt St. John's and the "Y" Gym gals, while the final fray sees Quaker Aces tangle with the Orfuns. The latter team makes its first appearance in this circuit, having dropped out of the L.O.B.A. for this year. Joe Cooper—genial Joe himself—is in charge of the officials and two referees will handle the games, Sybil Ecobichon having been named scorer and timer. The fair basketeers are expecting a big turnout of fans for this trio of cage tussles.

A Home Of Their Own

Girls of the City Loop played under a big disadvantage last year without gym facilities of their own, much of the schedule being run off at the Collegiate gymnasium. Previous to that, the rather runty quarters at the Y.W. hardly gave a player a chance to expand—it was a tight fit around the shoulders, and elbow pads were needed to soften frequent smacks aginst the walls. All that has been changed with the building of a spacious new gym—a guaranteed pure pipperino—and the lasses are off to one of the earliest starts in the league's history and what they predict will be a swelegant season. We hope it is.

Gord Minty has lined up a right interesting aquatic meet for the Y.M.C.A. pool this Saturday in the gloaming. Ace swimmers from Toronto Broadview "Y" will compete with the pick of the Peterborough talent, and a lively competitive session is forecast. Swimming, diving, racing, stunts and all the rest of it on this dual splash program. Last year the Broadview aces carried off honors here but the "Y" contingent has improved a great deal and may very readily sink the opponents to cop the meet. Followers of this entertaining indoor—and, of course, inwater—sport are invited to ankle up the main stem along about eight bells Saturday p.m.

Ottawa Advances Puck Claims For F. Nighbor

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—(CP).—Three of Ottawa's hockey authorities stepped forward last night to claim Frank Nighbor, one-time poke-check wizard of Ottawa Stanley Cup teams, as the greatest player of all time.

Thus did Frank (King) Clancy, Dave Gill and Alex Connell jump into the controversy that started when jovial Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings named Syl Apps of Toronto Maple Leafs as the game's greatest.

Their nomination brought to five the number of players put forward as the greatest in this controversy that threatens to go on until a complete team, at least, has been named.

Others may place Cyclone Taylor, Howie Morenz, Eddie Shore and Apps at the top of the list, but Clancy, Connell and Gill made it plain that in Ottawa, where many a great player has come and gone, Nighbor must get the decision.

"There never was any one to compare with Nighbor as an all-around hockey player," said Gill, former manager and coach of the Ottawa Senators in the National Hockey League.

"In his prime Nighbor could skate as fast as the best. He did everything so smoothly, so methodically and with such precision that his effectiveness perhaps was not as apparent as in others.

"But the reverse was true. Nighbor, while not as flashy as some, certainly was more effective."

Clancy, famed defenseman of Ottawa and Toronto, held that Nighbor was as good as any one and added: "To me, he certainly was tops."

Connell, who tended goal for Ottawa and National Stanley Cup teams, said: "There was no doubt in his mind at all."

"Nighbor was the greatest and most effective centre player of all time," declared Alex. "Apps and Morenz rate as most spectacular, perhaps, but never could be classed as effective as the Pembroke Peach."

PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

EBBIE GOODFELLOW
Detroit Red Wings.
By Central Press Canadian

One of the National league's better defencemen, both on defence and attack is Ebbie Goodfellow, who bowls 'em over for Detroit Red Wings. He's one of the many big-time puck chasers born in Ottawa, making his bow there 32 years ago. Played amateur in the capital before joining Detroit Olympics in the International league for the 1928-29 season. No sooner there than he led the league in scoring and the next season was up with the Falcons, as the Detroit team was then known. In those days Ebbie was a centre player, and in his second season in the N.H.L. (1930-31) he fell just three goals short of tying Howie Morenz for the scoring championship, after leading most of the way. Switched to a defence post six seasons ago, he is an outstanding example of a forward converted to that position. He's a rough-and-ready performer at the blue line, but acquires comparatively few penalties, his worst season being 1935-36, wwhen he spen 69 minutes in sinners' row. Altogether he's watched 439 minutes of play from that point of vantage in his 10 full seasons, meanwhile scoring 115 goals and assisting in 150 others, for a point total of 265. Weighs around 180. Married. Captain of the Red Wings for the second successive year.

When the first official National League set of figures was issued recently, they disclosed this pair leading two departments of play. Drillon, right wing on the league's most dangerous forward line, was leading in points, his record showing five goals and four assists, for a total of nine. He was the league's leading scorer two seasons ago. Pratt, Rangers' very excellent rushing defenceman, was the penalty leader, with 16 minutes spent watching play from the sidelines.

Outlaw League

EDMONTON, Nov. 23—(CP) — Dr. W. G. Hardy, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, announced last night that the C. A. H. A. considers the Hollywood, Calif., league "an outlaw league" and warned that Canadian players who go to play there "against permission of their branch will be suspended."

Dr. Hardy's statement said the Hollywood League has not fulfilled provisions which must be met if Canadian players are to retain their C. A. H. A. eligibility.

The provisions are affiliation with the Amateur Hockey Association of the United States and posting of a sufficient bond to ensure return transportation for players.

Recently several Saskatchewan players sought permission from the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association to play in the Hollywood League.

South Africa has taken over all the molasses in the country to be used as rations for its defence troops.

Bombers Likely To Train At Hamilton

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23—(CP)—Manager Joe Ryan of Winnipeg Blue Bombers said last night that if weather here forces the western football champions to complete training in the east for the Dominion final December 9 the club probably will accept the invitation to use facilities of the Hamilton Tiger football club.

Commenting on a Hamilton dispatch quoting secretary J. D. Chilman of Tigers as offering Bombers use of the Hamilton amateur athletic association grounds and quarters, Ryan said he had not had previous word of the invitation but that it was much appreciated.

"I have no doubt we will accept providing the weather here forces us to complete training in the east.

The weather was perfect here tonight as Bombers resumed drills suspended since they won the western title in Calgary last Saturday.

NU-BLUE SUNOCO
The new miracle of gasoline chemistry
yet it sells at regular gas price

Within the last two months, 1475 users of premium-priced gasolines were asked to test an unidentified, colorless gasoline which was really Nu-Blue Sunoco with the coloring left out. From Florida to Canada, these tests were conducted, not by us, but by independent, unbiased research authorities, and when the returns were summarized, it was found that these motorists voted 9 to 1 in favor of Nu-Blue Sunoco! 9 out of 10 proclaimed it equal or superior to the premium-priced gasolines in road performance.
To make a fair test, don't dilute Nu-Blue Sunoco with other gasoline. Let your tank run practically empty. Then put in Nu-Blue Sunoco. Compare it particularly with premium-priced gasolines. We'll rest our case on your findings.

PCI Senior Team In The Finals Port Colborne

P. C. I. senior gridders meet Port Colborne this Saturday morning as 10.30 o'clock on the back campus at Varsity stadium in Toronto. It will be a sudden-death game for the C.O. S. S. A. championship—the C. O. S. S. A including a big part of the province, Central Ontario, north to Barrie and skirting Toronto, a strip into Niagara peninsula. It does not touch western Ontario, the Ottawa Valley or Toronto. The following item is from the Niagara Falls Review:

"Port Colborne high school appears on the way to keeping the Cosas senior grid honors in this territory. Their triumph over Barrie in Toronto last Saturday places the canal town crew in the finals against the representatives of the Bay of Quinte territory, and if they survive next week's go, they will rule the Provincial's central section—an honor brought this way last autumn by Falls C. I. We question if this season's representatives are as well-balanced as Andy Gilles' 1938 titleholders, but the lakeshore boys made a splendid showing in group games and outlasted Stamford C. I. to reach the playdowns. District followers are going to be solidly behind them in their final meeting. The small Lake Erie team town has been prominent in athletics for a long time and here's hoping they go all the way in their present grid program."

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP). — New York's football Giants are getting ready to unload a flock of their veterans after this season, championship or no. . . That cracked rib Lew Jenkins gave Mike Belloise the other night probably marks the end of Mike's unlucky ring career.

Being a fight promoter has its headaches. So far this year, Mike Jacobs has paid out $580,585 in state, city and federal taxes. . . . Hugh Casey, Brooklyn Dodger twirler, who needs to shed a lot of girth, has placed himself under the care of Prof. Artie M'Govern.

First Bowl games goes on today. . . . Down in New Orleans two crack kid team clash in the "Turky Bowl" game. . . It differs from other such contests in that admisison is free. . . . Judge Landis, baseball's house cop, is said to be arming for another offensive against chain store baseball, and the fireworks may pop at the Cincinnati meetings.

Roy Worters, once king of New York Americans' net, has no thoughts of returning to action. . . He watches games in Toronto and they say he shivers every time a puck zooms at the goalie.

"Be Seeing You This Summer, Dom"

This picture is noteworthy these days in that it is one of Joe DiMaggio, slugging Yankee outfielder, taken WITHOUT Dorothy Arnold that was, Mrs. J. DiMaggio that is. Instead, Joe is seen with his younger brother, Dominic, a centre field star with San Francisco Seals in the Coast league last summer, who was recently sold to Boston Red Sox for a pretty fair sum. The Sox are well supplied with outfield strength and Dom may be farmed in the east for another year, but should he stick, it will be quite a sight seeing the brothers making sensational catches on each other's drives to centre field.

University Of Western Ontario Places Six Men With The All-Stars

TORONTO, Nov. 23 — (CP). — Years may pass before so good a Canadian college football backfield is brought together as that which carried the mail this year for the University of Western Ontario in a season without a defeat.

The ball-carrying brigade of Western's wild horses drew four of the five spots in the backfield of the 1939 Intercollegiate senior all-stars, picked by 14 sports writers and coaches in the college towns and announced last night by The Canadian Press. Alex Hamilton, McGill's great punter and punt-receiver, was chosen flying wing.

Here is the team:

Flying wing, Alex. Hamilton, McGill.
Half, Joe Krol, Western.
Half, Harry Szumlinski, Western.
Half (secondary defence), Clem Faust, Western.
Quarterback, Alf Hurley, Western.
Snap, Nick Pathouski, Queen's Inside, Jerry Conlin, Queen's.
Inside, Chuck McLean, Toronto.
Middle, Murray Telford, McGill.
Middle, Howie Bartram, McGill.
Outside, Roy Kent, Western.
Outside, Claude Moore, Western.

Inclusion of Kent and Moore, the pass-catching and blocking ends, meant that almost everyone who had a ball-handling part in the terrific attack of Western's starting team was in the lineup. Lyn Thompson, the kicking ace, was the nearest of Western's other backfielders to selection with ballots from four voters.

Four To Be Lost in 1940

Four of Western's six representatives will be graduated next spring and it's doubtful whether coach Bill Storen will get anyone to fill their places adequately right away. But in Krol and Szumlinski, almost unanimous choices in their first year as senior college players, he has the beginnings of another great example of wide-open football.

Krol and Szumlinski, on whom Storen is counting in his plans for 1940 and '41, were named on 13 ballots each. The vote was "weighted" so that equal voting strength prevailed in all cities.

The strength of Western's line was surprising enough, but if Storen had had something like this all-star front wall to protect the start of his plays the Mustang backs might never have been pulled up.

Paithouski was almost as accurate at snapping as George Willis used to be for Western, and a cracking good secondary defender and pass-stopper as well. Conlin, a leaning tower of a man, was a charging blocker and shock-absorber beside the squat Pathouski. If McLean, a former Queen's player, had been with the tricolor instead of Toronto, the centre of the line would have been like a battering ram.

LOSSES PROFIT RED CROSS

LONDON—(CP). — Although he lost them all, the four matches golf champion Henry Cotton played for the Red Cross netted the organization over $4,450.

Seibert To Sidelines

Starting off the season in a manner that made it appear as if they were really coming back from the depths they reached last year, Chicago Black Hawks were dealt a severe blow when, Earl Seibert, ABOVE, their ace defence player, suffered torn knee ligaments in a game against Rangers. He is expected to be on the sidelines for three or four weeks. Over the past five years Seibert has been one of the most consistent defencemen in the N.H.L.

Falls Fade Out In 14-2 Tilt With Goodyears

TORONTO, Nov. 23.—(CP)—Beat the drums and warn the troops—Toronto Goodyears are full out once again and rolling along in the smooth style that won them the Senior "A" title of the Ontario Hockey Association last season.

The mighty Goodyears, who haven't lost a league game since the season of 1937-38, turned on all their vaunted power over the big ice surface of Maple Leaf Gardens last night and whipped Niagara Falls Cataracts 14-2 for their fourth straight win this fall. Held to a 1-1 tie in the first period, the Goodies scored seven without a reply in the middle frame and added six more in the third to one by the Falls.

The Cataracts were weakened in the first period when hard-hitting Jack Astle, argumentative rearguard who is leading the league in penalties, was forced to retire with a back injury. Goodyears took advantage of misconduct penalties to Steak Morrison and Horse Desson in the second period to run in counters on sustained power plays.

The withering Toronto attack was led by Peanuts O'Flaherty, slim winger who has profited by the coaching of Eddie Powers, Sr., coach of Syracuse Stars of the International-American League last season who took over the Goodyears reins this winter.

Some Nice Shooting

O'Flaherty scored two goals and made plays for five more to take over the league scoring lead with 13 points. His seven points against the Falls totalled one more than he had snared in all three other games this season.

Eddie King of Goodyears scored three times and earned an assist last night to take second place in the point standing with nine, along with Johnny Inglis of Toronto, who made five points against the Cataracts on two goals and three assists. Another Goodyear performed to boost his average was young Paul Mundrick, who came here from Winnipeg. He shot three goals and made one assist.

The Toronto victory broke a three-cornered tie for first place in the standing and gave Goodyears undisputed possession of the top rung with eight points. St. Catharines and Port Colborne are tied for the second slot with two points less.

The Falls scored first midway through the first period when Scotty Sterling counted on a pass from Morrison. Sammy Phillips whipped in the other Cataract counter with Ossie Greenwood assisting.

Hunch Players Are Backing Thanksgiving In The Byran and O'Hara Handicap

BOWIE, Md., Nov 23 — (AP).—Bowie's $10,000 Bryan and O'Hara Handicap offered a "natural" to hunch players to-day—Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving disappointed form players in the $10,000 Rhode Island Handicap October 11 when, backed down to 2 to 1, the four-year-old son of Bud Lerner and Inchcape Belle finished fourth. To-day's spot gave the Corning horse a send-off name-players couldn't resist.

Challephen, the W. L. Brann stablemate of Challedon, was certain to get a good ride under Don Meade, leading jockey of the season with 249 winners.

U.S.S. Trenton.

Treaties prescribe automatic devices to assure that a mine accidentally set adrift will be rendered harmless within an hour, but those afloat in the North Sea have accounted for most of the 18 ships sunk or damaged in the last five days.

The latest development in the sea warfare suggested these tentative conclusions to naval men here:—

1. The recent heavy shipping losses are due to the numbers of the mines and their free drift rather than to the perfection of revolutionary new undersea weapons.

2. Virtually all the mines have been laid by submarines built for the purpose.

3. Setting them adrift has raised difficulties intended to tax British and French means of keeping open vital commerce lanes.

4. The Allied blockade and the German fight to create a counter blockade has not differed basically from the 1914-18 pattern.

clear," the newspaper said. "The real issue was again impressed upon all maritime nations yesterday by the sinking of the Italian steamship Fianona. There is to be no comment in the press until the government has taken its decision but we are authoritatively told to expect that energetic action will be taken for defence of Italy's shipping and national dignity.

Resent Nazi Piracy

"Japan also has been stirred by the heavy loss wantonly inflicted on her. It must be gall and wormwood to Hitlerism that the countries which had the honor of being wooed by the Fuehrer should resent his piracy.

'At the outset of the last war the United States was the most energeic champion of complete freedom of neutrals. The American people are not less intent upon maintaining their neutrality now. Nevertheless we read that little criticism of the blockade of German exports is to be heard and no more to be expected. Indiscriminate minelaying, it is recognized, compelled retaliation.

"Although some American importers may be annoyed by the complete stoppage of German goods, sympathy will not await those who wish to go on doing business with Hitlerism. In the Scandinavian countries it is recognized that though the reprisals will restrict the work of their merchant marine we were bound to take action.

Hardships Must Be Borne

"We have to acknowledge that the earning power of the shipping of neutral countries may be diminished for a time by the loss of cargoes from Germany. The blockade thus far has been operated with a conspicuous lack of fiction and delay and protest. In its intensification, the same pains and desire to avoid hardships will be shown. Yet new difficulties may arise and protests be heard. The neutrals must ask themselves what is the alternative to the blockade. It is that Germany should continue her destruction of their seamen and their shipping as long as she has a submarine and a mine to put in the sea. Her declared objective is to frighten into uselessness all their ships which she cannot destroy.

"'Routes which touch England lead to death' is the brag of Berlin. It is, to be sure, a suicidal policy. A complete blockade of German exports would be obtained no less surely by paralysis of neutral shipping by measures of the Allies. But reason has long since ceased to reign in Germany.

"Maritime nations are not thus to be scared. Japan has already given her answer. Frightfulness will not keep her ships out of British waters. Reprisals depriving Germany of her last resources will diminish the losses of the neutrals and hasten the day when peaceful shipping has again the freedom of the seas."

Bylaws Are Passed

Bylaws were passed confirming the recommendation of the Board of Management in regard to the appointment of Dr. Richards; the repeal of the road rebates section where it applied to Cobourg, Port Hope, Brighton, Bowmanville, Colborne and Newcastle and a bylaw by which a stretch of road in South Monaghan from Wallace Point to Highway No. 28 is taken into the counties road system.

A resolution carried, moved by Reeve C. R. Caryeth of Newcastle, seconded by Reeve G. A. Edmonstone of Bowmanville that where a town, village or township were jointly responsible for the upkeep of a boundary road, that the municipalities concerned should participate in the provincial 50 per cent subsidy for the road and that this resolution should be forwarded to the Department of Highways.

Following is the report of the Legislative and Bylaws Committee read at yesterday's session of counties council:

"We recommend that the communication from the Department of Finance concerning Part III of the National Housing Act be received. This act does not concern county councils. We recommand that the communication from W. C. Nickel, K.C., regarding raising funds for war purposes be received. We recommend that the communication from the county council of Perth County opposing the reduction in the number of members of the legislative assembly and urging the reduction in the number of civil servants be received. We recommend that the communication from the county council of Ontario County urging the abolition of grand juries and reduction in number of petit jurymen be received. This matter is apparently now being considered by the Attorney-General.

Approve of Two Year Term.

"We recommend that the communication of the Dept. of Municipal Affairs regarding the extension of term of councils and other municipal bodies elected in 1940 be received and that this council approve the principle of a two year term for municipal councils. We recommend that the legislature be requested to amend sections 20 and 21 of the Public Hospital Act to provide for the giving notice by hospital superintendents to the clerks of local municipalities as well as to the clerks of counties on the admission of patients who are or are represented to be, indigents or dependents of indigents, or on the becoming indigent or the learning of the indigency of any patient, and the giving of notice by the clerks of local municipalities to hospital superintendents and to the clerks of counties if such patients are not residents or are not indigents or dependents of indigents.

"We recommend that no action on the resolution of Messrs. Morris and Ewart concerning minimum wage legislation referred to this committee at the June session.— "the report cited the three by-laws passed later at yesterday's session.

The Schools Committee deplored the burden placed on parents of school children necessitated by the cost of books resulting from the changes in the course of education in the high and continuation schools, in its report.

The report read as follows:

"We recommend that the application for grant of Orono continuation school be referred to the special schools committee for adjustment and on their finding the account be paid and that Orono school board be notified as to the reason for this account not being paid at the June session.

"We recommend that the communication from Bowmanville High School Board as to appointing two additional members to their board be referred to the 1940 council and that their report be adopted We recommend that the resolution fom Lennox and Addington County Council as to certain legislation be received We recommend that the letter from Col. Boggs as to judgment in the Wooler Continuation school case be received and filed and tha the solicitor obtain from the court reporter the reasons for Mr. Mr. Justice Greene's judgment. We recommend that resolutions passed by Durham County Trustees and Ratepayers Association be endorsed. We recommend that the council deplores the increased cost of text books and not books resulting from the changes in the course of education in high and continuation schools and that we request the Dept. of Education to take effective steps to lessen the burden of buying books on the parents of secondary school pupils, and that copies of this resolution be sent to the Minister of Education and all county councils in Ontario."

The special schools committee had the following report:

"We recommend that the Orono Continuation School be paid $3,214.-65 on account of their 1938 requisition and that this requisition be handed over to the 1940 special schools committee to be computed with other 1940 requisitions. Your special schools committee met the Oshawa Board of Education re their request that we pay county schools on a basis of 85 per cent of debentures and maintenance. We recommend with their consent that the Oshawa Board of Education be paid on the same basis as other schools."

Hepburn Claims

"We can't hide behind the American Eagle and we certainly are not making the progress that we should if we are going to get away from the idea of hiding behind the Eagle," he asserted. "A modernly mechanized force of 2,000 men could lick the whole Canadian army today, gentlemen, and I don't mean anything disparaging to the Canadian forces when I say that, because there are some of the finest boys in the world in the Canadian forces.

No Breaks.

"But they are not getting a break and are not getting the training and equipment they must have. Why, some of them haven't been issued a change of underwear since they signed up.

"I have talked with groups of prominent Americans this week and I learned from them that the people over there are beginning to laugh at Canada's war efforts. We should not have a condition like that."

Mr. Hepburn said he had confidence in the ability of the men in charge of war efforts and felt defects would be corrected. He told of Ontario's part in the efforts.

"In six days we moved 1,000 patients from the Mental Hospital (near St. Thomas) and changed patients and prisoners in other institutions to clear the way for the use of the hospital as a training centre for the Air Force," he said. "In three weeks, the Federal Department of Militia had 30 boys in the hospital that will accommodate 5,000, and 30 men outside guarding them."

man seaplanes right above us flying high. About 15 minutes later we got a call to man the anti-aircraft guns.

Six Heinkel bombers were overhead dropping bombs all around us. They were wide of the mark, and our anit-aircraft fire got too hot for them, so they turned around and went back.

"Then I saw one of the machines turn again toward the stern of our ship. He swooped down in a power dive, over 40 miles an hour, straight at our deck. He seemed to be coming straight at me.

"When he was just off the deck he dropped a 500-pound bomb. It fell in the water only a few feet from the ship. The ship heeled over and the port side of the flying deck went awash....Then the miracle happened. The ship righted itself and came back to even keel.

"By this time the bomber had turned and gone on its way back to Germany. The ship was not damaged in any way. No one was hurt."

heim bomber aircraft have been delivered by air from Great Britain to Rumania," an Air Ministry communique said. "All have arrived at Bucharest.

"About a month ago a senior Rumanian officer and 12 pilots arrived here to take delivery of their first consignment of Blenheims. Late in October a second batch of pilots arrived and flew a second consignment of 14 to Rumania. Ten days later the same pilots came back and flew home the last consignment. The Rumanian Air Force will form three squadrons of these Blenheims."

Bacon Exports Jump.

Canada's exports of bacon to Britain have increased almost 50 per cent. in recent weeks and Canada has been informed by British Food Control authorities that while bacon is being rationed in the United Kingdom, they do not urge that Canada further increase its shipments there at this time.

Bacon is not being rationed because there is a shortage there, officials here are informed, but to persuade the British people to use lower priced foods. This lessens the drain on British credits.

"I was always accustomed to bacon for my breakfast," said a member of a British mission here. "Now, when I am at home I get along very well with kippers, and it pleases the Scottish fishermen."

It is the same with butter and it is rationed to get the people of the United Kingdom to use the cheaper margarine, not because of a shortage of butter. Britain is husbanding its financial resources, an important procedure having regard to the costliness of modern warfare.

Time For Settlement

All this is inclining Government circles here to think it would be a good thing if the food experts of the two countries got together and settled the situation.

Much earnest thought will be given to it when Mr. Crerar returns. A. M. Shaw of the Agriculture Department and L. D. Wilgress of the Trade and Commerce Department, who went to England with Mr. Crerar, will remain abroad gathering further information to be sent back to Ottawa.

Meanwhile Canada is having trouble finding storage space for its immense wheat surplus. The market stays around 70 cents and one unusual feature is the narrow spread between grades. Not in many years, wheat experts here say, has No. 4 sold only five cent below No. 1 as is presently the case.

Under general regulations, the Minister stressed, it is unlawful to shoot or to spear beaver; to cut, spear, break or destroy a beaver house or dam or to set traps closer than 5 feet to a beaver house.

"Previous to last spring there has not been such an open season since 1922," said Mr. Nixon, "but areas north of the transcontinental railway have been open as late as 1935. Between the French River and the railway, 1938 was the last open season."

He said the department estimated that 15,150 pelts were taken last spring, and that surveys of the areas trapped showed an abundance of beaver. There will not be an open season next spring, the Minister added.

Counties' Probe Costs Of Children's Aid

COBOURG, Nov. 23 (ENS)—Report of the special committee appointed to investigate excessive cost of Children's Aid work by Northumberland and Durham Counties Council was reviewed by the Finance Committee at yesterday's proceedings of counties council and on motion was received and filed. The members of the committee were Warden Reid, Deputy-Reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope, Reeve Leslie Wilson of Cobourg and Reeve Charles Quinn of Cramahe. A rider to the report read as follows:

"Your committee feels that this society and its conduct are entirely beyond the control of this council and although we are forced to the conclusion that the superintendent's salary is a little more than adequate, since he and his wife receive between them, more than $3,800 per annum, we feel that under the circumstances we cannot make any recommendations or do any more than report the facts."

Comparison of financial statements for the Children's Aid Society of Northumberland and Durham Counties, as compiled for the committee last October, showed the total expense of the society in the term 1936 to 1937, to be $9,541.83; 1937 to 1938, $11,57..17 and for 1938 to 1939, $13,003.63, an increase from year to year. Average number of children under care in the three above periods were 27, 34 and 38. Cost per week, cash per child for the same periods was $4.11, $4.32 and $4.36. Government grant was $1,000 for each of the first two periods and $1,150.45 for the last period. Total cost per child per week, for the three periods were $5.05½, $5.07½ and $5.31 7-10. The average daily cost per child in 1937 and 1938 was considerably lower than the provincial average, the report said.

Following are extracts from the lengthy report:

"The amount of work in investigation, prevention and supervision required by the government is constantly increasing and the number and details of records and reports required to be kept is also being increased. During the years from 1934 to 1939, the society had progressed from D to C grading and had shown some improvement every year but not enough to justify an increase to B grading. Government reports indicate that in the opinion of the Dept., more investigation, supervision, records and reports are required and still another full - time investigator should be employed. If this were done the society would be raised to B grading and receive an increase of $500 in government grant, but another investigator of the type approved by the department would want a salary of $1,800 a year with a stenographer, representing an added cost to the society of about $2,400 a year."

Put In Shelter First

"When asked for the reason for the higher cost per child per day of operating the Shelter when compared with the cost in boarding homes, Mr. Hodgert, the superintendent, said that all children, except infants, are first put in the Shelter and receive necessary medical care and also fresh clothing. If some of the cost of such attention were charged to boarding homes, the cost in each case would be more nearly equal."

The report stated that Mr. Hodgert advised against the question of whether the Shelter could be closed and the boarding home plan used exclusively. A receiving home of some kind is necessary for initial examination, toxoids, serums etc. Such a home must be run by a matron with nursing experience etc. There would have to be a constant number of children at a rate high enough to ensure a profit, if such a home were privately run. On the whole, for various other reasons cited, the better results were obtained at the Shelter.

No child found neglected in these counties was admitted to any other Shelter. Children are made wards of the society for the municipality in which they are found neglected. If their last residence for a full year was in some other municipality, the other municipality is charged with maintenance. On several occasions, the committee was informed. Mr. Hogert has tried to have children found neglected in other municipalities made wards of this society but was not permitted due to the Children's Protection Act. He has offered to other societies the children whose maintenance has been charged to other municipalities but they have refused to take them for the reason that when these children grow up they will likely acquire residence where they have been wards and if they become public charges it will be where they become of age and the county now responsible will be relieved of liability."

Recommendations Made

"That a suitable place or places be provided for the detention or temporary custody of children charged with an offence, as required by law. At present the children if taken to Cobourg are placed in the Women's quarters of the jail. Elsewhere no suitable premises are available. That local councils make more use of their M.O.H. in cleaning up physical condition in homes that may affect not only the welfare of children but also that of adults. Several municipalities already make good use of the M.O.H. with good results. That council support sterilization of the mentally unfit. The majority of parents whose children become wards are submoral and most neglected children are mentally defective. Illegitimacy seems to be more common among submoral women and several cases of one submoral giving birth to four or five illegitimate defective children were cited by Mr. Hodgert. Such children, as a rule, are unable to look after themselves and have no hope of a proper life. They usually become public charges and give birth to future generations of defectives," stated Mr. Hodgert to the investigating committee.

They Got Their Deer

Lakefield, Nov. 23 (ENS)—HARRY GILL and Gordon Kidd, two Lakefield hunters, have discovered a new method of catching deer.

While hunting in the Pakesley district, Gill shot a deer through the nose, which stunned the animal for a brief moment. When his companion attempted to bleed it, it jumped up and Gill went trailing along behind his steed by keeping a firm grip on the tail and a hind leg for about fifty yards, when Kidd finally caught up and finished the kill.

County Is Asked To Aid Lytle Family

An appeal to the county council for a grant to assist Charles Lytle, recent victim with his wife and family of the fire that caused the deaths of three of his children and total loss of his home and contents in Dummer, was made by Reeve Robert Martin this morning.

"Our township is looking after the immediate needs of this unfortunate family," Reeve Martin said, "but they have other needs, including some furniture, and I thought the county would be willing to help them. Everybody knows about the loss to Mr. Lytle and there is a great deal of sympathy for him."

Reeve Martin's proposal was referred to the finance committee.

County Road.

The council adopted, this morning, as a county road the two miles of the border road between Emily and Ennismore extending from Fowler's Corners two miles north to the vicinity of Boate's church.

Reeve Gifford said the cost to the county would be 50 per cent of maintenance, with a rebate of 25 per cent from the Ontario government, leaving a net cost of 25 per cent.

The resolution to assume the road was moved by Reeve Mann of Smith, seconded by Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston.

Emily township, supported by Victoria county council proposed this agreement a year or more ago. Reeve Gifford said a satisfactory arrangement had been made and a bylaw will be passed to give it effect.

Eagle Lake Hunt Club Had One Of Its Most Successful Hunts

RUNS INTO BUS

Howard Rose, Ford avenue, reported to the police Wednesday afternoon that as he was driving east on Charlotte street he had run into the rear of a city bus driven by Clifford Deck in front of the Hotel Champlain. The radiator and front fender of Rose's car were damaged.

CAR STOLEN.

A car belonging to M. McIntosh of the Park Hill service station was stolen Tuesday night. It had been brought down town by another employee of the station and was taken from where it had been parked. Another car reported stolen from Brock street earlier in the evening was recovered afterward.

GOT TWO BIG BUCKS.

Two local hunters, Clare Althouse and Don Moore, had no trouble getting their quota this year. They arrived just east of Apsley the last two days of the hunting season and promptly shot two big bucks, the largest going 200 pounds. They stated afterward that they counted no less than 16 deer in the two days—this section apparently being full of the animals, which may have been frightened into the area from other sections of that country.

REPORTS ON ACTIVITIES.

Ian F. McRae of the Canadian General Electric company here, attended an administrative committee meeting of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association in Toronto yesterday. Mr. McRae is chairman of the Central Ontario division and gave an interesting report on the monthly activities of the district association. President A. Ross Robertson of Toronto presided and announced a quarterly general meeting of I. A. P. A. directors will be held in Toronto on December 14.

CHEESE FACTORIES CLOSE

The countryside was white again with heavy frost this morning. Cattle have disappeared from the crisp pastures, but here and there a few horses are still table to forage in the long grass. The cheese industry in Peterborough county has locked its doors for the year. All the factories have ceased operations, but W. J. Moore, dairy instructor, reports that Warkworth and the Trent Valley plant at Campbellford are still taking in milk, and the Burnley factory has probably closed by this time.

A GRATEFUL VISITOR

"My regard for Canadians is even higher as a result of this experience and I only hope that we from the United States will be as courteous to our visitors." This is an extract from a letter received by H. P. White of Peterborough from Melvin R. McGaughey, an American who lost a camera in Queen Victoria Park, Niagara Falls, Ont., a month ago. Mr. White who was visiting the park at the same time found the missing camera and turned it over to the park administration to be forwarded on to the owner who has acknowledged the Peterborough man's kindness in a letter from which the opening sentence has been taken. Mr. McGaughey stated that he had not missed the camera for nearly 24 hours afterward.

Nine Needles Of Radium Are Recovered By Homemade Finder In Furnace Ashes

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 23.—(AP)—Professor Frank E. Hoecker's homemade radium finder located a needle of radium—in the fifth teaspoonful of the 45th cupful of the 20th bucketful of ashes. Then Hoecker and a general hospital physician went through 30 more bucketsful to recover eight more needles, worth $1,440 altogether. The needles, wrapped in adhesive tape, had been thrown away accidentally.

The radium finder consists of a microscope focused on an air chamber containing a few minute particles of quartz.

Two Councillors Recommended To Old Age Pensions Board

Two vacancies on the Old Age Pensions board of the county caused by the deaths of John McIntosh and C. John Darling were considered by the appointments committee of the county council with Reeve J. R. Thompson chairman Wednesday afternoon.

Reeve Norman Lean of Burleigh-Anstruther was named for one of the posts on a motion by Reeve Scriver of Lakefield, seconded by Reeve I. Anderson of Belmont; and Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston of North Monaghan was recommended for the other by Deputy-reeve H. Reid, Otonabee, seconded by Reeve John McColl, Asphodel.

The other members of the Board dealing with Pensions and Mothers Allowances are: Mrs. J. W. Ridpath, Lakefield; Col. R. E. Birdsall, Asphodel and Mrs. J. W. Robb, Norwood.

The committee decided that it was within their right to make appointments although one can only be a recommendation to the Government, from within the council.

Dr. H. E. Moore of Lakefield was appointed physician of the House of Refuge. He has been temporarily in the position, and reports of his service were regarded as warranting his appointment.

At the request of Reeve E. W. Seeney, Havelock, Constable William Aikens of that village was designated a county constable to enable him to co-operate with Provincial Constable Rogers beyond the boundaries of Havelock. He is to replace County Constable Gray who was unable to give to the duty the time it required.

House of Refugee Job.

The committee opened applications for the position of Superintendent of the House of Refuge. Reeve M. Coughlin, chairman of the Board of Management, read the report of the provincial inspector as of November indicating that the institution was in good condition and well managed by Mrs. Louis Fry who has carried on the responsibility since the death of her husband. There are sixteen inmates, fourteen of them men. They recently held a little meeting of their own urging Mrs. Fry to remain with them.

The report indicated that certain improvements should be made for safety against fire, including the construction of cement reservoir to hold an additional supply of water. Livestock comprising fifteen head of cattle and three horses are all thriving, Reeve Coughlin said, and the supplies of 2,000 bushels of roots and the abundant hay are sufficient for the winter.

Miss J. Batten, county clerk, informed the committee that Mrs. Fry was agreeable to continuing in charge of the House of Refuge at $6 a month.

The applications were left in abeyance until Thursday morning to give the members an opportunity of considering what step they wished to take.

Suspended Sentence In Domestic Case

A case involving domestic difficulties engaged the attention of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning when a local man was charged with beating his wife.

The evidence of the latter was that on a Sunday morning a month ago her husband had struck her one blow with his hand, inflicting bruises on her back. Police Matron Mrs. Maguire testified to seeing the bruises shortly afterward.

The wife admitted that prior to the assault she had called her husband an offensive name.

T. J. Carley, K.C., who appeared for the accused argued that the complainant had got what she richly deserved when she addressed her husband in such language.

However Magistrate Langley held that there had been a technical assault and that there had not been legal provocation.

He did not want to throw any obstacles in the way of a reconciliation, he intimated and therefore he had decided to allow the accused to go on suspended sentence for six months on condition that he keep the peace.

Chandos Ratepayers Know What They Want So Reeve Will Remain At County Council

Reeve Allan Caldwell isn't going home to Glenalda for the municipal nominations in Chandos township Friday afternoon. He may change his mind in the meantime, but his philosophy fashioned from seventy-three years of the ups and downs of life prompts him to stay on the job here at the sessions of the county council.

"If the ratepayers back home are going to put a man up against me it won't make any difference to them whether I stay here or go home," Reeve Caldwell said. "They'll do whatever they want to do, and you never can tell what that will be."

The reeve of Chandos believes that he is the oldest member of the county council for many years. He is seventy-three, but he hardly looks his age. He was first elected to the county council in 1927.

Obituary

JAMES FEENEY.

TWEED, Nov. 23—(ENS).—The death occurred Monday at the residence of his son, Rev. J. E. Feeney, rector of the Sacred Heart Church, Wolfe Island, of James Feeney in his 86th year.

Mr. Feeney had been around as usual Monday, passing away about 5 p.m. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Feeney, and was born at Madoc. For the past four years he had lived with his son, Rev. J. F. Feeney, residing at Tweed prior to that, where he was held in high esteem. He had been a lumberman for many years, but had been retired nine years.

He is survived by his widow and one son, Rev. J. F. Feeney; four daughters: Rev. Sr. Brigid of St. Anthony's Hospital, Rock Island, Ill.; Mrs. Harold McCarney, Gananoque; Mrs. Desmond Gehan, Fort William; Mrs. Joseph Madden, Rock Island, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Forstall, Marmora, and two brothers, John, British Columbia, and Fred of Madoc.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning, November 23, to the Sacred Heart Church, where requiem mass was sung at 10 o'clock. Interment was made at St. Carthagh's Cemetery, Tweed.

Condition Is Improving

HASTINGS, Nov. 23—(ENS — Richard "Drover Dick" Walsh, prominent and well known stock buyer of Hastings, is reported improving following an operation for appendicitis in St. Joseph's hospital in Peterborough. He was stricken Sunday and was immediately removed to hospital where his condition was regarded as "critical" for a few days.

War 25 Years Ago

(By The Canadian Press.)

Nov. 23, 1914—British defeated Turks at Shat-el-Arab at the head of the Persian Gulf but a British column in German East Africa was forced to retire from a superior force in an attack on a railroad centre. German submarine U-18 rammed and sunk off Scottish coast.

James Paisley To Sail On Panama Ship

Discharged from the local Hydro guard because he was too short in stature James D. Paisley, Peterborough war veteran has lost no time in getting into the war picture again.

Instead of the prosaic job of guarding the power house here from more or less imaginary foes Paisley will soon be facing the perils of German submarines, magnetic mines and pocket battleships. He has been successful, as a result of his previous experience as a sailor, in securing a position as boatswain on one of the American freighters which has just been transferred to Panama registration in order that they can be used in the task of transporting war supplies to the Allies.

Under the Embargo Act, such materials cannot be carried in American bottoms and a number of American ships have been transferred to the registry of other countries. American sailors cannot be used as crews on such ships and that is paving the way for jobs for many Canadians.

Youth Charged With Vagrancy

The only charge laid in police court this morning against Ross Kimball, nineteen-year-old North Monaghan youth who has been held since Wednesday in connection with the disappearance of Doreen Smith was that of vagrancy.

Kimball did not answer when he was asked to plead and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., told the court that in any case he was going to ask for a remand for a few days.

"The court should know something about the circumstances," said Magistrate Langley. "I do not like the idea of remanding men without pleading.

Crown Attorney McElderry mentioned the disappearance of the Smith girl and said that inquiries were being made.

"I have to assume that the Crown knows there is justification for the move," said the Magistrate in remanding Kimball until Monday next. Bail was fixed at $500.

Fund Is Opened To Give Aid To Lytle Family

Warm-hearted citizens of Peterborough and district, appalled at the grim tragedy that overtook Charles Lytle and his family in a fire north of Norwood last week, have forced the establishment of a fund to provide for the survivors.

Three of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Lytle were fatally burned in the fire that destroyed their home and all their possessions. The fourth, 7-months-old Helen Lytle, is in a grave condition at Nicholls hospital here. At the inquest in Norwood on Tuesday, Dr. H. G. Carleton, the infant's physician, said she had contracted pneumonia but that he hoped for her recovery. To-day hospital authorities reported little change in her condition, but said she had grown weaker. Of the family of seven, then, only the father and mother, the baby, and Ruby, 14, remain alive. And of their possessions there are none—absolutely none.

With sub-zero weather this frugal man and wife—for these are frugal, struggling people—are left without clothes to wear, without food to eat, without quilts to cover themselves. Their 7-roomed house is gone, and with it every stitch of furniture, every pot and pan, every jar of preserves.

To Start Afresh.

Only by reason of the fact that a hunting lodge lies nearby have they a place of shelter this winter. Charles Lytle is not beaten; he is going to start afresh in the spring. But right now, in the midst of grief, he needs the helping hand of a friendly people. He has not asked for it, but the warm-hearted people of this land of freedom and hospitality are asking that they be permitted to do so. If you be among this number—and count yourself fortunate if you are—donations of money, bedding, or any of the necessities of housekeeping, will be accepted at the Examiner office, or may be turned over to Mrs. Rita Ellis, 220 Edinburgh avenue; or to Perry Little, 530 Parnell street. Mr. Little will call for any donations that may be forthcoming. Telephone 3920.

Offers Invention To Germans, Farmer Jailed

REGINA, Nov. 23—(CP)— Max Stepp, 36-year-old farmer was sentenced yesterday to twelve months hard labor in Regina Jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to communicate with the enemy.

Evidence given by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who arrested Stepp here Nov. 8, revealed that a letter the accused man directed to Berlin told of an "aerial torpedo" which could be directed by radio. In the letter, it was testified Stepp expressed the hope his invention would help the Germans to victory in the present conflict.

The charge against Stepp, who declined to say anything after pleading guilty, said that he did "in a manner likely to prejudice the Safety of the State or efficient prosecution of the war, endeavor to communicate to other persons, namely, Hans and Roeder, Berlin, W. 15, Germany, information which would or might be directly or indirectly useful to the enemy, contrary to the provisions of Section 16, paragraph 'F' of the Defense of Canada Regulations."

Corporal M. F. A. Lindsay of the R.C.M.P. said he found in Stepp's room a sketch showing what was supposed to be the "aerial torpedo."

During his residence on the international boundary, the constable said, Stepp had attempted to route letters to Berlin through the United States. He claimed to be a native of Yugoslavia, coming to Canada in 1927.

Restaurant cars will be attached to 130 trains in Britain.

A Nazi Loss

London, Nov. 23 (CP).

THE DAILY SKETCH reported today that Wilhelm Messerschmidt, designer of the Reich's most famous combat plane, has fled Germany and is living in The Netherlands.

"For a long time Messerschmidt has been a disgruntled man," the writer said. "He considers he had no fair deal from the Nazis, who some time ago demanded that all his patents should be assigned to the state.

"He also lost prestige at the beginning of the war, when it was discovered his planes, once the world's fastest, had been surpassed by the British and French."

Pin Machine Costs Tweed Man $10 Fine

TWEED, Nov.23 (ENS).—Charged with keeping a common gaming house, Gerald Quinn of Tweed pleaded guilty in Madoc weekly Police Court, and paid ten dollars, and costs, the minimum fine under the law. Quinn, it was established in court, operated a pin machine in his place of business, and was convicted as the result.

James J. Shirley, Bancroft, appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd in the Madoc weekly Police Court, on a charge of false pretences, and was given a year's suspended sentence upon the payment of the costs of the proceedings. "I am told that this man took orders for suits and clothes, accepted small down payments, but apparently and conveniently proceeded to forget delivery," retorted Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., who prosecuted.

United Counties Council Favor The Two-Year Term

COBOURG, Nov. 23.—(ENS)—Legislative and Bylaws committee of Northumberland and Durham Counties Council at a meeting Tuesday night passed approval on the Department of Municipal Affairs decision to extend the period of time in which elected civic bodies in 1940 will sit. A communication from the Hon. Eric Cross advised the counties council to this effect. Deputy-reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope, chairman of the committee, in opening the discussion on it, pointed out that the people had always felt that they had certain rights in the matter but the government might perhaps be sensitive to public expression of opinion on its move.

"My personal opinion is that a two-year term for councils is all right," declared Reeve Ryan.

Reeve Leslie Wilson felt that one year in council was not enough to render a councillor of much value to the municipality.

"The first year you sit in council you don't know what it is all about and you are as much good as a bump on a log. However with a second year you really get into the swing of things. I can't see why there should be opposition to the two-year term. About two years ago there was a clamor for a longer term for councils and now when they get it, they don't want it. I would move that we register our approval of it," stated Reeve Wilson of Cobourg.

Would Take Over Road

The committee approved two bylaws, one to add a piece of road in South Monaghan running from Wallace Point to Highway No. 28, to the county road system and the other to repeal that section of the road debates bylaw by which Bowmanville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Brighton, Colborne and Newcastle were to forego their yearly road construction rebates for a period of 13 years commencing in 1929. The rebates will accordingly be resumed in 1940.

Communications from the Department of Finance re Housing Act and W. C. Neal re lottery to raise funds for war purposes were on motion received.

A resolution was read from Elgin county that the government amend the Administration of Justice Act so that in instances where a case had a change of venue, either civil or criminal, the costs should be borne by the muncipality where it originated.

As a similar resolution was endorsed by the counties council last June, this one was received. Reeve Wilson recalled, however, that when the famous Belleville flood case was moved up to the Supreme Court her, the counties were stuck with the costs and he considered this unfair.

License Vendors

The committee endorsed a resolution from another council that Christmas Tree vendors be licensed, members of the committee stating that, while the odd Christmas tree being cut by youngsters didn't occasion much damage, the wholesale cutting on a commercial basis was harmful. The committee did not agree with a resolution of Ontario County that the Grand Jury should be abolished and that the number in a petit jury should be reduced both in the sitting panel and the panel summonsed. The reduction in cost affected by abolition of a grand jury did not warrant the move to abolish it, members of the committee felt. Where a large number of cases were on the docket a large jury panel was necessary, stated Reeve Wilson.

Dealing with the matter of indigent patient costs, the Legislative-and-By-Laws Committee passed a recommendation that the government amend the Public Hospitals Act by which both the municipality and the county be notified of all indigent cases. It was felt that where the minor municipality was notified of each indigent case it could be checked up as to its merits as an indigent within the 20 day limit set for the hospitals.

Slays A Bear

Seward, Alaska, Nov. 23 (AP)

The fight occurred two weeks ago seven miles from his cabin, more than 400 miles west of here. Ungyak said the wilderness battle began after he shot the charging brute in the mouth.

4 Generations Attend Golden Wedding

ROSENEATH, Nov. 23—(ENS)—Four generations were preesnt, when all unexpected and unannounced, relatives, neighbors and friends gathered on Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blodgett, Roseneath ,to honor them on their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett live on the farm about two miles east of Roseneath, where they settled following their marriage. Mr. Blodgett is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Artimas Blodgett and Mrs. Blodgett is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold, both prominent farmer families in the earlier days of Alnwick township.

There were four children in the family, Mrs. A. Ivatt of Centreton, Mrs. Kennard Harvie of Brantford, and Willis at home. A son, Richard, died some years ago. There are eleven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Members of the four generations are: Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett, their daughter Mrs. A. Ivatt, her daughter Mrs. L. Chappel and three-months-old Jean Chappel.

J. T. Drope was master of ceremonies. He offered congratulations to the guests of honor and, Mrs. S. Waller read an appropriate article and Alex Spiers on behalf of the neighbors made the presentation of a sum of money. Short speeches of congratulation were made by Herman Blodgett, Wm. Arnold and a number of others. In responding Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett spoke of the great difference in circumstances fifty years ago and now. "There were no car sor paved roads," he said, and his wife added, "the mud that day was axle deep." However entertainment then and now might have been much the same, for, during the early part of the evening, a number of the company, gathered around the parlor organ and sang the songs and old favorite hymns, that were sung fifty years ago, while out in the kitchen the men folk discussed crops and stock. Elsie Yulle favored the gathering with a reading. The ceremony concluded with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

A committee of neighbors served refreshments.

Sunk Off Coast Of England

The fourteenth victim of intensified sea warfare since November 18, the Japanese liner Terukuni Maru was blown up off the coast of England on November 21. No details on the sinking of the vessels were immediately available, but it was presumed that a floating mine was the cause of the disaster to the liner, which carried a crew of 180 and 26 passengers.

Mount Julian Club To Aid Red Cross

MOUNT JULIAN, Nov. 23—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Northey entertained the euchre club at their home last week, when Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Church won each of the first prizes. Second prizes were awarded to Mr. W. T. Northey and Mrs. C. Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Church are opening their home for the euchre party on Friday evening of this week.

At the close of the last euchre the leaders of the local branch of the Red Cross held a meeting to discuss ways to raise money in this district. It was decided to double the euchre fee, the extra money going to the Red Cross. Plans are also being made for a concert and other social functions to be held later for raising funs to carry on this work.

25 States Hold Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 (AP)—Families in 25 states sat down today at the "first table" of the United States dual Thanksgiving, joining in President Roosevelt's expressed hope that the world soon will be at peace.

The "second table" will not be served until next Thursday, in states whose governors declined to follow the president's decision to advance the holiday a week.

Despite the confusion over the date, there was unanimity in echoing Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation:—

"Let us give thanks to the ruler of the universe for the hope that lives within us of the coming of the day when peace and the productive activities of peace shall reign on every continent."

As usual, Mr. Roosevelt will carve a big turkey tonight at the Warm Springs, Ga., Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

Seven patients, chosen by lot, will sit at the same table with the president while he piles their plates with turkey and all the other trimmings of a holiday dinner.

It's just another Thursday in Plymouth, Mass., where the first Thanksgiving was held. Residents of Plymouth will celebrate next week, along with the whole of New England.

Three states — Colorado, Texas and Mississippi—got around the argument over dates by assigning two Thanksgiving days. Mayors of several cities did the same thing. Mayor C. D. White of Atlantic City, N.J., in proclaiming two holidays, said:—

"Tomorrow shall be celebrated by the city as 'Franksgiving' in honor of our president, and next Thursday shall be celebrated as Thanksgiving."

The financial community generally recognized the holiday with the New York stock exchange, the Chicago grain exchange and most other leading markets closed. Exceptions were the markets in Minnesota — Duluth and Minneapolis grain exchanges.

Selwyn

The many friends of Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyl, will regret to learn that she is confined to her bed through illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crapp and baby, also Mr. Elmer Crapp, all of Lakefield, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bell.

Mrs. Harry Seabrook of Fraserville spent the week-end with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Preston.

The hunting party of Selwynites returned home on Friday last with their full quota of deer. Donald Elliott, one of the boys of the party proved himself an exceptional marksman, for although this is his first year as a deer hunter he bagged three deer.

Mrs. Howard Bell and daughters, Beverley and Barbara of Peterborough are with Mrs. Bell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McIlmoyl, while the latter is ill.

Misses Pearl and Florence Elliott of Peterborough spent the week-end with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. G. Fitzgerald.

Mr. George Brown, who was employed for the summer months with Mr. Bruce Fitzgerald has returned to his home at Kinmount.

A number from here attended the shower held for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Payne in Warsaw on Friday evening.

Love Note Makes Kuhn Blush

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (AP). — Fritz Kuhn, Fuehrer of the German-American Bund, blushed scarlet to-day when the prosecution depicted him as a shipboard Romeo, and read a letter he wrote to his "heaven sent" woman friend, Mrs. Florence Camp.

Spectators tittered, while Kuhn's cheeks reddened and his eyes blazed with anver as Prosecutor Herman McCarthy read the letter at the Bund leader's trial on larceny charges.

"Florence," it said, "I am terrible in love with you—I beg you to become my beloved wife—I will always be real true to you and will love you forever—can't be without you any more because I realize heaven did send you—and I never will forget that. (Signed) Fritz."

Kuhn, who already has a wife, had denied just a few seconds earlier that he proposed marriage to Mrs. Camp during an ocean cruise on the steamship Westernland.

In a potato-growing contest in Chertsey, England, H. Dawn was first with 99 pounds from one pound of seed.

"Hearts And Blossoms" Well Attended In St. George's Church At Apsley

APSLEY, Nov. 23—(ENS).—The St. George's Hall, Apsley, was filled on Friday night, when the operetta, "Hearts and Blossoms" was presented by members and friends of St. George's Anglican Church. The cast was a large one and all acted, spoke and sang their various parts well. The musical play was under the able leadership of the Rev. C. A. G. Spence as manager, and Mrs. George Kilborn as musical director.

On Wednesday evening a short rehearsal will be held before the play is presented at Warsaw.

The little son of Mr. F. McFadden, who was hurt on Friday in the Apsley school grounds, was taken to Peterborough, where it was ascertained that he had suffered a broken arm. He returned to his home on Saturday. He was accompanied to Peterborough by his mother and brother, Mr. V. McFadden.

Killing Not Justified

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 23 (AP).—A farmer's attachment to a dog did not justify his killing a neighbor who wanted to tie a can to the mongrel's tail, the State Supreme Court decided today.

The court affirmed a 10-year prison sentence given James Evans, Camden County farmer, for the fatal stabbing of Manuel Noble, a neighbor, in September, 1938. The stabbing followed Noble's suggestion the two farm youths "tin can" a dog.

Young Folk Meet At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 23 (ENS)—An informative address in wwhich the founding of the young people's movement was traced from its small beginning in 1924 to the present time was given in an address by Mrs. M. McFarlane as part of the loyalty night program arranged by members of St. Andrew's Young People's Society.

Mrs. McFarlane explained the chief purpose of young people's work and particularly emphasized the importance which was already being attached to the India missionary project carried on by the young people. With reference to the conduct of meetings the speaker held that reading the scripture and Bible dramas were of considerable importance.

The president, Mrs. Bruce Grills, presided for the business portion during which members accepted an invitation to be guests of the Burnbrae Young People's Society on December 4. Plans were made to hold a Christmas party and a committee was left in charge of the matter to work out details. Next Monday the young people will hold their second debate. The program of the evening was in charge of Mrs. A. Colette and opened with a talk on loyalty by Rev. B. Simpson Black.

Young Gunman Keeps Identity Mystery

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 23—(CP).—Identity of the 19-year-old youth charged with attempted murder in the shooting early Monday of a London police officer has not yet been established definitely, Chief Constable Harry Down said Tuesday.

The youth carried a car operator's permit issued to Donald Fleming, Sault Ste. Marie and claimed that was his name. When first arrested, however, he said he was James Ferguson, of Windsor. In city court, he said his home is in San Diego, but later told police he hailed from Detroit.

Whipping out a .32 calibre revolver, he shot Sergeant Percy Last as he was being searched at headquarters following his arrest after he crashed a stolen car near London. The auto was owned by Deputy Fire Chief Hedley Coates of Windsor.

Sergeant Last received a bullet above the right knee but was not wounded seriously.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Miss G. Smith Bible Class Hostess

Miss Georgia Smith, Stewart street, was hostess to the King's Own Bible Class on Monday night when one of the best meetings of the year was enjoyed, with thirty-seven members present and Mrs. P. VanNest presiding.

The opening devotions were conducted by Mrs. Hess, the convener, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Sloane.

The business session was a very satisfactory resume of the year's work and results. It was found that $60 was to be given by the class to the church organ fund, with a down payment of $10 in cash. Fifteen dollars has been budgeted toward the missionary and maintenance fund and five dollars to the Mission Band.

Miss Mabel Robinson, as convener, reported from the Sunshine department a donation of $10 from Miss Hattie Turner in memory of her sister, the late Miss Turner. Good reports also came from the sewing convener, whose work goes steadily on.

A pleasing feature of the meeting was the gift to a recent bride of the class, Mrs. G. Self (the former Mrs. Stanley). A brief address of good wishes from the King's Own was read by Mrs. A. Davis, while Mrs. Bert Pitchford made the presentation of a lovely table lamp to which Mrs. Self made suitable reply.

Mrs. S. L. Hanlon was in charge of the program which consisted of readings by Mesdames Geo. Rowe, 'The Great Guest Comes'; Mrs. Arnold, "A poem about sunshine,' and Mrs. Langhorne who chose 'Peace' as her subject, while the lovely solo, 'Roses of Picardy' by Mrs. Wallace was a delightful interlude.

A clever contest, with the streets of Peterborough as the problem, was won by Mrs. Langhorne.

The service of refreshments and a happy social period, brought to a conclusion another successful meeting of the King's Own Class.

Home Mission Work Subject Of Address

At the November meeting of the Trinity W.M.S., Home Mission work was the subject of an interesting and informative address presented by Mr. Kenneth Brenton. The program was in charge of Mrs. R. J. Kearns, who introduced the speaker. The worship service was opened with a familiar hymn and the bible lesson read by Mrs. J. H. Kimberley. Prayer was led by the president, Mrs. J. W. Pierce.

A brief business session included reports from the various departments, including christian stewardship and finance, suppply, literature, temperance, strangers' and Missionary Monthly. The treasurer's report showed increased givings over the corresponding period of last year, and the increase in attendance has been encouraging. The report of the nominating committee was presented by Mrs. H. Martin.

Program Presented By Mission Group

The Missions Group of George Street United Church Y.P.U., led by Miss Dorothy Smith, was in charge of the meeting Tuesday evening. Miss Frances Smith read the Scripture lesson, and an appropriate poem was read by Miss Jean Cameron. Prayer was led by Miss Marion Deviney. "The House of Many Lamps" was the subject of an interesting mission story read by the Mission Group leader.

Mr. Lloyd Parnell was in charge of the quiz contest. The business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. C. R. Wasson. Announcement was made that the Citizenship Group would present an "Amsterdam Night" with Mr. Robt. Spence.

Believes Greater Problems Face Youth Of Today

An interesting meeting attended by thirty members and friends was held in St. James' church Wednesday evening by the Parents' Auxiliary of the 10th Troop Boy Scouts, Mrs. Fred Blaby, the president, in the chair.

Mrs. R. J. Kearns, president of the Parents' Auxiliary 5th Troop Boy Scouts of All Saints' church spoke briefly of co-operation in Auxiliary work between the four units of the church; the parents; the group committees, and the scouts.

That the boys and girls of today have greater problems to cope with than did their parents, is the belief of Rev. F. W. Craik, pastor of the church, who also spoke briefly. He urged parents to meet their children half-way, and to be more patient with their failures to meet the standards set by parents.

Mrs. C. Mowry, supply secretary of All Saints' Auxiliary, gave an explanation of the duties demanded of such an office.

A program included several delightful numbers sung by Mrs. B. Cutmore with Miss Elsie Chambers at the piano, and selections by Mr. Arthur Roode of the Harmonica Boys' Band.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation to Miss Hazel Palmer, cub mistress of silver cheese and a cracker dish in honor of her approaching marriage. The gift was presented by cub Jack Berwick, and an address was read by Mrs. E. M. Baldry.

MRS. BERTHA STAVERT, Community Welfare Council, Handcraft Classes, Y.W.C.A., November 27 to December 7. Registration: Non-members, 25c. Interior Decorating Classes $1.00.

Mr. William Arthur Breyfogle. Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe officiated during the ceremony.

DOROTHY DIX

Try a Little Pleasant Conversation Instead Of Silence And Substitute Sweet Talk For The Cross And Bitter Things You So Often Want To Say—Then See The Difference In Your Domestic Life.

DEAR MISS DIX—Why do husbands not realize that taking their wives too much for granted and not showing them affection kills their wives' love for them? I have one of the husbands who think that so long as they support their wives and treat them decently it is unnecessary to give them praise and flattery. I have always done more than my duty as a wife and gave my husband all the affection I had to give and got very little in return. And that is why I turned to another man for love and affection, but he was false to me, so now I am left without even that and have grown even more silent and bitter. My husband and I do not quarrel a great deal, but all affection and intimacy is lost between us and can never be recovered and I find no pleasure in his company. Isn't it a pity that husbands and wives must go on with each other feeling that way? — A SILENT WOMAN.

ANSWER:

It is. In all the world there is nothing else so pitiful as that so many husbands and wives slay love between them and turn their marriages, which should have been a little bit of heaven on earth, into purgatory.

No one disputes that a happy marriage is the greatest blessing that can possibly come to any man and woman. To be always with one you love and who loves you in return; to have the daily and hourly companionship of one of whom you never tire and with whom you never talk out; to be sure always of the understanding and sympathy of some one and to know that there is some who would stand by you if all the world turned against you, that is something worth having in life.

Nor does any one question that having a happy home is one of the greatest factors in our lives. The man who can go home at night to a cheerful peaceful home, where a wife's loving arms will draw him across the threshold has a pleasure that money cannot buy. The woman whose homelife is full and happy and who has a husband whose return at night floods her world with sudden sunshine need envy no millionairess her diamonds and sables, for she is clothed in contentment.

All young people know these things. They believe in love. And they are sure when they marry that they will never lose their affection for each other, that they will make happy homes and will never squabble and fight as so many other couples do.

And then most of them either through laziness, or stupidity, or vanity do nothing to keep love alive, or to make the happy homes of which they have dreamed. Sometimes the man is too busy to pay the wife the little attentions she craves, or to say "thank you" for the things she does to make him comfortable. Or he doesn't think it necessary to be polite to a mere wife, or he is worried about his job and he makes home a dumping ground for all the nerves and irritability he has to suppress in business.

And the wife lacks the intuition to know that her husband is daily and hourly giving her proof of his love in the way he works to keep her comfortable. Or she is disappointed because marriage doesn't turn out to be a perpetual petting party and her commonplace business man doesn't make love like Clark Gable. Or she gets peevish and fretful because she can't have as much money to spend as rich women have.

And so the husband and wife, between them, starve love to death, or they murder it with cruel words. And because neither one is willing to make the sacrifice or do the work of making a happy home they create one that is a hell on earth.

I believe that virtually every husband and wife would stay romantically in love with each other to their golden wedding day if they would only make an effort to keep love alive in their hearts, and I believe that no marriage would be a failure if it were not sabotaged by both husband and wife. A wrecked home is always an inside job.

But love will stand a lot of punishment and you can repair a pretty badly wrecked house of happiness, so I advise this "Silent Woman" who writes this letter to get busy. Try substituting a little pleasant conversation for silence, and sweet talk for the cross and bitter things you say to him. Make him a cheerful home instead of one that is like a morgue and see if he doesn't like to stay in it. Show him a little affection. Maybe he is heart-hungry too and resents your having taken him for granted.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am so sorry I said all those hard things to my mother when I was angry last night. She had a heart attack and they took her to the hospital. I went there but she did not recognize me. I did not speak to her because I thought my voice would bring back the hurt which I know she felt when I was so hateful. Why do children say those terrible things to their mothers in their fits of temper? Mothers sacrifice beyond limitation. This we young people know, yet when something goes wrong and Mother tries to right it we treat her as if she were an enemy. What a blessing it is that Mother and God are so forgiving! I believe we adolescent kids need a severe lesson, such as I am getting, to bring us to our senses. My first thought when I knew what had happened to my best friend was: "I will never be able to tell her how sorry I am and beg her forgiveness." — A YOUNG GIRL WHO IS SORRY.

ANSWER:

I hope, my dear, that your mother will recover and that you will have many years in which to atone for your unkindness to her. Sometimes our repentance comes too late and we pour in vain into dead ears the words that would have made the living so happy.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have been married a year and a half, but previous to that time my husband and I were married secretly for three years. Now I find I have lost my love for him, although I am still fond of him. About seven months ago I met a man who is married and has two children. He claims he loves me very much and I know that I love him, but he won't give up his children. He does not live in this city, but comes here once a month on business and I make arrangements to see him and we spend the evening together. Is it wrong to meet him this way? It is the only real happiness that I get, the only thing that makes me seem alive. When love doesn't exist in your life you become very dull and morbid. I have found it so.—THE WOMAN.

ANSWER:

You know well enough that when a married woman begins keeping secret intrigues with a married man she is doing wrong. She is starting on the road that leads to destruction. Turn back before it is too late.

DOROTHY DIX.

Femininity Need Not Cancel Chic

Smart women have stopped saying "I'd rather be pretty and feminine than chic." They know that it's possible to be chic without sacrificing any of the feminine prettiness that men are supposed to admire so much.

The best step toward attainment of chic without loss of femininity is to figure out the kind of clothes you look best in.

You might consider suits—suits for all daytime occasions, including afternoon — and evening clothes. This, as a matter of fact, is the formula followed by many a fashion leader.

She has tweed suits for travel, town tweeds or lightweight wool ones for morning, silk or velvet or chiffon wool or cloth-of-gold ones for afternoon and dinner suits in sumptuous fabrics for informal evenings. For formal occasions, she wears striking evening gowns.

In the summer, her suits are of cotton, linen, washable silk and such. She likes dressy colors, such as mimosa, for all except her travel and morning suits. Regardless of which type she is wearing, she dresses it up with one or two jewels —a lapel ornament or bracelets or earrings with a matching ring.

She prefers simply crossed scarfs to blouses. Somehow, although plain, the scarfs never appear mannishly tailored. Their softness, plus jewelry, plus a soft hair-do, pumps with medium-high heels instead of low-heeled, sensible shoes, bright nail polish, extra sheer stockings and gay hats keep her from looking unfeminine in spite of tailored suits. She is a chick woman and at the same time a feminine looking one. It's something to think about.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, November 24.

Moderately enterprising and propitious conditions obtain on this day, according to the lunar transits. While new matters and dealings with those of influence and prestige should thrive, there are indications of certain undermining forces, boring deep from within with implements of treachery and subtlety. Alertness to these, even in domestic or personal affairs, may avert financial loss.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly progressive and propitious year, if they will develop new projects with soundness and practical programs. These may enlist the support and confidence of those able to assist or promote them liberally, vanquishing certain subtle and persistent undermining forces.

A child born on this day may have fine constructive ability and executive power, winning support from influential persons against the menace of subtle opposition.

Sultanas Useful In Many Ways

A supply of sultanas will be found useful for many purposes. Try adding them to the morning cereal in place of sugar. A handful of raisins will be found adequate as a mid-morning snack or to eat before going to bed after an early supper. Added to a batter pudding they make a delicious dessert which can be served with boiled custard, while to some palates the sultanas-batter is acceptable with roast beef. Plums and other fruits which need a good deal of sweetening when cooking are improved by the addition of raisins and will need less sugar than usual. Sultanas also make a pleasing addition to raw fruit salad.

Christmas Cookies As Gifts Are Often Most Appreciated

The number of weeks is already limited until Christmas—and the number of Christmas topics I crave to tell you about is not limited—so if you don't intend making your cookies until early in December please be sure to clip the recipes now—for there will not be time or space to repeat them.

Your attention is particularly drawn to

Christmas Cherries

Not because they are cherries but cookies—and because they are uncommon and uncommonly good.

One-half cup shortening, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 1 egg, separated, ½ teaspoon true vanilla, 1 tablespoon grated fresh orange rind, 1½ teaspoons grated fresh lemon rind, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup sifted flour, ½ cup chopped walnuts whole or halves of cherries, candied. Cream the shortening, add the sugar and cream well. Add the beaten egg yolk, vanilla, orange and lemon rind, and lemon juice and mix well. Add the flour and mix well. Chill. Roll into small balls about ¾ or 1 inch in diameter, roll in the chopped walnuts, and place on greased baking sheet, pressing a half cherry in top of each, thus flattening the cookie slightly. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes—this makes about 33 cookies if pressed down enough to make them 1½ inches in diameter.

Christmas Hermits.

Three-quarters cup shortening (preferably butter), 1 1-3 cups light brown sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1½ cups seeded raisins, ½ cup finely sliced candied citron peel, ½ cup broken pecans. Cream the shortening, add the sugar gradually, and cream until the mixture is smooth. Add the beaten egg and mix well. Sift together the flour, baking powder, and spices, and add gradually to the butter and sugar mixture. Add the fruit and nuts. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheets, and bake at 360 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Dates may be substituted for raisins. This makes about 40 cookies 2 inches wide.

Cinnamon Stars.

These are made similar to true macaroon formula—ground almonds in a meringue. They make excellent Christmas tree decoration (if you place a loop of white string in each cookie before baking)—and are so airy the children may be allowed to eat them without too much worry for their appetities being spoiled—it's fun to eat some thing off the tree you know.

One cup plus 2 tablespoons powI teaspoon graded lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 egg white, ¾ cup ground blanched almonds, 1-8 teaspoon cinnamon. Fold the sugar, lemon juice and lemon rind into the stiffly beaten egg white. Add the almonds and cinnamon. Roll ⅜ inch thick on a board sprinkled with powdered sugar and cut into star shapes. Place on greased baking sheet and bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

Chocolate Nut Diamonds.

This is not particularly a Christmas cookie—for it is best served two or three days—within a week at least—of making. But it is more of a confection than a cookie and makes such a pretty contrast on a cookie plate I advise you to make them.

Two square Fry's unsweetened chocolate, ½ cup butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup chopped walnuts, ¾ teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon salt. Melt chocolate in top of double boiler, add the eggs beaten with the sugar; sift in dry ingredients, then add walnuts and melted butter last. Mix well, and spread thinly on pan 8" by 16" or on two 8" by 8" pans, spreading to about one-quarter inch thickness. Bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. and then allow to cool. Leave in pan for frosting (see below).

Frosting: (For Chocolate Nut Diamonds—see above).

Melt 2 squares Frys unsweetened chocolate in top of double boiler, add to it 1 cup icing sugar, 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Remove from heat at once, and when chocolate nut diamonds are cool, spread thinly with frosting. Let cool thoroughly in pans before cutting into diamond shapes with very sharp knife.

Let me remind you to clip the recipes that appeal to you now— for Christmas recipes are always much in demand.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

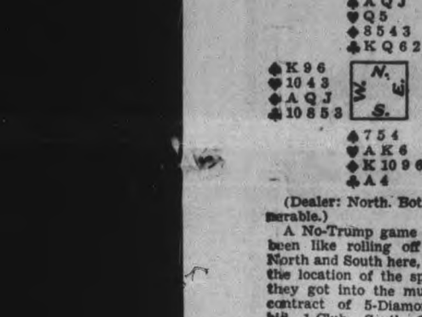
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

AN END PLAY MARKED

AN OPPONENT'S double of your contract can mark him as holding all of the dangerous cards which are out against you. If they include a number of trump honors, your only way to avoid losing too many tricks to them may lie in making him lead away from his trump combination into your own. By managing to do this, you cut down the value of his holding by one trick when you catch one of his big fellows in the forks of your own tenace.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

A No-Trump game would have been like rolling off a log for North and South here, considering the location of the spade K, but they got into the much tougher contract of 5-Diamonds. North bid 1-Club, South 2-Diamonds, North 3-Diamonds and South 5-Diamonds, which West doubled.

The heart 10 was led to the Q. South figured the spade finesse would have to work, and he would also need a lead-throwing end-play in trumps to avoid the loss of three tricks there. So he came to his hand with the club A, finessed the spade J, returned with the heart A, finessed the spade Q, and then began an elimination process so that his own last three cards would be trumps. He cashed the spade A and club K, ruffed the club 6 to cut his own trumps by one, ruffed the good heart K in dummy, ruffed the good club Q to cut his trumps to three, and then led his diamond 9.

West was stuck. He won the trick with the diamond J, but then could get only one more trick with his spade A-Q, as he had to lead from the combination to South's K-10.

Tomorrow's Problem

If West, who had doubled, takes two hearts, then switches to the club 2, covered by East's K, how should South play to limit his losses at 3-Diamonds?

The following cast was presented by the chairman, Rev. W. E. Honey:

Brooks; Mrs. Walker, a kind, loving, forgiving mother, Janet Fee; Aunt Harriett, a snappy old maid of forty summers, who has lived for years on the desert, Annie Graham; Rebecca Basset, Aunt Harriet's niece, who has just returned with her aunt from California, Margaret Best; Pete Moss, the young man of all work about the farm, Bill Lawson; Posey Painter, the harum-scarum young girl, whose father is more interested in law-breaking than educating his child, Gwen Fee.

The fall thankoffering was taken up, and the treasurer, Jean Burnham, reported $49 on hand, toward the year's allocation of $52; the balance will easily be reached through mite-boxes, and the usual offering at the regular meetings.

Anna Rowland and Mrs. G. O. Fallis will write the letter to a sick and shut-in member, Miss Margaret Luxon, and a study of missions to lepers brought out much interesting information, including the fact that there are only 13 lepers in Canada, 1,200 in the United States, and between three and five million in the world. Dorothy Sisco read "From Death to Life," and Mrs. M. Johnston "Tonya, the Leper Bandit," after which the leader told of $20 keeping a child for a year in a leper colony, and $25 an adult.

Rumor Brauchitsch Resignation Refused

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—(CP).—Dissension among the German army high command and Nazi party leaders over conduct of the war has reached the point where Colonel-General Walther Von Brouschitsch sought to resign, according to an Amsterdam copyrighted cable to the New York Herald Tribune today.

Conger did not say where he heard that General Von Brauchitsch offered his resignation but declared the resignation had been refused. In explanation of the situation he wrote:—

"The army men, after all, are practical gentlemen and are considering all possible contingencies, but the party officials seem to be sold on the idea of pressing forward to the announced destruction of the British Empire."

Berlin Outlines Her War Aims

PARIS, Nov. 23—(CP-Havas).—The newspaper Paris-Soir today printed extracts from what it said was an official Nazi document outlining Germany's war aims as reestablishment of the Reich's "linguistic and ethnical frontiers," return of Alsace-Lorraine from France and annexation of parts of Holland, Belgium, Northern France, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

According to Paris-Soir it is "the first official document on Hitler's war aims to cross the frontier."

The article described it as a letter of instruction for the sole use of Nazi party district orators and higher instructors of the Schutzstaffel—entitled: "Einiges Zum Bemerk Fuer Den Friedenschluss"—or some reflections on the treaty of peace.

It was written, the paper said, by Johannes Hering, propaganda reporter for the foreign affairs office of the Nazi party.

Tries $1 Touch, Is Stabbed, Gets Patched Up Rejoins Fray, Gets Carved Seriously

Vincent Mignacco, 27, who tried to float the loan, was in a hospital with stiletto wounds that left him near death. A friend, Mike Pesce, 52, who tried to stop the fight that ensued when Mignacco was turned down, was nursing a slash on the wrist that required six stitches to close. He also was under arrest as a material witness.

Frank Trigardi, who drove Mignacco to a doctor's office and then to a hospital, also was held as a material witness.

Two more men were being hunted in conection with the fight, which occurred Monday night but was not reported to police until late yesterday.

Mignacco first was knifed in the chest by the unwilling lender. He was taken to a doctor, patched up after explaining the wound was accidental, and returned to the scene of the battle. In the second fight he was stabbed in the abdomen and his condition today was described as "only fair."

Nazi Air Scouts Invade France

BERLIN, Nov. 23 — (AP). — Continued reconnaissance flights by Nazi planes over France and Great Britain were reported by the German High Command today in a communique which noted comparative quiet on the western front.

"The airforce on Nov. 21 again reconnoitered over English territory as far as Scapa Flow," the communique said. "Scouting over French territory extended into Southern France.

"Numerous pursuit planes were on watch as on preceding days for protection of the German western border. They did not contact any enemy aircraft. Anti-aircraft artillery in the air defence zone in the west had no occasion for activity."

(A French communique reported last night that two German planes were shot down in flames during the day behind their own lines while another Nazi flier was downed in French territory. A British report said one German plane was brought down yesterday on the English coast.)

4 Hours To Go Hitler Stops Drive

Staff Opposes Move Into a Holland Backed By Belgium

BELGRADE, Nov. 24 — (CP-Havas). — Adolf Hitler sent a telegram calling off a German attack on the Netherlands a scant four hours before it was scheduled to start on November 12, this correspondent learned to-day on good authority.

Hitler decided early in the month to invade the Netherlands, choosing Sunday, November 12 as the date. The Munich bomb exploded on Wednesday, November 8.

On the morning of November 9 arriving in Berlin from Munich, Hitler called together the five generals who form what Nazi officers call his private general staff.

Colonel-General Walter von Reichenau called attention to reports that the visit of King Leopold of the Belgians to The Hague meant Belgium would aid the Netherlands should that country be attacked.

Doesn't Worry Hitler.

Hitler didn't seem bothered by this, and instructed Von Reichenau to complete preparations for the offensive by the evening of November 11.

The "private general staff" met again on the morning of November 11. Again Von Reichenau emphasized new reports that Belgium would support the Netherlands. He said he was ready to obey orders, but in case of a failure he would invite death at the head of his troops.

Then Colonel-General Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the army, spoke for the first time. In the name of the assembled generals, he said he could not assume responsibility for the proposed operation.

Hitler maintained his previous orders, but during th night—without consulting again with anyone—he sent a telegram withdrawing the order to attack, only four hours before the fixed time.

Torpedoed Crew Drifts Week Before Rescue

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(CP).— The sinking of the 5,133-ton Netherlands tanker Sliedrecht by a submarine was disclosed to-day with the landing of five survivors in a north-west coast port.

The five were 7½ days in an open boat before they were rescued by a trawler.

The vessel had a crew of 31.

One of the survivors asserted the submarine commander examined the ship's papers and said he would have to sink the Sliedrecht although told she was a neutral bound for a neutral port.

The commander, the survivor added, refused to take the crew aboard his submarine for transfer to another ship, saying there was no room.

2 Britons On Peace Probe, Held As Plotters Claimed Kidnapped By Gestapo To Block Pacifist Move By Certain Nazis

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(CP)—The Daily Mail's diplomatic correspondent said today that the two Britons seized by the German gestapo, Nov. 9 acted with the knowledge of the British government in going to the German-Netherlands border to receive German "peace proposals."

In a similar statement, the Ministry of Information in a statement said the proposal for peace negotiations "had come solely from the German side" and that "the British subjects concerned had done no more than convey proposals made from the German side to their authorities."

For some time, the Daily Mail writer said, Captain Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best had been in communication with highly placed Germans and on Nov. 9 they received an invitation to meet a German envoy at Venloo, on the border.

The correspondent said that at no time did they convey any British proposals to their German contacts. He said Stevens and Best were acting "merely as postmen" without power to commit the British government.

"It now becomes doubtful whether the invitation to receive the "peace proposals" came from a sources with authority to make them," the article said, adding that doubt was expressed in London that Stevens and Best are still alive.

The Daily Herald's diplomatic correspondent commented on the incident as follows:

"Through certain channels suggestions had come to London from important elements in Nazi ruling circles which seemed to open up possibilities of peace on reasonable terms.

It was obviously necessary to inquire both into the bona fides of these suggestions and into the possibility of their having some practical importance.

"The suggestions, it was hardly necessary to add, had nothing in the world to do with anything remotely approaching an attempt on Hitler's life. Stevens and Best were entrusted with the task—the perfectly proper task—of establishing contact with the sources of these suggestions, in order to ascertain whether they were genuine.

"The sequel is known. On the frontier Stevens and best were kidnapped by Gestapo agents. Apparently Himmler's Gestapo agents had discovered what was afoot and had decided to put an end to any peace move in im-

Kidnapped Man Bucks Bandits Gets Shot Dead

NEW YORK, Nov. 24—(AP).—A bride of two months today wept for John Edward Glass, 38, who refused to play stooge to a bandit, threw beer in his face—and got back two bullets in the head.

Glass, a West Englewood, N.J., carpenter, and his bride, Olga, had come to Brooklyn to spend Thanksgiving with her sister.

Police said he left the sister's home early yesterday morning to park his car in a side street, apparently was kidnapped by two men and forced to drive them to a nearby bar, where they robbed the bartender of $50.

When one of the men refused to hand back his car, the carpenter hurled a glass of beer in his face. The bandits fired and escaped. Glass died in a hospital.

20 Nazi Planes Downed, 3 Days

PARIS, Nov. 24 — (AP). — The Allies reported to-day continuing triumphs in aerial combat on the western front as the war turned skyward in a manner reminiscent of the dog-fights of the last war.

In contrast with the grim, waiting game on the ground, the French said that their aviators shot down 11 German aircraft in the past three days.

Despatches from Royal Air Force headquarters in France said British fliers destroyed nine German planes in two days.

(Germany also reported an increase in aerial warfare, but disputed the results. News agency reports in Berlin said German fighters shot down five planes with one German loss in six separate encounters over north-western France in the past two days.)

The French reported they shot down two Nazi planes yesterday, six Wednesday, and three Tuesday, with only one of their own planes lost.

No British Losses.

The R.A.F. brought down seven Germans yesterday and two Wednesday without loss, correspondents at headquarters said.

Claims Germany Overplayed Hand In Rumania

LONDON, Nov. 24 (CP) — "The Germans overplayed their hand," the Daily Herald said today in commenting on yesterday's resignation of Rumanian Premier Constantine Argetoianu.

Emphasizing the "courage" shown by King Carol, the newspaper said "Rumania was prepared to negotiate, on reasonable terms, a considerable increase of trade with the Germans, but the trade delegation headed by Dr. Karl Claudius demanded too much."

"It not only required a big increase in Rumanian exports to the Reich, especially oil, on quite uneconomic terms," the paper said. "It also demanded devaluation of the leu and its 'pegging' to the mark with the artificial exchange of 60 lei and its 'pegging' to the the present 41. Carol refused to allow Rumania to become merely a Nazi economic appanage."

Tatarescu Tackles Job

BUCHAREST, Nov. 24 (AP) — Georgé Tatarescu, nationalist former premier who is regarded as sympathetic toward France and Great Britain, sought today to form a "concentration government" to avert a crisis in Rumanian foreign affairs.

The cabinet headed by Premier Constantine Argetoianu resigned yesterday after refusing to make trade concessions to Germany.

It was reported in official circles that the National Peasants' party and the Liberal party would be represented in the government as well as the national rebirth front, Rumania's official party.

Tatarescu himself was premier under the Liberal party, having resigned in December, 1937. He recently was the Rumanian ambassador to France, and has served in various cabinet capacities.

Honor Railroaders

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—(AP)— The presidium of the supreme Soviet today awarded honors and medals to 3,064 railwaymen for exemplary service. Among the recipients were leading workers of the Commissariat of Railways, inventors, engineers and technicians and 71 workers in the Moscow subway.

Mickey Mouse Makes Hit With The Troops

With the British Expeditionary Forces in France, Nov. 24 (CP-Reuters)—Mickey Mouse has arrived on the western front—and has conquered the British Expeditionary Forces. He quickly reduced the British troops assembled near the front line to a condition of helplessness. He was featured as part of the first program of films exhibited by mobile movie vans.

Though there were other pictures in the program, it was the latest Mickey Mouse which appealed most strongly to the eager audience.

Just as the show began, five French children from the village were seen peeping and were called inside. Room was made for them in the centre of the front row and the children, whose ages ranged from four to seven years, were allowed to see the show through.

Tweed Man Confesses Setting $12,000 Fire

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Rupert Stewart, Tweed, surrendered to police today admitting he set fire to a barn owned by Clarence Graham of Thomasburg on April 15, 1938, giving as his reason "his conscience bothered him."

The fire destroyed a large barn, chattels and 80 head of cattle, sheep and hogs, along with five horses, valued at $12,000, and investigation by the Fire Marshal's department at the time led to the belief the fire was started by grain thieves, who inadvertently dropped a lighted match. Stewart helped to fight the fire and was later arrested and given a year in the reformatory on a grain theft charge. He was charged today with arson and remained in custody without bail.

Charge Politics In Handling York Rangers

TORONTO, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Charge that the Queen's York Rangers Regiment was being made a "political football" was heard at a meeting of York County Council last night when it again was requested that the outfit be included in the third contingent of the Canadian Active Service Force.

During debate preceding passing of the motion, charges of "playing politics with the Army" were made by Reeve Sam Wright of Long Branch. He said the Rangers were being made a "political football."

"Where is there all this anxiety to send the Queen's York Rangers to the front lines?" he asked.

"I was too young to be in the last war myself, but three of my brothers went through it," he continued. "I can't understand men using the Army to further their own political ambitions."

Deputy-Reeve A. Johnson replied that the men were enlisting anyway and the county was not trying to force them to go overseas. However, the men preferred to enlist with thei rown regiment, he said, and the regiment should be sent overseas as a unit.

"The Queen's York Rangers is a quiet, efficient regiment that has been in existence for a long time," declared Reeve Gardiner of Forest Hill. "What is the use of taxing the citizens of York County to maintain this regiment in peace time if it is ignored in time of war." He urged the Minister of National Defence be again approached to include the regiment in the third contingent. Earlier in the session, Council made a similar request to the minister, but a reply had not been received.

Czechs Continue

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP).—Former President Eduard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia today said the "present-day Nazi dictatorship is comparably worse than the absolutism and militarism of the Kaiser."

At a banquet at Grosvenor House, he said Czech-Slovakia has not been destroyed but "continues, lives and exists."

"The war is a new, great struggle for the same principles as in 1914 and must end in the crushing of Hitlerism," he declared.

Britain Rushes Mine Defences

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP).—Admiralty experts shaped methods today to combat mines which are taking a rising toll of merchant shipping along the east coast of Great Britain.

Within the past six days about 25 British and neutral vessels have been sunk, some by German submarines but most by mines.

London newspapers charge Germany with sowing magnetic, high explosive mines in shallow east coast shipping lanes by means of mine-laying airplanes and small submarines.

The Admiralty made no pronouncement on statements by persons who said they saw dark objects splash in the Thames estuary, near London, from German planes Wednesday night.

Naval experts, however, said the splashes came from light-weight, high explosive mines dropped with parachutes.

They said airplanes could sow the mines in shallow water where submarines could not navigate, but that they considered the aerial

Nazis Lay Pre-War Sabotage To U.K. Agent Stevens; 'Confesses' Wrecking Ships

Hint Athenia One Of Latest Victims In Plot And Believe U.S. Will Want New Checkup As Result Of Revelations

BERLIN, Nov. 24—(AP)—Captain Richard Henry Stevens, held as a British agent on charges of direct connection with an attempt on Adolf Hitler's life, was represented by German officals today as also a director of "pre-war sabotage" against German-Italian and Japanese shipping.

Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, said Stevens who has been identified by the Gestapo as chief of British intelligence for Western Europe, had "confessed" he used an emigrant German, Waldemar Poetzsch, in plots to wreck ships.

(Stevens and a companion were kidnapped by the Gestapo in the Netherlands Nov. 8 and taken to Germany where they are held as prisoners. The British Ministry of Information last night said the men went to the Dutch frontier "to receive yet further German peace proposals).

Stevens was said to have told Gestapo questioners that the sabotage campaign was planned in a secret service office in London, on the ground floor of the "broadway building."

A government statement charged that from November, 1937, to November, 1938, Poetzsch carried out acts of sabotage on "a number of ships which resulted partly in their destruction, including that of the crew."

Three German Ships Listed.

The statement did not list the ships in question, saying merely that "German, Italian and Japanese ships" were affected. But the Voelkischer Beobachter specified three German ships the 1,110-ton naval oiler Nordney, the 2,833-ton Hestia and the 651-ton Feronia.

Liner Braves Mine Fields Of North Sea

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands, Nov. 24 — (AP). — The Holland-Amerika liner Statendam sailed for New York to-day with 1,200 passengers, including 175 Americans.

Officials of the line said the Statendam carried no German cargo.

Her sailing came with the resumption of restricted shipping 24 hours after Netherlands lines suspended operations on the advice of the government. The limited traffic still excludes calls at British ports in the mine-laden North Sea area.

The Netherlands Government announced at The Hague yesterday that it had protested to the British Government against its decision to seize German exports on neutral ships and the Belgian Government prepared a similar protest.

British Bankers Aid Importers

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP) — A powerful British banking group headed by N. M. Rothschild and Sons have been organized to help importers of United States goods who have been denied credit overseas because of the American neutrality law, it was disclosed today.

The Financial Times announced the new development, saying it might have an important, permanent influence on Anglo-American trading relations.

Assistance by the group, called the New Trading Company, will vary with the needs of individual importers, the Financial Times said.

It said the group could arrange if necessary for the exchange control to pay for goods in the United States before shipment.

County Requests Closed Season

Because beavers are an agency for preventing bush fires, Reeve Wallace Shearer of Harvey township, moved a resolution in the county council Thursday afternoon requesting the Ontario government to keep Peterboro county a closed area for the protection, and to appoint six temporary game wardens to prevent trapping of them during the open period, December 1-20 in counties on several of the borders of Peterboro.

His motion also asks that every member of the council be appointed a deputy game warden. Reeve G. Scriver of Lakefield, seconded the motion which was adopted on a division of 9-6.

"Peterborough County might as well be thrown open and let our trappers go to it," said Reeve Isaac Anderson, Belmont-Methuen, proposing an amendment, seconded by Reeve M. Coughlin.

Involve Mother And Brother In Girl's Death

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 24 — (CP). —Mystery death a week ago of Mary Myrtle Lenhardt, attractive 18-year-old blond, resulted in the three persons including her mother and a brother being charged in the County Police Court to-day with "conspiring to administer substances for the purpose of procuring an abortion."

They were remanded to December 1 by Magistrate C .W. Hawkshaw without pleas being taken.

Accused are Mrs. Myrtle Lenhardt, 42, Lawrence Lenhardt, 24, and Harvey Abel, 18, reputed fiancee of of the victim.

The mother, whose husband, albert, resides in Toronto, was arrested on a warrant at her home yesterday afternoon by Provincial Police. Lawrence Lenhardt and Abel have been held in jail since November 18 as material witnesses on nominal charges of vagrancy.

Miss Lenhardt died early in the morning of November 17 after only a few hours' illness.

Poisoning was suspected and an autopsy was ordered by Dr. A. R. Routledge, chief coroner for the district. Later, vital organs were sent to Toronto to Dr. E. R. Frankish, medico-legal expert of the Attorney General's Department. A preliminary report has been sent here by Dr. Frankish, but its contents have not been disclosed.

Several days ago, city and Provincial Police searched the Lenhardt home near the city. Results of the search were not revealed.

Credit Hitler's Rise To Power Of Words

PARIS, Nov. 24 — (CP-Havas). — Adolf Hitler owes his rise to power to his grasp of the "power of words," Otto Strasser said in an interview with Le Journal today.

Strasser, leader of the Nazi Dissidents who call themselves "The Black Front," has been accused of being the organizer of the time-bomb plot against Hitler's life at Munich November 8.

"The hatred I bear for Hitler is the most powerful emotion of my life," said Strasser, whose brother Gregor was shot down in the blood purge of June 30, 1934. "But this hatred does not blind me."

Hitler, he said, "betrayed the German cause, betrayed his friends, and betrayed the social revolution almost from the very beginning."

20 Years' War?

London, Nov. 24 (CP Cable) THE MAGAZINE "Food Manufacture" today quoted a leading British grain man as declaring grain reserves were being built up to anticipate a war of 20 years' duration.

"Not that the war will last 20 years but we leaders of the food industry in Britain are prepared for anything that may come," the grain man said.

The magazine stated that new food credits were being established between Britain and 12 exporting countries and that Britain has more than 200,000 tons of meat in cold storage.

'Keeping Hitler Bottled, His Doom'-Drew

By PAUL RISLER

TORONTO, Nov. 24—(CP)— "The type of war which does not permit Germany to move is best suited to our purpose," Lt.-Col. George Drew declared last night. "We are fighting the kind of war that will destroy Hitler."

The Ontario Conservative leader addressed 800 officials and guests at York County banquet to its 78th Warden, Gordon Harris, Reeve of Weston.

Hitler Col. Drew said, would have to show the German people a major land victory to hold them together through the winter. "This war," he predicted, "will be won on the sea."

He saw Canada as the future great air power of the world and predicted a combination of sea and air strength of Britain and Canada "which can preserve forever, that freedom and decency we're fighting for today"

The air is the place where Canada can make her greatest contribution, Col. Drew declared He reiterated his proposal to put unemployed men to work building airports and learning the maintenance and duties of these airports. This, he said, should be done with an eye to the peace of the future, "when we will be in the air what Great Britain is on the sea."

It disgusted him, the speaker said, to hear people voicing disappointment at "this strange war and the lack of action." Such persons, he said, could be compared to the audience at a prize fight yelling lustily for two ring combatants to beat each other into senselessness.

"It has been my experience that those who shout the soonest for blood are the smallest and most cowardly of the crowd," Col. Drew declared.

Supplies Most Important.

The number of troops in the field and the position of the battlefield were not so important in this conflict as the supply of modern and technical equipments of war."

Col. Drew compared Hitler to a man riding a surf board. "He is all right so long as the board keeps on the crest of the waves but when it sinks behind a wave, the rider goes down with it," he said.

He said he did not believe the Germans are united behind Hitler or that Hitler is merely the expres-

Police Stop Funeral To Hold Autopsy

GRAYSON, Sask., Nov. 24.—(CP). —Royal Canadian Mounted Police stopped the funeral of Anton B. Horning, village butcher, here yesterday after Coroner Dr. J. T. Sullivan decided an inquest and an autopsy was necessary to determine the cause of Horning's death Tuesday night.

The family, relatives and a priest had gathered for the funeral when the police took charge of the body.

Mr. Horning was stricken in his own yard Tuesday and died almost immediately.

A coroner's jury was sworn in and after it viewed the body the inquest was adjourned until the result of an autopsy is known.

200 Others Beached; 83rd British Ship Goes Down

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(CP Cable).—Britain turned to the scientist in his laboratory and the fisherman in his overalls to-day in her fight to cope with Germany's mine warfare which a naval authority termed an "extremely grave menace."

Officials said they had been unsuccessful in bringing one of Germany's magnetic mines to the surface for inspection and until they do they are seriously handicapped.

Meanwhile explosive experts and electrical experts—all sorts of scientists—are kept busy trying to find a counter-weapon for Germany's latest underwater menace.

More than 200 German mines have been washed up on the coast of Yorkshire, North Eastern Ireland, it was officially announced to-night. These will be examined for some clue to the new Nazi weapon.

Meaiwhile, mines off England's east coast sank another British vessel to-day, the 8,886-ton steamship Mangalore.

Shetland Raided Again.

German planes flew over the Shetland Islands again, causing two air raid warnings, one of 90 minutes and the other of 32. These islands, off the north coast of Scotland, were bombed Wednesday when the only loss was a British flying boat which was fired by a bomb.

In addition to the Mangalore, whose crew of 77 was saved, the sinking of the 5,133-ton Netherlands tanker Sliedrecht by a submarine a week ago was disclosed today when five survivors were landed at a northwest coast port. Twenty-six crewmen were missing.

(The Mangalore was the 83rd British vessel, naval and merchant, lost since the start of the war).

The Press Association said Britain's Order-in-Council calling for seizure of all German exports might be put into effect next Tuesday.

Money, Defence Systems Held Related

AYLMER, Ont., Nov. 24—(CP).—Monetary systems and defence systems, in the opinion of Premier Mitchell Hepburn, are closely related.

"It is a peculiar thing," the Ontario premier said last night, "that the countries with the rubber money have the strong armies, while the countries which have strong financial positions have rubber armies.

In the totalitarian countries money is but a utility, Mr. Hepburn said. Before the war the democracies allowed millions of men to remain on public charity while Germany ended unemployment by putting men to work at war preparations, he asserted.

"While Germany was making herself a mighty military power, we sought to preserve a monetary system that is now outworn," he said. "While Germany shook off its burden of old war debts, today we enter a second war with our debts from the last war and interest pyramided."

Speaking before a "farmers' night" gathering of the Aylmer Rotary Club, Mr. Hepburn reiterated his criticism of the previous night over the extent of Canada's war effort.

"The matter of paramount importance to any nation is national protection," he declared. "And when I say 'shake off your apathy at Ottawa and get on with this war'

French Warships Bag Third Sub In 4 Days

PARIS, Nov. 24—(AP). — The sinking of a German submarine by the French U-boat chaser Admiral Mouchez was reported in despatches published here Thursday, bringing to three the number of undersea craft sunk in four days by the French.

The reports said the Admiral Mouchez scored a depth bomb hit on the U-boat in the English Channel after escaping one of the submarine's torpedoes.

The Admiral Mouchez, formerly an ocean mapping vessel, was travelling in a night convoy when the submarine fired the torpedo, it was reported. The chaser loosed depth charges and oil rising to the surface indicated a hit.

The French destroyer Siroco, a speedy 1,500-ton craft, previously had been disclosed as the torpedo carrier credited with sinking two German U-boats in three days.

Toll Over 20 Now

The Siroco's victories, according to French naval sources, has brought the toll of U-boats to "more than 20" of the approximately 60 Germany possessed when war began.

(In addition it was revealed in Paris, according to a special cable, that the French convoying vessel, Admiral Mouchez, 719 tons, sank a German U-boat while helping to guard a number of merchant ships. The time and the location were not disclosed.

(The submarine shot a torpedo at the Admiral Mouchez, but the latter's commander, Lieutenant Caulnier, guided by the torpedo's wake, steered across its bow, dropping depth charges, which eventually produced a telltale layer of oil on the surface of the sea. Lieutenant Saulnier and his aides, Ensign Bonbans and Quartermaster Letollec, have been cited in orders of the day.)

The Siroco is one of a dozen destroyers of the Bourrasque class, capable of 30 knots. Launched in 1925, it went into active service in 1927. It is dumpier and less elegant in its lines than the later-built destroyers of the same class. Nearly all its artillery is mounted on a peculiar, elevated deck forward, which gives it a hunchback appearance.

The Siroco Victory.

The Siroco upheld its rating as an excellent offensive unit by the speed with which it went into action after a French seaplane notified it several days ago that an enemy submarine had been detected. The plane dropped a buoy at the spot to guide the approaching destroyer.

As soon as the Siroco received the seaplane's flash, it sped toward the indicated position. While engineers and stokers squeezed the last possible knot out of the straining engines, the rest of the crew—the Ciroco carries seven officers and 130 men—prepared for action.

The moment the seaplane's buoy was sighted, while the Siroco was

Howe Takes Over Supply Board

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Jurisdiction over the War Supply Board was transferred by an order-in-council passed yesterday from Finance Minister Ralston to Transport Minister Howe, it was announced last night from the Prime Minister's office.

Because Col. Ralston is burdened not only with the heavy routine of departmental work and war financing but with the task of preparing estimates and the budget for parliament, it was decided to place the War Supply Board under Mr. Howe.

It was also announced that operations of the War Supply Board will be made known to the public instead of waiting until parliament meets for the tabling of contracts.

Up to the present there has been little information made public on the heavy buying program in munitions and war supplies directed by the War Supply Board of which Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, is chairman.

portant quarters on the German side."

On Peace Mission.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 24 — (AP). —Two Britons now held in Germany described themselves here as engaged in undercover peace efforts, an official statement declared as Netherlands newspapers supplied new details to-day of their capture by the Gestapo on November 9.

Two Netherlands residents, one of them an unidentified intelligence officer assigned to keep an eye on the Britons, and the other a chauffeur named J. Lemmens, were seized at the same time as the Britons, it wa sannounced.

German police have stated the British prisoners are Sigismund Payne Best, intelligence officer of the British General Staff during the last war, and Captain Richard Henry Stevens, chief of the European staff of the British Intelligence Service. They have accused both of implication in the Munich Beer Hall blast of November 8, which Adolf Hitler escaped by 11 minutes.

Netherlands newspapers, which previously had reported the incident in guarded language, said one of the four was shot and all were carried into Germany by eight Gemans armed with machine guns and rifles.

German accounts said there were contradictory reports concerning the location, but the Amsterdam Telegraaf said there was no doubt the incident "occurred on Dutch territory."

The newspapers said Captain Stevens was connected with the British Passport Control Office at The Hague and had been assisting refugees from Germany.

Dutch Officer Shot

THE HAGUE, Nov. 24 (AP)—The Amsterdam newspaper Het Volk said today that a Netherlands army intelligence officer, Lieut. Klop, was killed in the Venloo frontier incident Nov. 9 in which German secret police seized two Britons.

The two Britons were investigating the validity of reported German peace proposal. Berlin has charged them with attempting to foment revolt within Germany.

The Netherlands version is that the Britons on the day before the Venloo incident had discussed the possibility of initiating peace negotiations in a meeting with two Germans, unidentified, at a cafe near the border.

On the next day Lieut. Klop and a chauffeur named J. Lemmens were with the Britons, Lieut. Klop in the interests of Netherlands neutrality, when the intelligence officer was shot and the two Britons and the chauffeur "abducted," Netherlands officials said.

A British spokesman confirmed reports from Amsterdam that a Netherlands observer was accompanying Best and Stevens when they were taken by the Gestapo.

Replying to German charges that Britain inspired the Munich explosion Nov. 8, the spokesman said the Gestapo must either have known the bomb was in the cellar long before it exploded or admit to "gross inefficiency."

In case they knew, the spokesman continued, the explosion was "either to inflame hatred against the British or whip up the German people's waning enthusiasm for Hitler."

The spokesman did not reveal the nature of the purported peace proposal or from what German faction it was supposed to have come. He said British authorities believe Stevens and Best, from German reports, are now in Berlin.

Poland's fate, he asserted, should teach Canadians that bravery is not enough. "We must have mechanical equipment, equal to that of other nations," he maintained.

"By an accident of geography," Canada has the opportunity of becoming the great air power of world commerce, the speaker claimed. If she builds up her supply of airports, pilots, technicians, etc., in preparation for peace, she will dominate all commercial air routes in future.

"We must build a strong country which will survive the dislocation of peace. We must build for the future at the outset," he concluded.

Meals At Jail Cost 13.3 Cents Per Day For Each Prisoner; Commitments To County Bastille Show Annual Increase

Meals at the county jail cost 15.3 cents a day for each prisoner during the last quarter of the period preceding official inspection on Tuesday September 19 by W. L. McJannet of the Provincial Secretary's Department.

The fare on that day was as follows: Breakfast, rolled oats, syrup, tea and bread.

Dinner—Beef and vegetable stew, bread.

Supper— Rice, jam, bread and tea.

There were twenty-five prisoners in jail on the day of inspection, all of them men. The number of commitals from April 1st this year to September 19 was 229 as compared with 212 for the same period last year.

Other facts in this connection were: Commitals in 1936-37 were 280 men and 17 women; 1937-38 the number of males was 335 and females 15; and for 1938-39 the totals were 347 males and 13 females.

The accommodation of the jail provides for 18 men and 6 women. The inspector commented that no work had been done on improvements since the last inspection in November 1938. "It is particularly desired that the program of work arranged for at that time be carried through without any unnecessary delay, particularly the erection of concrete stairs and the laying of concrete in the corridors in the upper floors; the top floor ceiling to be made fire-proof and escape-proof. The entire interior of the jail requires painting.

The report was read at the meeting of the property committee of the county council Thursday afternoon. Miss Jennie Batten told the committee the inspector was threatening to have the work done himself and charge the cost against the grant from the government.

The chairman, Reeve J. R. Thompson, Norwood, was authorized to have some of the necessary work done in the jail.

School Boards From Across Ontario Rally Behind Windsor Appeal

TORONTO, Nov. 24.—(CP)—Formation of an association to help Windsor Public School Board in its appeal to the Privy Council was approved by about 100 representatives from boards from all over the province today. The meeting was held in the administrative building of the Board of Education to consider the question.

The Ford Motor Company of Canada had declared that 18 per cent of its assessment should go the Separate schools. The Windsor School Board was successful in several appeals against this percentage, but the supreme court finally upheld the appeal of the Separate school board.

Following the decision to form an association of all boards represented, a special committee of 12 members was named to go into the details to advise as to whether an appeal should be made, and as to whether the boards could give financial assistance.

A number of representatives stated that their boards were unanimously in favor of giving financial assistance if possible.

To Cost Considerable

J. F. Twigg, of Windsor, explained the history of the case and mentioned that it would take a considerable amount of money to appeal to the privy council. He stated that a large part of the legal costs had been borne up to the present by the Ford company against the Windsor public school board. Mr. Twigg suggested that an association of boards of Ontario be formed and that the constitution and make-up of that body be left to a committee to work out, and to consider whether an appeal is advisable.

"Is it a fact that the Ford company carried a large part of the costs or is it hearsay?" inquired E. E. Gilmour, of Brantford.

"No, I had it on the authority of the Separate school board chairman, before I came here," replied Mr. Twigg, "that is, the costs up to date. Pressure is being brought on us not to appeal."

Asked as to when an appeal must be made he replied that it must be within a reasonable time.

"It is time we woke up and got busy," declared Rev. W. A. Townshend, of London, Ont. "I have been surprised at the lethargy of the public school supporters. The separate school supporters are organized and we are not. We should see that the money belonging to us does not become the property of the separate schools."

H. B. Fetterley, of Belleville, declared that the separate schools are being spoon fed.

Trawlermen have intensified their efforts—the most dangerous job in the navy—of sweeping the sea lanes on which Britain depends for food.

Sure Of Counter Weapon.

Naval authorities, while admitting the exceedingly great menace Adolf Hitler's "secret weapon" is proving to be, are convicted that a counter-weapon will be found. Experiments are being made with different sorts of sweeps, net and paravanes, but the chief handicap at the moment is the inability of experts to examine the mine.

Whether the mine is magnetic, one that explodes by the magnetic field produced by a ship passing over it, or acoustic, one which explodes by the sound of a ship's propellors, or a combination of both types, is not known and will not be known until one is lifted from the bottom of the sea and taken to pieces, naval authorities say.

They believe the explosive force of mines planted by submarines and those dropped by low flying bombers is about the same, but whether they are the same type is not known.

None on West Coast?

It is believed German planes and submarines have concentrated on the east coast, particularly in shallow waters. There is no evidence at the moment of the west coast being mined So far the Thames Estuary has been kept open to shipping.

This is the first time in history that planes have been used to plant mines It is understood that Britian's air patrol has been intensified to protect vital sea lanes such as the Thames Estuary.

Small parachutes attached to the mines reduce concussion when they strike the water and steady their descent.

German planes have dropped mines during three of the past four nights, naval men say. The nights for these activities have been chosen with care to see that there was just sufficient light to pick out bearings but not enough to give defensive planes and guns an advantage.

Germany's mine warfare is designed to close British ports to shipping on which the country depends, but in the opinion of naval authorities it also shows that Germany has discovered U-boats cannot be depended upon to starve Britain.

Wooler Board Refuses Counties' Offer

COBOURG, Nov. 24.—(ENS)—Wooler Continuation School Board Thursday advised the Northumberland and Durham Counties Council that it would not accept the offer of the counties to forego their costs, awarded in the action which Mr. Justice Greene dismissed, which the counties made with the stipulation that Wooler should in turn abandon its decision to appeal against the Supreme Court decision. On motion of Deputy-Reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope, seconded by Reeve R. R. Mallory of Percy Township, the council decided to arrange for legal counsel to represent the counties in the appeal. The case was a claim of Wooler school board for sums expended in transporting county pupils to school.

Election Coming

Deputy-Reeve W. A. Smith of Murray township assured the council that they need have little worry about the appeal going on as he was confident that school board members would find themselves eliminated by the election. The voters are well aware of the whole matter and both he and Reeve W. H. Morrow of Murray Township were working hard to have the whole thing disposed of.

"I don't think you need worry about any appeal being started. These fellows will not have anything to say about it when the election is over," promised the deputy-reeve of Murray township.

Just to be on the safe side, however, the council decided to make the necessary legal preparations in connection with the appeal.

Trent River Frozen

HASTINGS, Nov. 24 (ENS). — Duck hunters who ventured down the Trent River from Hastings on Thursday morning were met with a stout sheet of ice extending from shore to shore below the first island. A heavy frost during the night brought the first freeze-up of the river this season. The ice extended down the river as far as eye could see. As a result, ducks had taken leave of the district, and it was a disgusted group of hunters who returned to the village defeated by Jack Frost.

Value Put On Personal Service Shows Wide Disparity In Rural And Urban Estimation

Disparity in rural and urban estimates of values of personal services, or at least of remuneration for them, was a friendly criticism by Reeves James Gifford of Ennismore and W. A. Anderson of Otonabee of the probable cost of engaging a trained assistant to the superintendent of the Children's Aid Society at Thursday afternoon's meeting of the county council.

Alderman James Dutton, who was accompanied by E. B. Fowler and G. K. Fraser as a deputation from the Society, spoke of the growing need of qualified help for Miss Rachel Young, superintendent, and suggested that the salary and transportation of an additional worker might amount to $1,800. Alderman Dutton later explained that he had placed an outside estimate on this item of cost.

"People in the city invariably put a higher price on themselves and their employees than do people in the country," Reeve Gifford commented. "The worker suggested would not spend any more on her education than would the average school teacher who is receiving $700 or $800 a year."

Reeve Anderson said in his turn, "I have not been able to understand what is this mystic quality about a trained worker in this field above the quality of a person who can go out and use plain common sense."

Later in the discussion Reeve Anderson cited an illustration without using any identifying name, of a rural family of reasonably good circumstances taking a place in their community on a considerably less financial footing than a more or less comparable family in the city.

E. B. Fowler proposed that the council as a whole could get a clearer understanding of the work being done by Miss Young if the members could look through her files and see for themselves the exteat of the responsibility that has to be assumed by the Children's Aid Society. And that proposal was accepted in a resolution by Reeve Gifford, seconded by Reeve Wallace Shearer, inviting Miss Young to meet the council on Friday morning.

More Work To Be Done.

As the main speaker for the deputation, Alderman Dutton said that if the Society's work was to be carried on as it should be, a trained assistant for Miss Young should be engaged. Certain phases of the work are being neglected for the sole reason that Miss Young is unable to look after all the details that required expert attention.

The three members of the deputation mentioned specific instances of the extent of Miss Young's travels throughout the city and county. For the year ending last April the Superintendent's record included 1,292 office interviews, 1,858 visits, 1,913 telephone calls, 1,732 letters sent out; 60 attendances at court; 45 addresses given; and 8,197 miles travelled.

For the month of October, Alderman Dutton continued Miss Young made 271 visits, 107 office interviews; had 141 telephone calls; sent out 232 letters; and attended 15 court cases. She was at present interested in 106 families. At April 1st last there were 77 protection cases with 116 children requiring care, and there were 46 cases under the Unmarried Parents Act.

In Other Counties.

Enquiry had been made of what seven or eight other couunties were doing through their Children's Aid Societies. One of them Victoria county. Most of those counties had two trained workers in the field and two clerical helpers.

"It is impossible now for one worker to be doing anything of a constructive nature," Ald. Dutton said. "The expense of another worker would more than pay for itself in the long run. What the Society would like to be doing is reaching out to prevent those things which make necessary the maintenance of a Shelter. We wondered whether the county council would consider a grant of $500, and we intend to make a similar request of the city council. If we could get a grant like that for two years we would be well on our way."

Alderman Dutton sai dthe Society was hoping for an increased grant from the Government. The Society's surplus last year amounted to $665.

Reeve Mann remarked that the many branches of public service of one kind and another were creating an increasing number of administrators, and many of them were fellows with too little to do. He expressed some doubt that preventive work mentioned by Mr. Dutton would attain the accomplishment of reducing to a worth while minimum the need of maintaining the Shelter.

Alderman Dutton said the ideal in that direction was eventually to make the Shelter only a clearing house where wards of the Society would be kept only a short time until foster homes were found for them.

Problem of Assistance.

Mr. Fraser told the council that broadening of the Society's ability to cope with the demands that were being made upon it should be considered as good insurance for the future. There are in Canada, he said, 3,500,000 children of sixteen years and under and of that number 350,000 have to be looked after by various societies.

Mr. Fowler said that more families were needing supervision and direction. The result was an increased expense upon society, and one of the developments contemplated on the constructive side was the adoption of steps that would strive to prevent this increase.

"But, can it be prevented," Reeve A. B. Mann asked.

"I think it can," Mr. Fowler replied.

Reeve Gifford recalled that when the Children's Aid Society was advanced from class D to C with a consequent increase of $500 from the Government, many persons thought that money should have gone to the Society instead of to Miss Young.

Speaking as a member of the Society he said: "When we engage some one with better qualifications and as a result of that get a larger grant it was felt that we should have got some part of that money."

Ferocious Class

London, Nov. 24 (CP Cable)

FROM his apartment a mere carrot's throw from rationing headquarters of the ministry of food, vegetarian George Bernard Shaw today penned an anxious letter to the press. He said:—

"May we ask for an official assurance that when rationing begins special provision will be made for vegetarians? For some unexplained natural cause vegetarians are the most ferocious class we have and any underfeeding of them would produce a reduction in our national fighting spirit out of all proportion to their numbers."

Reds Claim Finns Meet Dissension

MOSCOW, Nov. 24—(AP) —Soviet Russian newspaper, pressing attacks against Finland today reported growing difficulties and dissension in Finland over the government's refusal to come to terms with Moscow.

Dispatches datelined Helsingfors, Finland, and Tallinn, Estonia, again accused Finnish leaders of wanting to go to war with the U.S.S.R. against the wishes of the Finnish people.

This Peterborough Lady Has High Praise For Syntona

Describes How It Brought Her Relief From 15 Years Of Suffering With Nervous Indigestion, Headaches, Backache and Rheumatic Pains. Felt Fatigued and Rundown.

"After all those years of suffering, I am so pleased with the way Syntona has helped me that I welcome this opportunity to let others know about this medicine," said Mrs. William Murney, 249 Dalhousie Street, Peterborough, in a report recently received at Elliott's Drug Store, here:

"I was told that my trouble was, originally, nervous indigestion, and it surely kept me in misery. I would have hunger pains, but as soon as I ate any food, my stomach became upset and I would feel sick and nauseated. There was a heavy feeling in my stomach and I would get so bloated with gas I could hardly breathe. For years I was troubled with headaches and pains in my back and then the pains spread into my arms and shoulders. I had lost so much sleep and was so nervous that I felt constantly worn out and rundown.

"When I read about how Syntona was helping others, I began taking it too, and soon found I was getting the same good results myself. I can eat heartily now and I don't suffer with my stomach like I used to. I am relieved of those awful headaches and rheumatic pains. I sleep better and my nerves are relaxed. I take an active part in the unemployed association here and I often had to curtail my activities because of my health, but since taking Syntona, I am able to carry on with my work without any interference."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of drugs or depressors. It is made only from pure herbal extracts that aid in the proper assimilation of food for energy and resistance and that rid the system of excess acids and poisonous waste matter.

All who suffer, are cordially invited to call at Elliott's Drug Store, 393 George Street, Peterborough, and learn the plain, truthful facts about Syntona. Make up your mind to begin taking it to-day. See how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

After Japanese Liner Struck Mine

Members of the crew and passengers of the Japanese liner Terukuni Maru are shown being taken aboard a rescue ship off the English coast after their craft had been blown up by a mine in the regular sea lane in the epidemic of sinkings which British authorities charge are the work of German mines. All 28 passengers and 173 crew members of the Terukuni Maru were saved and brought to an undisclosed British port. The ship was sunk within sight of land.

Concert By Lakefield Mission Band

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 24—(ENS)—A splendid program was given by the Mission Band of the Lakefield United Church in the Sunday School Room on Friday evening to a very large and appreciative audience. An opening chorus by all the Band entitled "Good Neighbors" started the program. A recitation by Evelyn Allan, "Pigs and Fingers," gave some health hints.

The junior members of the Band, Ileen Soles, Elinore Deck, Frances Erskine, Marion Sloan, Georgie Kelly, Victor Ward, Ross Calberry, and John Deck, took part in a very interesting drill, "The Daisy Song," in which each of the girls carried a large crepe paper daisy and described what each part of the flower stood for, was well given by Jean Spence, Marion Sloan, Grace Millage, and Frances Erskine. The daisy is the emblem of the band.

Lillian Calberry's recitation, "Curly Locks Goes to China," was a description of a little girl's farewell to her doll which was being sent to China in the mission bale.

The Milk Maids' Drill was in three parts and was taken by Joan Kelly, Pauline Butcher, Betty Lake, Doreen Kelly, Marieta Hull, Joan Pue, Jean Miller, and Audrey Patterson.

Doreen Kelly and Norma and Joan Pue gave a vocal number, Doreen playing the accompaniment on the autoharp. Of unusual interest was the play, "Red Riding Hood." The part of Red Riding Hood was ably taken by Lillian Calberry. The mother was Jean Tanner. The gnome was George Kelly. Two woodmen were Jamie Hull and Lloyd Foster. The part of the wolf was impersonated by John David Grill. Jean Spence was the narrator.

The program was divided into two parts, and during the intermission candy was sold, with Mesdames Dave Charlton, Roland Bullock, and Master Percy Calberry in charge.

There was also a display of the work done by the Band at the work meetings. The girls have completed a quilt and the boys have been making lawn ornaments. The junior members showed their skill in the novelty flower pot covers which they had on display. Mary Northey and Grace Millage opened the second part of the program with a piano duet, Joan Kelly's recitation "Driving from the Rear," caused much laughter. A duet in pantomime form, "Sweet Story of Old," was given by Norma Pue and Shirley Sloan. Jean Miller's recitation, "The Goblins Will Get You," was given in Joan's usual capable manner.

Those taking part in the Mission Song were Joan Pue, Marieta Hull, Pauline Butcher, and Lillian Calberry. Another drill by the junior members of the Band was followed by a short play, "The Fountain of Life." This was the story of a lady who had reached the age of seventy-five years and suddenly discovered she had led a very selfish life. Those taking part in this play were Barbara Brown, Doreen Kelly, Lillian Calberry, Dorothy Bullock, and Clarina Foster. Eight of the older girls were in the ribbon drill. They were dressed in white dresses with sashes of harmonizing shades, and hair ribbons, and carried colored paper streamers. Those taking part were Pauline Butcher, Joan Kelly, Betty Lake, Isabel Miller, Joan Pue, Marieta Hull, Jean Miller, and Audrey Patterson.

A closing chorus by all the Band members brought a most interesting program to a close. Rev. George Kelly was the capable chairman.

Mesdames W. J. Charlton, G. Kelly, J. A. Porter, and O. Calberry were in charge of the training of the children for the concert, the returns form which were most gratifying. Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. (Rev.) George Kelly, Doreen Kelly and John David Grylls.

Cattle Rating In T.B. Tests Is Reported Low

The number of Peterborough County cattle infected with tuberculosis is revealed by the Government's veterinary staff was 3.3 per cent. as compared with 9.4 per cent. in Waterloo County, where the examination is incomplete, and as high as 13 and 15 per cent. in some of the counties in the Toronto area. Frank C. Paterson, representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, informed the County Council on Thursday afternoon.

In this county 2,825 herds were inspected. They comprised 39,530 animals of which 1,326 were culled as reactors to the T.B. test. The cost to the Government in indemnity to owners was $39,264.

The figures for Waterloo County where a first test has been made were 2,881 herds numbering 45,283 cattle, with 4,290 reactors or 9.4 per cent, and $129,492 pair as indemnity to farmers.

The T.B. test is about finished in this county," Mr. Paterson said. "There may be an odd herd that has not yet been tested, but I believe even they have been examined in the last week or so."

Speaking of the final results of the campaign to rid Peterborough County of bovine tuberculosis, Mr. Paterson was content to let the figures which he quoted, convey their own story, indicating that the extent of the disease in Peterborough was considerably les sthan in other prominent dairy and beef cattle sections of the province.

Mr. Paterson also mentioned the completion of the soil survey in this county. "I am glad Peterborough made an early application to the Government because of late there have been so many applications from other counties that some of them have had to wait until the Government's men can get around to them.

Our survey showed that our soil here is deficient in potash and phosphorus ,and there is an alarming shortage of humus in the soil, especially in most of our wheat land. We have been getting people to use more fertilizer, and I am glad to be able to tell you that there has been a remarkable increase in this respect. We are now faced with the problem of getting an adequate supply of potash because most of it came from Germany. We have all we can get for next year, and we are expecting that by 1942 we may obtain a sufficient supply from the United States. I hope our men are going to continue to use potash, especially for clover growth, because that has been one of our weak spots."

Mr. Paterson said he had been recommending the application of superphosphate in the stables this winter.

"I hope we'll never see $2.50 wheat during this war, because it would just leave us all flat again. Millions of acres of land that was turned to wheat growing has gone back to other uses. The wheat crop this year is 465,000,000 bushels, the largest since 1928. We have always thought in terms of wheat, but we ought to be thinking of other products like bacon, for instance."

The Queen's Interest.

Mr. Paterson quoted a sentence from a letter he received from his brother who recently met Queen Elizabeth at Canada House in London.

"The Queen had quite a chat with me about pig raising," Mr. Paterson read, emphasizing the significance of Her Majesty's interest in a phase of production which should be of vital interest to Canadian farmers.

"The bacon business is of more importance to Canada right now than any other product. One fact we should realize is that up to the present there has been no agreement in respect to what the British Government is going to do in the matter of price on Canadian bacon, but there have been negotiations regarding contracts for our bacon.

The Canadian quota of 280,000,000 pounds has never been lived up to since we got it in the Ottawa agreements. The best we did was to come within 9,000 000 pounds. We must remember that Poland last year sold $100,000.000 of bacon to Great Britain. We now need from 50,000 to 60,000 more brood sows than we had a year ago, and I can say that our farmers are going along in that direction very adequately. There have been more orders for sows passing through our office in recent weeks than at any other time since I have been here."

Honey Experience.

Mr. Paterson mentioned the setback of the honey producers of Canada in their expected exports to Great Britain. Tom Shield, formerly of Peterborough, representing the Canadian honey producers, had taken orders this summer for 1,500,000 pounds of honey to the United Kingdom, but at the outbreak of war John Bull decided to save dollars on the exchange rate, and the Canadian business was cancelled, leaving the producers with a million and a half pounds to sell all over again.

Mr. Paterson reported that arrangements had been made for a month's short course in agriculture and domestic science during February at Westwood, and hoped it would be well attended. The present promise was encouraging. The Government had reduced short courses to one month this winter on account of war conditions.

Gestapo Arrests Workman For Munich Bombing

Agents of the dreaded Gestapo are reported to have arrested George Elser, LEFT, for the attempted assassination of Adolf Hitler during the Munich beer cellar celebration. Elser is alleged, by the Gestapo, to have confessed to placing the bomb which wrecked the beer cellar shortly after Hitler left it. The British press in reporting the arrest pointed out the similarity of arresting an obscure workman for the bombing and how the Nazis made a scapegoat of a halfwit for the Reichstag fire plot of 1933. The Gestapo also reported the arrest of Captain Stevens, CENTRE, and a Mr. Best, RIGHT, who were attacked and dragged over the Dutch border into Germany by Nazi agents who invaded the Netherlands near Venloo. The Gestapo claims that Stevens and Best were British secret agents in Germany. These pictures were flashed to New York by radio and then transmitted by phonephoto.

A Mean Way To Argue

Premier Hepburn delivered an address in his own bailiwick when he met with 200 farmers and business men in St. Thomas at a presentation banquet to the county warden. He had been in New York recently and came back with the information that Americans were beginning to laugh at the manner in which Canadians were participating in the war preparations. (Whether Mr. Hepburn informed them there are already 1,000 Canadians in the Royal Air Force at the front is not mentioned).

It comes with rather poor taste from the Premier of this province to say that people in United States are laughing at our war efforts. If Mr. Hepburn were to make the rounds of all the cities and towns in Ontario he would find much going on. He might find, if he looked or inquired, that troops were drilling and training, that plenty of young men are spending many evenings through the week studying military matters and receiving instruction in officers' training courses, for which they receive not one red cent in the way of pay.

Nor have we noticed anything in United States papers which would lead one to suspect, let alone believe, that there was any tendency or inclination across the line to laugh or faintly smile at that which this young country is seeking to do. Possibly when Premier Hepburn travels he calls on the wrong parties.

When he was through discussing the matter of how and when Canada was seeking to hide behind the United States Eagle Mr. Hepburn turned to the matter of municipalities not having any more elections after 1940. That one will have to do until the war is over. He is quoted as having said:

"I think the saving that will be affected and the benefits that will result will overshadow what the newspapers may lose in election advertising and printing."

The Premier had something more to say about Toronto where, if a person wanted to run for municipal office he virtually had to get the approval of one of the two afternoon papers and subscribe to so much advertising and a card of thanks when it was over.

The reason for that form of criticism is that the papers of the province with one or two exceptions have not agreed that Mr. Hepburn has any business to meddle in the affairs of municipal voting. In order to bolster his case he takes occasion to reply by stating that newspapers fear they are going to lose revenue by not securing advertising from municipal elections. The Examiner hopes for the sake of the high office the man holds that his reasoning and argument are generally based on a higher level. In case he is entirely ignorant on the matter we can tell him that the amount of revenue the average newspaper receives from a municipal election is very small. As a rule it consists of an election card and a photograph occupying a few inches of space As a revenue producer the municipal election is really not much of a success.

The custom in the Examiner Office is to give a statement regarding each candidate, and that statement is complete regardless of whether the candidate decides to place a card in the paper or not. It has been done that way for years and many other papers follow the same plan.

Mr. Hepburn's reference to the Toronto situation was hedged about by that phrase "it is said" and at best that is weak defence for one to whom we are entitled to look for guidance in plain and honorable speaking. Toronto papers can probably look after themselves but the Premier of the Province has charged that a man seeking municipal office there must first consult the newspaper and make his bargain. He must agree to spend so much money in advertising and wind up with an appropriation for a card of thanks. Then he can hope for the support of the newspapers

We do not believe Mr. Hepburn would appreciate it in the least if it were stated that one applying for a position with the Hepburn government had first of all to interview the manager of the compaign fund and arrange a satisfactory contribution, after which his case would be favorably considered. And yet that is exactly the way in which he states the case with regard to newspapers and election advertising.

We suspect the truth is that Mr. Hepburn has found such scant support for his latest effort to have the province thoroughly dominate the municipalities that he is hard pressed for honorable argument to support his case. He has done something which is not in the least creditable; he has given an entirely false view of the situation and indulged in a form of mean statement to which we had not anticipated he would stoop. A gentleman under similar circumstances would offer an apology.

We Suggested It Long Ago

Ottawa is apparently becoming alive to the need of telling the people of Canada something about the war. Premier King, in what is referred to as his first press conference since the war began, stated that more information about the war and Canada's part in it was the aim of the Government.

We learn too that the next move will be to appoint Walter S. Thompson director of a new Department of Information. He was named in the first instance as Chief Censor for Canada.

The Examiner went on record more than a month ago as saying that a blunder had been made in making Walter Thompson the Chief Censor. He has been for years chief publicity man for the Canadian National Railways, and his whole training and experience has been built around the business of telling people what his company had to offer. He knows how to hand out information much better than most publicity men.

We felt at the time that censorship was being too much stressed and we have had ample occasion in more recent times to entertain the same feeling. That is why the Examiner lodged its contention that Walter Thompson should be head of an Information Department, and apparently that is what is going to happen.

Censorship at best is purely negative work, and it consists chiefly in issuing orders that "this must not be published," and "you must make no reference to that." And with all due respect to censors and censorship that is hardly what has been needed in this country.

That is why Mr. Thompson should be placed in that new office and told to go ahead and tell the Canadian people something about the war. Rather significant of such efforts is the note in the Ottawa despatch which refers to Mr. King holding his first press conference since the war started. And that was almost three months ago. Meantime the possibilities of using the press for furnishing our people with reliable information about what is going on have remained inactive.

We hope in future we will hear less of censorship and more from the Department of Information. The people want and are entitled to be told the truth at all times. This country is ready and willing to do its part, and the manner in which the Red Cross appeal went over is sufficient proof of that. But we want information in order that we can measure up to the size of the task which is in front of us, and we want that information from authoritative sources. Put Walter Thompson in that office and give him sufficient latitude in which to work. And be sure to rub the sign Chief Censor from his office door.

Jackson Did It

London Ont., had a case in court where a husband was charged with striking his wife. Both parties appeared represented by legal talent, and each lawyer apparently held the same view as his client. One for the wife was certain a husband had no right to chastise his wife. Lawyer for the husband presented the opposite view. Like many others he decided to reach far back in British courts and declared the right of the husband to lay hands on his wife was "recognized in the well-known English case of Jackson versus Jackson."

Possibly the court had heard of the Jackson family before, but apparently was not much impressed. Just when it was that the Jackson people had their row is something we do not know. Husband Jackson may have whacked Wife Jackson soundly and been able to prove he was doing it for her good.

But the Jackson incident cast no shadow over the London court and it was decided that the man who beat his wife was guilty of common assault. Fine say we—Jackson versus Jackson notwithstanding.

They Stupidly Go Ahead

Crown Attorney James Allan of Windsor asked that the police of that city should start a drive against blind pigs until "Windsor has some semblance of decency. These places are apparently as thick as flies in the summer time." And it is possible that Windsor is not the only place of which a somewhat similar statement could be made.

It is well to note that it was not some temperance reformer who made that statement in Windsor. It was the Crown Attorney, a local representative of the Attorney-General of the province of Ontario; actually part of the governing force of our province.

It serves no good purpose to argue much about which party started beverage rooms in Ontario. The Conservatives planned to inaugurate the system and the Liberals arrived in time to put it into operation. The claim of each was much the same—the coming of beverage rooms under control and supervision would create a system under which the blind pigs and the bootleggers—same thing—would be put out of business. The reason for their existence would cease, and the revenue which the government missed by that form of outlaw trading would revert to the coffers of the government.

It hasn't worked that way. Windsor is saturated with permits to sell beer and wine legally; there is almost one place for each 1,000 of population, yet in spite of that overly-generous provision for what it termed legal selling we have the plain statement of the Crown Attorney that bootleg joints are as thick as flies in summer time.

The trade which supplies the bootleggers has failed to read the signs of the times and it has likewise forgotten past history of this province. Some day the people will insist that they have a vote on this business and the remark of the Crown at Windsor is just one of several things which will cause many people to vote for a dry spell in Ontario.

Not Engaged For Looks

Hon. Gordon Conant made a ruling that guards for Hydro plants had to be more than five feet six inches in height. The vice-chairman of the Commission has asked him to reconsider the matter, and that process is under way.

It was suggested that if the guards happened to be on parade it would not look well for a short man to be standing beside one who was taller.

Most of these guards are war veterans, and they raise a point for which one would be hard pressed to find an answer. Just this: "At our present height we were considered good enough to go and see service at the front, so what is there about guarding Hydro property to which we are not now able to attend?"

The reason for engaging guards is practical; it is to make certain that a great public utility is kept free from attack or damage, and who would be better qualified for such work than a war veteran? How they would look if on parade is really not a matter of importance or even mild interest.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Has any one seen or heard of the City of Flint?

That floating mine idea might not be bad for the man who is being hard pressed by creditors.

We wonder if Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Cross are going to allow us to play Santa Claus this year?

For years Al Capone, gunman and scoundrel, has been in jail, but he came out the other day, and the world must now look quite familiar to him.

Toronto man told police he had been robbed of $100, and then it was found he had lost the amount gambling. Even so the man might well have come away with the feeling he had been robbed.

Man in Des Moines spent about three days trying to get his car to run. To make a long story short, it happened this way—started, short circuit, fire, no car.

Germans protest about some of the articles which appear in the Turkish press. We have not seen what was printed, but we are certain it is hardly in line with the German method of shooting school children.

The British Broadcasting Corporation is now sending out one text daily in the Turkish language. Rather different from the days of the previous war when the language which the British could not understand was that of the Dardanelles.

¶ How many vitamins I get, I really haven't figured yet, the number may be great; or else the number may be small, perhaps I'm getting none at all, I really cannot state.

¶ They're getting scientific now, in analyzing all my chow, it's not all clear to me; there are so many they have found, not names enough to go around, they call them A B C.

¶ And when I go and weigh myself, and try bookkeeping on my health, I'm puzzled as can be; I need some building up I find, but it's not clear within my mind, if I need A or B.

¶ Of vitamins I've read a lot, don't understand like what I ought, just how each works or acts; I crave to know a whole lot more, than I have never done before, I'd like to bulge with facts.

¶ Grandfather never heard of them, he dwelt with strong hard-working men, provided for a home; they ate their meals with joy and peace, and licked up streaks of lean or grease, with vitamins unknown.

¶ Just how he kept himself so strong, and managed to hang out so long, it really puzzles me; of vitamins he'd never heard, no man had yet brought out the word—and named them A B C.

Heard Hitler Say No Czechs Were Wanted

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SPEAKING of the Czech student revolt—

A bit over a year ago, just before Hitler's triumph at Munich, I sat in the great sports palace in Berlin and heard the Nazi chieftain deliver his ultimatum to Czecho-Slovakia for the return of German Sudetenland—an ultimatum emphasized by the rumble of gun-carriages and the beat of marching feet.

But while he demanded that the Germans and their lands be given back to the Reich, he emphatically laid it down as a policy that "we do not wish at all to have other nationalities among us." Pursuant to that declaration, he added for the special benefit of British Premier Chamberlain, leading Anglo-French representative, this "guranatee":

"We do not want any Czechs."

I never shall forget the way Hitler said that. It was well along in this lengthy war-oration in which he appeared to bring himself and his audience of 12,000 up to the highest pitch.

The words came tumbling out in a torrent of such bitterness that one could fairly see him refusing to accept the entire Czech race as a gift on a golden platter—like a Caesar thrusting aside a crown.

Well, he got his Germans back, and left alone the Czechs as a whole. I was with him when he sealed the pact and his "guarantee" to Chamberlain by entry into Sudetenland over flower-strewn roads.

Less than six months later—in March of this year—Herr Hitler tossed over his shoulder his cardinal racial policy. He cracked up the rest of Czecho-Slovakia and took Moravia and Bohemia with their great Czech population. He took enough time to get his breath and then annexed a big Polish population.

Now he has on his hands the so-called student upheaval in Prague. A dozen Czech youths have faced German firing squads and martial law has been clamped on the country; 1,200 students are in concentration camps, and eight Czech universities and academies have been closed by the Nazis.

The importance of this revolt doesn't lie in any immediate danger to Nazidom, for they appear to have the thing in hand. In itself it doesn't presage any general trouble of this sort in Germany proper.

It seems, however, to show a weakness in the Nazi structure. There is a similar situation in Poland, where a host of liberty-loving people are being kept in hand by force.

It means that here at least are two racial minorities who are only waiting for a chance to break loose. It means that should the Anglo-French allies succeed in their efforts to start trouble in Germany, the Czechs and the Poles would be the first to join the revolt. It means that there is a constant ferment of discontent and hatred which might possibly affect other parts of Germany in time.

And the Fuehrer couldn't have picked two peoples more likely to cause him difficulties than these same Poles and Czechs.

To The Editor

SURE THEY'LL COME

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Some disquiet is abroad in Canada because of the rumors afloat that Canada will be unsafe territory for would-be tourists from the United States while we are at war with Germany. Tourist bureaus of the U.S.A. are probably responsible for the propagation of such information to serve their own purposes, and to divert this traffic into American channels.

We need not take this matter too seriously. The effort to discourage travel to Canada for the reason that there are thousands of young men stepping around in uniform, nifty, handsome, virile young soldiers of the King, will be quite a sufficient reason for the debutants of this season in the cities of the U.S.A. to suggest to Dad next spring that it would be just lovely for he, and Mother to spend their vacation among the tourist resorts in Canada. And Dad, if he is of the ancient British stock especially would like to have a look at these strapping young bloods, who put their country first when its safety is threatened.

The only danger which can threaten the young ladies especially is that they will risk the losing of their hearts to our handsome chaps in their swank uniforms. Has it not always been so. Our guess is that we will have cousins a plenty from over the imaginary boundary to the south during the season of 1940, and why not? So long as none of our Canadian laws are broken, there will be no possible danger for anyone getting into trouble in this land even if we are at war with Germany.

TRIBUTE TO BRITISH

(Life, New York)

Whatever the reasons for all the battle and conquest, whether for trade or power or glory, the net result of the British Empire was the spread of democracy, justice, law and order. The British are probably the fairest rulers the world has ever seen. In a British world, a man could live and breathe. The empire seemed sometimes a foretaste of the United States of the World, where the principle, if not always the practice, was justice.

• War Prices And Some War Words

IN The Exeter Times-Advocate the editor dips his pen in good old-fashioned printer's ink to tell the powers that be, that there is neither reason nor excuse for rising prices "due to the war" and that the public is ready to make some sort of tangible protest in the matter:

In the great struggle for freedom now going on, Canadians are prepared to endure any hardship, including high prices. What they do not like or will they long endure, is the rise in prices when there is no call for such a rise. They are not inclined to submit tamely when there is an uncalled for slice taken from their dollar bill by anyone who says with a bland smile "The price has gone up on account of the war" when the real reason is that greed has taken advantage of the war and depends upon the patience of the buying public to go scot free. We are making no appeal for government to interfere in this matter of prices, but we are doing what we can to tell big business, and in some instances, little business, that the public has been bit already and is twice shy. The man who earns a dollar generally knows how to spend it.

Exigencies of the war have played havoc with the compositors in some places, and The Tillsonburg News has a word to say about two catchy little words in common use just now:

"With the country at war the copy-writers and proof-readers will need to watch the use of the words "internment" and interment." Last week an exchange said in a subheading "Failure to report means interment." Farther down the column in the text of the item this appeared: "Failure to comply with this special war-time measure may result in interment and other penalties provided by the act." Sounds goulish.

• The Nazis Are Blocking Peace

THE NAZIS persist in their efforts to put the whole blame on Britain and France for the fact that nothing has come from the peace appeal of Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians. They contend, notes St. Thomas Times-Journal, that the appeal was disposed of by the "brusque rejections" of the Allies. Of course, the purpose of this is to swing the Lowland countries toward the Reich. The Nazi propagandists seek to convince the neutral world that Germany is diligently seeking peace.

Well, perhaps it is, but only on its own terms, which, of course, cannot be accepted by the Allied powers. The master minds of Nazism have not given the slightest indication that they are willing to surrender one inch of territory, which they have taken by force . Nor have they intimated that they would be prepared to give a solemn assurance that in the future they would settle all their claims by arbitration.

If Germany would satisfy the Allies on these matters, peace would speedily come. The Nazis may explain and prevaricate until they are black in the face, seeking to escape blame for the continuation of the war, but they will never convince the world that they are not wholly to blame for the beginning and continuance of the conflict. If they had not invaded Poland in a spirit of wanton aggression, and if they had made it clear that they would arbitrate all future differences, there would have been no war.

The Allies, while desiring peace, want the assurance that if it should come now, it would not be merely a truce, to be broken when Nazi Germany wanted something and felt strong enough to take it. They are not seeking to drive a hard bargain with Germany, or to suppress all national aspirations. King George, in replying to the mediation proposal of Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold, said his governments "would always be willing to examine a reasonable and assured basis for an equitable peace." The reply of the President of France was along the same line. The Allies want only an "equitable" peace. This suggests that the legitimate claims of Germany would be sympathetically considered, and that it was not planned to impose any injustices on the German people. But before agreeing to an "equitable" peace, the Allies, remembering the ease and frequency with which the Nazis have broken past promises, demand that there shall be an assured basis for it. The fact that they specify that this basis shall be "reasonable" is a clear indication that they do not propose to turn the thumb-screws on Germany. If the Nazis really want an "equitable" peace, with a "reasonable and assured basis," they will quickly announce their readiness to gather around a conference table. But they do not want peace unless they can hold all which they have grabbed and can have all their unfulfilled claims granted in full. Since the Allies will not give such an assurance, the war will go on, with the Nazis working overtime to fasten the blame on London and Paris, especially the former.

• Farmer Finds $126 In Vest Pocket

HOW would you like to find $126 in the pocket of an old vest which you laid away when weather became warm, and then decided to wear again when the days began to turn cool? Such an experience is reported from Durham:

A Bentinck farmer put on his vest the other day because the weather is cold again. As he did so he remembered that he was wearing the same vest last spring.

Last spring meant a lot of hard luck to that farmer. One of the things that happened to him had to do with the selling of some of his livestock to raise necessary cash. The farmer hired a trucker whom he accompanied taking cattle to the city.

Having to remain in the city over night after the sale of the stock he and the friendly trucker took a room together. In the morning when the farmer wakened the truck driver was gone for truckmen are early risers.

Feeling under his pillow for the comforting wad of $126, proceeds of his sale, the farmer found that that too was gone. Police were notified and eventually the trucker was located but not the wad of money, and nothing could be proved. Feeling ran high in the farmer's home district. It was a shame to rob a man already having such heavy going.

As already stated, the farmer put on his discarded vest the other day and set off to town. On the way he felt in his vest for a match, found papers in his way and drew out his wad of $126 from the pocket where he had sleepily stuffed it on going to bed the night of the sale of his stock back in the spring.

LITTLE OLD LADY

THE Little Old Lady of seventy-three, a Scotswoman, heard the Nazi raiders passing by as she she sat in her Edinburgh home writing a letter to her son in London.

She heard the sound of the warning sirens as bombers swooped over her house. The little old lady wrote on:

"At present we are having an air raid. You should have seen the postman who was delivering letters opposite dash for shelter now the sirens have sounded."

The four planes, looking like great white ships glinting in the sunshine," came lower. Now she can see the swastikas as she sits by the window.

Four R.A.F. fighters flash up to meet them.... "They seem to be trying to nose the big fellows out towards the sea....

"The all clear has just sounded, I must carry on with the dinner."

There is a break in the letter then....

"Would you believe it, the Scounders are back again! And our cellars are full of messenger boys and passersby. I can see the planes clearly, and there is the sound of firing: The R.A.F. is doing its job well, and I feel that 'Auld Reekie' is so well prepared that I don't care two hoots for the raiders! Good-bye.—Mother."

Then the Little Old Lady went to post her letter.

RICH AT OWN EXPENSE

RELYING on a practical knowledge of race-track patronage in New York State, Damon Runyon wrote in his column during the pre-election pari-mutuel drive that "if the State makes as much as $4,000,000 a year from the tracks it will be lucky." Anyone reading that particular column will realize what Mr. Runyan really meant was that if the State gets as much as $4,000,000 a year from the tracks it will be unlucky.

The pari-mutuel system is so geared that whatever the State makes from a fixed tax rate on betting is conditioned by the amount people risk on the races . If the State makes $4,000,000 next year from this source it means patrons will have had to risk about $80,000,000. For the State to make $10,000,000 (the sum its sponsors predicted) under a system where the State's fractional gain is in inverse ratio to the citizens' enormously increased gambling would be a social calamity. Let's hope the State treasury derives as little money as possible from this source.—Christian Science Monitor.

COUNSEL OF WISDOM

JOHN M. KEYNES, economist, who as far back as 1920 foretold the collapse of the Versailles Treaty in its financial set-up now comes forward and urges a compulsory system of saving by the people of the United Kingdom, so much from each pay envelope for the duration of the war, to be utilized for rainy weather, storm or tempest after the war. It is the counsel of wisdom and there is no law against the individual even in Canada adopting it.—St. Catharines Standard.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than meat, and the body more than raiment?....

And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: and yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?—Matt. vi, 24, 25, 28-30.

Mrs. James' nearest neighbor, Mrs. Brown, an elderly lady, was recovering from a serious illness.

"Johnny," said Mrs. James to her small son, "run down to Browns and enquire how old Mrs. Brown is this morning."

LEARN NAZI SECRETS

ROME.—Two details alone indicate how well the Allies are using the time that Hitler's indecision gives them. They have captured intact a Messerschmitt fighter, flown it, taken it apart, and discovered its deficiencies so well that in a single dogfight they shot down nine of these machines. Similarly, they have captured a German submarine, it is understood. That should mean that any messages to German U-boats now at large can be deciphered until those submarines have made their way home and received new codes.

And with each week the Allies are overcoming the advantage Hitler had in having picked his moment. The air arm offers a good illustration. The Allies are expected to have absolute superiority by April. That means in time for the spring offensive. Diplomatic quarters here may overlook some angle but they are confident that spring offensives, whether launched by Hitler or his foes, will be followed by the speedy collapse of the Nazi system. They think there is a good chance that Hitler will have destroyed himself and the military power of his people within just one year of having invaded Poland.

Germans Flaunt Witticism In Spy 'Expose'

With those words, according to a D.N.B. (German news agency) account published to-day, were ended 21 days of wireless contacts in which German operatives claimed they obtained secrets from British agents by posing as anti-Hitler revolutionists.

The disclosure of the identity of the "revolutionists" was said by the agency to have been given yesterday, one day after the Gestapo announced obtaining a confession from Georg Esler of Munich that he planted the Munich beer hall time bomb intended for Adolf Hitler. The announcement said Esler had British financial backing.

In the same connection, the Gestapo also had announced the arrest of two Britons identified as Captain Richard Henry Stevens, 42, and Sigismund Payne Best, 54. Germans claimed Stevens headed the British European Intelligence Division and Best was his aide.

Yesterday the two men were accused of direct connection with the Munich bomb plot from which Hitler escaped by 11 minutes on November 3. Last night D.N.B. distributed an account of what it claimed were British agents.

Britons Have Last Word.

Quoting "competent quarters," the news agency said that the contacts ended at 10:10 a.m. yesterday with the following message:

"In the long run, conversation with self-important foolish persons is boresome. You will understand if we break off. Hearty greetings from your affectionate German opposition. German Gestapo."

This finale was said to have been taken as a matter of routine by the "British radio operators" who got in the last word by acknowledging receipt of the farewell message. D. N. B. said:

"Since the exposure of the English espionage action, despite the German announcement at this time, apparently it still was unknown to the English secret service wireless station. Both English operators, Inman and Walsh, even acknowledged this final message."

The Gestapo had asserted that British agents operated from headquarters at the Hague, Netherlands capital, but the location of the wireless station was not specified in the new disclosure.

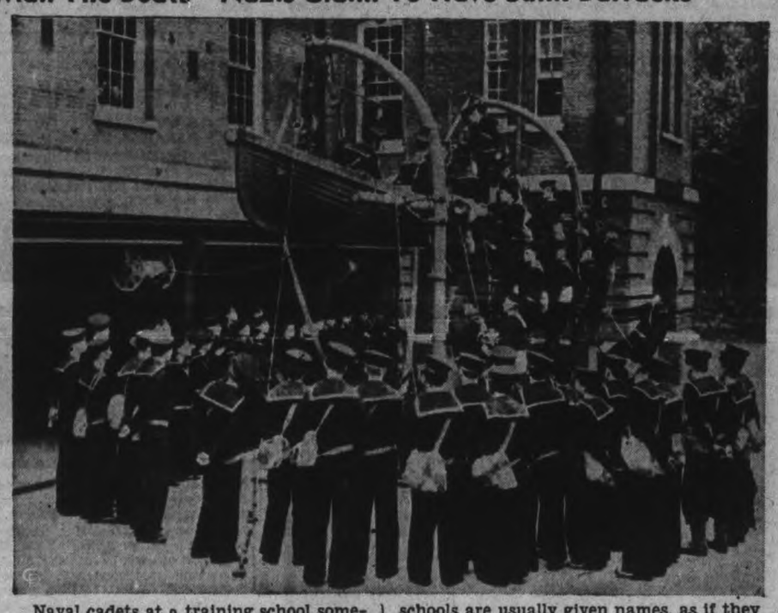
Man The Boats – Nazis Claim To Have Sunk Barracks



Naval cadets at a training school somewhere in England are shown during lifeboat drill. Part of the class stands around the demonstration boat and davits while a crew mans the lifeboat. These training schools are usually given names, as if they were ships of the fleet. This custom led to the German high command's claim that a Nazi U-boat had sunk the H.M.S. Kestrel. The Kestrel is a naval barracks.

Private Soldier Jailed For Read Robbery Cases

TWEED, Nov. 24.—(ENS).—Provincial Police believe that they have broken up a ring of marauders who have been pilfering and running rampant by night in the neighborhood of Read, when Wellington Rogers, a private in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and former native of Read, was arrested on charges of theft by Provincial Police. New Pill Found To Assist Oiling Plants

A medicine which in the laboratory cuts stem rust of wheat from 90 down to 20 per cent is reported in the plant journal, Phytopathology, by Helen Hart and J. Lewis Allison of Unviersity Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

Drugs to cure commercially important crop diseases have been sought many years with little success. Why plants do not respond like humans is an interesting scientific puzzle.

For one thing, plants have no circulatory system, other than a series of pipes carrying water up from roots to leaves. Another is ability of roots to exclude many substances. A third is the probability that a medical compound must break into its chemical parts before it can enter roots. Finally there is the problem of finding a chemical which will not harm the plant.

That is what the St. Paul scientists appear to have accomplished. Rust is caused by a parasite, making it a disease comparable with human infections.

Saccharine Relative

The medicine for it is toluenesulfonylamide. It is not related to the war explosive suggested by the first half of the name, nor to sulfanilamide, the human miracle drug, which is spelled almost like the last part. The compound is one of the early stages of saccharine, the sugar 100 times sweeter than cane.

The St. Paul treatment suggests that plant doctors may be able to scatter pills on the ground. The drug was mixed in quartz sand and scattered on the soil of laboratory plants, where watering dissolved it into the ground.

There are many plants which suffer from rusts, and the report says that while it may not be easy, or even practicable, to devise economical treatment for field crops, there are good prospects for treating some of the ornamental plants of greenhouses and nurseries.

The report credits the tip for this plant medicine to German scientists. It seems less poisonous to plants than boric and picric acid, which have been tried on rusts. The new medicine slightly damages leaves, but they recover quickly.

EIGHT FIRMS REPRESENTED AT INDUSTRIAL PUCK LOOP MEETING

Eight local manufacturing concerns were represented at last night's organization meeting of the Industrial Hockey League, held in Duffus' with Larry Maguire presiding. While no definite entries were made, this tournout for the first session ever called for this purpose was considered iotewortliy.

The companies with delegates on hand included: Quaker Oats, C.G.E., Westclox, Can. Ventilating Shade, Peterborough Lock Co., Brinton, Raybestos and Outboard Marines. It was decided to hold another meeting at eight in Duffus' next Thursday night, which will be the closing date for entries and clubs are requested to be on hand then to enter teams, to definitely decide on players, O.H.A. puckists, schedule and such matters.

Same Officers.

The Industrial Softball League slate of officers which acted last summer was re-appointed to the hockey league in the same capacity. They are: President, Larry Maguire; vice-president, B. Hunt; secretary, Cliff Chapman; treasurer, Leo Deadey. There will be a committee formed with one representative of each company in the league. Each firm will have one vote, the above-named officers—of Outboard Marines, Raybestos, Westclox and Brinton Co. respectively—acting in a netural capacity in voting matters.

Various matters pertaining to the formation of this promising new league were discussed. It was hoped that the Brock St. Arena would be available for games. There was much discussion regarding junior teams, these teams being composed or senior O.H.A. players on the shop of 100 per cent employees, with no decision being reached. The gathering decided all such decisions should be made by the clubs entered along with the officers.

Another matter that brought out considerable comment was the organization of an Industrial Sports Committee to centralize work and control of inter-shop sports in the city. The general feeling appeared to be in favor of such a body being organized, but some felt there was no immediate necessity to deal with the matter—and it was left over for the time being. Definite rules will be laid down for the operating of the Industrial Hockey League following the meeting next Thursday, an open session at which all local firms are invited to be represented.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Displaying the latest and niftiest feminine styles for basketeers, six teams of the Girls' Cage Loop rip off the lid tonight in the big new Y.W. gym. Three tilts open the schedule, Westclox meeting Quaker Debs at 7.45, followed by St. John's and the "Y" Gym, with Quaker Aces and the Orfuns ringing down the curtain on the triple-header. Westclox were junior champs last year whilst Aces took senior honors. And Orfuns played in the L.O.B.A. group—around Central Ontario—during the 1938-39 season. Plenty of action is promised by these lively lasses who go in for the basketball sport, and a good-sized crowd of spectators is expected. J. H. Vernor will officially open the season.

If good wishes were dimes, the senior P.C.I. gridders would be millionaires. They've got all the good wishes of school and city fans here, of the Lakeshore group—which they won—and of the Bay of Quinte conference, where they mopped up last Saturday. The wish tokens are for their sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. final 'gainst Port Colborne at Varsity campus tomorrow morn in Toronto. Score should be available to local phone fans shortly after noon, the game commencing at 10.30. Some fans will trek up to see the joust. Good luck, P.C.I.-ers, knock 'em into the good old garbage can!

Cliff In Comeback

Cliff Cadd has decided to try out with the Petes' puckists once again after a layoff from active puck-chasing to handle club business. He was kept plenty busy last winter as secretary-treasurer of the team, a job requiring much time and trouble—and one he handled well. This year he declined to tackle so much but agreed to act as financial secretary, aided by Tommy Miller (as recording secretary) and Treasurer Max Glover. Which leaves the lanky Cliff, who was quite an all-around athlete just a couple of years ago, a chance to don the skates again. He played defence for Herb Payne's intermediate O.H.A. team two years ago ere hanging up the blades, and before that saw service with the Petes' Hockey Club in O.H.A. competition. Cliff is a good puckist and would help the team a lot—though, as he points out, the locals seem to have plenty of defencemen.

Down in Oshawa the other day, the secretary of the General Motors Club, informed local ossifers that there would be no senior "B" nor senior "A" team in Oshawa this winter. Not even an intermediate club. Just the junior "A" Generals and possibly a junior "B" or juvenile club to develop future junior "A" stars. No amount of argument shook the secretary, who claimed their senior "A" team last winter lost money in a good grouping so it was highly unlikely a senior "B" team would make any dough. You got the impression from him that Oshawa is junior hockey crazy—that the club was after the honor last year of copping a Memorial Cup title, but it is out to make do-re-mi this semester. And no nonsense about it.

Doesn't Seem Right

We suppose they know their business down that way, and it may sound like a dish of sour grapefruit on our part—being disappointed over the flop of a prospective four-team group of Oshawa, Belleville, Fliers and Petes—but we think the Oshawa outfit takes a selfish attitude. We mean inasmuch as all hockey players over 20 years of age in Oshawa are just calmly ignored now. No intermediates nor seniors. Surely such a firm could afford to sponsor a team of older players, even if they dropped a little oughday—and this is not at all certain. Fliers, Petes and Belleville can make money. The company controls the arena there, so we doubt if there is any chance of an independent senior "B" club in that town. So a lot of fine puckists—cursed by being past 20 years of age—will be idle in Oshawa.

Eight manufacturing concerns were represented at last night's organization meeting of the Industrial Hockey League. They included Quaker Oats, C.G.E., Westclox, Canadian Ventilating Shade, Brinton, Lock Company, Raybestos and Outboard Marines. Same slate of officers which handled the softball circuit was reappointed: President, Larry Maguire; vice-prexy, Bo Hunt; secretary, Cliff Chapman; treasurer, Leo Deadey. Each company entering will have one non-playing member on the executive, with each shop to have one vote in league affairs. Closing date for entries will be at next Thursday's meeting at eight p.m. in Duffus' when firms wanting in should be prepared to say so, and also to bring their club's suggestions re O.H.A. players and other matters. 'Tis hoped to play at the Brock. The Industrial Sports Committee idea seemed favorable, but nothing was done in that respect for the time being.

A Big Water Meet

A lot of novelties are planned at the big Broadview-Peterborough "Y" swim meet here tomorrow e'en. Such as Bill Taylor and Herb Cardwell doing some amazing things in canoes in the pool, fancy dives, clowning and a raft of other stunts. Besides swim and diving competitions between the ace performers of both clubs. Local talent includes Stan McBride—free style expert—and Al Marshall, who shines at the breast stroke; Will Wildman, Jerry Fitzgerald, Tom McDonald, Don Eason, Jerry Corbett, Ed Prete, Ralph Rogow, Jim Brown, Len Smith, Don Pinch, Lorne O'Brien, Bruce Campbell and others, coached by Gord Minty. It'll be a fine water meet and deserves a crowd. Followed by a dance.

Cobourg gridders face elimination tomorrow at home when they tangle with Oakwood Indians. It's a sudden-death affair with the victor to march into O.R.F.U. intermediate "B" playdowns—Dundas having taken the "A" honors for the group. The Cobourgites have fallen upon evil days in the gridiron game, after several sweet seasons. Last year they won the "A" title but have since lost Mike Meikle and others. Meikle, by the way, did not burn up the senior O.R.F.U. by any means. Joe Begley quit Cobourg in the middle of the season when a bushel of promises remained just that. And now Buck Oiver—who was compelled to return to Cobourg from here early this season, after coming originally from down Sarnia way—has quit. He figured he'd done his part by playing out the schedule.

They Make the Headlines For Saturday's Games

TONY GOLAB JOHNNY FERRARO MIKE HEDGEWICK

Saturday sees the wind-up of play in both the Big Four and the O.R.F.U., before the winners meet to decide who will face Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Dominion final, and three names that more likely than not will be prominent will be those of the trio shown here, each of whom turned in great games last Saturday when the first games of the series being continued this week were played. Golab was the outstanding figure on the field as Ottawa Rough Riders walloped Toronto Argos, 11-0, going over for one touch and tearing large holes in the Argo line all afternoon. Ferraro, one of the greatest all-round players to show on a Canadian gridiron, was fighting for a losing cause in Sarnia, where Montreal Westmounts were saddled with a 13-1 defeat by the perennial champions. One of the big reasons for a Sarnia win, was the running of Mike Hedgewick, who played his best game of the year. He's one of the speediest backs in the east. They'll probably be back in news come Saturday!

Tom Curvin Bowls Season's High Three At Duffus'

Season's records were knocked high, wide and handsome by the City League bowlers at Duffus' Alleys last night. Tom Curvin, veteran captain of Duffus Recreation team and Jack Playford of Gordon's Beverages, were last night's real stars. Both men got away up above 900.

Curvin, the old master, hit 952 for one of the highest three games since Leo Martyn went wild one night about ten years ago for 1061. His score was the deciding factor in Duffus' 3 to 1 win over Capitol Grill. Playford's 905 score was hit on top of his 830 one week ago, which is mighty fine bowling.

Rolling down their own C.G.E. pals under a 3885 team total, Gordon's Beverages moved all but one obstacle to make it a clean sweep of wins for the first quarter of the schedule. It now remains for the Capitol Grill, whom they meet next week, to stop them from making it a route.

The other games last night ended in a very close match between Grafton's and Jay's Cigars, each team taking two points. Nelson Routley had a good night for Grafton's with 767, and Bud White threw in a neat 785 for the Cigar men. Grant's Cleaners took four points from the luckless Lockworks team. PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

MIKE KARAKAS, BLACK HAWKS

(By Central Press Canadian.)

Before President Calder awarded a trophy for the best rookie to show up in the N.H.L. each year the sports writers had started casting votes for the best newcomer, and the last "best rookie" winner under that system was Mike Karakas, Chicago's "Clutching Croat," who took the award in 1935-36, and has been starring for the Windy City

Mike Karakas

Mike hails from Eveleth, Minnesota, home town of another pretty fair puck-stopper, Frankie Brimsek. Twenty-seven years old. Started his hockey career by trying for his High School team as an "anything," but wasn't good enough to be even the sub-sub goalie. Which proves what wonders time can perform. Along with Dave Kerr of the Rangers, Mike is probably the "movingest" goaltender in the league, hopping around in front of his cage and stopping pucks from all angles and positions. With Mike it's been a case of necessity, the Black Hawk defence for the past few seasons having consisted of Earl Seibert and the proverbial "guys named Joe." Before entering the National League with the Black Hawks Mike played for Chicago Shamrocks, St. Louis and Tulsa, all in the American Association.

Amerks On Spot As Manager Lays Down Law

DETROIT, Nov. 24 — (AP). — Angered by his team's fifth straight defeat, Mervyn (Red) Dutton, manager of New York Americans of the National Hockey League, told his players last night that he intended to "tear this hockey club wide open"

"I've gone along with you fellows long enough," Dutton said in a talk to the Amerks after their 3-2 loss at the hands of Detroit Red Wings.

"We will practice here at 1 o'clock on Friday and you guys might as well bring your railroad time-tables with you. We are going to make changes and we might as well make them now."

Composed principally of veterans obtained from other teams, the Americans are the only National League team that has not won a game this season. The Americans play at Toronto on Saturday night.

CANADIENS TIE RANGERS TO MAINTAIN RECORD OF NO DEFEATS

Canadiens Draw Rangers 1-1; Wings Win 3-2

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

At the start of this National Hockey League season, Pete Lepine declared that his Montreal Canadiens "might spring a few surprises." Few took his words seriously, for by common consent the Flying Frenchmen were consigned to a cellar spot, but it turns out now that the silver-thatched leader was only putting it mildly.

Roaring along like the Flying Frenchmen of the not so distant Morenz era, Canadiens are on top of the N.H.L. standing to-day as one of the undefeated teams in the league. They have won four and tied two, while Toronto Maple Leafs are a point behind with a record of four victories and a draw in their five contests.

The Habitants used a Leafs night off last night to force a 1-1 overtime draw with New York Rangers and forge into undisputed possession on the top rung. While Canadiens were managing their draw before 9,000 fans at Montreal, Detroit Red Wings piled up more woe for the hapless New York Americans by defeating the Amerks 3-2 at Detroit before 4,500 fans. It was the fifth loss in five games played for Red Dutton's New Yorkers.

Perhaps the best proof that Canadiens' showing is no flash in the pan is the fact they have been forced to come from behind in their last three games to protect their undefeated record.

Drouin Does It.

Last night it was Polly Drouin who proved the Rangers jinx. The Broadway band apparently had the game tucked away when Wilbur (Dutch) Hiller banged a shot by Goalie Claude Bourque in the 15th minute of the final period. But less than three minutes from the end Drouin smashed the tying goal into the net.

The match at Detroit saw the blossoming of Don Deacon into a scoring threat after numerous unsuccessful tries in the major league. Deacon, long a prolific scorer in the minors but seemingly unable to hit his stride in the N.H.L., brought joy to Manager Jack Adams' heart by banging in two tallies in the Wings victory.

Deacon tallied an unassisted goal in first period and added another other in the second session. Detroit's other score went to the veteran Cecil Dillon, purchased from the Rangers before the start of the season. Murray Armstrong and Rookie Jack Tomson tallied for the Americans.

The loss brought from the fiery Dutton a declaration in the dressing room after the game that he intends to "tear this hockey club wide open." The Redhead called a practice for to-day on Detroit ice and said: "You guys might as well bring your railroad time-tables with you. We are going to make changes and we might as well make them now."

Girl Champions Open Season

Political Plunger

His name has been in the Canadian sports news for a decade now, but perhaps soon he'll only be heard about in a political sense, so here he is on the sports page, where he is not quite through yet. It's Dave Srague, over the course of his gridiron career, one of the best line-smashers ever developed in Canada. He played first with some mighty Hamilton Tiger teams before moving to Ottawa, where he hopes to finish up as a member of another Dominion championship team this year, before running for an aldermanic seat in the Ottawa council in a few weeks.

Argos A'raring For Tangle With The Riders

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Lock the doors and nail down anything that might be blown away. High winds will roar out of Toronto and Montreal tomorrow as the trailing teams take to the air in an attempt to catch up and go ahead for places in the Eastern Canada senior football final a week away.

The Argonauts will create a young hurricane along Bloor street in Toronto when they seek to overhaul Ottawa Rough Riders, who assumed an 11-0 lead in the opening game of the Big Four total-points finals at home last week.

The Westmounts will set the air currents to swirling over the mountain at Montreal as they go out to cut down the 13-1 advantage the Imperials gained in the first contest of the Ontario Union finals at Sarnia last week.

When the blow has subsided, representatives of the conference champions will meet at Toronto Sunday to decide where they will play the next Saturday in the eastern final for the right to oppose Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the National championship playoff Dec. 9.

Coach Reg. Threlfall and Manager Joe Ryan of the Bombers will be in Toronto, looking on from a secure spot high in the stands and trying to find a remedy for the beatings the Winnipeg club has taken in the East the last two years. The Argonauts turned back the Bombers both times.

Feature Passes

All week Argos have worked almost entirely on pass plays, with Bill and Annis Stukus hurling passes up to 40 and 50 yards and Charlie Pecke lofting them longer than that. Bernie Thornton and Red Storey, who run like mad when they catch them, have been the principal receivers.

Mixed in will be the quickly-despatched extension plays and the plunges of Teddy Morris and Doug MacPherson, more in the line of decoys for pass plays than anything else. If the Scullers don't come up with a couple of the newest, hippery-dipperiest plays ever pulled on a Canadian gridiron, it won't be because Hyman hasn't taught them.

Against this wide-open defence will be pitted the huge Ottawa line, including plungers like Bunny Wadsworth and Dave Sprague who can gain yards often enough to keep the ball away from the eager double blue for minutes at a time.

If the Toronto team catches up, Orville Burke will start throwing passes for Ottawa in direction of Wilf Tremblay, one of the sensations of the year in the section.

Bomber's Coach Scouts East

Ryan and Trelfall entrained for Toronto last night, planning to return here Monday. During their absence Greg Kabat, halfback who came to Bombers in 1933 from Wisconsin University, is in charge of the western champions, assisted by Art Stevenson, former Nebraskan.

Practices suspended after Bombers won the western title in Calgary last Saturday, were resumed Wednesday. Bud Marquardt lanky outside wing whose shoulder was dislocated October 21, and middle winger Herb Peschel injured in practice a week ago, were the only players not in uniform. Peschel's injury is minor but it is doubtful whether Marquardt will be in condition for the Grey cup game.

They're Mr. and Mrs. Now

Seen as they left St. Peter and St. Paul's Church in San Francisco after their wedding, are Mr. and Mrs. Joe DiMaggio, she a former stage and screen actress, and he, of course, baseball's No. 1 player. Anything approaching a quiet, or even an ordinary ceremony, was out of the question at the wedding, as baseball fans by thousands stormed the church and milled around outside.

Application For Grants

The finance committee recommended that all grants to various organizations should depend on a written application made prior to the June session with no payments at a date later than December 20. The resolution of Elgin county regarding costs where a change of venue took place, was received. The finance committee recommended that in the matter of wholesale cutting of Christmas trees with resultan loss of forest area, that some supervision and control should be established, this resolution to be forwarded to the government, also to the other county councils of the province. The report of the Children's Aid Society special invesitgating committee was received, but it was recommended that two counties representatives should sit on the board. It was also recommended that the county property committee undertake to have some improved system of ventilation in the council chamber devised.

Among the items passed by the finance committee were the following:

Administration of justice, $7,958.-24; maintenance of indigents, $6,-543.48; registry offices. $779.44; roads, $57,366.45; debentures paid, $12,950.46; interest on loans, $1,794.-84; counties home, $6,516.03; jail, $2,848.98; municipal government, $10,193.96 and education $62,038.94.

Main item in the roads and bridges committee was endorsation of the motion of Reeve C. R. Carveth of Newcastle, seconded by Reeve G. A. Edmonstone of Bowmanville that where a town or village and township jointly contributed to the upkeep of a boundary road, the town or village should share in the government's 50 per cent subsidy. The county property committee report revealed a number of repairs in some of the counties buildings but that on the whole, the buildings were found in good condition.

Filling the vacancy in the Mother's Allowance and Old Age Pensions Board Mrs. John McColl of Murray Township was appointed to the Board.

Honor Monaghan Reeve.

Reeve R. G. Whittington of South Monaghan, who last June deserted the ranks of the bachelors to become another married county councillor, was presented with silverware by the counties council just before the close of the session yesterday afternoon. The address was read by Reeve W. E. Ball of Millbrook and the presentation was made by Reeve Leslie Wilson of Cobourg. On motion council instructed the clerk to write Leslie Campbell of Graham Township, former county councillor, wishing him a speedy recovery from his illness. Prior to the close of the session, E. L. MacNachtan, clerk-and-treasurer of the counties, complimented the council on the business-like way in which it had conducted its business during the year, stating that he had never worked with a council of better administrative ability.

Warden Honored.

The retiring warden Reeve T. A. Reid of Clarke Township, was presented with a gold wrist watch by his fellow counties council members at the annual warden's banquet which was held in the British Hotel on Wednesday night. Reeve Charles Calver of Campbellford was the toastmaster. Among the ex-wardens present were Frank George, Fred Bowen, Percy Stinson, Walter Fowlds and W. Davey. The toast to the officials was proposed by Reeve W. Morrow of Murray Township to which Col. F. D. Boggs, K. C. responded. The toast to Canada was proposed by Deputy-reeve H. R. S. Ryan of Port Hope and the reply was given by W. A. Fraser, M.P., for Northumberland; W. F. Rickard, M. P. for Durham and Cecil Mercer, M.L.A. for Durham. Reeve Charles Carruthers of Darlington read the address to the Warden and the presentation of the watch was made by Deputy reeve W.J. Patton of Clarke Township. Musical prosented by Messrs Haynes, Stephens, Snowall, Wilson Sweet Rider and Wilton of the 14th Field Battery of Cobourg with A. Mortimer at the piano.

In the address of the evening, W. A. Fraser M.P. discussed Canada's war preparations. The government of the Dominion had undergone radical changes since Canada entered the war, he said. In order to prepare the country to take an active part in the war a great many decisions were in the hands of the various boards and commissions. With the coming of peace there would be a return to a more democratic form of government. He felt that the councils and the individual townships were the very bulwarks of democracy and would play a most vital part in post war activities.

I think I am voicing the opinion of every Canadian citizen."

Beat Britain, Canada Lost.

Subjugation of Great Britain would mean immediate subjugation of Canada in the manner of Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Poland, the Premier said.

"What good is our money system, our roads, our schools, if the nation is to be subjugated" he asked. "Therefore, I say if those in power are not ready to prosecute this war they had better get out and get out in a hurry."

"The dollar" is the main consideration in the Federal Government's war effort, he charged, declaring: "Canada's failure to prosecute the war as it should be prosecuted may be attributed to the now clearly defined policy at Ottawa of putting the dollar in the driver's seat."

Norman R. Martin, Conservative candidate in Elgin for the next Federal election, supported Mr. Hepburn's criticism.

"Over in France where the crosses are, there are no Liberals and no Conservatives," he said, "only Canadians. Here in Canada we must cut all red tape and get along with the business of fighting the war."

Reeve Anderson said trapping had occurred before under similar conditions and was likely to be repeated.

Another resolution by Reeve Shearer, seconded by Reeve Coughlin, applies to the Government to declare the county forest a game preserve.

still many yards distant, the Commander ordered depth bombs dropped. Heavy bombs went over both sides at regular intervals, tracing a line of destruction on either flank of the Siroco's course.

The Siroco's hull shuddered as yiolent explosions shook the depths of the sea. Suddenly the crew cheered as a black object surged from the water in the turmoil of the Siroco's wake. In a cloud of spray, the submarine slowly emerged, like a huge dead fish lying on its side. The U-boat was listing far over to starboard. The shock of the depth bombs had sent it out of control. By a desperate effort its crew had managed to expel the water from its ballast tanks and bring it to the top, but its rivets had been sprung and water was flooding again.

Turns Turtle, Sinks.

For ten seconds it hung balanced impossibly on its starboard beam, then abruptly turned turtle and went down while air bubbles boiled to the surface.

One night the men on watch saw a slender black hull lying on the surface. Riding higher on the water, the destroyer had been able to spot the submarine before the U-boat was aware of its enemy's approach.

The destroyer opened up with its rapid-fire .130-mm. artillery. The first shots struck the water on either side of the submarine. Then one hit the target. The submarine plunged.

To make sure of the kill, the destroyer dropped depth bombs where the U-boat had disappeared, and over a wide surrounding area. It raced back and forth over the water and had its reward.

In the midst of a waterspout sent up by an exploding depth bomb, the sharp prow of the submarine emerged, pointed at the sky, and then slid quickly back beneath the waves.

and one Italian ship, the 5,639-ton Felce, as included among the sabotaged vessels. (There had been no previous report of damage to these ships).

In September, 1936, the statement said, Poetzsch was arrested in a "neutrality country" at the insistence of German police but released when "British quarters" interfered. Last June 29, however, the man was sentenced by a Copenhagen municipal court "on a charge of espionage for England," the statement declared.

(A dispatch from Copenhagen said Poetzsch was sentenced to six months in jail for "esplonage on behalf of a foreign power." His trial was secret.)

No British Ship Damaged.

The statement said that German investigators were attracted in the sabotage cases by the fact that no British ship had been affected and declared that with the alleged admissions by Stevens it now had been proven that:

"The principal perpetrator of this ship sabotage was a German emigrant, Poetzsch. His employer was the British Intelligence Service.

"The first ship of English origin in which perhaps a similar act was undertaken by order of the Intelligence Service is the Athenia."

(The British liner Athenia—Montreal-bound — was sunk off the Shetland Islands Sept. 3, on the first night of the war between the Allies and Germany. The British Admiralty stated a German submarine sank her. A charge was made in Berlin that the British themselves were responsible.)

Voelkischer Beobachter observed that in view of "statements" by Stevens the United States might wish to re-examine the Athenia disaster.

Secret police meanwhile continued questioning Georg Elser of Munich who they said confessed Nov. 14 that he planted the Munich beer hall time bomb which missed Hitler by 11 minutes when it exploded Nov. 8. He was reported to have diagrammed the device and explained how he installed it.

Elser was quoted as saying he planted the six-day bomb in a hollow pillar in which he cut only a small hole. According to this account he placed the machine in the pillar, piece by piece, painstakingly assembly them on the inside.

Eight Nazis were mortally injured when the bomb burst a few minutes after Hitler finished addressing a rally on the anniversary of the abortive beer hall putsch of 1923.

Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best were captured on the Netherlands border the day after the Munich blast. German officials said they fell into the Gestapo's hands after Gestapo men maintained coded wireless contacts with the Britons while posing as anti-Hitler revolutionists.

minelayers easier to sight and attack than those beneath the sea.

One Mine Layer Downed

A resident of the Essex coast said he saw German planes cruise over the surface of the water dropping "a number of black objects which did not explode.

One plane was downed during the Essex coast raid and fell into the sea, but a second plane escaped.

Another eyewitness said a German seaplane flew 100 feet over the water and barely 100 yards from the shore. This witness said he "saw something splash in the water as the plane went past."

Naval authorities said the Admiralty, profiting by its experience in combatting mines during the last war, was aware of the reported new devices and of methods of coping with them.

One indicated method was through development of a new minesweeping technique, possibly with wooden minesweepers or vessels insulated against magnetic mines. Others were through intensified air and sea patrols against enemy minelayers and equipping merchant vessels with wire-cutting devices.

The latest sinkings to be disclosed were the 315-ton British minesweeper Aragonite, which struck a mine yesterday and the 974-ton London steamship Lowland which sank in the North Sea with nine men missing and one dead. The cause of the sinking was not given.

Two vessels damaged in previous mishaps were beached today to keep them from sinking.

They were the Italian steamship Pianona, 6,660 tons, which struck a mine Tuesday night off the southeast coast and had been under tow, and the Greek steamship Nicholaos Piangos, 4,450 tons, which was in collision Wednesday with the Norwegian ship Brarena.

Plant Conditions Are Discussed, Company Policy Reviewed At Dinner Of C.G.E. Supervisors

That plans are already under way for an extension to the premises of the Peterborough plant of the Canadian General Electric; that the prospects for employment and business appeared sound and were improving; that the dry fall and lack of rain were depleting the amount of power which could be generated at the Nassau plant. Such facts were revealed in a careful and intimate review of company policy and plant conditions at Peterborough given by C. A. Salmonsen, works manager, at a dinner gathering at the Kawartha Club attended by 90 supervisors from the C.G.E. Ian F. McRae, assistant works manager, explained the object of the meeting and welcomed the dinner guests, Ald. James Dutton, Ald. R. M. Glover of the Manufacturers' Committee and A. R. Kennedy of the Examiner.

Following dinner the gathering turned to the business of the evening, it being explained in advance that questions would be welcomed, also discussion. Mr. Salmonsen stated the object was that plant policy might be thoroughly understood as it had to be changed from time to time to meet changing conditions. The declaration of war had called for changes; it was necessary to close entirely the entrances to the property, floodlight the power house and take other steps which were considered necessary and advisable. In such matters the company was working in closest co-operation with the government and the R.C.M.P.

Shop Problems

There was an appeal made to the supervisors to see what they could do in connection with making the best use of floor space at their disposal. Mr. Salmonsen knew that space was crowded in certain departments, and for that reason there was all the more cause for careful scrutiny and planning ot utilize all available space. There had been plans drawn and under way for some time to build an extension at the plant, and these had been so advanced that work will be commenced within reasonable time. The extent of the addition could not be definitely stated at the moment, but it was no longer something they had in mind but something which was going to be done.

It would be necessary for the supervisors to keep more closely in touch with the "materials" situation, as with the coming of war conditions purchasing would have to be done farther in advance. Material on which delivery used to be made in three or four weeks now comes along in three or four months, and owing to the growing demand in such markets that condition would undoubtedly continue and possibly become more serious.

Fuel and Power

Mr. Salmonsen mentioned one figure which might cause the ordinary individual who thinks he has quite a problem keeping the coal bin filled to revise his opinion. Just this—that at present coal consumption was 50 tons per day, it being used for heating and the generation of power within the plant. Power also comes from Hydro and from the station at Nassau. The present season is not a good one for securing power from the Otonabee because rain has been scarce and therefore the discharge from the lakes above us has been small. The works manager said reports indicated that the C.G.E. was only securing 40 per cent. of the possibly capacity of the power plant at Nassau. For that reason there was urgency in seeing that power was conserved in all departments by making certain that machines be closed off when not required. If each department added its quota of saving then there could be a positive contribution made.

Mr. Salmonsen was anxious that there should be no undue or unfounded expectancy regarding war work. One contract which was placed months before the declaration of war was well under way, but there had been no other orders placed in the Peterborough plant. The Purchasing Board has on record all the equipment and manufacturing possibilities of all Canadian General Electric plants, but just how and when these facilities would be touched into operation was something on which no information could be supplied. Mr. Salmonsen was anxious that no unfounded rumors should be spread regarding the plant securing orders, because such a condition would merely result in disappointment to a number of people who might come to the conclusion that a great deal more employment was going to be immediately available. He took occasion to compliment the supervisors on the general excellence of their service and the honesty of their efforts, and asked for a fuller understanding of the work and problems of others with whom they came in contact throughout the plant and whose work and place in the company they might not thoroughly appreciate.

Runaway Truck Damages Wall

To have a two-ton runaway truck come hurtling into the rear wall of their bungalow was the startling experience shortly before noon today of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Walker, 594 Reid street.

The truck, a delivery machine owned by Anthony's Fruit Market had been parked in front of a Dublin street residence while the driver, Francis Asta, Nova Scotia apartments, was making a delivery. Asta had left the vehicle on the north side of Dublin street, east of Rubidge street and facing west and it took off while he was calling at a house. Gathering momentum as it proceeded west on Dublin street down the grade the runaway machine swung around the corner of Rubidge and ran south on that street for some distance. Then it veered to the right ,overran the sidewalk and plunged down a vacant field until it crashed into the back of the Walker bungalow on Reid street.

House Damaged

The wall of the residence was badly damaged by the impact, plaster being knocked from the inside and the brickwork suffering considerably. The room that took the full force of the crash was a bed room.

Anthony's truck was also considerably damaged about the front, and the bumper, grill, radiator showing evidence of the impact. How the runaway machine managed to dodge trees and posts in its dash down the hill is a mystery. Its course took it across a vacant lot where the children of the neighborhood are accustomed to play and it was fortunate that none of them hapened to be there this morning when the big truck careened across the playground.

The accident was investigated by City Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher and Constable Archie Menzies and the latter tested the brakes of the truck after the smash.

Obituary

JAMES HOAR.

James Hoar of Ennismore township died at his home a mile east of Ennismore village this morning after a long illness. He is survived by his wife and three sons, James, Frank, and Jerome Hoar, all at home. Funeral announcements will be made later.

County Council Refuses Grant Children's Aid

The finance committee of the county council declined this morning to recommend a grant of $500 to the Children's Aid Society as a contribution toward the salary of an assistant to the superintendent, Miss Rachel Young. The motion was proposed by Reeve Allan B. Mann, seconded by Reeve Robt. Martin, Dummer.

During the committee discussion Reeve Gifford, Ennismore, said that the Society's cost to the county was approaching the $5,000 level at which it would be equivalent of half a mill on the assessment.

The Society's purpose in proposing another worker in the field of neglected children, as explained by its deputation Thursday afternoon, was to expand the preventive branch of its program with the expected result of reducing the number of wards receiving care at the Shelter, and at the same time extending the policy of obtaining more boarding homes for wards.

Miss Young outlined this phase of her work this morning and subsequently Reeve W. A. Anderson remarked that she "didn't drive home" her story with more specific details, including names, which would be recognized by the members.

Fewer Wards.

"We have fewer wards according to population than any other county," Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, stated to the council this morning in a review of phases of her work which she described as preventive by having more children placed in boarding homes instead of being cared for in the shelter, and also in assuming only those children for whom the county was liable.

Miss Young reviewed quite a number of cases by which her prompt efforts resulted in children being returned to municipalities outside the county to which they belonged, and where they should be maintained and cared for.

Reeve Gifford recalled prospects when the change in superintendence was made, of gradually reducing the number of wards at the shelter until it became only a clearing place as children were received and sent on to private homes under the society's supervision.

Miss Young said that because of lack of assistance she had not been able to develop the boarding home plan to the stage desired, but there had been an improvement and advancement in that respect. For the year 1937-38 the number of days' care of children at the shelter was 6,613 and in boarding homes 3,119; last year the corresponding statistics were 4,973 days' care at the shelter and 5,960 in boarding homes.

"I haven't time to go out and get boarding homes. It requires considerable investigation to make sure we get suitable places. Miss Barbara Cutting, who has been helping me as a student since September, visited eleven homes, and decided only three were acceptable."

Always Need Clearing House

"There will always be the need of a clearing house," Miss Young said. "A few weeks ago five chidren had to be accepted on a Saturday afternoon, and emergency cases of that kind come to us from time to time."

Mr. Gifford—"How long do you think it will take to bring about the system?"

Miss Young replied that it was "impossible to say."

Pleads Not Guilty Transient Is Freed

William Evans, a transient, who had been arrested on Charlotte street a week ago and who pleaded not guilty when arraigned then on a charge of begging declared this morning before Magistrate Langley that he was still not guilty and that he was ready to go on with his trial. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, however, informed the court that he was offering no evidenec and accordingly the case was dismissed.

Evans had been held in jail while some inquiries were made but the police found nothing to justify a further charge and the transient was allowed to go. He had gained in one respect by his sojourn in the county bastille for the long and luxuriant locks that was so much in evidence on his first appearance had been shaven off in the interim.

One-Cent Pieces Very Scarce In Peterboro Bankers Unable To Explain The Reason

There is a mysterious scarcity of the humble one-cent piece in Peterborough at the present time. Coppers are somewhat at a premium and no one seems to be able to find an explanation of the condition.

"Five-cent pieces are also scarce," a member of a local bank staff told the Examiner, "but there are more of them proportionately than there are coppers. We had to bring in $100 worth of one cent pieces recently to help take care of the situation and other banks in Peterborough have been having the same experience. The condition is not peculiar to this city either for we have had requests from some of our branches in other places for coppers to help them take care of a shortage."

He had no explanation to offer for the development; it exists and that is about all the bankers seem to know about it. The reader's guess is probably as good as that of anybody else as to the reason..

AIR GUN SEIZED

Although a number of air rifles have been seized by the police recently youngsters do not seem to have realized that the use of these weapons within the city limits is forbidden and that confiscation of the rifles found is a necessary step. Another one of these weapons was seized Thursday night after a complaint had been received by the police.

A BRIDGENORTH CRASH.

Three cars of a well known brand and peculiarly enough all of the same year figured in an accident at Bridgenorth Thursday night in which automobiles driven by William Gannon of Ennismore and Ernest Ward, Charlotte street met in collision and both were damaged. The occupants of the two machines escaped injury. The accident happened when one of the drivers following a car of the same vintage as his own watched it as it turned into a side road and then found himself confronted with a third automobile of similar brand, a collision following.

PERFORMED 6,000 OPERATIONS

Professor L. J. Austin of Queens' university told Kinsmen Thursday night that he had performed 6,000 operations on British troops during the last war, 1,000 of whom were Australians and another 1,000 Canadians. One of the Canadians, he said, was Lt.-Col. C. H. Ackerman of Peterborough.

ANOTHER DOG HIT.

Peterborough has had a number of cases recently in which dogs have been killed or badly injured through being hit by automobiles. The latest accident of this type occurred on Lansdowne street Thursday night when a canine was bowled over by a car, the driver of which failed to stop. The dog was so badly hurt that it had to be shot by Constable Leo Murphy, who investigated.

DIRTY MARKERS.

City police are checking motorists in regard to dirty markers and unless there is an improvement shown soon prosecutions will follow. The officers compiain that many of the license markers are so coated with mud that it is almost impossible to read the numbers at a little distance. The Traffic Act provides a penalty for car owners who allow this condition to continue.

MYSTERY SOLVED.

The manager of an industrial plant in Peterborough reported that he had received several telephone calls from people in the neighborhood of the factory, mentioning that a certain car had been parked on one of the nearby streets for several days at certain hours. They did not recognize it as belonging to any person they knew and were suspicious. "I was glad enough to receive the information," said the manager, "and started at once to make inquiries. The result was that in a short time we unearthed the information that the car was owned by a bootlegger."

Horse Owners Given Warning

Warning to owners of working horses that their animals must be properly cared for in this district if prosecution is to be avoided, was sounded today by Inspector Thomas Johnston of the Humane Society.

He reported to the society that several owners had been ordered to comply with the law in this regard, after working animals that were not in fit condition. He particularly warned owners of lame horses that the Humane society will not permit such animals to be used. Three horses had to be destroyed during the month, he reported.

A total of 53 cats, most of them diseased, were destroyed during the month, he said, indicating that Peterborough's epidemic of disease among cats has not yet abated. Dr. Johnston is continuing his drive to eliminate these cats in order to make the city safe for feline pets, and asked for the cooperation of the general public in this regard. Several dogs were struck by cars during the month, he said.

He warned owners of live-stock that is still in pasture that proper shelter must be provided now, because nights are too cold for the animals to remain outside unsheltered.

Young Farmer Faces Two Traffic Counts

Following an accident at Charlotte and Aymer street, in which Charles Farnham an elderly employee of Whitaker and Company was knocked down and injured by an automobile, the driver of the car involved, Nelson McConnell, a young Ida farmer faced two charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning.

He was charged with driving with inadequate brakes and also with careless driving.

To both charges he entered a plea of not guilty and asked for an adjournment, informing the court that his lawyer was out of town today. Crown Attorney McElderry stated that he had no objection and the cases went over until Wednesday next.

"Should it be an adjournment or a remand," asked Magistrate Langley and the Crown Attorney said that he was quite satisfied with an adjournment.

Teacher Resigns U.S. Position To Help Canada

Resigning his position as teacher of music in the schools of Wagner, South Dakota, to enlist in the Canadian army, Ernest J. Dark is visiting his brother Walter E. Dark, Downie street, conductor of the Peterborough Brass Band while convalescing from an operation he underwent in Vancouver that was found necessary to pass the physical examination for military service.

The Dark brothers had not seen each other for twenty years, since their parting in Toronto when Ernest left for Washington, D. C., under engagement as English horn player with the United States Marine Corps band with which he remained for three years. Since then he has been with concert bands in the southern States and Porto Rico, and for the last eleven years has been music teacher and supervisor in South Dakota schools, and conductor of municipal bands especially at Wagner and Yangton.

During a vacation Mr. Dark was spending in California war broke out, and Mr. Dark immediately gave up the position he had created and developed, went to Vancouver and was pronounced physically fit with the exception of a cause for the operation he underwent. During the last war he enlisted with the 59th battalion C. E. F. in Toronto and won the Military Cross and Military Medal, being decorated with the Military Cross by King George V.

Mr. Dark will be guest conductor of the Peterborough Brass Band at its concert in the Regent Theatre, Sunday evening December 3. He has been advised to take three months' convalescence and rest before offering himself for enlistment.

Music Making Progress.

Mr. Dark told the Examiner today that music has made great strides throughout the United States in spite of an opinion some years ago that radio broadcasts of music would greatly reduce personal application to the learning of music.

"Throughout South Dakota small towns of 1,000 population and even less pay for the unkeep of municipal bands out of their own treasuries," Mr. Dark said. "School boards adopt the same policy, and high school bands are flourishing in nearly all the towns and cities. During those last twenty years my experience with the U. S. Marine Corps band was exceedingly interesting and valuable, but I got the most joy and reward out of my work in schools and towns in Dakota, taking groups of young people, for instance, high school students most of them without musical knowledge and bringing them to the stage where they played concert programs featured by soloists whom I trained. We had bands and orchestras and choral clubs, and it was all very delightful work."

Mr. Dark was made an honorary member of the Veterans of the Foreign Wars of America during his residence in Wagner. He is one of three brothers, whose father was a bandmaster in the Old Country at Croydon. They inherited their father's talent in music, and at present are all in Canada. William Dark is director of a concert orchestra in Kitchener, Walter is conductor of the Peterborough Brass Band after a varied experience including a period with the Anglo-Canadian Leather Company's band at Huntsville, and Ernest has laid aside his profession and his instruments in an effort to get back into the service of his King and country.

WARM SPRINGS (AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today that some consideration was being given the idea of a special tax to finance expenditures for national defence, which may be increased by $500,000,000 in the next fiscal year. These defence expenditures, the president indicated at a press conference, will be in excess of $2,000,000,000 but probably not as high as $2,300,000,000.

BOSTON (AP)—Investigation of reports by residents of Cape Cod of the thunder of a sea battle off the Atlantic coast failed to produce any supporting evidence, United States coast guard headquarters said today. Coast guard stations along the cape made a thorough search after residents reported they heard what happened to be gun fire between 8:15 and 8:47 last night.

TOKYO (AP) — An imperial headquarters communique on hostilities in China for October today listed 1,339 Japanese and 69,397 Chinese killed, including 49,206 Chinese who fell in central China. Japanese forces invaded Hunan Province, central China, in October but were driven back.

Canadians Are Avoiding Mistakes Made In Last Great War Professor Austin Tells Kinsmen

Against the background of medical training in the slums of London, a war career as a surgeon that started with the notoriety of being the first British soldier to be captured by German troops and that ended with him in command of a military hospital in France, Professor L. J. Austin of Queen's University—"Blimey" Austin to students and graduates—last night painted as colorful and robust a picture of war and life in general as could be conceived; a lusty, care-free, dangerous life that was held hell-raising by his own gusty laughter that roared above even that of his audience. He was speaking at the Empress Hotel, at a meeting of the Kinsmen club, at which a dozen members of the Kingston club were present.

He spoke with one foot on his chair, turned his back to roar in laughter at his own jokes, poked near-by listeners in the ribs, and made faces at all and sundry. He made the meeting as uproarious as the Empress has seen in many a day—but there was far more than just witticism in what he said. Every few minutes he turned out something that made his listeners stop laughing by its very shrewdness, its evident sincerity.

Not Fighting Just Hitler

Those remarks ran like a pattern through his hour and a half address and, added up, they told of his great, enduring love for the British Empire and his concern over what is going on right now. He harked back to his experience as a war prisoner in Germany to warn his listeners they are not fighting just Hitler but the entire German people and maybe more than just the Germans. "Germany and Germans have one ideal and one ideal only," he charged. "And that is to destroy once and for all the British Empire. They believe utterly that once the British Empire is destroyed they will have all they need."

He warned that this war is going to be a sticky affair at best—an affair that is going to require the best effort of every man and woman in the Empire, an affair that "may easily see Britain thrust back on her haunches." He told his listeners that "because someone tried to bomb Hitler the other day, don't expect that someone is going to crown him with a beer bottle next week." The German people are far from revolt yet, he declared, and doubted they would be for many a day.

Praises Canadian Army

He had, unexpectedly enough, high praise for the way in which the Canadian army is being raised in this war. In the First Great War huge armies, half-trained, not properly examined medically, were shipped off to England in batches, and too many of them died on Salisbury Plains, he said. And the Canadian Government has paid for twenty years and more now the support of men who never reached

Havelock Ladies Plan Gifts To Army Men

HAVELOCK, Nov. 24.—(ENS)—The local branch of the Eastern Star Patriotic Society made an auspicious start with over thirty women in attendance for their initial meeting. The opening ceremony included the trooping of the colors, the British flag being carried by Mrs. S. Southward, a V.A.D. with the British Red Cross during the Great War; the Christian flag by Mrs. W. J. Nobes, Worthy Matron of the Havelock chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star; and the Canadian flag by Mrs. V. Varty who served with the Army Auxiliary Corps during the last war. A prayer dedicating the work was offered by Mrs. J. Kinnaird.

Origin of the Eastern Star patriotic work was explained in detail by Miss M. Williams, convener of the committee, who also presided over the meeting. Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke was appointed financial secretary and Mrs. Cecil Toms, wool secretary.

It was decided to give a Christmas gift to each man who has enlisted from Havelock or vicinity. Plans were made to hold a card party for the purpose of raising funds to buy wool for knitting. Prizes were donated by Mrs. Joseph Huffman, Mrs. J. Bell and Mrs. W. Hill. The lunch committee will be composed of Mrs. S. J. W. Clarke, Mrs. H. T. Mathison, Mrs. George Hubbel, Mrs C. Toms, Mrs William Peacock, and Mrs. W. J. Nobes.

Several members present offered their homes for card parties and afternoon teas, and it is expected that several will be held in the near future.

The society will assemble every Friday afternoon in the Albion Club rooms which they are using as their work room. The secretary was instructed to send a letter of thanks to the Albion Club for the use of their rooms and also to Mr. Robert Buchanan for the donation of his services as caretaker.

Knox W.M.S.

The Knox Church Women's Missionary Society met on Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Miss E. E. Chase, with a good attendance. Opening with hymn and prayer, a passage of scripture was then read by Mrs. F. Clarke. The "glad tidings prayer" was led by Mrs. C. Jamieson and a chapter "the untouchables" from the study book "Moving Millions" was read by Mrs. A. S. Thompson. A responsive reading of a psalm was led by the president.

Completion of the "autograph quilt" which has the names of all persons who subscribed to its making, inscribed upon it, was announced and it is now ready for sale.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. J. Kinnaird, after which refreshments weer served. The date for next months meeting was set ahead to Monday, December 11, to avoid Christmas week.

Invested By King

Cadets of the Air Defence corps admire the Distinguished Flying medal which was personally awarded to Sergeant William Willets in recognition of his gallantry in flying operations against the enemy. Sergeant Willets was a member of a bombing crew which was attacked by German planes. With the pilot killed, Willets took over the controls and landed the bomber and its crew safely.

3,000 County Farmers Needed For Chamber Of Agriculture

Sponsored by the Peterborough Chamber of Agriculture, an adventuring offspring of the County Council, whose activities planned for the autumn and early winter have been curtailed by the nation's engagement in war against Germany, a meeting has been arranged for next Thursday, November 30, at the Court House to be addressed by H. S. Arkell.

The executive of the chamber and Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, are going to be disappointed, no doubt, if the main court room at the Court House is not crowded with farmers to hear Mr. Arkell. He is now a free agent, but he spent two years as an agent of the Dominion Government, studying marketing problems and conditions relating to agriculture as he found them in the more important export and import countries.

The coming of Mr. Arkell was mentioned at the County Council meeting Thursday afternoon. He was the main speaker at the agricultural conference in Toronto on Tuesday, at which some of the members of the Council were present. Their report is that Mr. Arkell has a highly important message for farmers regarding the marketing of their products, changing conditions and their effects throughout the world, now upset by war, and other facts which, it is said, should be heard.

Mr. Arkell's address early in the year at the Montreal conference of the Chamber of Agriculture in Eastern Canada was also a memorable feature, and it is hoped that Peterborough farmers will avail themselves of this convenient opportunity of hearing him.

Somewhat in this connection, Frank Paterson said yesterday that Peterborough County had a strong nucleus of well informed, thoughtful farmers, and added, "I wish we had 3,000 and we'd get places in building up a marketing program for our industry."

Mr. Paterson also expressed the hope that the local Chamber of Agriculture would continue the activities which were begun throughout the county last winter and early Spring, with a series of meetings at which paramount questions relating to agriculture would be discussed.

Over 20 U-Boats Lost To Hitler

PARIS, Nov. 24 — (CP-Havas). — The two U-boats sunk by a single French torpedo boat in three days, as announced last night, brought Germany's submarine losses at the hands of the British and French navies to "more than 20," it was stated in authoritative naval circles here today.

Since Germany was credited at the outbreak of war with about 60 U-boats, of which only 20 were capable of long-distance cruising, this total was regarded as extremely satisfactory.

The two undersea vessels accounted for by the French torpedo boat were definitely sunk, these sources said. The circumstances were such that the ordinary margin of doubt that usually accompanies attacks on U-boats was entirely absent.

Lost Suit

Princess Stefanie Hohenlohe-Waldenberg, Austrian-born former wife of a Hungarian prince, is shown leaving court in London during the trial of her suit against Lord Rothermere, in which she charge breach of contract. Among the sensational charges made by the princess was one that Rothermere envisioned his son as king of Hungary. The princess lost her case.

The ladies have the knitting, etc., to do, and they asked the men to get busy this winter and make the funds to carry on. A committee of four was named, Messrs. Elgin Peters, L. Lean, F. Spencely, A. Ellerton. These are to canvas for funds in Apsley and in the east road.

Mr. Herb Earnshaw donated 2 cords of wood to be sold and Mr. Guyett promised to truck it when sold. A silver collection was taken.

US Checking Up On Bata Plant

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—A new survey of the Bata Shoe Company's operations in the United States will be made by the Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization.

The company, which had one of the world's largest shoe plants in Czecho-Slovakia, is constructing a plant at Belcamp Md., with the understanding it will be operated by American workers.

James Houghtelling commissioner of immigration, said the inquiry will be undertaken as soon as construction of factory has advanced sufficietly to indicate how the company is meeting requirements under which it was authorized to operate.

The first unit of the factory was far from finished when the bureau made a survey September 18 as a result of complaints by members of Congress and Labor Leaders that the company was employing foreign workers. At that time company officials said foreign personnel was made up solely of instructors who would depart as soon as their work was completed.

Tetanus Toxoid To Immunize Canadian Army

(By R. A. FARQUHARSON.)

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.— All soldiers going overseas will be immunized against tetanus. This decision by the Department of National Defense follows a thorough study by the Army Medical Corps of results from the use of tetanus toxoid in both England and France.

Immunization against typhoid fever and smallpox, preventive measures which saved thousands of lives in the last war, is now well underway. It is learned authoritatively that injection of tetanus toxoid will be started almost immediately. The order for the first supplies has been given.

Doctors agree that the army is not the place to test new discoveries but faith in tetanus toxoid is so great that The Lancet ,authoritative British medical journal, in its last issues expressed the hope that its use be made compulsory for all troops on foreign service.

Problem Greater in War.

Tetanus is no longer a serious peacetime problem. It is different during war when wounds are easily infected with the spores which abound in richly fertilized European soil.

The toxoid differs from the antitetanic serum used in the last war in the same way diphtheria toxoid differs from antitoxin. It will be given to build up an immunity in all soldiers. The antitetanic serum is used after a wound to counteract possible infection just received.

Use of the serum was commenced by the British Army in October, 1914, and at once the ratio of wounded developing lockjaw dropped from 9 to 1 per 1,000 wounded. It is confidently expected that general immunization will save more lives as well as avoiding the additional drawbacks of serum sickness and serum shock.

Need for the serum was so great in the early stages of the last war that the present Connaught Laboratories in Toronto—largest of the kind connected with a university in the world—were virtually created to meet that need. Before the war was over 250,000 doses of antitetanic serum and half a million tubes of smallpox vaccine had been furnished to the army.

The late Col. A. E. Gooderham, determined that Canadians should not run short of the serum, launched a one-man drive to furnish it. He located Dr. J. G. Fitzgerald in a small laboratory in the basement of the University Medical Building and asked what was necessary to make the serum. Dr. Fitzgerald was ready to go to work if a couple of horses could be provided. He was even willing, if necessary, to stable the horses in the basement of the medical building.

Colonel Gooderham went out the next day and bought a 55-acre farm near Maple. On this farm all the antitetanus serum used by Canadians in the last war was made. On the same farm, where there are now seventy-five workers, all the tetanus toxoid needed in this war will be made.

The new laboratories so reduced costs that on the first order filled in 1915 the Red Cross saved $3,000. The same policy of providing an ever increasing range of products at cost has been followed since.

By the winter of 1916, Ontario was securing from the Connaught Laboratories all the antitoxin needed for free distribution throughout the province. Services were soon extended to other provinces. In 1919 the Saskatchewan Commissioner of Health reported purchases from the Connaught Laboratories in the preceding year had saved Saskatchewan $40,000.

When insulin was discovered the Connaught Laboratories became the sole centre of manufacture in Canada, and insulin made in the brick building on College Street still goes round the world.

Research in the laboratories has not only produced new products, but has developed ways of greatly reducing the cost of others. Heparin, the new substance which promises to counteract formation of blood clots after operations, at first cost $9 per gram. The Connaught workers brought costs down to $3 a gram. It is likely heparin will be used extensively during the war.

During the last war, Dr. Fitzgerald and his scientists abandoned all research work except that bearing directly on the war. Already the workers are once again swinging into war service. The tetanus toxoid will be their first new contribution to the present struggle.

"Enoculate" yourself against Winter Ills

Scientific tests prove that regular users of Eno's "Fruit Salt" strengthen their resistance to winter's ills.

A teaspoonful of ENO in the morning and half a teaspoonful at night is of threefold benefit:

1. IT NEUTRALIZES GASTRIC ACIDITY —cause of so many upsetting headaches and attacks of indigestion.

2. IT ENSURES INNER CLEANLINESS. Eno assists nature to remove yesterday's food wastes today. Its natural cleansing action is gentle and efficient.

3. IT MAINTAINS THE ALKALI RESERVE. A teaspoonful of ENO is equal in systemic alkalizing value to 8 ounces of pure, fresh orange juice. The regular use of ENO continually replenishes the alkaline constituents of the body.

Canadians

the theatre of battle, he claimed. He said that such a mistake is not being made this time, that troops are being weeded out even now when they do not come up to standard in repeated medical examinations. They are being given serums for the prevention of contagious disease and are going to go across the ocean a fit, trained army.

Bring Wounded to Canada

He forecast the organization of a vast new plan that would effect Canada in tremendous degree, claiming that wounded soldiers will be transported to Canada for recovery, that huge portions of the British civil population will be moved here away from threatened bombings. "The idea will be to take them to the food, not to bring the food to them." He warned that that Canadian physicians and surgeons are going to have their hands full at home.

His word in that connection carried some significance, for besides being a professor of surgery at Queen's, he is a Lieut.-Col. in Royal Army Medical Corps, and has long been associated with Canadian Militia.

That was what he interspersed through reminisences that had his listeners roaring with laughter. "A civilian can have a lot of fun in the army, particularly if he's a doctor," he said once. And he proved his point.

He volunteered for service as a surgeon in the Red Cross and arrived in Belgium on the 18th of August, 1914. On the 20th he was captured by Germans and was believed to be a spy for some time before his eventual recognition and imprisonment in a concentration camp. He had a unique theory about the reason the Germans lost the war on their initial drive through Belgium. The wily Belgians, he claimed, left all their potent wines in conspicuous view and the German advance was slowed up because soldiers tippled too freely. And it was lost because Von Kluck wasted an entire day in a ceremonial march through Brussels and was late, as a result, for the battle of Mons. "If he had been a day earlier I don't think there would have been a British army left on the field to oppose the German advance," he said. "That ceremonial march cost Germany the world.'

Then he had a revelation to make about the use by German soldiers or saw bayonets. They weren't used "for the purpose of making grisly holes in your liver," but were used by colonial troops to saw down trees, he claimed. He said that in all his experience as a surgeon during the war, he had never seen a British soldier who had ever been bayoneted by accident. And as a matter of fact, he said, the French triangular bayonet is a worse instrument than a saw bayonet.

He told about his trouble with German military officials who accused him of being a spy. They stripped him of his clothing and brought him to trial. "It's awfully hard to be dignified when you're naked, particularly if you've a figure like mine." Some time later, he faced a medical examination to prove that he was a qualified physician and not a spy. Asked about symptoms of a patient suffering from pneumonia, he replied that the patient would have a temperature of about 104 degrees. "They looked shocked and then I realized they were thinking in terms of a Centigrade thermometer and I'd boiled the beggar."

Then there was his bathless condition. He wasn't permitted to wash and some time later he found officers backing away from him. "I didn't blame them. I'd have backed away from myself if I'd been able," he said.

When wounded British soldiers arrived in the fortress in which he was eventually imprisoned, he had to care for them, even to operating without anaesthesia. "The operations were done on the dining room table with the convalescent patients looking on," he related. He said it was not cruelty on the part of the Germans that had deprived them of ether and chloroform, but was because all available supplies had been sent to hospitals near the front. Germans behind the lines were themselves operated on without anaesthesia he said. He told that he had secreted a small bottle of chloroform in the fortress and that when a patient had been prepared for an operation, a helper would pour half an ounce from a container, clamp on the mask and say, "Now hop to it, my boy, that's all you're going to get."

He was released after about two months' imprisonment and returned to France to serve for the remaindr of the war as a surgeon. Soon after the war's end he came to Canada to join the medical faculty at Queen's university.

President Don Scott of the Peterborough club and Howard Gomery of the Kingston club presided at the meeting. Guests included Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M. C., Frank Paterson, Major James Turnbull, and Charles Elliott. A new member, Jim Ellis, was introduced. District Governor Austin Peters was present and spoke briefly.

Another speaker of the evening was Corporal Jack Huston of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signallers, a member of the Kingston club. He outlined the development of signalling in the British and Canadian armies.

Don Loucks brought in a report of a nominating committee for next year's officers. Elections will be held at the next meeting on December 14.

Announce Next Year's Colors

The Dyers' and Finishers' Association of Yorkshire, in collaboration with the British Color Council, has just issued a new fashion color-card for the spring and summer of next year. A dozen pieces of dyed material are arranged on an attractive card in the form of an artist's palette in such a way as to indicate various possibilities of color-blending. The colors themselves are soft in tone and range from what is described as an "orchid blonde," through "mellow gold," "Mexican tan," "copper rose," and "spring lilac" to "zinnia red," from "delft blue" to "blue fir" and "sailor blue," from "macaw" to "cactus green' and "dryad green." It is prophesied that blues will be popular in spring.

Fashion Flashes

In New York the black dress gives way to the colored dress, and in particular sheer woollens in stylings soft and formal enough to make them suitable for afternoon wear. There is continued insistence on muted, "subtle" colorings in the light pastel range. Considerable is seen of the new "Chinese tea," a pale greenish gold. A soft aquamarine blue, a toast tan, dusty pinks and light mossy greens are typical colorings.

In glittering sheer fashions — sequins and rhinestones and bugles are all employed, and metal threads and gold braids and colored stones also—there is approval for the separate dress, also the dress with jacket. Ofter the jacket costume is designed to look exactly like a long-sleeved dress, the dress itself having a very ultra decolletage.

Colorful wool prints are worn under coats.

FASHIONS

This pattern is equally suited for a home or a street dress. The lines are new and so becoming that you will like them for both your work frock and your best going-into-town dress. The rounded shoulder yokes keep it neat and well fitted. The pointed uplift front is flattering to the older woman's figure as well as the young housewive's. Dark color cotton, brightened with a geometric print and ric-rac, makes your days at home seem gayer. Light weight woollen in a becoming color fashions a perfect street dress.

Style No. 3002 is designed for sizes 16, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material.

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes on at night and prevents sleep.

Sometimes it is the constant cough, cough that will not be quieted. Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult.

Department Hails Good Honey Year

"Eat more honey" is the slogan being hoisted by the Ontario Department of Agriculture after the garnering of what experts pronounce to be one of the finest crops for flavor and quality in many years.

Honey is one of the finest natural sweets one can eat. It is carbohydrate in its simplest form and is absorbed directly into the blood stream without requiring further digestion. For this reason it is especially valuable to athletes during periods of great physical strain and also to children. It is a mild laxative for children and does not tax their delicate digestive organs.

Liquid honey is ideal for sweetening fruits. Pour or "drizzle" over grapefruit, strawberries, peaches or fruit salads. It quickly dissolves and blends with other flavors.

For beverages. Used in cocoa and lemonade and fruit drinks it imparts new delightful flavor.

For honey meringue. To one egg white add one-quarter cup of honey and beat ten minutes. If kept uncovered in the refrigerator it will retain its flavor and gloss for several months.

Solid honey can be used as a spread for toast, bread and biscuits. Tempting combination spreads for sandwiches may also be made of honey and peanut butter honey and cheese or chopped nuts and dried fruits mixed with honey.

Housewives Asking Best For Homes

NEW YORK, Nov. 23 — (CP). — American housewives will not be hoodwinked into buying goods from "high-powered" salesmen any longer, Dr. Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the International Federation of Business Women, told the 31st annual convention of the Associated Grocery Manufacturers of America.

Dr. Phillips said women want purity of product, cleanliness in its preparation, tastiness of flavor. She wants to know what she is buying in order to fit the purchase to her needs. She wants accuracy of weight, full measure and honesty of appearance. She wants to stretch the buying power of the food commodity dollar.

She urged business to launch "a vigorous campaign of truth-telling about itself."

You Can Make Your Own Peasant Turban

The peasant idea of tying a handkerchief round our heads has been a tremendous blessing during the last few summers. Now, some bright young person has thought up a turban idea that will do equally well for town or country, and so is even more useful!

Buy a yard of any attractive material that pleases you (it can be the same fabric as your outfit, in matching or contrast colors), and from it cut strips on the cross, each six inches wide. Join them together so that you have one piece a yard and a half in length.

The next thing to do is to wind the strip round your head like a turban. Take one end, and hold it in the centre of your forehead (well back on the hair line if it suit you better that way), wind it round your head twice, then twist it through the froit bands, carry it across the top of your head to the back bands, tuck it in, and fix neatly with a pin.

While you manoeuvre the turban, you should be creasing it down in width slightly all the time.

Bright Paisley-patterned silk is gay and will go well with all your clothes. For town, a turban in pale blue or salmon pink crepe, worn with a dark suit or dress, is really "chic." Watch the "remnant" sales —you may be able to snap up some real bargains.

Do You Know?

You can save gas by putting your vegetables in the bottom part of a double boiler for cooking, then use the top part over the boiling vegetables for making a custard or milk pudding.

The best way to remove heat marks caused by moisture on polished surfaces is to get a piece of soft cloth, put on it some iodine and rub the part affected? Wipe with a clean cloth and polish in the usual way.

When washing on frosty days, dissolving a handful of common salt into the rinse water will keep clothes from freezing on the line and make them easy to remove without danger of tearing?

We Noticed

...That so many women have joined the British Air Raid Precautions and Defence organizations, that Scotland Yard, headquarters of the British Police Forces, has now announced that thirty more policewomen are wanted for London.

...Perhaps the attractive "skiing" uniforms worn by members of the British Air Raid Precautions services may have something to do with this "situations vacant" announcement. The London police women's uniform is dark blue and serviceable, but not much more.

...Britain has had policewomen for twenty years now. They deal mainly with women and children of criminal tendencies. The starting pay is $14 a week, rising to $20, and this small highly-trained force is considered by Scotland Yard to be worth every penny of it.

Duchess Is Angry At Rich Women

LONDON, Nov. 23—(CP).—The Duchess of Westminster, noticing a considerable number of wealthy women in paid wartime jobs, has broken out like an angry member of the House of Lords.

"I am continualy coming across cases of wealthy women who took on jobs in a voluntary capacity and who, now that the war has started, have obtained well-paid jobs," the Duchess said. "They ought to make way for the hundreds of competent women who are literally starving. These is plenty of voluntary work to be done. . . It may be that eventually there will be paid jobs for all who want them, but in the meantime they should go to those who need them most."

Would Buy Wool With Autograph

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23—(CP).—Mrs. J. Ranks of Makinak, Man., wants to sell two prized autographs so she can buy wool to knit socks and sweaters for Canadian soldiers.

The northern Manitoba woman wrote to Mayor John McQueen of Winnipeg, asking him to find a buyer for signatures of Winston Churchill, Fire Lord of the British Admiralty, and his wife, Clementine.

"I have had them since 1913," she wrote. "I value them very much but would sell them and use the money to buy wool for sweaters and socks.

Mrs. Ranks, whose son is in training with the Canadian navy at Esquimalt, B.C., knitted 400 pairs of socks for soldiers of the First Great War.

Lead Neckwear Turnover Collars

The little prim turnover collars associated with the Louise Alcott heroines, are by far the most repeatedly used collar. On new dresses.

It is more than likely that Schiapalelli's chin strap hats with jabot or ribbon rosette "beards" as they have been called, will influence a neckline fashion that cultivates jabots and rosettes high on the neck, at centre front.

WOMEN'S WORK AND INTERESTS

DOROTHY DIX

There Is Usually a Great Weeping And Wailing And Gnashing Of Teeth When The Little Stranger Turns Out To Be a Girl Instead Of The Desired Son—But Why?

THE stork, which must be the dumbest bird alive, as it makes so many mistakes in delivering its little bundles from heaven, recently dropped a little girl baby on the doorstep of some friends of mine who had explicitly and definitely ordered a boy.

They were terribly disappointed and all of the sisters and cousins and the aunts joined in their lamentations and said it was just too bad, but there didn't seem anything to do about it but just to put on the hypocritical smile one wears when on uninvited guest has crashed the gates, and hope for better luck the next time.

But th incident gives one to think, as the French say, and wonder why the birth of a man-child calls for feasting and rejoicing and slaying the fatted calf, and so many congratulatory toasts to Papa that when he looks into the bassinet of his son and heir he frequently thinks he is quintuplets, whereas the advent of a girl baby rates only a discreet and sympathetic pressure of the hand.

Of course, in the countries in which there are heredity titles and entailed estates that are the sole perquisites of the males of a family, it is easy to see why boy babies should be desired, but in this country where most of us having nothing to leave our descendants but a little good advice there seems no valid reason why boys should have the edge on the baby market.

The theory that sons are a blessing and daughters a handicap had a leg to stand on when women were helpless dependents. Then poor Papa, with a houseful of parasitic girls to be fed and dressed and married off if possible, was indeed an object of pity. But in this modern age all of that is changed. Nowadays girls get on their feet and get jobs quite as early as their brothers do, and they are the prop and stay of the family far oftener than the boys.

It is Sally's pay envelope that Mother grabs, not John's. It is Sally who stays single to support and educate the younger brothers and sisters, while John marries as soon as he is making a living for himself and a wife. And when Father and Mother grow old it is their daughters who nurse them and cherish them and bear with their peculiarities, not their sons. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred it is his wife's parents a man is supporting instead of his own. So a girl baby isn't a bad investment even from a financial standpoint. In fact, she is about the best old-age insurance a couple can take out. Nor is she a total loss as a means of gratifying parental ambition.

A woman's chance of achieving distinction and getting her name and picture in the rotogravure section of the newspapers is twice as good as a man's, or maybe three times, because, for one thing, women are still in the amateur class. They don't have to be as good as men to make good, if you get what I mean. Many of our famous professional women, or more highly publicized women explorers or longshoremen or whatnot, would be considered pretty poor persimmons, scarcely worth mentioning, if they were of the male instead of the female species.

And consider how many more shortcuts to the top of the world there are for girls than there are for boys. Poor John has to work his way up, but Sally can get there by means of being a glamor girl or painting her toenails green or achieving a new hair-do. Parents don't seem to realize it but they have twice as good a chance of being proud of a daughter than they have of a son, because if a girl doesn't win fame and fortune on her own merits she has always a chance of marrying them. And they can get just as much kick out of boasting about our daughter who is the wife of the president or married to young Millionbucks as they can about bragging about the exploits of a son.

So it is queer, all things considered, that boy babies are esteemed so much more highly than girl babies, and the wackiest thing about it all is that while men and women want their own babies to be boy babies, when they do accept a child, where they can choose the sex, they almost invariably pick out girl babies.

And who can explain that?

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—For ten years I was a very happily married man. Then I discovered that my wife was having an affair with a married man who had a wife and two children. Both she and the man obtained divorces and married, and I had not heard from her for ten years until recently she came to the city in which I live and asked me to come to see her. When I saw her she told me of the life of misery she had lived for years and begged me to take her back. She has one child, aged 6, by this second marriage. I have always loved her and I suppose I always will, but I do not believe that I could be happy in a second marriage to her. I can't stand to see her living a life of unhappiness, but should I be the goat? —WORRIED BILL.

ANSWER:

Once a goat, always a goat. We human goats can no more develop a backbone than the leopard can change its spots. We will always be softies who will let selfish people impose upon us, and I daresay that you will be so sorry for this woman who has ruined your life once that you will let her ruin it again by remarrying her.

Your guardian angel is warning you now that there will be no happiness in such a marriage, because you know that you cannot trust her and that she never loved you and never will. Evidently the second marriage went blooey and she wants to marry you for a home and security for herself and her child.

DOROTHY DIX.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question: Would you be kind enough to let me have your recipes for "Vegetables Roasts"?. Thank you. Mrs. V. T. Y.

Answer: Thank you for your letter.

Pea Roast.

Three-quarters cup bread crumbs, ½ cup canned pea pulp, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¾ cup broken walnuts, (or finely chopped if desired), 1 egg, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup butter; ¾ cup milk. Break stale bread in pieces, dry in oven and put through strainer—there should be ¾ cup. Drain canned peas, bring to boiling point, drain and force through coarse sieve—there should be ½ cup. Mix crumbs, pea pulp, sugar, nuts, egg slightly beaten, salt pepper, butter and milk. Turn into small bread pan lined with waxed paper, and let stand 15 minutes. Cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. Remove to hot platter, garnish with cream sauce to which add about ¼ cup grated raw carrots for color.

Pecan Nut Loaf.

One cup hot boiled rice, 1 cup pecans, chopped fine, 1 cup cracker crumbs, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Mix rice nuts, cracker crumbs, then add egg well beaten, milk, salt, pepper and pour around the following sauce:

Cook three tablespoons butter with 2 slices onion 3 minutes, stirring. Add 3 tablespoons flour and stir until mixed; then pour on gradually, while stirring, 1½ cups milk. Bring to boiling point and add ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, strain and serve.

Corn Entree.

One green pepper chopped, 1 small onion, chopped, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup canned tomatoes, 2-3 cup canned corn, 2 tablespoons minute tapica, ½ teaspoon salt. ⅛ teaspoon black pepper, dash of cayenne, 1 1-3 cups grated cheese. Fry onions and pepper in butter until brown. Heat tomatoes and corn in double boiler. Add first mixture, minute tapioca, and seasonings. Cook 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until melted. Now this may now be poured into casserole and baked or may be served on toast or in patty shells.

Vegetable Loaf.

One-half cup cooked green peas, ½ cup cooked green string beans, ½ cup chopped boiled carrots, ½ cup cooked beets, 1½ cups milk or vegetable stock, 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika, 1 egg. Press peas through a sieve, cut beans in small pieces, then combine all vegetables. Add to them the milk, slightly beaten egg, crumbs, and seasonings. Turn into baking dish and bake in an oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until firm. This requires a sauce: parsley cream sauce, onion sauce, mushroom sauce or tomato sauce will do.

Question: I have been helped quite a lot by your cookery columns in the paper. Would you help me some more? I would like to know how to preserve horse-radish in sealers as I see it in the market. I have lots of cook books but all are silent as to that recipe.

I don't know if there is anything I can do for you in the recipe line you seem to have so many and such a variety. I have two fairly old books I could loan you—you might find something in them.

I am enclosing a recipe which was printed on your page some years ago, sent in by a Mrs. Brown—I believe the Lieut-Gov.'s wife. Could you tell me what is wrong with it. You will notice it says 1¾ cups flour and no liquids except 2 tablespoons melted butter and the 2 egg whites. I have tried cutting down on the flour but then it is too sweet. Perhaps you will know what is wrong—it is very nice anyway I have copied it so don't bother to send it back. Thanking you for recipes in the past R. C.

Answer: Thank you for such a pleasant letter.

Horseradish.

Two cups finely grated horseradish, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 6 cups white wine vinegar. Keep all ingredients strictly clean—to make sure of good keeping you might boil, cover and chill the vinegar before adding. Mix well, put in sterile jars, and seal.

I have a recipe for "Cream Pie" that is almost the same as your Virgina Cream Pie except that it contains ¼ cup milk. It won't do any harm to try this—for you will get a next plain batter, that will be good with the cream filling. Some of those Southern Pies are more like a rich pastry than batter.

People Urged Eat More Honey

"The Queen was in the parlor eating bread and honey" says the old nursery rhyme and according to modern dietitians the Queen was showing good taste. Honey is not only fit for a Queen but is actually an energy food that can be added to the diet of athlete and child alike with the utmost benefit.

Honey is rich in carbohydrates in their simples form. Because of this it is absorbed directly into the blood stream. No digestion process is necessary. Therefore honey is of great assistance to athletes when they are under great physical strain and also for children because it gives them all the benefit of sugar without taxing their digestive systems unduly.

Apart from its health benefits honey is a real addition to the weekly menu. Its delicate and distinctive taste can be used in a variety of ways, far more than many housewives realize.

Among various suggestions advanced by modern chefs for honey are such intriguing combinations as the following:

Honey meringue. To one white add one-quarter cup of honey and beat ten minutes. If kept uncovered in the refrigerator it will retain its flavor and gloss for several months.

Mixed in equal parts with butter as a "different" sandwich filling for bridge teas, parties, etc.

Liquid honey drizzled over grapefruit, strawberries, peaches or fruit salads. Honey quickly dissolves and mingles with the other flavors.

Eat more honey—it is good for you.

Hostess Tea Held By Mission Circle

HASTINGS, Nov. 24 (ENS). — Miss Rhea Preston of Asphodel entertained at her home on Wednesday afternoon for a hostess tea in aid of the Mission Circle of Trinity Church.

Eight ladies, Mrs. G. Johnston, Mrs. A. Forde, Mrs. J. E. Glover, Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe, Mrs. Lucas and daughter Miss Ruth Lucas, Mrs. A. B. Smith, and Mrs. J. Cruikshank, weer present for the social event.

After the guests were received by Miss Rhea Preston, her sister Miss Ferne, and mother, Mrs. Bert Preston, a delightful time was spent in games and contests. A guessing contest was won by Mrs. A. Forde (bon-bon dish), an old friends' contest, won by Mrs. A. B. Smith (cup and saucer). bingo was won by several, winning various prizes.

A short program included a solo, "Alone," by Miss Ruth Lucas; a reading by Mrs. A. E. Metcalfe; a solo, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," by Mrs. J. E. Glover.

The guests were then invited to the large dining-room where a bountiful fowl dinner awaited them. Miss Ferne Preston played sift piano numbers during the dinner hour.

Mrs. A. B. Smith moved a hearty vote of thanks to Miss Preston for her hospitality, and Mrs. Lucas seconded the motion.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, November 25.

While there are testimonies of poderful interests working for advancement and prosperity on this day, there also are adverse conditions to be coped with. There seem to be erratic or curious angles making for defeat, "upsetting the apple cart" with sudden, surprising and rather devastating force. Change in plans, progressive methods and tact or compromise with forces of opposition may be productive and profitable. Cultivate friends.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of major opportunity for expansion and growth, with elements of novelty, innovation, change and friendship in high places contributing to success and personal satisfaction. But tact, strategy and design are needed since powerful factors of opposition must be placated.

A child born on this day may be endowed with out of the ordinary talent, also much audacity, originality and independence. It may have certain eccentricities and be restless and fond of change.

Hastings Aid Sponsors Tea

HASTINGS, Nov. 24—(ENS).—The afternoon tea sponsored by the Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday, and held at the home of Mrs. Reta Johnston, was a decided success.

The living room proved a cheerful spot for the service of the delightful refreshments and the enjoyment of a social hour.

Over fifty guests were received by the president, Mrs. W. S. Fife and the hostess, Mrs. Johnston.

Mrs. A. E. Spooner took charge of the receipts at the door.

Mrs. W. N. Campbell, the secretary; Mrs. W. E. Wilson, first vice-president, and Mrs. E. Hahn served the lunch and were assisted by Mrs. H. B. Wilson, Mrs. J. Richardson and Mrs. H. Dodd.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Propaganda is an auxiliary weapon in Germany's sea warfare. The aim of the campaign is to isolate Great Britain, interrupt the movement of British trade along the sea-lanes, cause want and hardship among the British people and turn neutral trade away from the United Kingdom.

A part of the auxiliary propaganda is the Nazi claim to domination of the North Sea. It, like other propagandist efforts, is designed to discourage neutral ships from attempting to reach British ports.

This particular claim, however, lacks substantiation when the Germans fail to explain why the City of Flint, while under German control, hugged Norwegian territorial waters on its interrupted trip from Murmansk, Russia, toward a German port. Nor is the fact that German fishing fleets have been deprived of their North Sea catch consistent with German claims of mastery of these waters

Germans must go short on their fish eating. Meantime British fish supplies are plentiful and British housewives are urged to take advantage of low prices.

The propaganda side of the sea campaign is carried on also by German agents in neutral countries who spread exaggerated stories of sea perils and seek to persuade crews to refuse to sail.

Plans Being Made In Annual Curling

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24—(CP)—Plans for the fourteenth annual Dominion curling championships got under way here as C. S. Richardson of Toronto, Secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Macdonald's Brier Tankard, began preliminary arrangements.

The Manitoba Curling Association will play host to the Interprovincial playdowns for the first time since inauguration of the Macdonald's Brier competition in 1925. Dates have been officially fixed as March 4-7 inclusive.

A special committee of the Manitoba Association has been formed, with Neil Sullivan of Winnipeg as chairman. Other appointments were. Charlie N. Harris as Secretary, Frank Smith in charge of ice arrangements, Bruce Boreham in charge of publicity, and George J. Cameron as special director and representative of the Macdonald Brier Tobacco Company. All are Winnipeg residents.

400-Pound Bear Shot North Of Flinton

TWEED, Nov. 24—(ENS).—Mr. Dan Harten shot a 400-pound bear north of Flinton at the head of Deer Lake. The animal was one of the largest shot in the Flinton area in some time. Mr. Harten, while hunting, came upon an area of ground which had been torn up considerably and on investigating the cause, stepped on a log near a log near a large pile of brush. The bear, which was on the other side, attempted to escape and rushed past Harten, who quickly stopped the bear with a well-placed shot. The carcass was shipped to Toronto

15,260 Passengers

MONTREAL, Nov. 24 — (CP). — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced today its planes carried 15,620 passengers, 359,399 pounds of mail and 34,700 pounds of express in the first 10 months of the year during which revenue totalled 2,202,792. Training and survey flights accounted for another 325,000 miles.

Red Cross Branch Is Formed At Keene

KEENE, Nov. 24 — (ENS). — A public meeting was held in Keene Town Hall on Monday for the purpose of organizing the community in the interests of the Red Cross Society. The meeting was well attended. The Rev. George Murray presided and Mrs. R. H. Turner of Peterborough gave an interesting outline of the work of the Red Cross in time of peace and in war. After some discussion it was decided to organize a Red Cross war emergency branch. A nominating committee wa sappointed to name the necessary executive which will be submitted to a public meeting to be held next Monday, when it is hoped their will be a large attendance. This branch will include Lang, Hiawatha, Villiers, and the surrounding countryside.

The thankoffering services held at Keene United Church last Sunday were very successful in every way. The congregations, morning and evening, were the largest for some time and many remarked about the splendid spirit of those services. In the morning Mr. Murray spoke on the subject, "The Parable of the Great Separation." In the evening Rev. F. W. Craik preached on the topic, "A Consecrated Church." The music at both services was very suitable and much appreciated. The offerings of the day were gratifying and it is hoped that when all returns are in that the amout asked will be reached.

Flight Is Held Up

OTTAWA, Nov. 24—(CP.—Bad flying weather balked an attempted mercy flight by Captain Bill Catton of Canadian Airways and forced him to return to Lac Du Bonnet, Man., 60 miles north of Winnipeg, the government radio station here was advised today.

Advises Neutrals Organize Under U.S.

LONDON, Nov. 24—(CP Cable).—The Daily Sketch in an editorial entitled "murder at sea" today said the time had arrived when the neutral powers should combine and organize for their own protection, and that the United States was clearly called upon to take the lead.

The Sketch said neither France nor Great Britain desired to drag other countries into the conflict, but that the loss or imperilling of lives and property of non-combatants and "the embroiling of innocent women and children of neutral nationality with fatal results" could not be passed over by British statesmen as a "simple and inevitable part of the arbitrament of war."

"Surely it is possible to form new and more hopeful Hague tribunal which will have the capacity for instituting regulations which will be adhered to and enforcing their decisions?"

The Sketch thought America, which so often in the past had stood for the principles of the rights of man and the liberties of the people, "is clearly called upon to lead the world in such a problem."

"To ask her to do so," the paper added, "is not to call upon her to intervene in the European struggle but to assert that elemental human justice upon which the entire existence of mankind depends."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

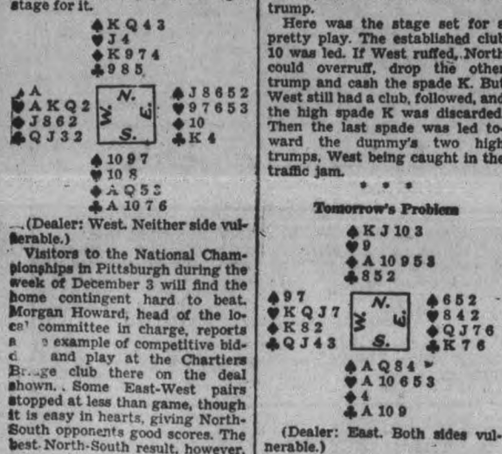
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

PICK THE RIGHT TIME

ORDINARILY the declarer takes out the remaining hostile trumps as soon as he can catch them. Sometimes he must postpone that maneuver a bit, and in unusual spots he must refrain from taking them out at all, until they get used perforce at the close of the play. Plenty of hands depend upon the correct timing of this move, picking just the right stage for it.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

Visitors to the National Championships in Pittsburgh during the week of December 3 will find the home contingent hard to beat. Morgan Howard, head of the local committee in charge, reports a fine example of competitive bidding and play at the Chartiers Bridge club there on the deal shown. Some East-West pairs stopped at less than game, though it is easy in hearts, giving North-South opponents good scores. The best North-South result, however, came where they were set one trick doubled.

West bid 1-Heart, East 2-Hearts, West passed this, North doubled, South bid 3-Diamonds and West doubled. Two hearts were taken, then the club 2 brought the K and A. The diamond A and Q showed dummy holding a tenace over West. Now came the real skill. Letting trumps alone, South led the club 6 to the J. West also took the Q and led the heart K. A spade was shed from North, South ruffing. The spade 7 now called out West's A, and the heart 2 was returned, ruffed with South's last trump.

Here was the stage set for a pretty play. The established club 10 was led. If West ruffed, North could overruff, drop the other trump and cash the spade K. But West still had a club, followed, and the high spade K was discarded. Then the last spade was led toward the dummy's two high trumps, West being caught in the traffic jam.

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart here, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, North 4-Spades, South 5-Spades and North passes, what should West lead and why?

Anglicans Study Curb On Liquor

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24—(CP).—Proposals of the Canadian Temperance Federation for restricting sale of liquor in Canada during war-time were debated yesterday by the executive council of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada.

Canon W. W. Judd, Toronto, reporting as general secretary of the council for social service, recommended approval of the federation's program for a voluntary total abstinence campaign among Canadian citizens.

The federation, he said, also proposed national restrictive measures for liquor control in line with those imposed during the First Great War, provincial limitation of hours for sale of liquor and greater control of public beverage rooms and of licensing.

Most Rev. M. T. M. Harding of Winnipeg, archbishop of Rupert's Land, asked whether adoption of the recommendations might not be interperted as 'a veiled attempt to introduce prohibition, which was neither scriptural nor reasonable."

Canon Judd said rigid control of liquor was necessary in wartime, recalling that the Dominion Government introduced prohibition in 1917 and that the British Government imposed the most restrictive liquor measures in Britain's history during the First Great War.

Bishop Philip Carrington of Quebec, Bishop E. J. Adams of Kootenay and Bishop W. T. Hallam of Saskatoon opposed adopting the report as it stood and it eventually was commended by resolution to the consideration of church members and referred back to the C. S. S. executive committee.

Knifed At Play

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 24—(CP).—Robert Ross, 16, of Windsor, received a deep knife wound in the abdomen last night when he and three other youths were fooling with jack-knives.

Richard Copeland, 16, of Windsor, was arrested by police after he admitted wounding Ross. He is held for investigation.

Copeland and the two other youths insisted Ross was injured while they were only playing with the weapons.

Several stitches were required to close Ross's wound. He is in hospital and will remain there for observation for a few days.

Africa Is Preparing For Sea Raiders

CAPE TOWN, November 24 (CP Cable).—Precautions against attack by an enemy sea raider have been taken throughout the Union of South Africa.

Precautions include a complete black-out of all lighthouses, suspension of wireless communication between ships, a watch on all telegrams containing information of ship movements and closing of all harbors to the public. Persons entering harbors on lawful business require permits.

(Reports from Swakopmund, Southwest Africa, said Monday night that the 16,662-ton German liner Windhoek, which escaped from internment at the Portuguese West African port of Lobito, had been fitted as a raider and had disguised itself as a British ship.

(Earlier a German armed raider was reported the attacker of the British steamship Africa Shell, sunk within Portuguese territorial waters off Zabora in the Mozambique Channel).

Wave To Kiddies

London, Nov. 24 (CP)

GERMAN AIRMEN who raided the Shetland Islands Wednesday waved to schoolchildren in the streets of the town and then proceeded to machine-gun aviators escaping from a British seaplane which the Germans bombed at its moorings, witnesses said today.

One of the six German machines swooped low, it was said, with its machine guns blazing. Bullets, cutting the water as the German craft approached passed right through the helpless seaplane.

Cow Starts Fire

MIDLAND, Md., Nov. 24—(AP).—A cow kicked a lantern from C. Edgar Llewellyn's hands as he completed chores in preparation for Thanksgiving day. Flames ignited a pile of straw, spread through the barn and sheds where his year's harvest was stored. He estimated damage at $15,000. The cow was rescued.

BRITAIN CALLS FOR MINE SWEEP VOLUNTEERS

Neutrals Fail To Soften UK Blockade

Six Forward Protests; Raider Pays Shetlands 9th Visit

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Neutral protests failed to sway Great Britain today from her determination to intensify her economic war on Germany by seizing German exports.

The lists of countries which have made or plan to make representations against the Allied decision includes The Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Japan, Sweden and Denmark. The last three were added today.

The only great powers among the neutrals who have not indicated their attitude are the United States and Soviet Russia.

There were indications Britain would reply that protests should be addressed to Germany, whose mine campaign called for the export blockade.

An order-in-council implementing the British decision to seize German exports is expected Tuesday.

9th Visit In 4 Weeks

A German bomber appeared over the Shetland Islands today for the ninth time in four weeks and air warnings also sounded near the Clydeside shipbuilding centre in Southwest Scotland.

Anti-aircraft guns in the Shetlands fired on the bomber.

An all clear signal sounded in the Clyde area, 400 miles south west of the Shetlands, 37 minutes after the initial warning.

Copenhagen reported a German mine patrol ship was sunk today in a German mine field south of the Danish island of Lageland, off Kiel Bay. German and Danish ships rescued the crew.

Police End Vice By Raiding Minus Orders

HUNTINGTON, W.Va., Nov. 25.—Spectacular raids by eight policemen operating without orders and on their own time today clamped the lid on vice in West Virginia's largest city.

State police, sheriff's deputies and liquor commission agents for nearly a month have tried to clean up the city without help of civic police but not until the self-appointed vice squad revolted against "lack of leadership" did gambling halls, unlicensed saloons and handbook establishments bar their doors.

State enforcement authorities stepped in when the city force of 90 failed to act on protests from the ministerial association and other civic bodies that the town of 90,000 was running wide open. Fifty-nine raids brought about arrest of 139 persons.

But this fell short of suppressing operation of illegal enterprises so after walking their beats one day this week, the eight "rebel" patrolmen took matters into their own hands and climaxed the crusade with sudden dives on six establishments, jailing 18 persons for illegal sale of liquor.

Democratic Mayor George R. Seamonds and Police Chief Lon H. Whitten refused comment on raiding by the policemen but yesterday in the wake of another foray by deputy sheriffs on a newstand whose proprietor charged with selling obscene magazines, Whitten reorganized his vice squad and placed on it two of the rebellious patrolmen. Others of the eight are still walking beats. They are under civil service.

Propaganda Mission Is Denied

Charles Boyer, the male heart-throb of French films, who was released from the French army on Armistice Day, is pictured with his British actress wife, Pat Patterson, at Port Washington, L.I., where they arrived from Europe aboard the Atlantic clipper. Boyer denied reports that he was sent on a propaganda mission, but insisted that he was demobilized with thousands of others.

Rumania's New Cabinet Curbs Exports

BUCHAREST, Nov. 25 — (CP).—Rumania's new government acting to conserve the country's resources for possible war use prohibited today exportation of barley and vegetable products but granted a permit for exportation of $600,000 worth of petroleum and an equal amount of other products to Slovakia. German protectorate to pay for munitions.

As the new Cabinet, headed by Premier Georges Tatarescu, was sworn in, King Carol said Rumania's policy would remain the same —to preserve neutrality.

Chinese Denying Nanning's Fall

CHUNGKING, Nov. 25 (AP) — Chinese army headquarters denied today the capture of the strategic south China city on Nanking as announced by the Chinese yesterday. The Chinese said the Kwangsi province capital, located on an important highway supply route from China to French Indo-China, remained in Chinese hands.

Unofficially it was said, however, three Japanese columns were with in six miles of the city last night.

In reporting capture of Nanning ten days after launching their offensive against Chinese trade routes in south China, the Japanese had described the operation as "brilliant and astounding."

Dutch Feelings Run High On Tanker's Loss

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 25 (CP-Havas)—At the request of the ship's owners, The Netherlands government today asked its minister at London, Dr. Michiels Van Verdujnen, to open an inquiry into the sinking of the 5,133-ton Dutch tanker Sliedrecht Nov. 16 by a German U-boat.

Five seamen from the Sleidrecht reached England yesterday after spending more than a week in an open boat. No news has been received from other crew members of the tanker.

Indignation ran high in The Netherlands as newspapers published accounts of the sinking as related by the rescued men who were picked up by a passing ship after they had abandoned hope of reaching land by their own efforts.

FDR Supported On Defence Levy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator Frank Vandenborg, Michigan Republican gave qualified endorsement today to the idea broached by President Roosevelt of levying special taxes to pay for United States emergency defence costs.

At his press conference at Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt offered for public discussion the question whether such levies should be placed on a pay as you go basis with special tax to pay for them or met by further borrowing with no new taxes.

Senator Vandenborg, a member of the senate finance committee, which handles tax legislation, said he agreed that extra ordinary defence expenditures should be "on a pay as you go basis."

Such outlays, he added, should be "paralleled by special taxes to pay for them because of the obvious reason that sound public credit is the greatest national defence necessity of all."

Senator King of Utah, senior Democratic member of the same committee, said he opposed "enormous expenditures for the army and navy."

Guilty Of Forgery

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 25—(CP)—Walter Lasher of Toronto pleaded guilty in court yesterday to 17 of 18 charges of forgery, false pretences and theft. He was remanded to December 12 for sentence.

Lasher was arrested near Enterprise last month. Offences which he admitted occurred here, at Toronto, Gananoque, Belleville, Kingston, Richmond Hill and Mimico between May 7 and October 23. To a charge of forging a cheque for $18 last May in Toronto, Lasher reserved his plea.

Australia Upset By Fruit Tieup

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Australia's fruit growers are casting about for some means to offset prospective losses resulting from the restricted shipping space of wartime.

Growers here say that about 7,000,000 cases of apples and pears, Australia's main export fruits, will be ready for shipment to Britain by January and that it will be almost impossible for Australia alone to consume that quantity if shipment is impossible.

It has been suggested that if a surplus develops Australians should substitute apples and pears in season for all varieties of canned fruits and that the canned fruits should be exported.

(Conferences last September between Canada's fruit growers and the Dominion government resulted in an agreement whereby Nova Scotia growers, Canada's largest apple producers, would dispose of their crop to the government with a guarantee of 60 per cent of normal returns based on last year's price. That portion of the crop which cannot be disposed of fresh or exported is to be processed and distributed to the best possible advantage when market offers. Under an agreement between Canada and the United Kingdom, Canadian exports of apples and pears to the United Kingdom, Canadian exports of apples and pears to the United Kingdom will be restricted to 50 percent of the average for the last two seasons.

Royal Broadcast?

London, Nov. 25 (CP Cable)

THE KING is considering a Christmas Day broadcast, it was learned today on good authority, but no definite decision has been reached.

It is reported the King may deliver a special message to the men and women of the fighting and auxiliary services as well as to civilians of Britain and the empire.

His Majesty anounced two years ago he did not propose to carry on the "tradition so personal to my father," who broadcast to the empire on Christmas Day for several years, but the war is understood to have caused him to reconsider that decision.

Nazis Executing Noted Poles In Town Squares

PARIS, Nov. 25 — (CP-Havas). — The execution by the Germans of the head of the Catholic action in Poland, Edward Potworowski, was reported today by the Polish information bureau here. Potworoski, a papal chamberlain, was 54 years old.

The bureau said the Germans are shooting down prominent Poles in groups in the public squares of small towns in Posnanta, Pomerania and Silesia, on charges of high treason.

Among those executed in this manner it listed M. Comierowski, a prominent Catholic leader and papal chamberlain; Mieczyslaw Chlapowski, brother of the former Polish Ambassador to Paris, Alfred Chlapowski; Count Alfred-Emmerich Poninski; Canon Anthony Zablocki and several mayors.

Mme. Potworowski, wife of the executed Catholic action leader, is in a concentration camp along with Mrs. Alfred Chlapowski, the bureau said.

Hunger Striker Breaks Fast

COBOURG, Ont., Nov. 25—(CP).—An official at the county jail said today that Samuel Hoffman, held on a charge of violating the defence of Canada regulations, had ended his hunger strike after a week of refusing food.

Hoffman, Orono farmhand, arrested November 17 for allegedly speaking in a manner 'intented or likely" to cause disaffection to the King or prejudice receiving had rejected prison fare until last night, when he ate two sandwiches left in his cell. Prior to that the burley prisoner had lost about 25 pounds as a result of his fast, during which he drank considerable water.

The official said he believed Hoffman would soon resume eating meals. He is scheduled to come to trial in the near future on the charge.

Jury Blames Husband In Double Shooting

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(CP Cable.)—A verdict that Sir William James Reid, former Acting Governor of Assam, India, murdered his wife and then shot himself while of unsound mind was recorded at the inquest to-day.

Sir William and Lady Reid were found dead at their home, a pet dog standing watch over their bodies. A gun lay nearby.

Evidence was given that Sir William, who retired in 1926, after a long career in the Indian civil service, was worried about the war, about money matters, and about evacuated persons billeted in his house.

London Reveals 10,000-Ton Cruiser Belfast Damaged By Mine Or Torpedo In Raid Upon Firth Of Forth Last Tuesday

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Great Britain, striving to protect her shipping against German sea warfare, to-day turned to her fishermen for aid in the hazardous task of sweeping coastal waters clear of mines.

While a fleet of trawlers and minesweepers combed the sea lanes for explosives laid, British authorities said, by Nazi airplanes and submarines, the Royal Navy issued a call to deep sea fishermen between the ages of 18 and 45 to volunteer their services.

The call was issued as the Government prepared to deal with expressions of concern from non-belligerent countries over its decision to seize German exports—even when carried by neutral ships—as a retaliatory measure.

The Netherlands already has made representations, a Belgian statement has been prepared, and a Danish delegation is in London to discuss war trade problems, including the export blockade.

Nazi Mine Toll Nearing Losses Of 1917

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(CP)—The increased rate at which shipping has been destroyed by mines in the past week affords a parallel to the German navy's mine offensive of 1917 which sank 170 ships before the Allies brought it under control at the end of that year.

Germany started her first Great War mine campaign slowly by laying small groups of mines in the English Channel and off Britain's Scapa Flow and Firth of Forth naval bases. Most of the mines were laid by specially-constructed submarines after 1915.

Similarly, nearly all the Nazi mines being used in the present conflict are believed to be placed by submarines, although airplanes are also doing some of the work.

The Kaiser's mine campaign offered few serious threats to Allied commerce until 1917, although the British cruiser Hampshire struck a mine and sank while on a special mission to Russia in 1916, carrying Lord Kitchener, secretary for war, to his death.

As mine laying technique improved, Germany intensified her activities and during 1917 sank more ships by mines than had been destroyed by this means up to the end of 1916.

Until the Allies became proficient at mine sweeping, for every two mines destroyed a mine sweeper was lost.

Improved apparatus brought this down to one minesweeper for every 80 mines at the end of the war. By the end of 1917, the Allies had the mine situation under control through the use of convoys and the regulation minesweeping of shipping lanes.

U-Boat Cruisers Latest Nazi Plot Under Way

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(CP).—The War Ministry's communique said to-day that there was "nothing of importance to report during the night."

In order to facilitate France's economic activity as far as is compatible with the present situation, Premier Daladier announced last night military rule would be lifted from eight departments facing the Italian frontier and from the island of Corsica, also a French department.

In districts bordering Italy, however, communications and circulation permits still will be under special precautions.

Qualified sources said the French and British admiralties have good reason to believe that within a few months a new German creation—a fleet of large surface raiders capable of submerging when danger appears—may be attempting to prey on Allied shipping.

Aware that the Allies are sinking the Reich's present submarines at the fate of three a week, German designers have planned this new engine of sea warfare, authoritative Paris naval quarters said. For want

Allied Fliers Prove Tops In Dogfights While Nazis Reap Harvest With Mines

By DON GILBERT
(Canadian Press Cable Editor.)

Germany's resort to unrestricted warfare in the North Sea and the decision of Great Britain and France to seize German seaborne exports in retaliation were the important developments of the 12th week of the war.

Unmoored mines believed to be of a magnetic nature, dropped along the heavily-travelled sea lanes at night by submarines and low-flying aircraft, took a toll of 25 vessels, allied and neutral, ranging in size from tiny trawlers to a 12,000-ton Japanese liner and including the British destroyer Gipsy.

British naval research experts sought to snare one of the unexploded mines in order to examine it with a view to devising counter-weapons. The Admiralty at the same time organized new flotillas of mine sweepers to cope with the menace and advanced plans to equip sea-going ships with special mine sweeping devices.

While Germany enjoyed successes at sea—illegal successes because the sowing of unmoored mines contravenes international law and specific international agreement—the Allies displayed marked superiority in the air.

In the largest and most fiercely fought dogfights of the war, British and French airmen scored decisively over the Germans on the western front, bringing down as many as 13 German planes in a day. Since hostilities began about 100 German aircraft have been shot down.

Britain's decision to take another big step towards the economic isolation of Germany by seizing exports in addition to imports was announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Chamberlain as

Terrorists At Work

London, Nov. 25 (CP)

MANY RESIDENTS thought London's first air raid was at hand early today when several bombs exploded in public telephone booths and police call boxes.

But no warplane appeared in the moonlit sky, and Scotland Yard once more began looking for Irish Republican Army Terrorists.

Similar explosions damaged five telephone boxes a few hours earlier in Birmingham, home city of Prime Minister Chamberlain.

County Forest Comprised Of 3,340 Acres

The Peterborough County Forest, straddling the Dummer-Belmont boundary, now comprises 3,340 acres bought at an average price of $1.03 and a total land investment of $3,457.50, Reeve W. A. Anderson informed the County Council on Friday afternoon in session of the Reforestation Committee of which he has been chairman since its inception.

This first annual report reviewing the present development of the county's reforestation project was perhaps the outstanding feature of this week's sessions of the Council that were otherwise confined to routine affairs. Undertaken by the ratepayers of to-day through their elected representations, the forest which is likely to become also a game preserve, is a gift to the ratepayers of a comparatively distant future, although it is likely to return some dividends in the nearer years when its committee of management gets around to the exploiting of standing timber that may require thinning out.

Review of Purchases.

For the benefit of members who were not in the Council of 1938 when the plan of reforestation was adopted, Reeve Anderson briefly reviewed the steps of the last twelve months or more that have not yet emerged from the preliminary stage of organization.

The first property acquired in Dummer and Belmont Townships was 2,660 acres bought from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests for $3,000, or at the price of $1.13 an acre. Another area of 120 acres was obtained from the Department at no cost, thereby increasing the acreage to 2,780 and reducing the price to $1.08.

Other lots have since been bought for the purpose of filling out the original area to rectangular form, making its boundaries uniform. These accessions comprised 560 acres costing $457.50 or 82 cents an acre, bringing the total to 3,340 acres at $1.03 an acre and a present outlay of $3,457.50.

Property Surveyed.

The Reforestation Committee was constituted of five members, and the original personnel has been this year: Reeve W. A. Anderson, appointed for six years; E. N. McDon-

Red Cross Drive Almost At Goal

TORONTO, Nov. 25.— (CP). — Norman R. Sommerville, chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Society, announced that at 6 p.m. Friday the society had obtained $2,257,000 of its objective of $3,000,000 in the current drive.

Provincial contributions at that time, Mr. Somerville said, were Prince Edward Island, $6,500; Nova Scotia, $45,000; New Brunswick, $25,000; Quebec, $875,000; Ontario, $1,025,000; Manitoba, $50,000; Saskatchewan, $90,000 Alberta, $96,000; British Columbia, $45,000.

"In a great number of places the campaign is still carrying on and in many cities and towns, because of previous campaigns for other organizations, the local campaign was delayed until this week," Mr. Somerville said. "We are very gratified with the response thus far, although we realize that it will require continued effort to attain the objective of $3,000,000."

Japan Threatens Counter Acts

TOKYO, Nov. 25 — (AP). — The Japanese Foreign Office spoke of "counter measures" to-day against Great Britain's announced blackade of German exports, which it said violated British assurances to Japan.

The Foreign Office statement said the British policy "not only exceeds the limits of reprisal recognized under international law, but violates "assurances Britain gave Japan "not to interfere in any way with exportation of German goods."

It declared, "It is possible the measure may cut off importation to Japan of important articles from Germany to which the Japanese Government could never acquiesce. In case the vital intrests of Japan should be affected, Japan would be compelled to appropriate countermeasures."

Domei, Japanese news agency, said the Foreign Office had instructed Mamoru Shigemitsu, Ambassador to London, to protest "vigorously."

NANAIMO, B.C., Nov. 25—(CP)—Residents of this Vancouver Island coal centre reported houses were shaken and windows rattled yesterday in what many believed was an earth tremor.

Canada's War Cost 50 P.C. Up On Last Ralston Announces

OTTAWA, Nov. 25—(CP)—Materials and money count for so much in the war that a "resolute, loyal and enthusiastic economic front line may be the "determining factor." Finance Minister Ralston told the Canadian people last night in an address over a national network of the Canadian broadcasting corporation.

Planning for a three-year war, the Finance Minister said, the Dominion Government had estimated its war effort would cost about $315,000,000 for the first year, or about 50 per cent more than the Canadian costs up to March, 1916, in the First Great War.

The war supply board headed by Wallace R. Campbell since September has contracted for or it negotiating for about $25,000,000 worth of supplies and defence projects in Canada, about $9,000,000 worth of special equipment from Great Britain, and about $10,000,000, mostly for airplanes and component parts, from the United States, Mr. Ralston revealed.

The Government plans construction of anti-submarine and minesweeping craft in Canadian shipyards and is giving consideration, in consultation with the British Government, of construction of "larger vessels," Mr. Ralston said.

When war broke out, Canada consulted with the United Kingdom Government on what assistance Canada could provide, and as a result Canada will send a division of troops overseas, co-operate with the Royal Navy in keeping the sea lanes open, and provide training facilities for Canadian and other Empire air personnel.

In addition, said the Finance Minister, Canada will supply Britain with materials, chief of which would be raw materials, foodstuffs, airplane bodies and finished munitions of war.

B.C. Moves To Take Doukhobor Lands

VICTORIA, Nov. 25—(CP)—A bill empowering the government to acquire all West Kootenay Doukhobor lands involved in foreclosure actions by the Sun Life Assurance and National Trust Companies was introduced in the British Columbia legislature yesterday by Premier T. D. Pattullo.

The measure would give the provincial government authority to sell, lease, mortgage, or dispose of all or part of such lands acquired to occupants or to other persons.

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald of the British Columbia supreme court is appointed commissioner to investigate acquisition of the lands.

The lands would be paid for by cash, debentures or treasury bills and any securities issued for their acquisition would bear interest not exceeding five per cent, payable semi-annually and repayable not later than 50 years from date of issue.

SHIPMENT of war planes to Britain and France is being organized quickly following the adjustment of export licences which had held up the movement.

Strike May Shut Over 20,000 Movie Theatres

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25 (AP) — The motion picture industry braced itself today for the shock of a strike call which leaders of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor said would close every film theatre in the United States and Canada.

Failing to obtain a 10 per cent wage increase for 23,000 studio technicians, William Bioff, chairman of the conference of studio unions, announced he would call today a "general strike throughout the entire motion picture industry."

The hours of the walkout was not announced.

Bioff's declaration followed a conference of A.F.L. executives and movie producers, in which Joseph M. Schneck, chairman of the producers' negotiating committee, informed the unions their demands were being refused because of a "complete readjustment which faces the industry."

Loss of foreign markets and sharp curtailment of production had been cited by the producers as effects of war on the industry. The unions pointed to "exorbitant salaries" paid to stars and "ridiculously low" wages to hundreds of technicians and challenged producers to make revisions.

20,000 Theatres

Test of the effectiveness of the strike is expected to come when, and if, the unions call upon the men who handle movie projection apparatus to walk out. There are 20,000 film theatres in the United States which would be forced to shut down if the projectionists, members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, went on strike.

Approximately 12,000 technicians under the I.A.T.S.E. recently received pay boosts of 10 per cent.

Bioff, in announcing the strike call, did not mention the projectionists specifically, but before a previous conference with producers he said the technicians could force a wage incerase by calling the projectionists to their assistance.

To-day, he said, the "entire resources of the A.F.L. would be brought into support of the strike."

The three talent guilds, actors, writers and directors, are not directly involved in any of the issues at stake, but they would be affected if the strike forced the closing of 20 big studios in Hollywood.

Blame Engineer In Wife's Death

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 25—(AP).—A Coroner's jury yesterday climaxed a month-long investigation into the mysterious kitchen killing of Mrs. Herbert F. Patterson, 46, wife of a well-to-do automotive engineer, by charging her husband with the crime.

In adding another page to an already voluminous record in the strange case, the jury returned the verdict against Patterson because, said Foreman Merlyn Davenport, "we all felt this case should be aired thoroughly in a criminal court." Patterson has maintained innocence.

The stabbed and beaten body of Mrs. Patterson was found in the couple's St. Clair Shores home Oct. 26 amid evidence of a struggle. Clues were scarce. Several suspects were questioned, and the investigation involved a hunt for a butcher knife missing from the kitchen.

Patterson had testified he left his wife at home in bed the morning of Oct. 26 when he went to work.

In view of undetermined facts in the case, Coroner Bert Will had instructed the jurors that they could return a verdict of "death at the hands of persons unknown" or to the effect that a certain person or persons "might be" responsible.

Child Refugees

LONDON, Nov. 25—(CP).—The government informed the House of Lords today that 3,000 of 4,000 Basque refugee children brought to England during the Spanish war have been repatriated and half of the remainder are awaiting ships. The rest are remaining because they have no homes.

Move That Waste In BIG BOWEL

That's Where Most Constipation Occurs, and Where First Help Is Needed!

Of course you feel headachy and constipated when body waste slows down in the intestinal tract and jams in the big bowel (marked X). So remember this quick and direct way to relief.

Instead of taking roundabout remedies such as calomel, salts or oils—all of which start their action somewhere else in the bowels, and may upset the whole intestinal tract—take CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS. Because they contain cascara, said to give "nearest to natural action" of any cathartic, these chocolaty tablets concentrate their aid on the big bowel itself. They move that clogging waste those last few inches, to make possible an easy, gentle bowel movement within 10 to 12 hours. Taken at night, CHOCOLATE FLAVOR CASCARETS give almost natural relief in the morning. Children take them willingly.

an answer to the "ruthless brutality" of the Nazi methods of war. France took similar action the next day.

There were representations against the British action from Belgium and the Netherlands, whose ships carry a large volume of German exports, but in most neutral capitals the necessity of the British counter step was understandingly acknowledged.

Germany's desperate campaign to obtain supplies in the Balkans had a repercussion in the resignation Thursday of the Rumanian cabinet. The ministry resigned rather than devalue the Rumanian currency at the behest of Berlin, and King Carol summoned the noted pro-ally statesman, Georges Tatarescu, to form a new Government.

Within Germany the Gestapo created a diversion of interest by announcing the arrest of a German named Georg Elser as the culprit of the Munich beer cellar explosion and the kidnapping of two British subjects on the Netherlands border as his alleged backers.

In London it was announced the Britons had gone to the frontier to investigate the authenticity of supposed peace proposals when the Nazi secret police agents seized them and an accompanying Dutch officer, dragging them across the border into Germany.

Snow and rain slowed up military activity in Belgium and France in the week of Nov. 19-25, 1914. Germany threatened the Russian armies near Warsaw. British Indian forces took Basra and defeated the Turks at Shat-El-Arab. Portugal entered the war on the side of the Allies.

Seven Injured In Train Crash

MONTREAL, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Railway officials sought today to determine the cause of a train collision at nearby Laval des Rapides that sent seven persons to hospital for treatment, one of them in serious condition.

The collision between a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train bound from Ottawa to Montreal and a Quebec bound freight occurred last night at the Laval des Rapides end of a bridge over Riviere des Prairies on the north side of the island of Montreal.

Thomas Grenier, 51-year-old conductor of the freight train, in the engineer's cabin at the time of the crash, was scalded severely on the head, arms and legs.

Passengers gave conflicting reports, some saying the freight ran into the passenger train and others that the passenger train ran into the freight.

Injured in addition to Grenier were John Cullen, 23, of Ottawa, and A. Orford, 43, W. D. Gray, 51, J. T. Savage, 43, T. W. Highway, 49, and H. Jones, 50, of Montreal.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

The inspired Italian press continues to thunder warnings to Soviet Russia against interference in the Balkan States. Thus the two nations which have profited from the war without any great expenditure of men and money are at loggerheads.

Russia, with little fighting gained a large slice of Polish territory and concessions from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Italy, with no fighting, has increased her prestige among the Balkan States and bettered her trading position at the expense of Germany.

The tone of all Italian utterances indicates Italy will not take part in the war but will not permit peace to be made without a say in it. Italy's neutrality might be described as militant.

The Russian advance to the Hungarian border appears to have led Hungary to rely less on Germany and more on Italy. Hungary probably fears Russia as much as any of the Balkan States having had one experience under the bloody terror of a Communist regime.

The Fascist government claims credit for maintaining peace in the Balkans and points to Russia as the potential aggressor in that area. While the warning is addressed directly to Russia it may be intended for Germany as well. The extension of Premier Mussolini's modern "pax romanum" over the territories of Hungary, Yugoslavia and Roumania is a challenge to the old German dream of a southeasterly expansion of the Reich.

Port Colborne Defeats P.C.I.

TORONTO, Nov. 25— (CP) — Port Colborne High School gridders won the Central Ontario Secondary School Association title today, defeating Peterborough 6-3 on the strength of a fourth quarter touchdown. The Ports beat Barrie here a week ago in a semi-final game.

Peterborough scored a safety touch in the second quarter to hold a 2-0 lead at half-time and were still ahead 3-1 going into the final session when Port Colborne rapped their line for the major score. The touchodwn came as a result of a ground attack that carried the ball down field, ending with Smith plunging over from a few yards out.

Smith also kicked the other Port Colborne point in the third when he booted to Scriver who was rouged. Peterborough's safety touch followed a bad snap out by Goodings when Port Colborne were in possession deep in the crown territory. Scriver got the third point on a kick to Funkhouser.

Bill Harle ran the end for Peterborough while Duncan and Ainslie came up with some good tackling for the losers. Peterborough tried to open the game up with an aerial attack but few of their passes were completed.

Port Colborne, it is expected, will continue in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Interscholastic playdowns against the champions of the Toronto and District Association, Runnymede. Lineups:

Peterborough—Flying wing, Foster; halves, Harle, Scriver, Hamilton; quarter, McPherson; snap, Marshall; insides, Turner, oJhnston; middles, Ainslie, Duncan; outsides, Smith, Matthews. Subs, Gray, Armstrong Freeman, Douglas.

Port Colborne—Flying wing, Rogers; halves, Smith, Short, Funkhouser; quarter, Furlong; snap, Goodings; insides, Tufts, Beares; middles, Root, Beswick; outsides, Booker, Baker, Subs — McEvery, Miner, oCletto.

Cat-Killer Out

CHARLEROI, Pa., Nov. 25—(AP)—Tom the Cat Killer is on the war path again in Twilight Hollow. Appearing just as mysteriously as in the past six hunting seasons, he shot to death two felines and left them hanging by their tails from a barbed wire fence. Between the victims was a sign which read "Death To Them All, Tom the Cat Killer." Resident believe the killer is a hunter with a morbid hatred for cats.

HUNTER SHOT IN ARM

BANCROFT, Ont., Nov. 25—(CP)—David Richards, deer hunter from Craigmont, in Renfrew County, north of here, may lost his left arm as a result of an accident in the bush.

Richards was hunting with a number of companions near Craigmont when he was mistaken for a deer and received a bullet in the arm near the elbow. He is in hospital here.

War Rules Hold Good Before Neutrality Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25 — (AP). —Authoritative spokesmen said today that Great Britain believed the rules of war superseded the rules of neutrality laid down in the United States Neutrality Act.

British Embassy officials declared it was impossible for any country, by domestic legislation, to immunize its shipping from seizure.

The neutrality law forbids American ships to enter designated combat areas in Europe. United States authorities have expressed the opinion this should entitle American shipping to special consideration from belligerent contraband patrols.

A question now troubling some officials is what position the United States would take if a belligerent warship stopped an American vessel and ordered it into a port within a combat area.

The captain would be forbidden by United States law to enter such an area, and theoretically, could be punished if he did.

It generally was assumed that the Government would not attempt to punish the shipmaster in such a case; but it concivably would take up the matter with the belligerent involved.

British Embassy authorities declared the sole purpose of the contraband patrol was to keep goods from reaching Germany. They declared there was no thought of seizing neutral shipments for Britain's own gain.

But they added that if an American vessel were taken to a British port under the rules of international law they could not consider the fact that the vessel was violating the domestic neutrality statute of the United States.

Even if it were necessary to send the vessel through a mine field, they declared, the British would be justified in ordering it into port if it were suspected of carrying contraband.

Novicert Idea Popular In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25—(AP).—The British embassy officials predicted today that United States exports would make extensive use of Great Britain's "navicert" system—a plan designed to expedite the flow of American goods to neutral countries.

A navicert is a certificate issued by a British consular office showing that a shipment from the United States to an European neutral is not objectionable to the British government. The certificates can be shown by shipmasters to British contraband patrols and examination of the affected cargo thus will be unnecessary.

The only difference between a "navicert" and a "naval certificate" is that the first counts as one word in a transatlantic cable and the second as two. Officials said the word is pronounced "navy-cert."

Embassy authorities said that when the system was instituted in 1916, only 40 to 50 per cent of cargoes were covered by navicerts. After a few months, they added, exporters were obtaining the documents for 95 per cent of all shipments to neutrals.

These officials said that American exporters, particularly those dealing in cotton, had urged reestablishment of the navicert system when the war broke out.

The documents will cost less than $10 a shipment, it was explained, and the fee imposed will be only sufficient to pay the cost of cable communications involved. In most cases cabled authority will have to be obtained from London for issuance of navicerts.

The application form requires such information as the name of the exporter and the consignee, the nature, date and quantity of the shipment, and the nationality of the vessel carrying it.

The navicert system, effective Dec. 1, will apply on United States shipments to Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Iceland, Latvia, Norway and Sweden.

A Reuters News Agency correspondent on the German-Rumanian frontier reported today he had learned from a high Nazi source that Georg Elser, the man arrested for the Munich bombing, was in the Dachau concentration camp from 1937 until about a week before the beer hall explosion.

The dispatch said that Elser and another man, whose name is likely to be involved in the Munich case, were then taken from the camp to the Swiss frontier. After the bombing they were arrested and taken to Munich to be accused of the bombing, the correspondent said.

Kuhn 'Angel' Disputes Much Of His Evidence

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Florence Camp, once termed "My Golden Angel" by Fritz Kuhn, repeatedly contradicted the German-American Bundfuehrer's testimony today when she was called as a rebuttal witness at Kuhn's trial on a grand larceny charge.

Mrs. Camp testified Kuhn urged her to divorce her husband, Charles, and to bring her furniture to New York so that they could use it after their marriage. Kuhn already was married and the father of two children.

Handed a copy of Kuhn's first love note, in which the Bund leader vowed he was "terrible" in love with her, Mrs. Camp said she saw "no fun" in the missive. Kuhn had testified he wrote the note "all in fun" on the night of a ship's party.

Mrs. Camp, whom Kuhn had described as a "patriotic lady" interested in supporting the Bund, said she had never contributed to the Bund, had never become a member of the women's auxiliary and had never been in sympathy with it.

Biblical Thoughts For The Shut-Ins By Rev. E. R. James

A GLIMPSE OF THE PRIMITIVE CHURCH

Godliness is profitable for all things.—1 Timothy 4:8.

St. Paul valued his Roman citizenship, which he inherited. He knew that Rome stood for law, order and the practical things of life.

In this, probably his last letter, he emphasises the truth that Christianity fulfills the Roman ideal and enters into every phase of life. "Godliness is profitable for all things" sums up his experience of the Christian faith after more than thirty years' service.

Christian people have been taught from childhood that the salvation of their souls is of the utmost importance: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole and lose his own soul?" Consequently they have forgotten the social aspect of Christianity.

Harnack, the famous German theologian, more than thirty years ago wrote of "The Expansion of Christianity" in the primitive days. He reminds us that the world of that day was very morbid. Quacks, astrologers, vendors of mystery philosophies flourished. They claimed to be benefactors of the world. They made their appeal to the rich and cultured, receiving large sums of money for their so-called revelations and hidden knowledge. Is our generation so far superior? They despised the common people. There was no salvation for them.

Christianity came with a message for rich and poor. It offered salvation to every man without money and without price. It claimed that God had entered into this world in the Person of His Son Jesus Christ, Who is the express image of the Godhead. "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father" said the Christ.

The Christian church taught three fundamental truths.

1. LIFE was worth living. The brotherhood of the Christian church was a fellowship which astonished the world. There class distinctions disappeared. Harnack calculates that the small church in Rome during the second and third centuries administered more than fifty thousand dollars a years in alms, help to travellers and salaries of clery and the care of the sick and wounded and the prisoners in vile dungeons. They gladly entered into the vilest places and administered to the sick and diseased. Above all, the church endeavored to avoid pauperising the people. Origen, one of the great Fathers of that age, says: "If any brother has a trade let him follow it and earn the bread he eats. If he has no trade exercise your discretion to enable him to live as a Christian, not in idleness. If he will not work, he is trafficking in Christ. Beware of men like that .' What a heart-searching expression, "Trafficking in Christ." How many join the church for that purpose?

2. THE SPIRITUAL value and worth of the SOUL. They did not mean social equality. There would still be the brother of high and low degree. It meant that every human soul had the right to live and make the best of his talents by the help of the Divine Spirit of Christ. St. James teaches: "Let the brother of low degree in that he is made low." In that early Christian Society the rich was made poorer voluntarily and the poor richer. This meant the development of a strong, virile middle class, neither very rich nor poor; the very backbone of every stable civilization. It means the exercise of the spirit of mutual help and fellowship. It is very important to remember that the term "brother" is only used in the New Testament with reference to men and women who had been baptized into the Triune Faith of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

3. A BROTHERHOOD OF LOVING FELLOWSHIP. The Spirit of Christ brought them into vital union with each other. When a traveller entered a city he looked for the church and when he had proved his qualifications he was given the right hand of brotherhood and fellowship. All this was done and carried into practice because men and women believed that God had entered into the world to regnerate mankind through Jesus Christ His Only Son and by His indwelling Spirit they received wisdom and a right judgment in dealing with these matters.

A modern surgeon applies little patches of skin to a terrible burn. These patches grow and spread and a new skin is developed. Will you apply your little patch of healing Christianity in your little corner in this horrible generation?

"A NEW COMMANDMENT GIVE I UNTO YOU, THAT YE LOVE ONE ANOTHER."

What $100 Did In West China

A picture sermon what $100 did in West China will be given in St. Andrew's church on next Sunday. "Heaven Street" is the fanciful name of a street in Chengtu in West China. The name has always been a mystery to missionaries and Chinese Christians. It is just outside the compound wall, and is one of the filthiest slum streets in the city. Little could be done to improve the street, but something could be done for the unfortunate children who lived in it.

The Canadian Mission Press had on its staff a talented lady who sent drawings of Chinese children to Canada. In the Christmas of 1936, one of them came into the hands of a wealthy church member in Toronto who sent $100 to the Press employees for an experiment among these neglected children of the street. The story will tell of what was accomplished with the money.

Millbrook To Start Bale

MILLBROOK, Nov. 25—(ENS)—Mrs. C. M. Westmacott was hostess for the November meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church at her home on Tuesday at 8 p.m., this being the final gathering of the year—the next regular session to be on the third Monday in January, 1940.

Mrs. Doug'as Sheppard read the lesson, and the president took charge of the W.A. Litany, after which monthly reports of officers were received, the Dorcas secretary announcing that work for the annual bale will begin next week with a quilting, instead of a complete outfit for a 'teen-age Indian girl as in former years, a variety of necessary articles will be made and sent to the W.A. House in Toronto for distribution to any needy field headquarters may decide upon.

Mrs. T. A. Campbell reported for the Senior Girls' W.A. that all the pledges have been met, and the layette for the bale completed. Miss Bella McCorry for the Junior Girls' W.A., reported pledges met, a successful tea and candy sale netting over $4.00, meetings well attended, and work progressing favorably. The treasurer for the W.A. reported allotment fully paid, and all expenses met, with a nice balance in the bank.

It was decided to discontinue the Little Helpers' Branch as the secretary, Mrs. J. W. Hilton, has not been in good health, and the work was not as satisfactory as could be wished. Miss Needler reported sale of sixty 1940 Scripture text calendars, and added a neat sum to the treasury as the result of his enterprise. On motion, five dollars was voted to the church allotment fund, and the usual W.A. special Communion on St. Andrew's Day will be held this year on Sunday, November 26, when the church observes the Sacrament, the members to make an effort to attend that morning.

Miss Rose MacNamara took up the chapter from the study book "With One Accord" and Mrs. Westmacott brought an interesting account of the homeward trip of Mrs. Simmons, who with her husband spent several years in Honan, China; the death of Rev. Mr. Simmons left his wife to carry on for some time, the war, and the need of educating her family, leading to return to Canada.

Highlights Of S.S. Lesson

THE WORKS OF THE MESSIAH.

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for November 26 is Matthew 8 and 9, the Golden Text being Acts 10: 38, "Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power, went about doing good.")

JESUS OF NAZARETH went about doing good. That is our Golden Text and subject of today's lesson. Besides His teaching the Way of Life, He performed many miracles that made many people happy and the multitudes wonder and worship.

While Jesus was in Capernaum, He seems to have made His headquarters at Peter's house. When they entered the house they found Peter's mother ill in bed with a fever. Jesus went to her, touched her hand, and the fever left. "She arose and ministered unto them," Matthew tells us.

Before this a leper had come to Him, worshipping Him and saying: "Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth His hand and touched the man, saying, "I will; be thou clean." And immediately the leprosy left the man.

Then a centurion came, telling of his faithful servant sick with palsy. Jesus offered to go with the centurion to heal the man, but the centurion said he was not worthy to have Jesus come under his roof. "But speak the word only," he said, "and my servant shall be healed."

Faith Wins Praise.

Jesus marveled at the answer, saying "Verily I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel." Then to the centurion, or Roman soldier, he said, "Go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so it be done unto thee." And the servant "was healed in the self-same hour."

After He had healed Peter's mother people brought many sick to Him to be cured and He sent them away happy. The multitudes following Him were so persistent that Jesus and His disciples entered a boat and put out to sea. Jesus must have been weary, for He laid down in the back of the boat and went to sleep on a cushion. But a tempest arose and wind and waves so tossed the boat about that the disciples feared they would be lost. They awoke Jesus saying, "Lord, save us, or we perish."

"And He said unto them, 'Why are ye fearful, oh ye of little faith?'" Then He rebuked the wind and waves, they quieted, and "there was a great calm." And the men marveled and said to themselves, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?"

When He was again on dry land they brought unto Him a man sick with palsy, and Jesus cured him, saying: "Son, be of good cheer; thy sins be forgiven thee." Certain of the scribes, taking note of these things, said, "This man blasphemeth."

Another notable miracle was that of the ruler's daughter. The ruler came to Jesus and said, worshiping Him, "My daughter is even now dead: but come and lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live." On His way to help the ruler's daughter came a woman who had been very ill for 12 years. She crept up behind Him, for she said to herself: "If I may but touch His garment I shall be whole." But Jesus turned about and saw her, and said, "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole." And she was cured.

Not Dead, But Sleeping.

When He saw the ruler's daughter with weeping friends gathered about her, He said to them, "Give place; for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth." They laughed Him to scorn, but when they went away He took her by the hand, and the maid arose.

All these miracles are related to show what faith will do, and what power was Christ's. His personality was such and His words and deeds so striking that men left whatever they were doing and added themselves to His disciples. A certain scribe (and you remember they were generally critical of Him) said to Him, "Master, I will follow Thee whethersoever Thou goest." And Jesus answered him, "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head," warning the man what he must expect if he followed the Master.

In thanksgiving for mercies shown us all our days the psalmist says in Psalm 116, verses 3, 4 and 5:

"The sorrows of death compassed me, and the pains of hell got hold upon me: I found trouble and sorrow.

"Then I called upon the name of the Lord; O Lord, I beseech thee, deliver my soul.

"Gracious is the Lord, and righteous; yea, our God is merciful."

Scripture—Matthew 8 and 9

When Jesus went to the house of Peter at Capernaum, He found Peter's mother ill in bed of a fever; but Jesus touched her hand, the fever left her and she arose and helped get the evening meal.

A woman who had been ill for many years came up behind Jesus and touched the hem of His garment, and Jesus, turning, saw her and told her to be of good cheer, "thy faith hath made thee whole."

A certain ruler also came to Him and told Him that his daughter was dead; but Jesus went with him to his house, and taking the girl by the hand, she arose, and all marveled.

Jesus and His disciples entered a ship, and while Jesus was asleep, a storm arose. The disciples wakened Jesus who hushed the wind and waves.

Not Very Friendly

There may have been nothing in recent weeks to draw attention to the fact that Germany has no ambassador in Washington, and United States has no ambassador in Berlin.

Last November President Roosevelt recalled Hugh Wilson, the U.S. ambassador in Berlin, for questioning and information, and later on Mr. Wilson resigned from the post due to his personal feelings about the German invasion of Poland. The U.S. embassy remains open in Berlin and the staff is there, but there is no ambassador. There has been no appointment made since the resignation of Mr. Wilson.

Perhaps it makes little difference what the United States thinks about the situation, but there are some plain enough indications reflected in official actions.

President Roosevelt virtually branded Germany as an aggressor in the invasion of Poland, and Secretary Hull stated United States refused to recognize the conquest of Poland by Germany and Russia.

The official administration openly fought for a lifting of the arms embargo, much to the advantage of Britain and France. It was noticed perhaps that President Roosevelt sent no telegram of congratulation to Hitler when he escaped from the bomb which was planted in the Munich beer cellar. United States has placed Germany and all her land acquisitions on the economic blacklist and imports—if any—from such lands bear an added revenue tax of 25 per cent.

It is correct to say relations between United States bear no semblance of open rupture, but it is very plain there is a decided coolness in the atmosphere.

How We Use Aliens

F. H. Barlow, Master of the Supreme Court, made a reasonable and important decision at Osgoode Hall. There had been an action for damages arising from alleged slander taken by Mrs. Mary Trevnicek, a native of Austria married to a German, whose application for naturalization papers is pending in Toronto.

The defendants in this action sought to have the case set aside claiming that the plaintiff was an alien enemy within the meaning of the Defence of Canada regulations.

These regulations, strict as they may be, are also reasonable, and Mr. Barlow referred to this provision: ". . . all enemy aliens, so long as they peacefully pursue their ordinary avocations shall be allowed to enjoy the protection of the law and shall be accorded the respect and consideration due to peaceful and law-abiding citizens."

Without seeking to place too much emphasis on that clause, we believe any person could well feel proud that he lived in a land where such provision is included in our war-time regulations. We hesitate to think what might happen to a Canadian residing in Germany if at the moment he were trying to approach the German court to bring action against a German citizen for slander. Our way is better and Canadians can be mighty thankful that it is.

Training a Policeman

There are times when some happening gets a degree of publicity out of all proportion to its importance. There was the policeman in Huntsville who used tear gas when arresting a man who had been creating a disturbance. At the end of it all the man who was arrested was sent to jail for ten days for resisting an officer.

But that is hardly the entire case. The questions raised centred about the fact that this officer was carrying a tear gas contrivance as part of the equipment issued to him. He came upon two men engaged in a fight and separated them, but one turned ugly and wanted to fight the officer. Then it was that the tear gas was applied.

The trouble was that the officer did not know how to deal with a man who wanted to fight; he had not been trained; he was unaware of the grips which might have been applied to render the insurgent individual helpless. Possibly it is difficult to have such training made available for all those who do police duty, but it is a fine asset for an officer to possess.

It is not a course of instruction in pugilism or fisticuffs, nor yet the ability to hit a man and put him out. It is becoming actively aware of the several positions in which an individual is quite harmless. It is quite interesting to watch a man of average size well schooled in such work, handle easily enough a person much larger. He can do it effectively and without injury to himself or the other party. Admittedly we are somewhat backward all over the province in making such instruction available to men on police work. It is actually better equipment than a night stick or tear gas.

"The Lion Has Wings"

The coming of war has cast its influence over the world of moving pictures and studios are busy today turning out features which reflect this new feeling. There is one such picture booked at the Capitol for the first three days of the coming week. "The Lion Has Wings," and there is every reason to believe that this British-made picture is as informative and revealing as all the notices claim.

There is nothing mawkish about it, but the picture tells the story of the manner in which Britain turned from its ways of peace firm in the knowledge and determination that its salvation rested in supremacy in the air as well as at sea. The pictures gives re-enactment of such historic episodes as the bombing of the Kiel canal, a Nazi air-raid in London. It even reveals Britain's elaborate air defence. Above all else it gives in a clear way a pointed answer to the question of what we are fighting for. Seldom if ever does this paper point to events of this nature and advise attendance, but "The Lion Has Wings" is exceptional and outstanding.

Adventure Came His Way

Several weeks ago the Monitor announced that Mr. Elliston was going to Europe. He would first visit the neutral countries and write his impressions. Then as opportunity afforded he would go elsewhere. He booked passage on the Swedish liner Drottningholm and put out to sea. Passengers were well enough aware of what was taking place. After a number of days they could even feel that something unusual was on the orders of the day and the reason was that the Swedish skipper had taken his vessel about as far north as he could go without becoming an Arctic explorer. The reason for this unusual course was that the Drottningholm wanted to escape the Allied patrol. The skipper wanted to dock without interference as each day he is out of port costs money.

Financial Editor Elliston writes to say that exactly eight days out of New York something appeared on the horizon, and it was a British vessel. If the Swedish skipper could go far north the British patrol could do the same thing. The liner was tossing about at some 30 degrees or so, and the patrol ship flashed word not to use the radio, but issued instructions of the direction to be taken, with the result that the Swedish liner landed in the Orkneys for the purpose of having its cargo searched for contraband of war.

So the man who went in search of information and possible adventure has not had to wait long to secure it. He wondered if the Allied patrol would get the liner on which he embarked. It did. Also added was the experience of having the ship taken through the mined areas by a British crew. Nothing happened. The man will have much about which to write.

Asking For Trouble

In county police court at Gananoque fines and costs totalling $40.45 were registered against men from Newboro and Westport for operating slot machines. It was also ordered that the machines be opened and money found in them turned over to the government, and in thirty days the machines are to be smashed.

There was interesting evidence given by the provincial constable in that district. He had put $1.25 in one machine and had had received in winnings 20 cents, while in the other machine he received 25 cents out of 75 cents which he paid in. Plain enough that the machines paid handsome profits to the men who operated them and took money from any of the deluded folk who had been foolish enough to believe they could beat them.

Such machines have to be built on that scale. They have to pay the operators well or else there would be no purpose in buying or running them. In the trial at Gananoque the Crown suggested there should be a jail sentence added to the fines, and that was right enough. Slot machines are not legal; the Criminal Code deals with that, and no municipality has the right to license them. When an individual confronts such a situation and decides to go ahead and operate he is plainly asking for trouble and should secure that for which he is seeking.

We Don't Believe It

Here is a sample statement from Berlin which is being forwarded for world consumption:

"The House of Hohenzollern was said today by one of its members, Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former Kaiser, to be solidly behind the Nazi regime. My entire house is absolutely against all efforts to injure Germany. And whatever is against the Fuehrer is against Germany."

We learn this particular sprig from the Hohenzollern tree is the only one which has anything to do with the Nazi party. The Hohenzollerns were the ruling family in Germany at the close of the war, and their property was taken from them by the state following the collapse of that dynasty.

One with even an elementary knowledge of Germany and Berlin in particular would know the Hohenzollerns had been put through the wringer with the screws down so hard that any love they may have felt for the Nazi regiment or any other regime all went out in the process.

We are not blaming this young squirt for making a loyal speech and telling the world his family loves the Nazi regime. He has a job at present in the Potsdam wartime food supply office and it may be he likes it so well he wishes to retain it. But he is saying something which the world will not believe. A Hohenzollern in favor of Hitler and the Nazi rule! Bunk.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Report from Ottawa says parliament is to convene without the usual show. Now if they could manage to operate it on the same basis all would be well.

City council at Wymore, Nebraska, voted to erect a 100-foot hitching rack down town to accommodate the horses coming from the country. So it looks as though old Dobbin was staging what they used to call a comeback.

Twenty-seven Canadian airmen received their "wings" at Trenton while 1,100 of their comrades looked on. Rather symbolic of Canadian unity to notice from whence they came: British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

United States is observing Thanksgiving in a muddled way this year, about half of the population marking October 23, and the rest coming in for the end of the month. Even so there were 64 persons killed on the early Thanksgiving, most of them in traffic accidents.

A cash register worth $750 was stolen from the cafeteria of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, but thieves abandoned it when they found it was empty. Perhaps it took all that ever went into the thing to keep up the payments on it.

The Russian paper Pravda tried its hand at propaganda, and said a song "The Yanks Are Not Coming" was sweeping America to show its state of pacificism. The New York Herald Tribune does not waste much time in denying the song's existence It merely says "It's a lie."

Jails, camps or places of confinement in Britain are not bulging with interned enemy aliens. It was officially stated that only 348 of the 35,000 enemy aliens brought up for examination had been placed under lock and key, and that as a rule permits to work had not been denied to those who were allowed their liberty. What a land!

(By A.M.B.)

¶ My Aunt Lucile is getting well, a thing I'm thankful like to tell, she had an operation; it laid her up a month or so, recovery too was rather slow, as long as her vacation.

¶ But now that she's around once more, she's not like what she was before, not like she was last spring; for every time I drop in there, she gets me cornered in a chair, and talks about the thing.

¶ She asks her friends to come for tea, she gathers them by two or three, and then they sip and stir; and while Lucile will sit and pour, she'll start and tell them more and more, of what they did to her.

¶ The folk were getting much afraid, that she'd hold up the Ladies' Aid, last meeting that they had; before the meeting got a start, she told how she was took apart, she makes it rather sad.

¶ When she goes to the corner-store, she doesn't gossip there no more, nor speak about the nation; as soon as she gets half a chance, her tongue will start to hop and dance, about her operation.

¶ On Sunday when she quits the pew, her good remarks are rather few, she talks not of salvation; but stops her friends out in the aisle, and talks to them for quite a while—about her operation.

• Says Roger Babson Talks Nonsense

ROGER BABSON has made the front page of the press again, for he has been talking, and he is thought in some quarters to be no mean authority on what is to be. We are not quite so favorably impressed by the depth of Roger's wisdom as are some of our contemporaries, but it must be admitted that he has been known to say things that are beyond dispute. We recall that on a certain occasion he said, "The past is behind us, and the future is ahead of us," and if there is a man, woman or child in this country who will deny the truth of this observation, we shall set him or her down as a lunk-head whose case is hopeless.

Roger told an audience in Boston the other day that "the British Empire—as now constituted—is bound to collapse," and he went on to say that he could find "no logical excuse for so many nations as now exist."

"We have no doubt that there are some persons so benighted that they can find "no logical reason" for so many Roger Babsons as now exist, nor even for the particular Roger Babson who spoke the other day before the Boston Chamber of Commerce. But we are not of their number. We like a humorist, even if he be an unconscious one. Indeed it happens not infrequently that one gets his best laughs out of the utterances of men who do not realize and may heaven keep them from realizing, how funny they are.

Roger said a few other things before the Boston Chamber that ought to make even Californians sit up and take notice. He said, "I am not sure a second world war now exists in Europe. In China, Ethiopia and Spain we had wars without a declaration of war. Why cannot we now have a declaration of war without war?"

Into this depth of Babsonian wisdom we do not propose to venture. Already our brain reels from the shock of experiencing such sagacity in a human mind. Roger could, in all probability, teach the angels themselves a great many things that they have not previously learned. Perhaps, like Alphonso, the learned king of Castile, he might prove a source of enlightenment even higher up. There is no telling. There is only one thing of which we feel absolutely certain, and that is this: When Roger Babson has at last been gathered to his fathers, as soon or late all men are thus gathered, we are profoundly convinced that all the wisdom of the Babsonian genre will perish with him.—Argonaut, San Francisco.

• The Desire To Drive A Tank

THE Secretary of the Interior for the United States, Harold Ickes, told the American Automobile Association he longed for the time when he could take an armored tank down a "truck infested" highway bumping "those pests" from the road. He intimated that trucks, and the bad highway manners of some other motorists, were driving the tourist traffic from the nation's roads.

Mr. Ickes' remedy is drastic but the general sentiment is one that almost every private motorists piously echoes.

The great main highways, such as our No. 2 between Montreal and Windsor, have become largely commercial rights-of-way paid for out of the public treasury. Driving on such roads in daylight affords little pleasure and at night danger and death lurk around every bend. The occasional commercial vehicle of decent size and length has its place in the scheme of highway traffic but fleets of many-wheeled trucks—with trailers just as big—were never planned for when our system of highways was constructed at public expense.

Night travel on main trunk roads has become almost a nightmare for most motorists. Modern heavy trucks and trailers swing along at nearly, sometimes over, the legal speed limit. They block all view ahead, make passing at the best of times a hazardous operation. An Ottawa motorist tells of driving along one of the much advertised "scenic routes" just over the border and encountering a fleet of 22 trucks, each with trailer, owned by one firm and stretched out over a four-mile section of highway. For nearly 25 miles the "scenic" part of the highway was entirely lost to him and he was completely exhausted.

It is a repetition of such experiences that is having an adverse effect on the tourist trade. The better class hotels have noticed this for some years. Railroads running to the south have given it as a reason for rail travel.

Mr. Ickes voices a very widespread sentiment when he complaines that the original idea behind good roads has been entirely lost sight of and that they are gradually being "taken over" by highway trains. — Ottawa Journal.

KILT AND MUSTARD GAS

(Letter in Toronto Globe and Mail)

I WAS INTERESTED in reading in your paper that Gen. MacNaughton had decided to discard the kilt because "in these days of mustard gas soldiers' clothing must cover the whole body." In my experience, which covered all the mustard gas attacks in the last war, I found the reason given not justified by facts. Mustard gas absorbed by the clothing has more intense action on covered parts than on exposed parts, and more so on perspiring parts, as the axilla, pelvis, waist and neck. Exposed parts, with the exception of mucous membranes of eyes and nose, suffered but little.

Before an element of war which has such history of the past, has swung in every part of the Empire, has been the sole blanket of many heroes who laid down their lives for the Empire, and is still an inspiring factor to thousands, is discarded, better to be assured of the reason for such action.

My routine for treatment of such attacks became the routine treatment of the whole Western Front, and the facts of my experience will prove what I have herein stated. The newer factors in war have caused the disuse, with reason, of the scarlet coat, the red tabs, the brass ornaments and walking-sticks, but no devilry or fiendishness of the savage Hun mind has given sufficient reason for the abandonment of the kilt.

TYPICAL JOHN BULL

LORD RIVERDALE, head of the British warplane mission, is the best personification of John Bull we have seen here. He is of medium height, stocky, broad-shouldered, ruddy-faced, bald, good-humored, apparently well fed. All those characteristics are noted in Britain's traditional John Bull. Lord Riverdale, here on his grim and anxious mission designed to see that the free people of the world remain free, is a most authentic representative of a nation that has been doing historic things for about a thousand years.—Canadian Business.

STRASBOURG IN WAR

ON the banks of the Rhine, Strasbourg, the Alsatian capital, is a deserted city. On the 2nd of September, its 200,000 inhabitants walked out in the space of a few hours, leaving their houses, shops and goods behind them. Its windows are still curtained, its balconies flowered. Its stores display their wares. A few domestic animals roam the streets in quest of food. A patrol passes now and then—there is little need of it. house-breaking gets a life sentence of hard labor. In a state of suspended animation, Strasbourg awaits the day of resurrection. The French radio has had the good idea of broadcasting, by people on the spot, the actual state of the evacuated cities, the order that reigns, the care that is being taken to protect them. In refuge, hundreds of miles away, the Alsatians listen with avidity to the well-known names and the peaceful descriptions of all that to them is dear and familiar.—Paris Cor. The Argonaut.

RIBBENTROP BLUNDERS

THERE is not the slightest doubt that Ribbentrop has antagonized large sections of opinion in his own country—the honest Nazis and others who genuinely consider that Communism is an evil, the Rosenberg theorists who believe in the doctrine of expansion north-eastward, the admirals who do not care to see the Baltic become a Russian lake, and the industrialists who looked to South-Eastern Europe for willing partners in German trade. All these, in greater or lesser degree, have seen their hopes dashed and their aims miscarried. The author of their disillusionment is now trying by bluster and false charges to absolve himself from the consequences of his own ineptitude, and to put upon the generals the responsibility for getting the country out of the difficult position into which he has thrust it.—London Times.

MURPHY LEARNS

Few weeks ago, in all good faith, the Attorney General (of the United States) contemplated the appointment of the dean of a New Jersey law school to a Federal judgeship. The candidate appeared to be the scholarly type preferred by the New Deal patronage dispensers, and he then had the backing of Mayor Frank Hague.

But a kind friend reminded Mr. Murphy that he had once spoken at the dean's law-school commencement for a $250 fee, and that the newspapers, albeit humorously, might view the deal in a tit-for-tat light. So the dear dean is out both his $250 and a judgeship.—Washington Cor., Detroit Free Press.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive; but speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ: from whom the whole body fitly joined together and compacted by that which every joint suppplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love.—Eph. iv.

MARINE INSURANCE

A reader writes asking information on navigation:

"I have a brother on one of the lake vessels, and we would like to know how long it will be before these boats are through for the season. We have been told that insurance is cancelled after the end of November."

Marine insurance is increased on November 30, but it is not cancelled. Further increases go into effect on December 4 and December 9, and the date for cancellation of all insurance is on December 12.

Done Easily Enough

An Irish priest one Sunday, referring to the miracle of the loaves and fishes, said in error that five people had been fed with five thousand loaves and two small fishes. After the service some of the congregation discussed the statement, one of them named Murphy declaring that, if it were a miracle, he himself could do the same thing. The next Sunday the priest, having heard of this, reintroduced the subject. "I should have told you last Sunday," he said, "that 5,000 people had been fed with five loaves and two small fishes." Then, looking down at Mr. Murphy, he added: "You could not do that, Mr. Murphy, could you?" "Ah, sure, yer riverence, I could aisily enough," replied Murphy, "if I gave 'em what were left over from last Sunday!"

HITLER CAN'T WAIT

I BELIEVE that the strain of a waiting war on Hitler will be tremendous, greater than most people realize. The Nazis have to sell themselves to the German people every day, and to do it they must keep moving. They don't dare to stand still; in the quiet, when the wheels are not rumbling, people might begin to think. If the enemy sits tight, Hitler's rage will mount, will become nearer to hysterics, may break into public confession of the inward weakness that he has obviously spent the last sixteen years trying to conceal. Meanwhile, the Allies, will be getting stronger as Germany gets weaker. And a 'phony' war might end with a fairer set of peace terms than one in which everybody on both sides saw red because he looked through a film of blood."—Bruce Bliven, in the New Republic.

HOMES BUILT TODAY COST LESS THAN THOSE BUILT NEXT YEAR

Large Demand Remains For New Homes

With uncertainty in all lines of business due to the outbreak of war the building industry in Canada is taking stock at the present time, considering how it best can contribute to Canada's war effort and at the same time preserve a sound industrial foundation at home.

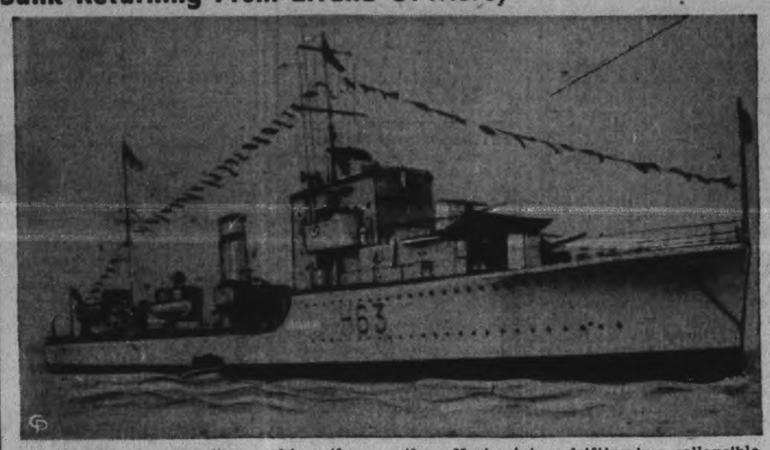
First reaction of speculative builders and others actively engaged in the sales of new residences was that selling would immediately become very difficult and that all selling efforts would cease. This feeling, however, has at least partially disappeared. At the moment, it is pointed out, there is still a large demand in Canada for residences and with the likelihood of early increases in labor and building material costs houses now completely constructed or in the final stages become "bargain" homes. It is unlikely that homes being built today will be built for anything close to the same price six months or a year from now.

On the other hand, builders point out, even with higher prices during the next few months there will continue to be a considerable amount of new home building. There will be much less unemployment and wages will be high. With more money in circulation many Canadians will do very necessary renovations to their homes but still others will move into new residences and will be able to pay the higher prices required. During the last war, it is recalled, there was a considerable amount of home construction and at that time there was no legislation similar to the present National Housing Act and no well-organized savings certificate companies developed sufficiently to aid in accumulation of savings for home building purposes. Now, at the outbreak of war, the N.H.A. is still in existence and savings certificates companies have thousands of certificate holders who have been saving for some time to build their own homes and who will continue their savings policies.

One of the largest of these companies, with offices in six provinces and thousands of depositors, points out that during the Great War building societies in England increased their memberships at a greater rate than ever before. The savings certificates companies in Canada are the closest practical approach to the English building societies and differ only in their necessary changes to meet Canadian conditions. The holders of savings certificates and total of savings therefore is expected to show continual increase in Canada with consequent increased building on their maturity.

In the meantime houses now under construction are being completed and ready sales for them are anticipated provided present promotion efforts are continued. There may, contractors agree, be a brief period during which great uncertainty as to future conditions will hinder sales but the general opinion of Canadian business indicates that every effort will be made to adopt a business as usual policy and everything will be done to preserve normal conditions.

Sunk Returning From Errand Of Mercy



Returning to sea after rushing three drifting Nazi airmen to shore, H.M.S. Gipsy struck a mine and lost 40 men, with 21 others injured, before foundering in full view of an east coast port. A destroyer, launched in 1936 at a cost of $1,500,000, the Gipsy was on patrol duty when she sighted three Nazi aviators drifting in a collapsible rubber boat. Upon investigating it was found that two of the fliers were badly injured when their plane had been driven away from the outskirts of London to crash into the sea. The Gipsy rushed the injured men to shore and was returning to patrol duties when sunk.

Long Terms Of Office Cut Down Acclamations

Prospects of long terms of office cut down the number of acclamations today as nominees in Ontario's municipal elections submitted their qualifications for the voting a week from Monday.

Qualifications must be made tonight in the cases of those communities where nominations were held yesterday. The rate at which they poured in to municipal clerks indicated the province was seeking strong representation in municipal government for the duration of the war.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn has announced that at the next legislature session the Ontario Government will submit legislation to postpone municipal elections from Jan. 1, 1940, until the end of the war. Under the plan, officials elected at the approaching voting will hold office for two years in any case, and for longer periods if the war lasts longer.

Only one city returned its mayor unanimously. That was Galt, where Mayor W. S. McKay was the only nominee for the mayoralty.

Some larger towns gave acclamations to their mayors. Perth expressed unanimous confidence in George C. Townshend; Preston in Robert Bieth, who was given an eighth term, and Simcoe in James W. Holden.

But in most places two-man fields or larger were forecast, with the prospect of intensive campaigns all through next week. There was equal interest in the fights for council seats and 55 men and a woman were nominated to seek six council seats at Timmins.

Sarnia, which held nominations Thursday, closed qualifications last night and Mayor Norman Perry, once the city's football hero, was faced with a straight fight from Alderman John T. Barnes. Seventeen qualified for the eight aldermanic seats on the council.

London, which holds a two-weeks' campaign, re-elected Mayor Allan Johnston by acclamation a week ago.

Women's names appeared frequently in the nomination lists. Mrs. A. B. Gardiner was nominated for Councillor at Meaford, where no woman ever had sought election.

Mayor Bert Lewis and a former mayor, William M. MacArthur qualified immediately at Woodstock. Alderman Albert J. Brydges announced his intention of running against Mayor W. G. Taylor at Guelph. Mayor William Morrison, for four years Mayor of Hamilton and the choice by acclamation last year, will be opposed this time by Controller B. W. Hopkins.

Three in Ottawa.

At Ottawa Mayor Stanley Lewis' name was submitted again along with those of two other nominees, Controller Finley McCrae and S. Leonard Belaire.

Some smaller sities had larger fields in prospect if all nominees should qualify. At Chatham W. C. Hubbell, Douglas G. Kerr, Victor Laurison, and Albert T. Groombridge were nominated. At Cornwall there was a possibility that Mayor Dr. J. A. Phillips would be opposed by four men, Aaron Horovitz, Arthur Chevrier, W. A. Dingwall, and Dr. Elzear Emard.

Toronto and a majority of municipalities in the Niagara district hold elections on Jaunary 1. Mayor David Croll of Windsor was elected last year for a two-year term.

An Oil Deal

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)

J. PAUL GETTY, Los Angeles, Calif., oil man and hotel owner, returned on the Italian liner Conte Di Savoia today after negotiating with Soviet Russian buyers in Berlin for the sale of 1,000,000 barrels of California oil to be used in Siberia.

Getty said it would cost less to transport oil from California to Vladivostok than from Russia's own Baku oil fields. He was confident the deal would be completed.

Durham County Girl Wins Oratory Final

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 25 (ENS) —Twelve-year-old Betty Smales of Durham County was judged winner in the district finals for Public School Oratory held in Brighton on Friday evening. The young winner was awarded the Northumberland Trustees and Ratepayers Association Cup by Dr. L. B. Williams, Toronto, president of the Toronto Durham Club, and will represent seven counties and one district at the O.E.A. convention in Toronto at Easter.

There were only three county winners present to take part in the contest and this according to an explanation offered by R. B. Dawson, was due to the fact that in several instances the county finals had not yet been held. Winners of second place and the W. A. Fraser Trophy was Donald Baxter, 13, of Colborne representing Northumberland County. His subject was "Adolph Hitler." Lois Weaver of Allan's School in Rawdon, Hastings County, chose as her subject "Labour Saving Devices on the Farm." Harold R. Wood, secretary of the Belleville District Trustees and Ratepayers Association presented the H. N. Carr trophy to her.

From Darlington Township

Betty Smales, the winning speaker is a pupil at Bradley's School in Darlington Township and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Smales, R.R. 1, Inniskillen. She won the gold medal award for elocution at the Durham County Music Festival this spring and was coached by her teacher, Miss Margaret Breckenridge. The wealth of material contained in her subject "A Canadian Made Product—Paper," clearly disclosed the amount of preparation that had been made. Not only her diction and manner but the very clever composition of her speech was designed to get and hold attention.

She began by stating that the world's first paper maker was the wasp. "In Canada today, whole cities are built figuratively on paper. Great rumbling mills turn out tons and miles of newsprint, book paper, wraping paper and writing paper. To learn to make it man had to turn to the wasp, for it not only made it but lived in it. Their house consists of thousands of layers of paper piled one on top of the other. Men learned this some two thousand years ago and since then it has recorded on it all that is known of the world's history."

Invention Of Paper

"To the ancient civilization of China goes the credit for the invention of paper itself. The time was 100 B.C. and the Chinese preserved their secret for centuries. Then the Arabians captured among other prisoners some Chinese paper makers who in turn taught their captors the art. Thus paper began its journey around the world. During the next 100 years much paper was made in Arabia. Fibres from linen rags were taken instead of the mulberry bark used in China. From Arabia the art of paper making passed to the Spaniards and from them to the Italians, French and Germans who quickly adopted the new material.

In 1542 the means for carrying knowledge for all was provided by the invention of movable type. Thousands of books could be printed in the time of hand-writing one. By the 18th and 19th century printing improved but the art of paper making lagged behind and with a scarcity of suitable rags for paper making it was necessary for man to search for new materials. It was discovered that certain grasses boiled in caustic soda and water produced a pulp.

Not until this stage in paper history did man turn for help to the wasp. A German chemist observed a wasp chew an old log for its home. He conceived the idea of grinding an old log on a rough stone. His idea made today's three cent newspaper possible. The chief kinds of wood used for making paper are black and white spruce and a small percentage of balsam."

Continuing the speaker traced in non-technical language the actual production of paper from wood pulp. She described the various chemicals used in strengthening and bleaching the paper and concluded by saying that even the materials formerly regarded as valueless were now utilized for road making, yeast growing and the flavor in vanilla.

"When we consider what a great part of the world's knowledge is spread by books, magazines and newspapers, the part Canada plays in educating the world can readily be seen. It may be truly said that Canadian logs are being turned into the world's brains."

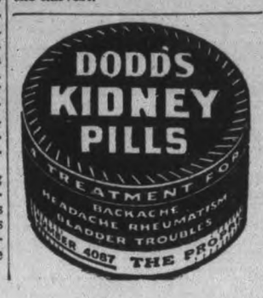
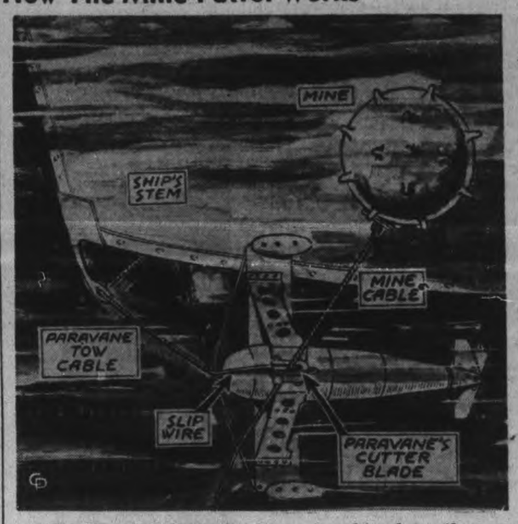
Balbo Reports

ROME, Nov. 25—(AP). — Marshal Italo Balbo, commander of all Italian troops in North Africa, reported to Premier Mussolini to-day on the preparedness of his forces.

Mussolini extended by 20 days all 60-day leaves for soldiers allowed to return home two months ago for the harvest.



How The Mine Patrol Works



This drawing illustrates how a warship clears the seas of the mines which have sunk scores of Allied and neutral vessels. Paravanes are towed from the stem one on each side five feet below the surface. If the tow cable encounters a mine chain, the latter slides to the paravane slip wire and is severed by the cutter blade. The mine then bobs to the surface and is destroyed by gunfire.

War Boom to See 300,000 Get Jobs

TORONTO, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Increased activity by the producers of munitions and war materials as Canada's effort in the current conflict gathers momentum should lead indirectly to greater general business activity, Prof. Gilbert Jackson, economist, to-day told the seventh annual meeting of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating.

The growth in the country's wage bill which accompanies the increase of working forces in war industries will in turn tend to stimulate all industries producing for civilian needs, he said.

"To speak of 'war time prosperity' would be to make a contradiction in terms," he said, however, by way of warning. "For no country can truly be described as prosperous when thousands of its young men are living overseas on a less than civilian wage and thousands of its women depending on their separation allowances."

Prof. Jackson said "it would not be remarkable if, superficially, during this interval of transition the country were to seem prosperous."

He estimated that this "seeming prosperity" would appear some time in 1940 and said it seemed a fair inference that Canadian industry would be able to absorb another 300,000 wage-earners then.

Trustee's Idea

Toronto, Nov. 25 (CP).

PROF. M. A. MACKENZIE of the University of Toronto, president of the Penny Bank of Ontario, today described as "fantastic" and "absurd" the proposal of Mrs. Myrtle MacTaggart, Kitchener school trustee, that school children's savings in the penny bank be used for war purposes. The savings total $1,600,000.

The purpose of the bank is to encourage habits of thrift.

"Children might well be encouraged to contribute something to the Red Cross, but certainly not to hand over all their savings," said Prof. Mackenzie.

F. D. Roosevelt Hopes War Over By Spring

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 25. —(AP).— President Roosevelt had hopes to-day the world would be rid of war by next spring but gave no indication he believed those hopes actually would be fulfilled.

In an informal talk at a Thanksgiving dinner at the Infantile Paralysis Foundation last night that Mr. Roosevelt voiced the offhand hope that by next spring "there won't be any war."

If it still is going on, he added, he hoped to return next spring at least for a few days, to "see how Warm Springs family is getting on."

Mr. Roosevelt reminded the Foundation patients and their guests that when he left here last April he had said he would be back this fall "if we don't have a war."

"Well, we had a war," he went on. "We have a war to-day. Columns were written about what I meant and I mean just what I said. We have a war, but I managed to get down here this fall."

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 26

Sunday's horoscope hold augurles rather conflicting and critical. There may be suddenly-precipitated events of far-reaching importance. The profitable solution of such dubious predicaments is found in stratagem, tact, diplomacy and clear judgment, especially where the purely personal angle is involved. This is not only in social and domestic relations, but as a matter of business sagacity.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which cleverness, clear judgment, vigilance and business acumen are factor for defeating adverse and conflicting circumstances. There is much encouragement for progress, expansion and definite financial growth, but the personal equation, both in business and domestic relations, is a determining factor.

A child born on this day, although having an impetuous and aggressive nature, may be friendly, compassionate, generous and just, with rather dubious and perplexing, mainly because there are subtle, high aspirations and ideals.

For Monday' November 27

Monday's astrological forecast is tricky or treacherous undercurrents menacing all relations, both business and private. Money matters are involved in both realms, calling for tact and prudence in their solution.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of complicated or confused conditions, affecting both business and private affairs. Deception, treachery, misrepresentation and fraud menace, demanding prudent and cautious conduct if some definitely promising prospects are to be lucratively managed. Confer with superiors in doubtful situations.

A child born on this day may be talented, versatile, keen and shrewd, but possibly too "clever" for its own good.

We Noticed

....Ski suits this year are cut for business. The majority are of wool gabardine—in some such color as navy blue, slate blue, green or black. Most of them have fitted jackets, cut to accommodate an extra sweater underneath, and narrow "instructor trousers" which taper at the ankle. (Experts say the wider trousers are passing from the picture.)

. . . A new trick this year is a reversible jacket, which has one side of poplin and the other of gabardine or plain wool. It can be worn either side out, and thus make one suit give the effect of two.

....Favorite ski headgear is still the visored cap. For the girl who wants to go without a cap there are bright ear muffs attached by straps to hold the hair in place. As far as mittens are concerned, experts say the best skiers prefer wool-lined poplin ones with leather palms, since these afford the best grip.

....That this season, when you are casting about for something to take the place of that "good little black dress," you will find an excellent substitute in the equally good little black suit.

....It is to be recommended for wear in town under a fur coat, or for travel wear to resorts in the South—if you are lucky enough to be heading South. It is one of those fashions that women wear and wear and wish would never wear out.

....One of the smartest versions noticed the other day consisted of a one-piece dress with slim bodice and flaring skirt, and easily fitted jacket. Snowy white touches look very smart with the little black suit.

Describes Omnibus English" As Barrier To Effective Speaking

"Omnibus English," the too common practice of taking two or three words of the English language and working them to death, was described as one of the barriers to more effective speaking by Mr. C. W. Wright of Toronto when he addressed the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association Friday afternoon in the Green Room of the Y.W.C.A.

In our everyday English, why not spend a little while acquiring a vocabularly which will permit us to say what we really mean—why not use more of the 450,000 words which comprise this language of ours, he asked, citing several examples that illustrated pictures presented by correct use of words. By using word pictures that tell the whole story of what the individual is doing, you are able to dress up your everyday conversation and tell in a word or two what you want to say much more accurately, he continued.

Paying an audience the compliment of speaking audibly is another necessary part of effective public speaking, Mr. Wright said, and stressed also the value of voice inflection. "If we neglect the rise and fall, lights and shadows of tone, which are the beauties of our language, we are falling in our everyday English," he continued, and suggested reading aloud or telling stories to children as a means of overcoming this lack.

He advised speaking enthusiastically. "Our everyday English takes on new life and color just as soon as a man or woman used it with life and animation," he said, "it is no crime to become enthusiastic in your conversation and in your topic." For effective English, whether it be conversational or public, Mr. Wright suggested that the speaker acquire the habit of starting his remarks with the first word instead of doing so much beating about the bush."

The habit of spending a short while each day in accumulating 25 or 30 sound words would soon brighten up our English, the speaker continued. Why not form a 2-new-words-a-day group—the new word is really yours when you can spell it, pronounce it, and know its meaning, then watch it creep into your everyday English. The next time you experiment with conversation, he said, having learned some additional words; acquired picture words, color words and sound words to brighten and liven up your conversation, try speaking with authority instead of saying 'I think' or "it seems to me,' and then sit back and note the interest in your remarks, and finally the acceptance, by those with whom you are conversing.

He spoke of the magnificent example of conversational English as exemplified by the teaching of Christ—beautiful examples of word pictures taught in a language that we all understand, and of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, a classical utterance now recognized as the most outstanding of literature, yet made up of only 250 or 300 words uttered by an ordinary, everyday type of individual.

Mr. Wright was introduced by the president, Mrs. Fred E. Hooper, and thanked by Miss F. Routley. Dr. H. H. Bingham, who last year gave a travelogue on "Alaska," will be heard in an illustrated talk on "The Palestine of Today," at the next meeting of the Association, to be held on December 8.

DOROTHY DIX

Among Philanderers The Female Of The Species Is More Deadly Than The Male—So Step Warily When Another Woman Is Trying To Step Between You And Your Wife.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a man of 40 with a wife and three sons. Two years ago I went in business with another man and he and his wife and my wife and I became good friends. I have been merely courteous to my partner's wife, but I soon discovered that she was making advance to me. I told my wife about her conduct and asked that when it was necessary to take this woman to some place that she would go with me. This she does now and the woman is fool enough to think my wife is jealous. She seems to think that I would like to philander, but can't because of my wife. How can I protect myself under the circumstances? How can a man tell a woman of her kind what he thinks of her? I understand her husband's former partner had this same difficulty. I am concerned mostly about my sons. They adore me and watch every move I make, therefore I feel that I must set the example I expect them to live by.—PERPLEXED MAN.

ANSWER:

You certainly are in a hot spot because it is far more difficult for a man to protect himself from a woman who is pursuing him with evil intent than it is for a woman to protect herself against the masculine seducer. She can always cry: "Unhand me, villain!" and the public rushes to her defence and believes in her innocence, while a man has to keep silent and the public leers at him and brands him as a Don Juan. Also, among philanderers the female of the species is more deadly than the male, as Kipling points out, and she is twice as dangerous because when she sets her fancy on a man nothing stops her, and no tactics are too low and dishonorable for her to use to get him.

No pity for the man whose career she is ruining, whose home she is breaking up, whose wife she is widowing and whose children she is orphaning makes her stay her hand, and if the man is strong enough and upright enough and loves his wife enough to resist her, there is no revenge that she will not take to soothe her hurt vanity. Every day we read in the papers of married men who have been murdered by their mistresses, or who are being dragged through the slime of lawsuits in which every sordid detail of their lives in a love nest is being publicized. So you are wise to walk warily around the flirtatious married woman. She is dangerous.

So far you have handled the situation very discreetly, but in your exasperation at this woman's designs on you do not make the mistake of telling her that you are a Joseph and that so far from being attracted to her she is as repulsive as a venomous serpent would be. That would infuriate her, and to protect herself against your telling her husband and her conduct becoming known, she would go to her husband with a pack of lies against you and start a lot of gossip that would practically drive you out of the community.

Your role is to play dumb. Never take any of her leads. Never see any of her little gestures. Never be alone with her. Foil her craftiest plans by grabbing up some stranger, if you can't get anybody else, and taking him or her along to spoil any chances of sentiment. Your wife is your best protection. Hang on to her petticoats like a scared child. Never go anywhere without her and make your devotion for her your theme song.

It won't take very much of this to make your lady philanderer think you are too stupid and old-fashioned and stodgy to be worth bothering with, and she will leave you for some more promising game. It may hurt your vanity to appear in such an unromantic light, but it will save you a lot of grief. There is nothing that so effectually wet-blankets the amorous designs of a lady philanderer as to have Friend Wife hanging around in the background.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been engaged to a boy about a year and a half and for a long time he tried to get me to marry him secretly. Now he tells me that he is tired of me and doesn't love me any more. He says he did love me at one time and that I haven't done any particular thing to cause him to change. He just has done so. He still goes with me, but he says it is only because I want him to and because it would hurt me so much if he quit me. Would you advise me to stop going with him even if it would hurt me, or keep going with him, hoping that he will change?—BLONDIE.

ANSWER:

Quit going with him. Give him the air. Tell him that you have changed, too. Go out with some other boys and when you meet him look as if you were having the time of your life. It is absolutely your only chance to get him back. It will wake him up if anything can and revive his interest in you. He will begin to think that if you attract other boys you must be better than he thought. And if he thinks he has lost you, he will begin to miss you.

As long as you stay at home and wait for him of evenings on the offchance that he may drop in he will consider a date with you a chore instead of a pleasure, but if you are out with somebody else having a good time and he doesn't know what to do with himself—that is another pair of sleeves. Probably the reason he got tired of you was because you smothered him to death with love so he couldn't get his breath, and he had to break off from you to get a little freedom. And maybe one of the reasons he lost interest in you was because you let him put you down and pick you up when he chose, and that took all the pep out of the love affair.

You've got to keep a man guessing to keep him wondering what you are going to do next. But aren't you glad you weren't silly enough to enter into a secret marriage with a man who got fed up on you so soon?

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 40 years old. Have a husband who is well and strong, but who has not worked in the last six years, a daughter of 19 who is crippled and a son of 17. The children and I go to bed hungry every night and I have come to the place where I think the only thing is for me to commit murder and suicide, because I will not leave my children here without me. Is there any other way out? I am a fine cook, but have nothing to cook.—A BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER.

ANSWER:

If you will go to the Social Service Bureau in your town they will show you a much better way out of your difficulties than by the murder and suicide route. You have just got discouraged and need somebody to buck you up and plan your life for you.

PETERBOROUGH DISTRICT COUNCIL.

Annual Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Peterborough District Council was held at St. Luke's Parish hall on Thursday evening. Approximately one hundred and thirty sat down to a sumptuous repast prepared by the members of St. Luke's branch of the A. Y. P. A. The Rev. A. R. Holden, district chaplain, pronounced the grace. During the supper, two violin selections were played by Mrs. Eveline Foster, "Souvenir" by Drdla and as an encore "Madrigal" by Simmonnetti, Mrs. Foster was accompanied by Miss Florence Flowers, organist of St. Luke's church. The artist was thanked on behalf of all present by the chairman, Les Cavalier, district council president.

The toast to the King was proposed by the chairman. Response to the toast was made by the singing of the National Anthem. The address of welcome on behalf of St. Luke's branch was given by Ralph Mason, vice-president.

A short sing-song was led by Ken Gibson of St. George's with Robert Sisson of St. Mary's Lifford acting as pianist.

In proposing the toast to the church, Clemena Long stated that the words of Christ, "Follow Me" were a challenge to the youth of the christian church, requiring faith, courage and determination to fulfil.

The hon.-president of the District Council, the Rev. R. H. Howden of St. John's, Lakefield, replying to the toast said it was a privilege to respond and encouraging to see such a number of "soldiers of Christ" present. He asked the young people, "Just what does your church mean to you and what effect has its teachings on you?" The answer he gave was "Join yourself to God's purpose that His Kingdom of peace and righteousness may be closer to us all."

The president introduced representatives of the three sister young people's societies of the city. Miss Marion Armstrong of the Presbyterian young people presented greetings and best wishes of her group for the new officers of the A. Y. P. A. council. Miss Phyllis Moore, representing the Baptist young people, extended her congratulations and stressed the privileges of membership in such organizations as ours. Mr. Robert Spence represented the United young people expressed their willingnes sto co-operate with the A. Y. P. A. in any way possible.

Robert Sisson of St. Mary's, Lifford, proposed the toast to the Anglican young people's association expressed an urgent desire for the unity of the branches and of the members of the district.

Miss Florence G. Hutchison, representing the Dominion A. Y. P. A. council, in replying to the toast, said that it was gratifying to see the influence of the A. Y. P. A. extending into other countries of the Commonwealth.

The president made presentations to Miss Clemens Long past president and Miss Eileen Gynane, retiring secretary of the district council.

Another short sing-song preceded the address of the guest speakers.

The chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Robert Spence, Lakefield. His address was on the "World Conference of Christian Youth" held this summer in Amsterdam, Holland from July 24-Aug. 3.

The Conference was attended entirely by christian youth (all were under 35) the first of its kind to ever be held. The official number of visitors to Amsterdam were 1775 representing 67 nations, and 200 separate organizations.

The Conference program consisted of worship, addresses, Bible study and group discussions. The topics for discussion were.

1—The Christian Youth in a World of Nations.

2—Christian Youth in the Economic Order.

3—Christian Youth in the Nation and State.

4—Christian Youth and Education.

5—Christian Youth and Race.

6—Christian Marriage and Family Life.

7—The Church: Its Nature and Mission.

The three conference languages were French, German and English. There were 40 to 50 Dutch interpreters present, most of whom could speak four languages. Reports of discussions to be held during the day were printed in every language and were received each morning by the delegates.

Worship was uniform and held in groups and were as far apart theologically, said Mr. Spence as orthodox and negro, and geographically, as far apart as the United States an India.

A vote of thanks to the speaker was voiced by Ken. Gibson of St. George's and the president expressed the thanks of the association to Mrs. Foster, Miss Flowers and Robert Sisson. Also to Mrs. Amy Curtis and her committee in charge of the banquet.

The evening closed with dancing to the music of Mrs. Foster and her daughters.

ST. JOHN'S BRANCH.

A "Missionary Night" was the title for one of the best meetings under the guidance of Florence Hutchinson and Florence Ford.

The meeting, opened with a missionary hymn and prayers led by Florence Hutchinson. Florence Ford read the Scripture passage and explained it.

Three contests were run off—"Bible sentences" and an "animal quiz bee."

Miss Hutchinson then told about the "Columbia Coast Mission and its work," which she had the opportunity of seeing this summer while attending the Dominion conference in Vancouver.

The branch pledged itself to educate an Indian boy in the Kangra mission for two years, and next week clothing is to be bought for needy children in the parish, and the meeting closed with several games, including "Bible baseball," and the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. R. T. F. Brain.

ST. JOHN'S, LAKEFIELD.

The regular meeting of the A.Y. P.A. was held in the Parish Hall on Monday, with twenty-seven members and visitors present. It took the form of worship night. Rev. R. Howden opened the meeting with prayer, after which Gordon Hampton and William Phillips read the Scripture. Bible baseball followed, the questions being taken from the Scripture. A social hour was enjoyed by all, refreshments being served by the committee of Mesdames C. Hurl and P. Hill.

Plans were also made and a committee chosen to help the church with th supper which is to be held in the Memorial Hall on December 12.

ALL SAINTS' BRANCH.

All Saints' A.Y.P.A. celebrated the 26th anniversary of its founding with a service in the church on Sunday evening. Les. Cavalier led the prayers, A. Worsencroft read the lesson, while the sermon was delivered by George Ball, a student at Wycliffe College, and a former member of the organization. At the conclusion of the service a corporate Communion was held with a large number of young people in attendance.

On Monday evening the regular weekly meeting of the branch was held in the Parish Hall. Miss D. White and her Work Committee had charge of the program. A lively sing-song was followed by a short business session. Messrs. D. Weir and Les Cavalier delighted the gathering with a vocal duet. Miss R. Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, was the speaker of the evening, and her very informative address on the work of that society in Peterborough was well received. The appreciation of the audience was voiced to the speaker by Miss D. White and was heartily seconded by all the members.

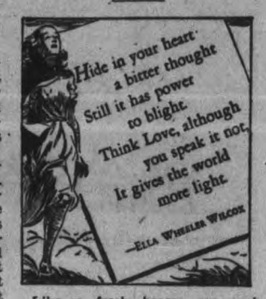
Let Famous Poems Be Your Inspiration



Like a fresh breeze are such loved poems as "Thoughts", by Ella Wheeler Wilcox. After a verse or two—gone are the cobwebs in mind and heart!

Another favorite that never fails to inspire is Longfellow's "A Psalm of Life". It goes:

"Let us, then, be up and doing,
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing,
Learn to labor and to wait."

And when you have a shut-in feeling, read Richard Lovelace's famous poem, "To Althea, From Prison". Here are a few lines:

"Stone walls do not a prison make,
Nor iron bars a cage;
Minds innocent and quiet take
That for a hermitage—"

Then James Whitcomb Riley shows you the delights of simple things in "Ike Walton's Prayer", which runs:

"Let but a little hut be mine,
Where at the hearthstone I may hear
The cricket sing—"

Read these and other well-loved poems complete in our 32-page booklet. Contains works of Longfellow, the Brownings, Stevenson, Burns, Wordsworth, many more.

Victoria Favors Abolishing Of Grand Juries

LINDSAY, Nov. 25.—(ENS)—Victoria county council went on record Friday in favor of the abolition of grand juries. Warden Guiry said is was expensive and unnecessary. The council also favored the licensing of Christmas tree vendors.

Charge Dismissed

The charge of reckless driving against Howard Kellett, of Toronto, was dismissed by Magistrate Gee charging that the Crown had not produced sufficient evidence to establish the guilt of the accused. The charge was laid following an accident on the Fenelon Highway, in whic h Kellett's car was in collision with one driven by Max Consky of Fenelon Falls.

Election Contest Likely.

The municipal election pot is commencing to simmer, and it begins to look as if the town will see an election contest on New Year's Day. Mayor Claxton, who has served two years, will, it is understood drop out of the council. It was announced today that a petition will likely be circulated in a few days, asking ex-Mayor Alcorn to run for the chief magistrate's chair.

A rather severe outbreak of scarlet fever has been checked in the north country. It centred in the townships of Sommerville, Lutterworth, Snowden and Sommerville. Dr. Millyard, M.H.O., of Coboconk, was kept busy for some days, and the school at Kirkmount had to be closed because of the epidemic.

Dr. W. R. Crowe, of Minden, who has been practicing in the north for years, has, it is understod, enlisted for service with the British Army, and will leave shortly for England. Mrs. Crowe will accompany him.

The Hon. Albert Matthews, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and Mrs. Mathews visited their home town today and were accorded an enthusiastic reception. His Honor inspected the 45th Battery R.C.A. on Victoria Park this morning after which the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Matthews were guests of honor at a banquet in the Hotel Benson.

MEXICAN MONEY

Five-peso Mexican bills are apparently in circulation here. One specimen has been turned over to the police by a woman who received the bill in change and it is thought there may be others going the rounds. The Mexican money has a close resemblance to a Canadian five-dollar bill.

Closed Season For Beavers

Peterborough county will have a closed season this year, according to an Order in Council passed by the Ontario government. The season will be open in Victoria, Haliburton and Hastings counties.

A. L. Elliott, M.L.A., said to-day he thought the closed season will meet with the approval of the people of Peterborough county. He said he had been in communication with the reeves of northern municipalities in the county and they were nearly all in favor of eliminating trapping of beaver here. He said he had found that trappers, even, were against an open season this year, expressing the view that beaver here are just starting to become plentiful once more and that an open season would do a great deal of harm. For that reason Mr. Elliott favored a closed season for Peterborough when the regulation was made.

Farm Hand Hurt Digging Well

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 25—(ENS).—As a result of a rope breaking when he was being lowered in a bucket down the forty-foot well on Thursday shortly after dinner, Percy Hart, Lakefield, suffered severe injuries.

He was employed on the farm of Elmer Northey, near the village, and was digging a well. About fifteen feet from the bottom the rope broke and he landed on the rock bottom of the well.

Dr. H. E. Moore, the attending physician, had the injured man removed to Nicholls Hospital for attention.

Police Give Chase, Bottle Thrown Out

Watching a house early this morning that they suspected was the scene of illegal selling of liquor Constable W. A. Clarke and G. K. Hardy saw three men come out from the place and climb into an automobile. They gave chase and as the police car followed the other machine down Aylmer street, a bottle came hurtling out of the pursued car and shattered on the street.

The officers brought the other automobile to a halt near the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte street and the three occupants were placed under arrest.

The driver pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to a charge of illegal consumption and the other two to having been drunk.

All three were fined $15 and $4.50 costs or fifteen days in jail each.

"I am following my usual custom where there has been drinking and automobiles mixed up," said Magistrate Langley. "In all such cases there can be no question of the minimum penalty."

Charter Night Is Observed By Kiwanis Club

Many's the time a father has come to the rescue of a son, but last night the tables were reversed when Roy Whitehead, K.C., Securities Commissioner for Ontario, spoke at the Kiwanis Club's Charter Night at the Empress Hotel.

For he came not knowing that the wives of Kiwanians were to be present, and he had prepared a detailed account of the intricate workings of the Securities Commission for his audience—an account that he admitted was too technical for a mixed audience. He went on with his speech for about seven or eight minutes, then called on his son to pinch-hit for him on the piano.

"My father didn't expect any women and I didn't expect any audience at all," volunteered amazed Philip Whitehead, a first year student at the University of Toronto. Kiwanians and their wives found him to be a talented pianist.

One thing of interest to women that the Securities Commissioner told before he faltered was that no salesman can legally call at homes to sell stocks unless he is a personal friend of the person whose home he is visiting, or unless the person residing there is a regular client. In other words, door to door stock salesmen are breaking the law and may be prosecuted. They can be sentenced to from three to six months in jail, with or without a fine in addition, he said. That clause of the Securities Act, he believed, was inserted for the protection of women who might be easy marks for clever and unscrupulous salesmen.

But he didn't believe that all complaints about stock sales were legitimate. Some were poor sportsmanship. He said that the Commission deals harshly with salesmen who make fraudulent claims for their wares, but warned that there is always a certain amount of "high pressure" selling connected with stock transactions. What people forget, he maintained, is that fully two-thirds of the investments in mining stocks that are not of proven mines, are pure speculation. Often stock gamblers, expecting to make two or three hundred per cent profit on their speculation, are disappointed and complain to the Commission, he said, and he termed them as "just poor sports, willing to gamble without taking the consequences of a gamble."

The main dining room of the Empress was crowded as Peterborough Kiwanians and their wives turned out in near full number, bolstered by a large delegation from the Lindsay club including Lindsay's President Murray Grant. President W. A. Richardson was chairman and turned over the gavel to Dr. J. J. Craig for the program. Also present were Rotary's President, E. L. Sackville and Vern Selkirk, vice-president of the Kinsmen Club, as well as District Governor Ivan Moore of Lindsay who introduced the speaker. Bill Derry expressed the thanks of the club.

Carl S. Browne presided at a quiz contest, won by Dick Raine, who outlasted representatives of both Peterborough and Lindsay clubs. Guest soloists were Isobel Duthie and Jack Gibson.

Digging For Treasure In Hollywood Bowl

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25—(AP).—The efficacy of the "double bug" as a locater of gold was put to the acid test today as Henry Jones, a mining man, began digging in the hardpan of the Hollywood bowl for the historic Cahuenga treasure.

Carl Jacobson, manager of the Bowl, where symphony concerts are held during the summer months, looked on, with a sheriff's deputy, as Jones and his partners Walter Combs of Bakersfield and E. W. Combs, Walter's 79-year-old uncle, started operations.

The treasure, legend has it, consists of gold and jewels contributed in the middle of the 19th century to aid the Mexican liberator, Benito Juarez, in his fight against Emperor Maximilian.

Jones and his partners claim they have tentatively located the treasure with their device. The county supervisors granted them permission to dig. They posted bonds and guaranteed to fill the hole. The Hollywood Bowl gets half of any treasure found.

Tragedy supposedly stalks the history of the cache, which was claimed to have been buried first in the San Francisco Bay area, then transferred to Cahuenga Pass here.

Children Too Poorily Clad To Attend Sunday Schools So Unemployed Open One

Because they feel that their children have not clothes good enough to enable them to enjoy regular Sunday school classes in Peterborough churches, the Workers' and unemployed Association are holding special classes throughout the winter at their headquarters at 464½ George Street.

Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street United Church, has been authorized by the Ministerial Association to take charge of the classes, which will be held from 4 to 5 in the afternoon, until the end of the year, when the school will be reviewed by the association. The first meeting will be held Sunday afternoon.

Council Suggests Reappointment Of Suburban Area Commissioners

Reappointment of M. H. Gainey and Morley E. Smithson to the Suburban Area Commission at the end of their presently expiring terms of office was expressed as a wish of the members of the county council Friday afternoon, amplifying a glowing testimony of appreciation in a resolution by Reeve A. B. Mann, seconded by Reeve W. A. Anderson, which also included a warm tribute to A. E. Chalmers, county road superintendent.

Members of the Commission are appointed for five years. Mr. Gainey, the city's representative, has been a Commissioner for three terms that have now reached fifteen years. Mr. Smithson has been ten years in the service as the nominee of the Department of Highways, and the third member the late John McIntosh who died this year, received his appointment from the county.

The council's resolution, proposed by Reeve Mann, affirmed that the work of the Commission has been "very satisfactory," that the relations "with this council have always been most cordial," and that "we express our thanks and appreciation" of all they have done, "and express the hope that they will be reappointed to the Commission."

More Than Routine

It has been customary for the members of the Commission to call on the council during the December sessions, merely outlining the year's work which is presented in detail to the incoming council during the January sessions. On Friday afternoon, however, the dominant note of the pleasant conversations, arose from the fact that both Mr. Smithson and Mr. Gainey have reached the end of their five-year terms, and in the phrase of Warden Milby the council paid them a eulogy that was well deserved.

Mr. Smithson, speaking first, merely stated that the Commission had endeavored to carry out the plans that were adopted for the year's work, and that the complete review of the 1939 work would be embodied in the report of the January sessions.

"This year brings to an end the terms of the present Commission, and I wish to thank the council for their co-operation during the last five years and also the previous ygars," Mr. Smithson said.

Mr. Gainey said the work had been efficiently done under the direction of Mr. Chalmers. 'When I look back to the time when I first became a member of this Commission I can see a wonderful improvement in our roads. I consider that suburban sections of our roads are as good as those of any other county in Ontario. Mr. Chalmers deserves a great deal of credit for the work that has been done by careful expenditure of the ratepayers' money. He gets a full dollar of value out of every dollar spent. I have been associated with the County Council for fifteen years, and my experience with all the councils during that time has been most pleasant. I thank the council for the kindness they have extended to me, and I hope that, perhaps, we may see you again next year."

Summary Of Work

"The only trouble with Mr. Chalmers is that he doesn't talk enough about the good work he does," said Warden Milby in calling upon the county engineer and road superintendent.

Mr. Chalmers said that 2.7 miles of road mix had been laid on suburban area roads this year, distributed over sections of the Warsaw and Keene roads and on McKellar street in North Monaghan. There are now sixty miles of road in the suburban area system, and extends into all the townships of the good roads group except Belmont. Grading has been done this year in Ennismore, on the River Road in Rouro, on the Bridgenorth-Selwyn road in Smith, and Keene road, and also on the last easterly section of the Warsaw road in Dummer. Mr. Chalmers said that the Commission had also done their first work in Asphodel this year. Two culverts were rebuilt on Park street. Most of the work has been suspended for the winter with only a few more yards of gravel to go out.

"We are now busy making snow fences for the townships," Mr. Chalmers said.

McKellar Street

Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan, thanked the Commission "for the good job they did on McKellar street. We were beseiged by petitions asking for that strip of paving so they could make a loop for the bus lines. The buses now go around by Lock, McKellar and Park streets, and I think the job is one of the best that has been done anywhere. The residents appreciate the improved bus service very much."

Reeve Gifford stated that Ennismore had more "right to be thankful than we have ever been before because the stone crusher was in our township this summer for the first time since we entered the good roads, and I feel sure Allan Mann would think he was still driving in Smith township if he hadn't to cross the floating bridge. The grading that was accomplished was far more than you would expect and it has proved very economical."

Reeve Anderson added his appreciation by saying that the work done on the Keene road this year was "one of the finest pieces of work we have ever had in our township, and if the Commission can do any more like that it will be money well spent."

Reeve Mann declared that the improvement of the road east of Bridgenorth toward Selwyn was a splendid job, and added that he was glad to hear that the reeve of Ennismore was suited.

"I want to thank the Commission for coming down to Asphodel this year," Reeve McColl said. "We always felt we were too far from the city to get any suburban area road work. You did us a great job, and I am sure we all wish you are reappointed."

"After all the eulogies by the reeves I can only add that we hope you will be able to stay on the job and carry on the good work," Warden Milby said.

'In the words of Charlie Poynter (district road engineer) the other day we hope for your safe return," Deputy-reeve Johnston remarked and Reeve Mann supplemented it with "that might apply to all of us."

Not An Easy Job

"We appreciate very much indeed the things you have said about us," Mr. Smithson stated in reply. "It is a peculiar job. Keeping a balance between the county and the city, and between the townships in the system is not done easily. The reeve of Dummer is in the happy position of having all his suburban road hard surfaced. The Commission has tried to be as fair as it could in laying out the work."

Charged With Theft Of Winchester Rifle

Provincial Constable David Silvester made a trip into a Harvey wood camp Friday afternoon and after a long tramp through the bush placed Joseph Delore, 30, of Hall's Bridge under arrest on a charge of having stolen a Winchester rifle, valued at less than $25 from William Traynor.

Delore appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court today and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., said that the crown was not ready to go on and that he was satisfied to have the case adjourned, rather than have Delore remain in custody on remand. Accordingly the accused was allowed to go to appear next Friday morning for trial.

The gun in question is an ancient weapon and Delore it is understood claims that it was loaned to him by the complainant.

Firemen Await More Toys, 1,500 Needed

Scarcely a toy remains unrepaired at the Fire Hall this week-end and firemen are faced with the prospect of seeing Peterborough children go without toys this Christmas.

There's no exaggeration a bout this matter. Despite repeated appeals, the toys simply have not been forthcoming and less than a month remains for some 1,500 more toys to be brought into the hall and repaired. That's too much for them to do, and Peterborough people must share in the blame for the sorrow of children this Christmas.

Larger Type Wanted.

What they need urgently is the larger type of toy — the waggon, sleigh, rocking horse. Some time ago an appeal was made for such toys, but few arrived at the Fire Hall. Those few have been repaired and painted, and now look like new. But there have been none coming in since. The repair shop floor is as bare as it was two months ago before the work was commenced.

These firemen are doing Christmas work voluntarily—and doing it cheerfully. They work long hours in the repair shop and over the past ten years have become skilled workers. They don't complain when a great number of toys are brought in—far from it. They welcome toys and dig in to work, because they know that each additional toy of size means one more happy child on Christmas morning. If you don't think they are sincere in this work, just pay them a visit the night they package toys — when every last man works 24 hours, no matter whether it's his day off or not, wrapping toys at top speed, and then, eyes bleary from lack of sleep, spends the next half day delivering them.

Will Work Long Hours.

These firemen are willing to work any number of hours to see children happy this Christmas. But no matter how willing they are, they can't be successful without the help of Peterborough people. They're not asking much — only that you let them have toys you have no longer any need of. Telephone them at 5712 and they'll call for them, or take them to the Fire Hall and they'll show you the work they are doing.

Japs Take Nanning Kwangsi Capital

TOKYO, Nov. 25—(AP).—Domei, Japanese News Agency, reported that Japanese forces on a South China offensive aimed at severing Chunking's "backdoor" lifelines, today occupied Nanning, Kwangsi provincial capital.

The occupation, said the Domei dispatch, was completed at 2:10 p.m. (12:10 a.m., E.S.T.)

Nanning lies about 80 miles north of the point on the South China coast where a landing in force was started on Nov. 15, and is on the route toward the Central Chinese Government's highway and railway supply links with French Indo-China and British Burma.

It is a city of about 68,000 population, a treaty port under an 1897 agreement between China and Great Britain.

(Reports by way of Hong Kong had told of stiff Chinese resistance while Japanese planes loosed mixed cargoes of bombs and propaganda pamphlets on the city. Two days ago the Japanese were reported to have reached the south bank of the Pearl or West River, 10 miles from Nanning.)

County Billed For $2,210, Cost Of Bridge

A bill of $2,210.30 from the C.N.R. for the construction of the overhead, high level bridge, west of Keene station, on the sixth line of Otonabee hit the county council on the tender spot of economy Friday afternoon.

The work cost $14,735.33 of which 15 per cent is charged against the county, Reeve W. A. Anderson reported, reading from a statement, and remarking that he did not know why it had been handed to him.

The council agreed to an expenditure of $10,000 for this job, of which they assumed 15 per cent or $1,500.

"This work was started at the instance of Mr. Duffus," Reeve Anderson said. "The old crossing was a dangerous place and needed remedying, but at some place or another the construction fell into the hands of the C.N.R., and now we have their account. It is unfortunate the county didn't do the work instead of the C.N.R."

A. E. Chalmers, county engineer, told the council he had gone over the C.N.R. statement of expenditure, extending into seven or eight pages, and made a digest of it. He mentioned only a few of the items. One was $1,200 rental of railway cars.

"It would have been cheaper to have rented a house in Keene and bought groceries for the men on the job," he commended.

Hauling trains and trackage were other subheads in the bills. "You should read it over for yourselves. You will learn something about construction accounts."

"We should take it up with Mr. Duffus," Reeve Gifford suggested.

"I doubt that you can do much about it," Reeve Anderson said.

On their motion the bill was referred to the county road committee for a further report in January.

Christmas Is Coming So Young Peterboro Knows Why There Is A Scarcity Of Coppers

If bankers aren't able to offer an explanation for a shortage of one cent and five cent pieces are at a mas, they must not be married men or else they are more highly paid than the rest of Peterborough citizens.

A banker on Friday said that one centt and five cent pieces are at a premium in this city and one had no explanation to offer, it was reported to Peterborough alone, for banks here have had requests from branches in other centres for coppers to help them take care of a shortage.

A survey today among half a dozen homes taken at random revealed that parents and children had close to 3,000 pennies saved toward Christmas shopping. And those were only half a dozen homes. All over the city a like condition exists and the number of pennies hoarded since about the first of September is increasing every day in the week. The problem of penny shortage will shortly solve itself when Christmas purchases are made.

Winter Olympics Are Rejected By The German Secretary

LAUSANNE Switzerland Nov. 25—(AP)—Andre Berdez secretary of the International Olympic Committee, said today Olympic committees of the various countries have been asked to decide whether the winter games should be cancelled.

Germany turned the games back to the international organization today, saying it would not be able to hold them at Garmisch—Partenkirchen because of the war.

Berdez cabled and air-mailed letters to the national organizations as soon as he hear dof Germany's decision and asked for replies as soon as possible.

The national committees also were asked if they would send teams to Detroit instead of Helsingfors if the Finns rencunce the summer games. Finnish officials have said they would not make a definite decision until April.

Reported Cancelled.

BERLIN, Nov. 25—(AP)— Cancelation of the winter Olympic games, scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, was announced today by Hans Von Tschammer Osten, Reich sports leader.

The German Olympic committee and the organization committee for the games took the action in view of a resolution of the International Olympic committee that a belligerent country cannot hold the games. Previously Japan had given up both the summer and winter games.

The statement said that "because Germany's proposals for bringing about world peace were declined by the English and French governments and therefore the war must be continued, Germany returns the commission to conduct the games to the International Olympic committee."

Construction work on the new artificial ice rink, the bath and swimming house and ski stadium was nearing completion.

Can Only Regret.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(AP)—The officers of the American Olympic committee said today that Hans Von Tschammer-Osten, German sports leader, was not empowered to cancel the 1940 winter Olympic games, but could merely reject them on Germany's behalf and return them to the International Olympic committee.

However, since the games must be held during 1940 and were scheduled for February, it is extremely doubtful the 1,000C. will be able to award them to any other country in time for that country to make adequate preparations.

Finland, at last report, still was determined to hold the main Olympic games, scheduled for Helsingfors, July 20-Aug. 4.

The American Olympic committee office said that, under the State Department's present rule of not issuing passports for European travel except under extraordinary circumstances, it was doubtful if the United States would be willing to send a team abroad.

PORT HOPE, Nov. 25 — (Special). —Trinity College School's forty-third Oxford Cup cross-country race yesterday was won by Stokes of Brazil. He covered the course of four and a half miles over broken country in 25 minutes and 37 seconds. Fleming of Montreal was a close second, and Duncanson of Toronto, who led the pack for the first half of the race, finished third. Hart of Oakville wound up in fourth place, with Cawley of Haileybury fifth. The next five in order were: Mackenzie, Calgary; Max Armour, Toronto; Higginbotham, Oshawa; Tate, Toronto, and German, Ottawa. With the exception of Duncanson, the first five finishers were members of Brent House which won the house competition by a wide margin.

HOOLEY SMITH
N.Y. Americans

By Central Press Canadian

Hooley Smith

One player we can skip over lightly is Reginald J. Smith, better known to the trade as Hooley. Not because there's not much to say but because there's so much and it's been said so often. Hooley is now in his 16th N.H.L. campaign, equalling the record of Aurel Joliat for continuous service, and in that time he has been the subject of more stories, biographies, anecdotes, etc. than you could count in quite some time. Hooley returned from the Olympic games with the triumphant Toronto Granites in 1924 and joined Ottawa Senators. Stayed there three seasons before being sold to Maroons for the record price of $22,500. Spent nine years as a Marcon, mostly as centre of the famous "3-S" line, between Nels Stewart and the late Babe Siebert. With Boston for one season, 1936-37, and since then with Americans. Hooley hasn't changed much in appearance with the passing years and looks as if he could go on for another 16 seasons, scoring goals, laying passes and upsetting attacks with his sweeping hook-check. For the Amerks he's played everything but goal. Figures on his career add up to 191 goals, 300 assists, 391 points and 968 minutes in penalities in league play. Born in Toronto "about 36 years ago."

Russel Trophy Won By Davies

MONTREAL, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Bill Davies, the smiling youngster who held down the flying wing position for Montreal Royals, was awarded on Friday the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy for good sportsmanship in the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union.

Ernie Hamilton, Big Four president, who made the announcement yesterday, said the 24-year-old star edged out Quarterback Bill Stukus of Toronto Argonauts. There were six other nominees. Davies was chosen recently on the Canadian Press Big Four all-star team.

The trophy is awarded annually to the Big Four player who comes nearest to equalling the standard of clean play and true sportsmanship which Jeff Russel, a noted football player, exhibited in his career.

Orfuns Get Win Over Aces By A Big Count

Quaker Debs nosed out a 12-10 victory over Westclox; 'Y' Gym trounced St. John's 15-9 and Orfuns steam-rollered Quaker Aces 42-10 in last night's seasons openers of the Senior Ladies Basketball League in the Y. W. C. A. gym.

A good crowd of cage fans saw two close, hardfought games as Quaker Debs and Y Gym won by narrow margins and then watched a smooth working Orfuns team roll up a big score over Quaker Aces.

Ruth Farr's basket with less than a minute toplay gave Quaker Debs a 12-10 win over Westclox and spoiled the losers up-hill fight that tied it up near the end. Westclox trailed 8-1 at the half and were behind most of the final period but pulled into a 10-all tie with about 3 minutes left. Then Quaker Debs scored from well out almost as the final whistle blew. Ruth Farr notched 10 of her team's 12 points in a good showing and J. Hair lead the losers with 5. The teams:

Westclox: J. Hair, M. McFadden, V. Britnell, M. Goldie, N. Pammett, B. Saunders, C. Metcalfe, A. Flynn, P. Wolstenholme, J. Crowe, I. Vinash.

Quaker Debs: B. Fenner, R. Farr, H. White, B. Frizzelle, J. Metcalfe, G. Allen, D. Gibbs, A. Laing, D. Smith.

Referee: H. Smith. Umpire: J. Cooper.

A Tight Tilt.

After St. John's pulled into an early 3-0 lead, 'Y' Gym went ahead 6-3 at the half and were never headed from there in despite the losers' rally near the end. St. John's scored three free throws early but R. Dalliday's two baskets near the half way mark put the winners in port to stay. Both teams checked very closely but the winners had better shooting and scored on more of their chances than St. John's. R. Dalliday lead the winners with 10 points and E. Clark and V. Douglas shone for St. John's. The teams:

St. John's: E. Clarke, A. Bowler, V. Douglas, E. Foster, T. Laws, G. Galley, J. Castle, E. Harte-Maxwell, D. Groombridge, F. Gynane, H. Harte-Maxwell.

Y Gym: B. Demato, S. Florence, R. Sullivan, L. Wesley, B. Flynn, I. Young, S. Zacks, R. Dalliday, B. Pomeroy, F. Craig.

Referee: Ken Gillespie. Umpire: W. Thirnbeck.

Orfuns put on a fine offensive display in the night's finale, piling up a 14-3 lead at the middle mark and running in 28 points in the last half to run away from Quaker Aces 42-10. The winners had fine passing and much more experience and better showing to earn their win. They scored several baskets early and piled it up from there on. R. Thompson, B. Blade and A. Craig shared the scoring for Orfuns and D. Weese lead Aces. The teams:

Quaker Aces: D. Weese, S. Alexander, M. Duncan, J. Fowler, M. Sullivan, A. Grady, P. Lawless, V. Wood, M. Hooton.

Orfuns: A. Livingstone, M. Fer[illegible] M. Clarke, R. Thompson, A. Craig. [illegible]beck. Umpire: J. Cooper.

Glancing over the schedule we note that two games are really outlawed and if no results have been received before next Friday 6 p.m. will be entered into the schedule of next week and will be played, these are 16 v. 14, and 4 v. 12.

We realize that it is hard to always play [illegible] have gone beyond any time limit.

[illegible]at we h[illegible]4 v. 11 and 15 v. 17—if these cards are tucked away in any ones pockets please let me have them right away.

Glancing through the results since last Saturday, we find [illegible] double headers and one tie game. These were [illegible] No 6, the Trinity Quakers for two nice beatings, then [illegible] are apparently not able to stand success.

Then the lowly Fire Hall Orphans trimmed the Southend Wanderers with a 28 to 9 score, then feeling pretty strong put grease on the rails to make the C. N. R. Freighters side back a few notches in their progress toward the top rung in the ladder.

The Quaker game met up with the spinners and although those makers and spinners of wool were able to hold their own in the first half. They found that Quaker Oats makes better porridge than yarns.

Although we have not received the official table, we heard a good report from a very reliable quarter that the lowly Anglican took the fighting Macs for a double last night, making their first double of the season and bringing them a little nearer the surface.

The Fight Macs are at the top of the house whilst the Anglicans hold the cellar position. Good rolling No. 9.

One thing that is not rolling and that is the dues. Only two teams are paid up in full No. 1 and 5. A good many have not yet complied with the regulations.

Why not pay up what you can before next Saturday.

SPORTS—DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEL PERDUE

Summer hath gathered up her garlands and departed long since, with Jack Frost holding Peter Robinson's borough in an icy grip these days. Nonetheless summer sports die slowly and there'll be swimming, diving and canoeing in this town this evening. Yessir, but let's lilt a bit on it in one of Robbie Burns' airs:

If a body meets a canoe
Coming through the "Y",
If the pool of canoes is full
Don't blame it on the rye!

For paddlers will be canoodling
Indoors this eve at the "Y"
In a lake with a marble bottom
And a ceiling for the sky!

* * * * * *

Toronto Broadview Y.M.C.A. aquatic aces will compete with Gord Minty's men o' water in the "Y" pool here at eight bells this eve, and it sounds like a right lively evening. Rates a goodish crowd. And Bill Taylor and Herb Cardwell will make canoes do everything but talk in that pool. These mermen wear a canoe like you'd wear a suit of clothes, and they can walk around in one, roll over, jump obstacles, etc., in this giddy craft with or without benefit of paddles. Yeah, it's quite a sight.

* * * * * *

They Dip And Dive

Aside from this and similar water stunts, there'll be some neat competition between star swimmers and divers. The Toronto team copped most points in their last dual meet with the Petes, but we wouldn't topple out of a second-story window in a faint through surprise if the local contingent cleaned up this time. The "Y" gang includes: Stan McBride, Al Marshall, Ralph Rogow, Jim Brown, Len Smith, Don Pinch, Lorne O'-Brien, Bruce Campbell, Will Wildman, Jerry Fitzgerald, Tom McDonald, Don Eason, Ed Prete and Jerry Corbett. Public is invited to the swim meet.

No junior coach for the Colts' puck-chasers has been named yet. But the pilot will likely be chosen within a week, the executive making the decision and possibly considering recommendations from Manager Hap Wilgar. Don't know who all are being considered — that "who all" is a southern hangover as our grandpop once visited Kentucky—but we've heard several names mentioned. Guys like Shrimp McDougall, Archie Weir, Johnny Shields, Pete Vitarelli, and so on. Not that they've applied —and possibly none of 'em would consider the job—but their names have popped up occasionally. It's a lot of work, coaching junior puckists, and an important task.

* * * * * *

A Huge Headache

So is the managersnip a lot of grief. Generally a tough and thankless job of work. Not only in hockey but in any sport. The coach has to try to mould a winning team with his material, superintend workouts, select his players, get 'em in condition, teach them what he can, size up situations and meet them quickly in competition, and such like. And the manager has to help get players on hand for tryouts, arrange for all sorts of equipment, line up transportation, check on meals, rooms, injuries and etc. and etc. Both coaching and managing a club in Ontario competition is a first-class way of acquiring a headache built for an elephant and developing a grouch and sour look which would scare Santa Claus! That's if the club is losing and you're anyway nervous and irritable. If you're a sunny gent and the club is rollin' okay—faith, and the coach and manager bask in beauteous publicity and the admiration of players and fans.

* * * * * *

Cage fans saw plenty of speedy action last eve in the Y.W. as the Girls' Cage Loop opened up with a triple-header. Two neat scraps and a one-sided joust. Westclox pressed Quaker Debs plenty but the Debs decisioned 'em, 12 to 10; "Y" Gym snatched a 15-9 verdict over St. John's in a nip-and-tuck fray (whatever in the world nip-and-tuck actually means); with the Orfuns—back from a whack at L.O.B.A. competition—slapping Quaker Aces around in the last half for a 42-10 chuckle. Leading snipers for the victorious crews were Ruth Farr of the Debs, Ruth Dalliday of the Y.W.C.A. lasses, and Barb Blade, Ruth Thompson and Audrey Craig of Orfuns. Another trio of basketball tilts by the femmes next Friday e'en in the Y.W.

* * * * * *

Fetes Working Out

Local senior "B" puck prospects had another good practice in Oshawa last gloaming, with a right spry scrimmage. Russ Carr, young goalie from down Sarnia way, looked okay in one net with Ray Harding kicking them out at the other cage. Duke Jopling and Don Crowe teamed up on one defence and Archie Weir and Jack Gardner were the other blue-line guardians. Rival front lines were the Kingdon-Tompkins-Blewett trio and the Starr-Coughlin-Heal threesome. And others subbed. Jim Ellis and Les Burton will be on deck for Tuesday's drill in the Motor City. The Petes will lineup an exhibition game shortly.

* * * * * *

Ottawa Flyers' senior hockey squad somewhat resembles the old Trenton R.C.A.F. lineup we used to view here. They have Ernie and Eric McNeeley, Lecompte, Wiggett and big Johnny Lalonde. The latter, subbing on defence, tangled with spectators the other p.m. when his team was taking a 4-3 trimming. Johnny challenged some hostile fans to a fight and some of 'em took him on—but Lalonde is reported to have landed the only solid punch before the reserves arrived. The communique does not mention what part if any the McNeeley twins took in the fisticuffs, but we'll bet Aunt Betty's bridgework that they were somewhere around the scene trying their darndest to be neutral on one side or the other! Unless pacificism has set in—which is too absurd to be considered!

CANTAB SKIPPER

CAMBRIDGE, England—(CP). — K. Goodyear, who has played three times for Cambridge University against Oxford, has been elected captain of the Cambridge University Association football club.

DEMAND FOR GAS MASKS

Britons in Paris were so anxious to obtain gas masks that a second shipment had to be rushed from London.

Sports Program Emerging During The War

LONDON, Nov. 25(CP) — A bustling sports program has emerged from Britan's wartime blackout but there are still plenty of shadows hanging about.

While only one sport—speedway racing—was forced to close altogether, most of the rest are burdened with regulations, restrictions and curtailments. Speedway racing failed to survive a combination of gasoline rationing and blackout regulations.

Football, the national winter epidemic which catches more victims with 'flue, has taken on bush league complex. Officials have launched a regional scheme dividing the country into 50-mile areas each containing a small loop. Air raid precautions insist gates be limited to a maximum of 9,000. This has meant some players' salaries being slashed, resulting in stars transferring to home town rosters where living is cheaper.

Racing, both on the flat and over the jumps, and its important accompaniment, totalisator betting, were suspended altogether at the outbreak of war. But restricted programs have been scheduled and despite crowd regulations and the fact some courses have been taken over for war purposes the "takings" are almost back to normal.

The other big racing medium — greyhound racing—has been made an afternoon fixture because blackout regulations preclude the night glare of floodlights. The blackout too has called for restricted attendances and afternoon games in some localities for hockey.

Called To Colors.

But if a reminder, other than the flood of regulations, was needed that the country was at war, there is the large block of khaki-clad spectators in the granstands and the program list of old favorites, "absent with the forces."

Many stars have been called up. Cricket has given heroes like Denis Compton and Walter Hammond to the navy and army; football has distributed "internationals" like Willie Cook, Wilfred Copping and Art Stephenson to the army; the track's representative in national service is Sydney Wooderson in the Auxiliary Fire Service; boxing has given Tommy Farr, Len Harvey, Eddie Phillips and Eric Boon to the Royal Air Force and Canadian hockey players Len Burrige and Lou Bates are members of Air Raid Precautions squads.

Big sports centres are admitting members of the forces at reduced prices and one of the strongest arguments in the sports pages these days in for a sixpenny admission for troops to football games. Three national newspapers have launched funds respectively for footballs, dartboards and boxing gloves for the troops.

Henry Cotton, first to organize a sports benefit program for soldiers, collected nearly £2,000 in the first six weeks of exhibition matches against other famour golfers.

Meanwhile in training depots and even behind the front lines the British Tommy is paying a good deal of attention to organized sports programs interspersed with football matches against his French trenchmates. For the first time the army physical training staff has adopted the Canadian winter "gym" game of basketball as a "setter-up" for recruits.

Conn Is Awarded Boxing Trophy

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 — (AP).— Billy Conn of Pittsburg, recognized in New York and California as the light-heavyweight champion. Friday was awarded the Eddie Neil Memorial Trophy for 1939 by the New York Boxing Writers' Association.

Conn was judged to have done the most boxing during the year. The first award of the trophy, in honor of the former Associated Press sports writer and war correspondent killed in the Spanish Civil War, went to Jack Dempsey last year. Joe Louis was the only other fighter given consideration for this year's award.

Fight Fox Hunt

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP). — Chasing the fox in wartime is condemned by the League for Prohibition of Cruel Sports on the ground the practice interferes with food production. Moreover, the league has appealed to its members to continue their work for abolition of "the torture of animals in the name of sport."

A statement by Mrs. D. M. Beaumont, honorary secretary of the league's Yorkshire branch, draws attention to the food production angle. She quotes a poultry council official as saying nothing interfered with increased home production in the poultry industry so much as preservation of foxes for hunting purposes.

He'll Be Well-Watched!

Winnipeg Blue Bombers vs. Ottawa—or Argonauts—or Sarnia—or Westmounts—whoever it is that faces the western champs in the Grey Cup game next month will be out to stop Fritz Hanson shown here, wing-footed backfielder, who, with due respect to the prowess of Andy Bieber, Wayne Sheley, Greg Kabat and the rest of the Bombers' crew, will be regarded as the No. 1 threat whenever he gets hold of the ball. It was Hanson who led the Bombers to the only championship ever taken west, with his dazzling display in Hamilton four years ago, and he sparked his team to its comeback win over Calgary in the second game of the western conference playoffs this year.

Protest Is Made By Ottawa Mayor On Grid Site Of Dominion Finals

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—(CP)—Mayor Stanley Lewis in a statement last night said he had been informed by respected sources that Ottawa, whether or not Roughriders defeated Toronto Argonuats Saturday, has seen its last game of 1939 football, and declared Ottawa fans merited "better treatment" from officials in charge of the playoffs."

"I have been informed by sources which I feel must be respected to the effect Ottawa has seen its last game of football for the 1939 season," said the Mayor. "This seems incredible.

"Surely the loyal rugby fans of the Capital City should receive better treatment from football officials in charge of the Canadian playoffs in the event of the Ottawa team winning against Argonauts in Toronto."

The Mayor recalled how Ottawa fans stuck by the Roughriders in the last years since 1925 when Ottawa last was the scene of a Dominion final, and said: 'Now, with a possible chance for a playoff it looks as if we will be deprived of seeing our team playing in post-league competition with champions in other leagues."

Hamilton To Wait

HAMILTON, Nov. 25.—Central Collegiate's football team, local senior interscholastic champions, will have to wait for at least one week before seeing action. Expectations were that they would tangle with Port Colborne here Saturday afternoon in a curtain-raiser to the Italo-Malvern tilt, but after calling the Port on the phone they learned that the game between the Sailors and Peterborough had been arranged for Saturday. Central will meet the winners one week later.

INCREASED ACTIVITY IN O. H. A. IS PLANNED DURING THE WAR

Way To Keep Up Morale Of Civilians

TORONTO, Nov. 25.—(CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association should show increased activity during the war as a means of keeping up the morale of the civilian population through entertainment and for encouragement of the nation's physique, President James Douglas of Brantford told the 50th annual convention of the O.H.A. here today.

"With war being waged in Europe, Germany again having showed its inability to 'play the game' with its weaker neighbors, endeavoring to 'hog the puck' in its attempt to make Europe a purely pro-German arena, there is need for relaxation and for encouragement of the nation's physique, against, the 'war of nerves' which today is playing so prominent a part," the president said.

"Through the activities of the O.H.A. there is a rich opportunity to continue to develop the youth of our land, keeping them in fit physique in case further calls for men should come; there is the opportunity to be of service to the men who are already in uniform, either by enabling them to play or to enjoy the relaxation of hockey matches."

Mr. Douglas, re-elected by acclamation, told the assembled delegates that the 1938-39 season had been free from protests and that "nothing very contentious arose at any time." Credit for such sportsmanship was "due to officers of the clubs who constitute the association."

"It is gratifying indeed to note that we again had an increase in the number of competing teams," he said. "As time goes on it becomes more apparent that the addition of an extra series in the senior, intermediate and junior classes was very beneficial to your association. It solved a problem for the smaller centres, who are the backbone of our existence."

Golden Jubilee

"Fifty years is quite a span," he said in referring to the Golden Jubilee of the Association. 'When we review the progress the O.H.A. has made over that period, we are in duty bound to give full credit to the founders. They laid the cornerstone truly, solidly and lastingly."

George S. Dudley of Midland, treasurer of the Association, in his report said there is a cash balance in the bank of $3,931 and $6,000 in bonds as of last Sept. 30. At the end of last year the cash balance was $4,105 and $6,000 in bonds.

Receipts from playoff games in the O.H.A. last season were reported at $5,508 with total receipts for the year $7,828. Disbursements amounted to $8,002.

Last night, the O.H.A., oldest hockey organization in existence, held a Golden Jubilee banquet on the site where the Association was formed. Approximately 150 members and guests heard Mr. Douglas pay tribute to W. A. (Billy) Hewitt of Toronto, secretary of the organization the past 37 years.

H. Louis Hagey, Liberal member of the Legislature for Brantford, represented Premier Hepburn at the function and other speakers included Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, Thomas Lockhart, president of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, and Arthur Lapierre, president of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

Among the guests were civic representatives of Toronto, the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and the Ontario Athletic Commission.

Mr. Calder told the gathering he hoped the time will come when the Rally In Third Gives Hamilton Win Over Sailors

By The Canadian Press.

Hamilton Dominions, new entry in the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association, are slow to hit their scoring stride, but when they finally get started they are a tough outfit to stop.

They displayed another third period scoring splurge last night by defeating Port Colborne Sailors 6-1 in Hamilton. The score was tied 1-1 with 14 minutes left of the final period when the Dominions started a bombardment. When they had finished five goals had been placed behind Art Childs, the Sailors' netminder.

Johnny Connick led the Hamilton attack. He rapped home three goals in less than two minutes and assisted on another. His three counters were pretty to watch. He skated in on top of the goal, drew out Childs and then slipped the puck into the wide-open net.

Toronto Goodyears, undefeated league leaders, and St. Catharines Saints, also registered triumphs. Goodyears defeated Galt Moosemen 4-1 in Galt and at Niagara Falls the Cataracts were beaten 6-4 by St. Catharines.

The Moosemen, who have yet to break into the winning column, gave their best display of the season. Pitted against a better drilled and heavier team, Galt showed accurate passing but were weak around the nets.

A. Fry, Dunnville; F. W. Moore, Port Colborne; Mr. Hewitt, George Panter, Gravenhurst and Frank Hyde, Woodstock. Responses came from Controllers J. D. McNish, W. J. Wadsworth and Fred Hamilton of Toronto; Mr. Hagey, George S. Dudley, Midland; Louis Blake Duff of Welland, James T. Sutherland, Kingston, W. B. George, Ottawa; Duncan Sutherland, secretary of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association, A. E. Lyon, member of the Ontario Athletic Commission, P. H. LeSeuer, Hamilton and Austin (Bunny) Morganson of Toronto. Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would cease to be the "dominating force" in the game and its place would be taken by the Canadian Hockey Association, a unit having jurisdiction over all clubs and all players, professional and amateur.

Toasts were proposed by the following: Ross Clemens, Hamilton; W.

Trojans Meet Notre Dame

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—It has been reported that the best three teams on the Pacific Coast this season are Southern California's first, second and third strings. Notre Dame undoubtedly has one of the best teams in the mid-west.

That's the reason why their annual battle, rapidly becoming one of the many football traditions, is the outstanding event on today's United States college football schedule.

Neiher team has a perfect record. The Trojans were tied by Oregon in their opener this season and Notre Dame lost by a single point to Iowa two weeks ago. It's the final game of the season for the Irish, but U.S.C. has two more to play, and probably will appear in the Rose Bowl Jan. 1.

Bidding for the other place in the Rose Bowl, or for invitations to other bowl games, are Tulane, Duke, Missouri and perhaps a few others who are listed to play today. Two of the most prominent entries in the national championship race, unbeaten and untied Tennessee and Texas A. and M., aren't schedule to play until next Thursday.

1940 Racing Season

LONDON, Nov. 25 — (CP Cable). —The Racing Calendar to-day announced that a normal flat racing program will be held in Britain in 1940 unless war conditions should take a turn calling for reconsideration.

The season will begin March 25 with meetings at Kempton. Birmingham, and Newcastle, and ends November 23 at Manchester, Derby Day will be June 5.

Leafs To Ice All-Kid Team Against Amerks

TORONTO, Nov. 25— The Leafs' Kid Contingent—not just the Kid Line—goes over the top tonight.

Most interesting experiment of the National Hockey League's new season will be made in Maple Leaf Gardens this evening, when the youngest and most rookie-studded line-up of the Toronto team's brilliant history takes the ice against the experienced and veteran New York Americans.

Just picture a team of Maple Leafs, who will be without Horner, Marker, Kelly, Chamberlain and Schriner. Picture, if you can, a Toronto line-up that has only Davidson, McDonald and Nick Metz as its "veterans." And then realize that this nearly all-Kid team, instead of just a Kid Line, will attempt to withstand the battering of a winless aggregation of old-timers who constitute the most desperate club in all hockey today. Dutton's Desperate Dozen, indeed!

It will not only be an interesting experiment; it will also be a downright gambling one. With the exception of the injured Stanowski every Leaf rookie will be in action. Hank Goldup is to play his first N.H.L. game, and Don Metz will be making his home ice debut in big-league company.

Here's how the Leafs are going to line up. The Apps-Drillon-Davidson line will be intact. The new Kid Line of TaylorHeron-Don Metz are to make their home debut as a unit. A second and newer Kid Line will be unveiled for the first time anywhere. Langelle is to centre for Goldup on left wing and Chisholm at right. Nick Metz is slated for utility work. Patrolling the blue line in front of Goalie Broda, the league's top-ranking tightwad to date, will be Church and Kampman and McDonald with Hamilton.

The fans tonight will see a test of youth v. age, speed v. science, condition v. craftiness, rapiers v. broadswords, the Old Guard v. the New Deal. And, if the gamble goes haywire, away will go the Leafs' unbeaten record.

IN MEMORIAM

EASON.—In loving memory of Miss Maude Eason, who died one year ago to-day, November 25, 1938.

O, happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still.
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by a loving Cousin.

GIMBLETT.—In loving memory of a dear mother, Gertrude Gimblett, who passed away nine years ago tomorrow, November 26, 1930.

Our mother is sleeping, so free from all pain,
Oh, wake her not, sweet spirit, to suffer again;
She slumbers so soundly, oh let her sleep on,
Her sickness is ended, her troubles are gone.
Just think how she suffered and moaned with pain
In the long night hours we soothed her in vain,
Till God in His mercy sent down from above
An angel that whispered a message of love.

—Ever remembered by Dorothy and George Gimblett.

LAMBERT.—In loving memory of George Lambert, who passed away November 25, 1936.

I mourn for him in silence,
No eyes can see me weep,
But many a silent tear is shed
While others are asleep.

—Ever remembered by wife, Mrs. G. Lambert.

SHEARING.—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Robert Shearing, who passed away November 26, 1935.

Time speeds on, four years have passed,
Since death its gloom, its shadows cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
His vacant place there is none can fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in Heaven we will meet again.

—Sadly missed by his Wife and daughter, Mrs. E. Bedding, and Family.

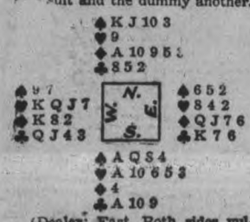
"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T FORGET THIS

NOTHING could be more important, in the art of successful leading, than to recognize the situations in which a trump lead is indicated. Many otherwise good players, nevertheless, seem always to avoid a lead of trumps as they would avoid poison, if they can find any other fairly natural lead in their hands. The most compelling time for a lead of the declarer's suit comes when a cross-ruff seems likely from the bidding, because he has shown one suit and the dummy another.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

South bid 1-Heart here, North 2-Diamonds, South 2-Spades, North 4-Spades, South invited a slam with 5-Spades and North refused the invitation with a pass. West did not like to lead either of the red suits bid by the foe, so decided against hearts. This, he reckoned, left him no choice except clubs, so he led the Q of that suit.

The declarer won that with the A, then embarked on a cross-ruff. He cashed the heart A, ruffed the 3, cashed the diamond A, ruffed the 3, then went back and forth trumping the heart 5, diamond 5, heart 6, diamond 9, heart 10 and diamond 10. The defenders also were able to trump in on the later ones of these tricks, but only with smaller trumps than the declarer's honors. Thus, besides cashing three aces, the declarer got eight tricks with trumps, using only one to a trick, for a total of eleven. He gave up the last two tricks in clubs.

Had West led a spade, the declarer would have had to use two trumps on that trick and so could have got only seven tricks all told with his trumps, plus the three aces, being set one trick at his 5-Spades contract.

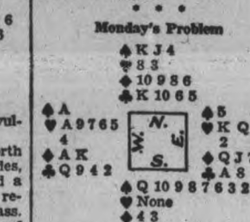
Monday's Problem



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the soundest bidding of this deal, if East and West are using the Blackwood slam convention?

U.K. Press Lauds Canada's Preparations

LONDON, Nov. 25—(CP).—"The preparations of Canada are well advanced," The Daily Telegraph said today in an editorial based on the speech from the throne at prorogation of Parliament yesterday.

Making a second reference to Canada in its outline of Empire efforts, the newspaper said that "the organization of the Imperial Air Force, with its training in Canada, goes on fast."

"In the terse phrases of the King's speech on the prorogation of Parliament," the editorial said, "that spirit and resolution which has intensified the energy of all peoples of the British Commonwealth is given apt expression. It is time for action. Straight-flung words and few serve best.

"Those which came from the King sufficed to make a resounding declaration of our reasons for taking up arms and our purpose in the conflict. German aggression and bad faith threw down a challenge which we could not have declined 'without dishonor to ourselves and peril to the freedom and progress of mankind.'

"Again and again our country has met such defiance with all her strength and defeated it. We could not fail or falter now. In the war, as the King well said, we seek no material gain. Our sole purpose is to redeem the freedom of the nation and ensure it. British power once more must be a 'bulwark for the cause of men.'

"With united will" said the King in a phrase which stirs the heart, "my peoples here and overseas have dedicated themselves to the struggle."

Airforce Comes Fast.

"Yesterday the Prime Minister was able to report that the first echelon of New Zealand Forces for service overseas would embark when transport was ready. Preparations of Canada are well advanced. Australia is not lagging. The organization of the Imperial Air Force, with its training in Canada, goes on fast.

"Again in a world struggle we shall make our challenge good."

The Daily Express said:

"Our enemies are not pitiful weaklings, but dangerous criminals. Murder mines laid by U-boats and dropped from airplanes demonstrate their infinite cunning. They have made mistakes, but we must not underestimate their abilities. We are fighting a gang of ruthless men who will stop at no crime to beat us to our knees.

"We fight for our lives and liberties. Our existence, our heritage of freedom, depend on the effort which we put into the war.

"Are we making our full effort at present? Now some people feel concern about the position. They are not happy, and neither is the Daily Express, at the situation in which there are 1,130,638 unemployed in the country. The vastness of this number seems to be a reflection on the energy and efficiency with which we should be setting men to work."

aid, former Reeve of Dummer Township, appointed for three years; Warden Milby, Reeve McColl of Asphodel, and Reeve Gifford of Ennismore. The last three members continue with the committee only for their terms. By that arrangement the Council will always have a majority on the Reforestation Committee, but there will also be continuity of experience through the other two members who are appointed for six and five years respectively.

Reeve Anderson said the committee decided that as an essential step of progress the property should be surveyed for the purpose of correctly marking its borders. This was done a year ago. John W. Pierce spent about four weeks, taking with him assistants and setting up a camp during part of December, 1938. That work cost $853.25, of which $500 has been paid. A road was made from the highway to the property and a small bridge built, costing $366.56.

The committee also engaged some men to clear out timber that had been damaged by an extensive bush fire in 1936, and there was also damage caused by what was called the tornado that swept over a section of East Peterborough on September 8 last.

The timber reclaimed was cut into lumber producing 50,000 feet, mostly of pine and spruce, of which 20,000 feet have been sold. There are also 7,300 pieces of cedar, eight feet long.

"I can tell you now whether we have had a loss on taking out the burned timber," Reeve Anderson said. "We have enough lumber for a building and also some cordwood."

Incidentally, the area of the County Forest, 3,340 acres, is approximately half the extent of Otonabee Township, which comprises about 6,600 acres.

Reeve Gifford said the next money to be spent should be used for making suitable roads through the property and on other necessary development, instead of buying any more land.

Warden Milby's comment as Reeve Anderson completed his review was :"All I can add, Mr. Anderson, is that you are doing a fine job."

The Warden moved, seconded by Reeve Allan B. Mann, that the committee be authorized to build a house or shack at any time in their discretion.

Eventually, it was said in the discussion, the forest may have to be fenced, but that is not considered necessary for the present. The Council considers that a sound and economical policy has been adopted. The Forest is an investment by the ratepayers of the county, with possibilities that are not yet fully realized.

sels, boasted that no free shipping lanes to England now exist ad sought to convince neutrals of the advisability of halting commerce with Britain. There was no direct admission that the mines along the English coast were German, but it was stated officially that Germany had the right to lay them there, if she desired.)

Meanwhile, as a result of the toll levied upon shipping during the past week by submarines and mines, London underwriters announced increases in marine insurance rates.

Ships continued, however, to ply the Thames estuary, described as a hotbed of mines.

Cruiser Damaged

Latest development in the war at sea was the Admiralty's announcement that the new 10,000-ton cruiser Belfast had been damaged by "a torpedo or mine" last Tuesday at the Firth of Forth naval base. Twenty men were reported injured.

The Admiralty's statement followed a claim by the German command yesterday that a Nazi submarine comander had confirmed reports of a raid on the Firth of Forth.

The Belfast, launched in 1938, is undergoing repairs, the Admiralty said.

A recapitulation of the war at sea showed 27 ships in all have been sunk by torpedoes or mines since last Saturday. Since the beginning of the war Sept. 3, 153 ships—including belligerents and neutrals — have gone down, among them 83 British vessels.

Newspapers generally expressed the opinion that the Government has plans of overcoming the menace of mines and that Great Britain has such reserves she need not worry too much in the interim.

"There is ample proof already that this new frightfulness will fail as completely as that of the last war to drive merchant shipping from British waters," said the Daily Telegraph.

"We know the temper of our seamen. Among other maritime nations the reaction has been what everyone not a German would have foretold. They are indignant at the outrages they have suffered and they are determined to run their ships on their usual services.

Hurting Germany.

"The course of the conflict at sea has proved disastrous to her (Germany). The blockade of her imports has been rigorously enforced, and no country in the world has shown a desire to evade it. Her brutal submarine attack, after some initial success, was beaten off with a heavy loss of U-boats ....the mine outrages in their turn will be defeated."

"In the last war Germany tried to stop all shipping to Great Britain by mining our coasts," said the Daily Express. "She laid 8,852 mines. The mines sank 259 British merchant ships. But British ports were never closed, except for a few hours at a time to allow for sweeping. In two years, 1917 and 1918, British tonnage totalling 60,790,000 entered our ports with cargo and passengers."

"Torpedoes directed by human intelligence are a far worse danger than any mine," said The Daily Mail. "We have already mastered the submarine. Make no mistake—we shall also master the mine. But in the process the nation must prepare itself for considerable losses at sea.

Tonnage Balance.

"In the first 12 weeks of war our tonnage sunk almost exactly balances our tonnage of construction for the same period in an average shipbuilding year such as 1938. Figures for war-time launchings have not yet been made public. But they are overwhelmingly larger than peace-time production. And we have captured enemy ships in hand.

"Nazi mines present us with a considerable problem," said The News Chronicle (Liberal). "But we have overcome equally difficult war problems before now."

"The war moves to a new and grimmer stage with the indiscriminate mining of shipping routes by Nazi Germany," said The Daily Herald. "Already the campaign has brought Germany a number of formidable successes. It would be foolish for us to close our eyes to that fact.

"And it would be idle to deny that the magnetic mine introduces a new weapon which it is difficult at once to combat. Meanwhile, we must be prepared to face the possibility of serious shipping losses. The British people, who have been encouraged by the successes of the Navy against the submarine menace, will not be cast down by dangers of a new attack against them, nor will they falter in resolution."

"Any objection to three on a match?"
"Not if they're Sweet Caps."

Nazi Ship On Raiding Career

The German steamship Windhuk, ABOVE, 16,662 tons, reported to have jumped her internment at Lobito, in Portuguese West Africa, was originally intended for service as a sea raider when she was built in 1936. It is said the liner had been outfitted to carry full raider equipment and that she had been disguised to resemble a British ship when she fled Lobito.

Ottawa Lifting Secrecy On War Orders

OTTAWA, Nov. 25.—The cabinet decided yesterday afternoon to lift the secrecy which has surrounded all wartime contracts. Beginning next week, details of contracts let since the war started will be released to the public.

All financial information will be given, but the exact location of different plants making various munitions will not be disclosed. The country will be told the amount of industrial commitments to date.

At the same cabinet session an Order-in-Council was passed transferring jurisdiction over the activities of the War Supply Board from the Department of Finance to the Department of Transport. This was done, it was explained, to relieve the increasing pressure of work on Finance Minister Ralston.

Because Colonel Ralston is burdened not only with the heavy routine of departmental work and war financing, but with the task of preparing estimates and the Budget for Parliament, it was decided to place the War Supply Board under Transport Minister Howe.

The Transport Minister, a prominent engineer, new to politics when he was elected in 1935, has handled several heavy organizing tasks in the past four years, outstanding among them being the establishment of Trans-Canada Air Lines and the creation of the National Harbors Board.

from Canada, the Dominion Government had repatriated Canadian securities held in Great Britain and thereby had provided some $92,000,000 in Canadian dollars available to Great Britain for buying Canadian goods.

Britain needed many things available in Canada, he said, wheat in particular, and in addition bacon, ham and cheese. Next there are the raw materials for industry, especially metals, including very considerable quantities of copper, nickel, and zinc. Under the head of raw materials I might mention timber also. Thirdly, there is the production of air frames (aircraft without engines) both for our own and for the British Air Force, and fourthly there are finished munitions of war for which, although few contracts have so far been actually signed, both the War Supply Board and the British purchasing organization now in Ottawa are negotiating with contractors much of whose capacity they expected to take up and in some cases to extend. These contracts will cover a very wide variety of supplies, and as the war progresses must inevitably mean the expenditure in Canada of considerable sums."

The means taken to provide credits in Great Britain for buying in Canada not only provided an outlet for Canadian goods, said Mr. Ralston, but "while it makes it necessary to raise more money by the sale of bonds to the Canadian people, in the long run it will have a strengthening effect on our whole international financial position because by this method of buying back our bonds held in the United Kingdom, a greater portion of our public debt will be held by Canadians instead of being payable to non-resident investors."

To conserve Canada's financial resources, said the minister, a foreign exchange control board was appointed "to prevent large amounts of capital from going out of the country at a time when all our financial resources were needed to keep us in the soundest possible economic position."

Exchange Control.

When a country was at war there was a tendency, he remarked, "for residents to send their capital out of the country for speculative or other non-essential purposes. On the other hand, there may be a tendency too for foreigners who have investments in the country and who may be temporarily alarmed by war conditions to dump their securties on the market in large amounts. The result is that capital here, which might otherwise be free for war purposes, has to be sent out of the country to pay for these securities." It was for such reasons that the foreign exchange control was set up. The result was that "the value of the Canadian dollar has remained remarkably steady in terms of the United States dollar and other currencies," he said.

Mr. Ralston described the work of the wartime prices and trade board headed by Hector B. McKinnon to maintain supplies of necessities and to curb profiteering. He paid tribute to the work of the various Government agencies and the army of civil servants thus engaged.

"In certain quarters the Government has been charged with inactivity," he said. "To tell you the truth, ladies and gentlemen, I apparently have been labouring under a delusion—I had an idea that we here in Ottawa were trying to do a fair sized bit of work, but if our efforts of the last 10 weeks can be classed as inactivity, then heaven help us if we ever have to get down to work."

of a better name they refer to it as the "submarine cruiser."

Allies Lay Counter Plans.

The Allied admiralties were understood to be laying plans to meet the projected new threat. In addition to accelerating their present naval building programs, it was reliably reported, both the French and British navies will construct a series of weapons to meet the "pirates" on equal terms.

These will include large submarines, especially designed destroyers and sloops, and a new type of seaplane, which will operate from aircraft carriers.

The "submarine cruisers" will have an extremely wide operation range, it was said. They will ply chiefly on the surface, submerging only to escape pursuit.

French naval quarters predicted the new sea weapon would enjoy no better success than the Reich's present submarine fleet, which is known to be a keen disappointment to the Nazi commanders.

When the war began Germany had in service 30 250-ton submarines and 25 of from 500 to 750 tons. In 12 weeks of war more than one-third of these have either been sunk or put out of commission by Allied counter-weapons.

Sentenced To 20 Years

MANCHESTER, England, Nov. 25—(CP)—John McCabe, 21, was sentenced today to 20 years imprisonment at hard labor after being found guilty of violating the Explosives Substances Act.

When he was taken out of the court, McCabe struggled with his guards, shouting "Long live the Irish Republic!"

Eton Is Again A Battlefield

One of Britain's "greats," whose name eludes us at the moment, once remarked that England's wars are won on the playing fields of Eton. A phase of the current war is now being fought on these same historic playing fields and the boys of Eton are fighting it. They are planting crops that will strike a blow against the U-boat war that so far has failed to keep supplies from reaching England. Many of the boys have voluntarily sacrificed their week-end vacations to till their own section of garden.

Nazis Whose Fighting Days Are Over

Their fighting days over, German prisoners of war are shown lined up outside the unused mill "somewhere in the north of England," that is now their home, before setting off to work. One of their jobs is to fill sandbags. One of the prisoners declared they "were given plenty of work to do, but their health and good humor are well looked after."

Rail Tie On Road Disables Auto

TWEED, Ont., Nov. 25—(ENS).—While returning from a business trip in the Township of Bruton, on Thursday afternoon, M. Ardenne of Tweed, escaped serious injury, on the Bancroft highway, when his automobile struck and went over a railway tie which had apparently fallen off a truck, and lay across the roadway. Ardenne, did not notice the tie until he was on it due to the obstruction lying in the shadow. The front tire rims were badly smashed, and it was necessary to have them repaired before proceeding homeward.

Another car ahead of Ardenne's vehicle, had struck the same log, resulting in the front tires being blown out.

A Wood Mixup.

Thomas Kerr, Thurlow township farmer, pleaded guilty in county police court on Thursday to several charges of obtaining money under false pretenses. The accused, it appears had been going around the district, securing orders for wood, and securing deposits in advance, but failed to make delivery of the orders. Three charges were presented in court, with several more cases to be investigated. The maximum sentence was ordered by the prosecuting attorney, but the case has been enlarged for one week, pending further investigation.

Chimney Fire.

A chimney fire in the store of George Clarke occurred on Thursday afternoon, about 1.30 p.m. and burned for nearly three hours before being extinguished. Fortunately the blaze did not spread to the structure, but considerable damage was done to the residence at the rear of the store, as the result of smoke and soot entering the building.

This banquet was for the Hamilton township Sunday school council and the conclusion of the standard training school which has been held at Coldsprings this past two weeks. Certificates were presented by Rev. H. Mellow, Rev. T. M. Wesley and Rev. E. Smith.

1 Central Group Ideal Setup UFO Is Advised

TORONTO, Nov. 25 (CP).—Strict cooperation of cooperative organizations and the forgetting of differences between them will bring "full advantage" of mass buying, mass production and mass financing, in the opinion of the National Cooperatives in the United States.

One central organization will bring the best results for members and individual farmers, he told the silver jubilee convention of United Farmers of Ontario here yesterday. In Indiana, the cooperate movement owns its own bank, oil refinery and fertilizer factory and has a reserve of more than $1,000,000.

Agnes Macphail, U.F.O.-Labor member of parliament for Grey-Bruce, told the association's annual banquet last night that mankind, even in wartime, is making strides to a "better way of life," and that the only persons worthy of the name "men," are those who help in "this upward trend."

"The farm movement in the past has worshipped false gods, because we believed the rich and powerful and those who made enough money to leave the farm were the favored ones."

Miss Macphail proposed a toast to "the future of organized agriculture."

Earlier yesterday, Mrs. R. O. Anderson of Wingham was returned as president of the United Farm Women of Ontario. Mrs. W. H. Hamilton, Glasgow Station, is vice-president, and Mrs. G. Laidlaw, Wilton Grove, executive representative.

Axeman Carves Falls Woman

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 25—Mrs. Andrew Anderson, 21-year-old mother of a month-old baby, is in the General Hospital in a critical condition from injuries received when she was attacked last night with a long-handled axe.

Her skull, nose and several fingers are fractured and her face badly gashed. Dr. A. B. Smillie believes she will recover.

The woman was attacked in her home by a male relative some time between 4 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She and her child were alone in the house at the time. Mrs. Anderson is believed to have fought desperately to save herself and the child from the onslaughts of the axe-wielding attacker.

Mrs. Anderson's mother found her daughter lying on the floor unconscious, blood streaming from numerous wounds. The baby was unhurt. Deputy Chief George Hughes and Detective Cecil Pay responded to a telephone call, and later arrested the man alleged to have committed the attack.

RUSSIA DEMANDS FINNS RETREAT FROM BORDER

Canada Plugs Nazi Leak From Halifax

Rumored Broadcasts As Convoys Sail Hinted Cable Work

HALIFAX, Nov. 27 — (CP). — A pipeline through which information on war activity apparently trickled from Halifax to Germany early in the war seems to have been plugged by Canadian authorities.

A rigid check of communications out of this important naval and military base is believed to have effectively shut off whatever information was seeping through to the Nazis on the movement of ships and other activities that would be of value to the enemy.

In the early stages of the war, there were reports Germany was being posted swiftly on the comings and goings of warships and convoy craft in and out of Halifax harbor. Prevalent was the rumor that the German radio broadcast the departure of a convoy right after the ships left harbor.

As far as can be learned, authorities never managed to find anyone who actually had heard the supposed broadcast but the reputed Nazi boast that it could get information out of Canada quickly and easily served as a further incentive to stopping up any leaks that might exist.

Convoys Leave By Day

Whatever instances there may have been, it is not known that any information of a secret nature reached Germany out of Halifax. The two "broadcasts" that gained circulation concerned movements with which any interested Haligonian could have familiarized himself instantly by walking up Citadel Hill and surveying the waterfront.

The convoys leave harbor in broad daylight, steaming out in a long line that identifies them instantly. Warships come in openly, and discharge hundreds of sailors, each walking identification of his ship by his hatband.

Nevertheless, authorities have been working ceaselessly to stop all unauthorized reports of such activity from getting out of the city.

Drifting Mines Keep Dutch Busy On Watch

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 27 — (CP-Havas).—Netherlands coastal towns were guarded today against floating mines torn loose from their moorings by a weekend storm.

Several mines were washed into the mouth of the Scheldt river, and ship crews at Vlissingen were forced to keep 24-hour vigil. Nearby quais, streets and dikes were placed under military guard and all traffic was barred from the danger zone.

A floating mine exploded at Wadden, near the Isle of Taxel yesterday, shattering windows in the village of Oudeschill, more than a mile away.

Reports from Brussels said the Ostend-Folkestone channel service was temporarily suspended today because of the danger of German mines.

Canadian, From Ontario Labor Department Led First Air Raid Over Berlin City —With Pamphlets, Letter To Girl Reveals

PRESTON, Ont., Nov. 27 — (CP). — A Canadian served as leading pilot on the first Royal Air Force pamphlet raid over Berlin, Hon. N. O. Hipel, Ontario Minister of Labor, disclosed here.

Mr. Hipel read a letter from D. A. Willis, former employee in the Department of Labor Office in Toronto at a meeting of the present War Service Association on Saturday night.

The letter said in part; "On October 1st, four of our aircraft carried out a 'pamphlet raid over Berlin, the first raid in a British aircraft over that city. Yours truly had the doubtful distinction of being the pilot navigator in the leading machine.

"We covered 1,480 miles that night in just under eight hours. We had plenty of thrills and suffered a little discomfort as over five hours of the time we were at over 20,000 feet. It was on that memorable occasion that we lost our two pilots, Allsop, an Australian, and Salmon. (Not further identified.)"

Willis said the King afterward came to visit the group of fliers who made the flight. Willis, as squadron navigating officer, discussed the flight with His Majesty over a map.

The letter was addressed to a young woman, also a former employee in the Department of Labor.

U.S. Premium Behind Penny Shortage

TORONTO, Nov. 27—(CP).—The U.S. penny, nickel, dime and quarter have vanished from Canada like the passenger pigeon from the earth, an official of the Canadian Bank of Commerce said today.

As a result, he said, there is a terrific shortage of pennies, and some Canadian companies have bought them in the United States, even though exchange and other restrictions mean they have to pay about $110 for $100 of pennies.

The situation was caused by the

Canada's Payroll List Shows Steady Increase

OTTAWA, Nov. 27.—(CP)—Payrolls of Canadian industry showed pronounced expansion at November 1 when 11,914 firms employed 1,206,183 men and women, an increase of 18,914 or 1.6% over their October 1 staffs, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said today in its November employment review.

This improvement, the Bureau said is contrary to the usual season trend from October to November and accordingly the index of employment, when corrected for sea-

Toronto Writer Fractures Skull In Crash

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 27. — (CP).—Harold Dingman, until recently Ottawa correspondent of the Torono Globe and Mail, suffered a fractured skull to-day when the automobile in which he was riding appeared to miss a curve and struck a sand pile eight miles east of here on the Kitchener-Guelph highway.

Jack Smith, photographer for the Toronto morning paper, was reported to have been driving the car. He was unhurt.

Dingman was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Within the last few days Dingman was transferred from an Ottawa assignment to the Toronto staff. He and Smith were on their way to the Air Force training school at Galt on a story. Dingman is 29 years old.

Dr. Louis Lang, of Kitchener, who is attending Dingman, said an X-ray photograph taken to-day showed the skull fracture. The fracture starts at the frontal parietal bone and runs into the base.

"He's doing very nicely to-day," said the doctor. "But it will be a few days before we can say he is out of danger."

$500,000 Fire

Estranged Hubby Shoots Wife, Family, Suicides

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 27 (AP)—A young man crept into the home of his estranged wife early today, shot to death two women of her family, wounded his wife and her father, then took his own life.

Detective Peter McCormick said Stanley Krygier, 30, sent bullets into the hearts of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Nieckoski, 45, and her 17-year-old daughter, Florence, as they ran for a stairway to escape.

Wounded in the chest, Krygier's 22-year-old wife, Regina, sought to escape by plunging through her bedroom window to a porch roof. Krygier followed her, the detective said, and beat her with a hammer until she rolled to the pavement.

Her father, Felix Nieckoski, 57, was shot in the chest but fled the building by knotting together several sheets, tying them to a bedpost and lowering himself. He fell and broke his ankle.

McCormick said the young husband, a construction laborer, was maddened by jealousy of his wife and wanted her to establish a home away from her family.

Breslau Lad Takes His Girl For Cycle Ride, Gets 2 Months For Wasting Quart Of Gas

BERLIN, Nov. 27—(AP)—Short stories of a nation at war:—

The tall gothic tower of the American church in Berlin stands high above the blackout of nearby Nollendorf Square as a rallying point for the fast diminishing American colony.

Pews used to be full for Sunday services in time of peace but today only a handful of worshippers appears—a United States banker, a consular officer or diplomat, or a few foreign correspondents.

Women in the congregation may be numbered on the fingers of two hands—out of a former Berlin colony of 1,000.

"I did it with my girl's lipstick," a Breslau youth confessed to a wartime court in explaining how he got gasoline for a forbidden joy ride.

The court sentenced him to two months in prison for squandering a quart of fuel.

A little red triangle painted over the license plates of a motor vehicle is used to indicate the driver has been authorized to use gasoline and that his vehicle is being used in some service essential to the state.

The youth in Breslau used the lipstick to trace the triangle on the license plates of his motorcycle, invited his girl to climb aboard and took her to a tavern.

He ran into Germany's newest police service whose squads drive about to see that no one is driving illegally.

Joy rides are taboo. A driver must be prepared to justify every trip he makes.

One Friedrichstrasse lawyer who is authorized to drive has been in trouble constantly because his office is near a theatre. Now he parks five blocks away—in front of a police station.

Production of synthetic fats from coal, started in Germany about a year ago, is being expanded speedily.

Germany's new war soap, which is something like near-soap, consists in part of such synthetic fat.

For year, authorities said, the Nazis have been storing whale oil. Now this oil is being used by the margarine industry.

Red Troops Press Moscow To Take Action, "Repeat Polish Lesson," Shouts Press; King Signs Order To Seize German Exports

Army Will Not Move Says Helsingfors Denying Reds Shot

MOSCOW, Nov. 27—(AP).—Soviet troops, in mass meetings following a "border incident" yesterday in which Finnish artillery allegedly killed or wounded 13 Red Army soldiers, today urged the government to "adopt strictest measures."

The meetings were held as Moscow awaited an answer to a note in which Russia demanded that Finland withdraw her border garrisons to prevent a repetition.

The press campaign against Finland was strikingly similar to that which preceded the invasion of Poland and no mention was made in the newspapers or over the radio of the denial issued in Helsingfors that Finns had fired on the Russians.

The press was filled with stock resolutions rushed through mass meetings of workers on night shifts, urging among other things in denunciations of Finland that the Soviet Union "reply with a triple blow."

They reiterated the Soiet Union's demand that the Finns withdraw their troops from the frontier, stating that otherwise "we will throw them out."

While asserting that Russia was "not inclined to magnify this abominable act of attack," the note demanded that Finland withdraw her troops "without delay" a distance of 12 to 16 miles from the Soviet frontier on the Karelian isthmus.

Continued troop concentration at this point, the note said, "not only creates a menace to Leningrad, but is in fact a hostile act against the U.S.S.R."

(The Finnish border on the Karelian isthmus, which lies between the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga, is only about 30 miles from Leningrad).

Foreign observers were unable to agree on Moscow's intentions, but they expressed belief that the alleged "border incident" might easily provide the "spark" which could set Russia in motion to compel Finland's compliance with territorial demands.

(In Helsingfors, a Finnish government spokesman said that Finland would not withdraw the troops along her borders. Premier Aimo Cajander emphatically denied that there had been any shooting by Finns on the frontier).

Withdrawal of Finnish troops on the Karelian Isthmus, observers said, would mean virtual surrender of frontier fortifications in this area. Such a move, they said, also would be the first step toward granting one of Russia's most insistent demands in her long dispute with Finland over borders and military concessions.

The Russian note, which was signed by Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff and handed over to a representative of the Finnish legation at a midnight conference, charged that Finnish artillery suddenly fired on Soviet troops stationed near the border village of Mainila at 3:45 p.m. (7:45 a.m. EST) yesterday.

Seven cannon shots were fired in all, the note declared It added that Soviet troops, "having strict orders not to yield at any provocation, refrained from returning the fire."

Only a few hours before the alleged incident was reported, the newspaper Pravada, Communist party organ, loosed a bitter attack upon the Finnish premier, whom it urged to consider the fate of the "Polish jackanapes—the far-sighted Beck and the far-sighted Moscicki."

(Ignace Moscicki was president of Poland and Colonel Josef Beck was foreign minister before the state was partitioned by Germany and Russia.)

Simultaneously Pravada published dispatches from Helsingfors asserting that Finns were dissatisfied with their nation's mobilization program, accompanied by mounting prices and increased taxes.

U.K. Hints Blockade May Be Eased If Neutrals Hard Hit

LONDON, Nov. 27—(CP).—An Order-in-Council for the seizure of German exports was signed today by the King as a reprisal for German mine-laying warfare.

The order for the complete blockade of Germany will be published in the London Gazette tomorrow and probably will become effective in a few days.

The action came as new shipping losses were reported by the Admiralty.

The Holland-Amerika 8,859-ton freighter Spaarndam sank in the Thames estuary. The crew of about 40, and one passenger, an elderly woman, were rescued by a pilot cutter.

The seizure of German exports as well as her contraband imports was ordered as a reprisal for German mine laying in shipping channels without notification, it was announced. British naval sources expressed the belief the reprisal would be more effective than in the first great war because, they said, of Germany's need for cash and for-

Nazi Westwall Built 30 Miles Deep Estimated Limit Of Tank In Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Germany's Westwall fortification system is stripped of mystery in the Army Quarterly, authoritative English military publication.

An article in the latest issue, the first since the war began, indicates that if an attack should break through the wall familiar to news readers, there would be another and another ready behind, each about as effective as the first.

The article is by Captain G. C. Wynne. The Westwall, he says, is an outgrowth of new defence principles developed by General Ludendorff, of the Germany army, near the close of the last war.

That principle is like a football team in reverse, like putting two men in the line, two others in defensive back position and the rest far back, out of the play.

The Germans, Capt. Wynne says, used a 1-1-4 formation, the 4 being the bulk of the army, back out of battle, but waiting to counterattack. Massed artillery fire and other modern weapons, including tanks, were the reason. These largely could destroy any force concentrated in forward areas.

Ludendorff, therefore, scattered units, with machine guns and concrete pill boxes, in the front area, designed to hamper the attack. Behind that, with still only a comparatively small part of the defenders, was the battle zone, intended to disorganize the attack.

Tank a Key Factor.

This, Capt. Wynne says, is the principle of the Westwall. But where the German defence zones of the last war were only about five miles deep, the new wall is 30.

This distance is based on military estimates of how far a heavy, artillery-carrying tank can travel under battle conditions. After eight hours its fuel will be exhausted, and 30 miles is the computed maximum. For some battle conditions, the calculations for a tank's penetration are only 10 miles.

The front half, or more, of the Siegfried line depth, says the article, will consist of a series of lines of resistance in which delaying actions will be fought to cover the main position from surprise and give the garrison time to occupy it. This would account for the first 15 miles of Westwall.

The main position, which comes next, will have forward and rearward battle zones, with strong points and machine gun nests, a special anti-aircraft zone, and lines of anti-tank guns, with traps and mine fields.

"Behind the main position," says the article, "will be, and according to German press reports during the Sept. 1939 crisis, there were, the mechanized and motorized counter-attack divisions and formations.

"There can be no doubt that all the concrete defences are of a secondary importance. Neither can there be any doubt that the present Siegfried position is only a beginning, that is to say that it is Siegfried 1 position, and that, should any sector of it be penetrated, a Siegfried 2 and then a Siegfried 3 position will be found organized behind it and so on.

"The preparation of a new position on the German model is not a lengthy process of digging and concrete so much as the proper concealment and distribution in depth of defence force."

Getting The Jury

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 27 (AP) JUSTICE ALBERT CONWAY today sentenced each of four members of a jury, adjudged guilty of criminal contempt of court in the acquittal of seven men of conspiracy charges, to a 30-day jail term and a $250 fine. It was the maximum penalty.

The jurors were Milsom Bassett, Robert Whiteside, John Gorman and John Pensky, members of a panel that exonerated James Higgins, former police commissioner, Frank Carr, former Erie County Democratic chairman, and five co-defendants last month of conspiring to obstruct enforcement of gambling laws.

Famed Canadian Doctor Dies In China

By TED FARAH
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 27 — (CP). — In strange places there was mourning to-day for Dr. Norman Bethune, the picturesque Canadian surgeon who saved hundreds of lives on foreign battlegrounds with his famous blood transfusion service and died of blood-poisoning while ministering to the Chinese Eighth Route Army in far-off Shansi Province.

A cable from China received in New York during the week-end said Dr. Bethune died in Wupaishan of an infection received after he cut himself with a surgical instrument while operating. His age was 49.

Dr. Bethune's best friends were not those you might expect for a brilliant surgeon. Communists throughout Canada, some of them lying low to avoid war-conscious authorities, sorrowed for him today.

Boys and girls in Montreal who extended their means of self-expression at the Children's Art Centre he founded and equipped were saddened at the passing of the man with the iron-grey hair, the sideburns and piercing eyes who was so happy in their presence.

Soldiers of the First Great War, the Spanish Civil War, and the Sino-Japanese conflict who owe their lives to his surgical skill had reason for sorrow.

Over In Spain.

Dr. eBthune resigned a couple of important posts in Montreal at the outbreak of the Franco revolt and made medical history by organizing a blood transfusion service operating with blood that was bottled, sent to points near active fronts and preserved in refrigerators for periods up to two weeks for emergency use. Lives of hundreds of soldiers who might have died of shock were saved by prompt availability of blood for transfusion, which could not otherwise have been obtained in time to be of value. The same principle is being developed for use in the Second Great War.

When he was appointed chief of the division of thoracic surgery at Sacre Couer Hospital in Montreal, he spoke no French and 22 doctors and nurses in his department virtually no English. At the end of two

Italy Is Allowing Winter Leave To 300,000 Men

The order did not specify the length of the leaves, but it was expected they would expire by March, restoring Italy's armed forces to their present estimated strength of 1,500,000 men unles sother troops are released.

Saves His "Roll" But Gets Shot In Legs Doing It

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Stanley Zedd, known as a "pretty tough" man in the ring a decade and more ago, is still "tough" enough to look at the business end of a gun without flinching and refuse to hand over his money to bandits.

Zedd, now 40 but once a prominent Winnipeg amateur boxer and lacrosse player, was one of two men shot in the legs early yesterday when five armed and masked men held up a Selkirk Avenue gaming house and escaped with between $100 and $200 in cash. Zedd was shot when he refused to hand over his money but he saved his "roll." The bandits overlooked searching him.

The 19 victims occupied two rooms of the house and three bandits went to the first room, where Zedd was, and two to the second. Those in each room were ordered to place their money on a table, then line up against the wall with their hands up.

Zedd, police were told, remonstrated with the apparent bandit leader.

"All right, don't get tough," the bandit warned. "If you don't put up your hands and put your money on the table by the time I count three I'll let you have it." Zedd made no move and a pistol bullet was fired through the calves of both legs.

About the same time, Mike Malinsky, 24, was shot in the right leg as he attempted to walk from the second room.

Wild Funeral Antics Get 6 Jailed

3 Caught in Cemetery After Chants, Pounding Of Casket

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 27 — (CP) —Three Windsor men and three women will be arraigned in County Police Court on Thursday, police said to-day, to answer charges of obstructing a clergyman in the performance of a burial.

The interruption occurred at the conclusion of graveside services for Mrs. Mary Gatacre of Windsor in Victoria Memorial Park Cemetery, south-east of here on Saturday.

Those to appear in court are William Wright, Mrs. Margaret Wright, Mrs. Reta Wright, Sam Robson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crosson.

The six persons, said to have been strangers to the 50 mourners, waited until Rev. John Stewart, retired United Church minister, concluded the service and the mourners were returning to their automobiles. Then they were seen to enter the chapel tent and start chanting and dancing around the casket.

Mourners including Mrs. Gatacre's husband, returned and ordered the three men and three women to stop their peculiar actions.

Chased Into Cemetery.

The three men dashed out into the cemetery, where they were overtaken and held with the three women until police arrived. They refused to explain their actions.

Provincial Traffic Officer A. J. Davis questioned the six persons, and then Everitt E. Quirk, president of the Victoria Memorial Association laid the charges under Section 199 of the Criminal Code.

"They didn't do anything out of the way during the graveside service but when the mourners started returning to their cars, things started to happen," Quirk said. These people went into the chapel tent and started to chant in a gibberish that was unintelligible. They were running around the casket, kicking it and pounding it and swinging the handles. They started to throw the flowers around.

German Aerial Spying Costs 19 War Planes

WITH THE ROYAL AIR FORCE SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE, Nov. 27 — (CP-Reuters). — Germany by means of her air force has made a tremendous bid this last week to find out all about the Allied war plans on the Western front, Adolf Hitler charged his air force with this mission and it is now clear he lost at least 19 planes in the venture.

It was also intended no doubt to spot any weak links or gaps,

Plenty of Wheat for Warring Nations in '40 Says Rome, Hinting Trouble is Getting It

ROME, Nov. 27—(AP).—There will be plenty of wheat for the warring nations in 1940 though some may have difficulty in getting it.

The international institute of agriculture says that despite the increased consumption and tendency of nations to build up reserves because of the war, there will be more than enough wheat to meet world demands the coming year.

Wheat is on the contraband lists, making cargoes of grain destined for enemy countries subject to seizure on the high seas. In addition, European countries have to worry about transportation facilities.

The institute's recent reports said the "exportable surplus from the 1939 crop in the exporting countries exceeds the probable demand of the important countries by 185,000,000 bushels, which will be added to the stocks of carry over to the 1940-41 season.

"On Aug. 1, 1940, these stocks would thus amount to 173,000,000 bushels, which is a considerably larger total than the record figure of 1933, which was 576,000,000 bushels.

"Even if these forecasts undergo in the actual event fairly considerable modification, the main conclusion regarding a further increase in stocks this season will not be affected."

World exportable wheat supplies for 1939-40 were estimated at 1,313,000,000 bushels, compared with world import requirements of 600,000,000 bushels.

The institute's report emphasized these figures were merely forecasts because several governments, belligerents and neutrals, decided at the outbreak of war to suspend publication of economic information, particularly that relating to production and trade movements.

The institute said that because of the political situation, it was not deemed advisable to reproduce data and information on the wheat position in each country, as had been done in the past.

The institute forecast a production of 1,655,000,000 bushels of wheat in Europe in 1939; 1,205,000,000, North America; 300,000,000, South America; 665,000,000, Asia; 170,000,000, Africa; 170,000,000, Oceania, a total of 4,175,000,000, compared with 4,503,000,000 in 1938.

Cars Kill 10, 8 Drown On Weekend

Other Mishaps Bring Toll To 22 With 9 In Ontario

(By the Canadian Press.)

Violent death reached throughout Canada during the weekend to take a total of 22 lives. Deceptive ice accounted for eight fatalities through drownings, automobile accidents took 10 lives and the four others came through a train collision, asphyxiation, the flying hooves of a frightened horse, and a trolley.

Ontario led in fatalities with nine, Quebec had six Saskatchewan five and Manitoba two.

Greatest loss of life at one point occurred Sunday 20 miles north of Three Rivers, Que., when three skaters, blinded by the reflection of the sun on the thin ice of Lac a la Tortue plunged into a sheet of clear water and drowned. They were Beatrice Lapointe, 27, Lac a la Tortue; Paul Roch, 17, and Elphage Deschenes, 25, both of Shawinigan Falls.

Tragedy At Frankford

Real Labelle, 11, died in the North River at St. Jerome, Que., as his father attempted to save him after he fell through a hole in the ice. Eva Yanosca, daughter of an official of the new plant of the Bata Shoe Company at Frankford, Ont., drowned when a sleigh pulled by her father went through ice of the Trent Canal. The father was unable to rescue her.

Walter Niemi, 32, a miner, drowned Sunday in Larder Lake near the northern town of that name when thin ice gave way while he was skating. Jacques Alfred Bellefeuille, 44, Rockland, Ont., drowned similarly in the Ottawa River.

Playing with other children on the Wabi River at New Liskeard, three-year-old Brian Baker drowned Saturday when he slipped through an ice hole.

Magnetic Mine's Secret Said Solved

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Great Britain, confident that her naval supremacy stands unimpaired by Nazi U-boat and mine attacks, today mapped careful plans to complete the blockade of the third Reich by seizing German exports.

The King today signed an Order-in-Council authorizing seizure of German exports as well as imports. However, a source close to the government said it probably would not be put into force immediately.

A delay might be caused, it was indicated, by Britain's desire to cushion the shock of the blockade on the trade neutral nations, some of which have carried Germany's exports since the Nazi merchant fleet was swept from the seas.

Seven neutrals with large shipping interests—Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Sweden, Italy, Japan and Iran (Persia)—have made advance representations against the decision announced by Prime Minister Chamberlain to "subject to seizure on the high seas" as "exports of German origin or ownership" whether carried in Nazi ships or under neutral flags.

Two Heavy Losses.

While the government gave careful attention to the neutrals' representations, two more large sea losses —the former Polish liner Pilsudski and the armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi—raised the total of sunken shipping in the past eight days to more than 108,000 tons.

The loss of life aboard the Rawalpindi, a converted P. and O. liner, was estimated at about 280, with only 17 of the 16,697-ton vessel's crew of about 300 men escaping. Seven persons were missing from the Pilsudski.

The 14,194-ton Pilsudski, first trans-Atlantic liner built for the Polish republic, had been chartered to the British Admiralty. The Rawalpindi, formerly in the British-Orient trade, was one of the merchant cruiser fleet supplementing Britain's regular warships.

Mine Secret Solved.

But Mr. Chamberlain, in a broadcast to the Empire last night, declared "None of these losses affects our overwhelming naval superiority," and said that "already we know the secrets of the magnetic mine."

"We shall soon master the magnetic mine as we have already mastered the U-boat," the Prime Minister assured Britain, expressing

Exceptions Hinted

Britain was expected to explain, during the brief delay in making the blockade effective, that she is anxious to avoid penalising neutral trade while trying to punish the Reich. There were indications the blockade would not be rigidly enforced where grave hardship on neutral countries would result.

(France announced officially Nov. 22 that she had decided to take similar measures to cut off German exports.)

Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, and Lord Chatfield, Minister for Coordination of the Defence, attended the council at which His Majesty signed the order-in-council.

Two hundred additional trawlers have volunteered for mine-sweeping duty, it was disclosed, in reply to Britain's appeal for aid.

Marmora Reeve Council To Have Battle

MARMORA, Nov. 27—(ENS).—When the time limit for qualification of nominees for the next year's Marmora and Lake Township council expired on Saturday evening, it was seen that the township would be spared the cost of an election, since this year's reeve and councillors alone qualified, to thereby receive acclamation.

Reeve John A. Bell thus commences the fourth year of his reeveship, before which he was a councillor for two years, while each of the councillors have served for more than one term.

Marmora and Lake township council will be composed of the following: Reeve, John A. Bell; Councillors, W. J. Pack, C. Kelly, A. Tompkins and G. Davidson

On the other hand a stiff election is promised for Marmora village, where electors will go to the polls on Monday, December 4, to elect a reeve and four councillors.

Reeve W. R. Linn, who has held the office for the past three years, is being opposed by Richard E. Bonter, former reeve of Marmora and Lake Township and chairman of this year's Marmora High School Board.

Six of the nine nominees for council qualified including the three resident members of the retiring council, T. R. Warren, W. A. Sanderson and R. E. Neal. The other member, H. B. Smith, was transferred to Port Hope before the completion of his term and is therefore not an aspirant to office this year.

Those who qualified are as follows:

For Reeve—W. R. Linn and R. E. Bonter.

sonal influences, rose to 118.3 at November 1 from 115.8 on the same date of the previous month.

An increase of 105,920 persons employed in industry was evidenced over Nov. 1, 1938, when staffs of 11,049 establishments agreegated 1,100,263 workers.

Employment in manufacturing showed a substantial increase, reversing the usual seasonal movement at the first of November, the bureau reported. This advance resulted in the highest level of activity indicated in any month on this record of nearly 19 years, the Nov. 1 index at 122.1 being slightly above the previous high points in 1937 and 1929.

Some 12,700 persons were added to payrolls of employers in manufacturing industry between October 1 and November -, an increase of 2.1 per cent. The largest gains were in iron and steel and textile plants. Seasonal losses were reported in food and lumber factories.

In the non-manufacturing industries, logging reported important seasonal improvement, the co-operating camps furnishing work for 26,600 additional employees. Trade and mining also reported heightened activity. On the other hand, transportation and construction and maintenance showed pronounced contractions.

In New Brunswick, Quebec and Ontario important additions to staffs were reported, but the tendency in the remaining provinces was seasonally downward. The largest losses in employment took place in Saskatchewan.

Officials investigated also the possibility that short-wave radio had been employed to get word out of Halifax to Gemany, but long and painstaking searching of the airwaves has convinced them that this method was not being used.

Vigilance all along the line convinces authorities that, if unauthorized word on Canada's war effort was being put out from here in the first weeks of the war, the lines of communication have been bottled up now.

Included in the order are reservists of the class of 1913, and some officers and men of the classes of 1902, 1903, 1904 and 1905. "Extraordinary" leaves also will be granted some reserve officers who participated in the Ethiopian and Spanish wars, the order said.

The announcement came shortly after publication of a decree authorizing maintenance of the classes of 1902, 1903, 1910 and 1913 under arms.

Simultaneously, the Government said fuel reserves had reached a "satisfactory level," and that gasoline in limited quantities would be available for private automobiles and motorcycles beginning December 8. Motorists will be allowed eight gallons monthly and motorcyclists, three.

With The Boy Scouts

At All Saints'

The troop has been reorganized and Scouter Art Rose will be able to attend every Friday from now on. Hewit Bartlett, an old scout from Newfoundland, has been attached to the troop as A.S.M. We welcome Scouter Bartlett to our organization and hope his stay will be long with us.

A good turnout of boys was at the troop meeting on Friday to welcome Scouter Rose back again; nearly all boys being in uniform. New P.L. handbooks were distributed and we are looking for the old form to be returned in scouting standards.

Mark Street Cubs.

Twenty cubs gathered around the council rock in the celearing of the jungle, but several boys were missing, being confined to their beds. Cub Haley Windsor was welcomed back to the pack and, with the rest of the pack, reaffirmed his cub promise.

The main theme of instruction was signalling taken as a group project. Three-legged relay helped to break the evening. Splendid progress is being shown by new chums.

The pack accepted an invitation from the Y.M.C.A. to attend a movie, 16 boys being present.

Akela announced a visit to the Y.M.C.A. gym and pool will be arranged in the near future.

With St. John's

The crew held a brief meeting in the den last Tuesday, when Tom Littlefair was accepted into the crew as Rover Squire in a stepping-up ceremony. The Skipper gave a brief talk, as also did Akela Gordon Clegg.

Heaps of bent and twisted seagreen metal, which lie scattered over the countryside tell how Nazi Dorniers were plucked out of the skies by Royal Air Force Hurricanes and French Curtiss and Swordfish fighters. Correspondents have seen some of these huge porpoise-like bombers; two of them are in a good state of preservation, despite seared bodies, and therefore of considerable value to those who stalked them.

County Council Honors Warden Milby

The sessional business of the county council ended at noon Saturday on an upbeat of sentiment, a final chord of harmony re-echoing the keynote of goodwill sounded by Warden Milby at his election last January, and sustained throughout the year by exceedingly pleasant associations in carrying on the affairs of the county.

The members of the council and assisting officials presented Warden Milby with a travel clock and book as an appreciation of his successful administration, his courtesy and kindness as the president of the council during the year, and also for the memorable leadership he gave in organizing the trip for the school children of the county to see King George and Queen Elizabeth in Toronto last Spring.

And there was another personal memory in that graceful incident of the Saturday closing, the recollection of the greatly enjoyed dinner given by Warden Milby at his home during the week of the January sessions, a friendly breaking of bread together as a dedication of fellowship in the municipal service of the people of the county of Peterborough.

The presentation to Warden Milby was made by Miss Jennie

Captive German Ship Fired By Nazi U-Boat

LONDON, Nov. 27 — (CP).—The Admiralty disclosed to-day a Nazi submarine attacked and set fire to a German ship which a British prize crew was bringing to port.

The ship was the 3,670-ton North German-Lloyd steamship Borkum.

The Admiralty, however, said another German ship, the 4,458-ton Konsul Hendrik Fisser, was captured by the British and brought in safely.

The official communique said the Borkum "was abandoned and driven ashore." There were no casualties among the prize crew, but four Germans were killed, it added.

Youth Is Rescued

Lakefield, Nov. 27 (BNS)

PERCY EDWARDS, 16, of Lakefield owes his life to the training which the Boy Scouts have been given. His companions, members of the Scout troop lay flat on the ice one behind the other, thus forming a human chain, and pulled Edwards to safety.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Nov. 27—(CP). — From the start wheat futures showed a steady tone on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day and at the close were ¼ higher to unchanged.

Increased export trade along with a sharp advance at Buenos Aires and a firm Chicaga market were the factors in the improved trend here.

At the close November was quoted at 70, December 70⅝, May 75a, and July 76⅜b.

Trading in cash wheat was quiet. Terminal interests were in the market for No. 1 Northern, while there was some clearing-up sales for tonnage at the lakehead.

Coarse grain trading was more active with exporters buying oats and barley and odd-lot sales of rye.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from McDermid & Jury and Bond's Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost. —(Advt.)

Hull Will Fight To Maintain Trade Policy

The Secretary of State in President Roosevelt's cabinet took personal command yesterday of the defence of his trade treaty program against criticism that has been rising with the approach of June 12, 1940, the expiration date of the law authorizing his department to negotiate reciprocal tariff-reducing agreements.

He left little doubt that he would exert all his influence to obtain an extension for that statute at the next session of Congress.

Hull faces formidable opposition. Many Republicans and some Democrats contend that the treaties now in effect have opened United States markets to goods competing with home-made merchandise. A leader of the National Grange is among the critics. Soft coal producers and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers joined recently in saying that they would strive to modify, if not terminate the Trade Treaty law. Some Democratic Senators would like to see the issue passed over until after the Presidential election next November, arguing that it might set off a party-splitting fight.

Another complication has been added by the war. Well informed persons diclosed that Great Britain's wartime import restrictions had halted her purchases of nearly a score of American products covered by the Anglo-American trade treaty.

These persons estimated the kingdom's purchases of the affected goods—which include fresh apples and pears, motor cars, some toilet preparations and sports apparatus and except in special circumstances, musical instruments, cash registers and laundering machines—amounted to $21,220,000 in 1936.

Hull's reply to critics was that the trade treaty policy would be the foundation of any lasting peace achieved after war. It reflected the doctrine he had preached for years, that high tariffs and other trade restrictions are at the bottom of the world's economic and political troubles.

Declaring the treaties were designed to increase domestic employment, he told reporters they should contrast the existing system with the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act, which, he said, had thrown 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 persons out of work.

Lonsdale Woman 73 Is Injured By Car

TWEED, Nov. 27—(ENS)—When an automobile driven by a relative struck 73-year-old Mrs. Beatrice McMechan, near her Lonsdale home on Friday morning, the olderly lady sustained a fractured hip, broken nose and multiple other bruises and lacerations The injured woman was immediately rushed to hospital.

According to eye witnesses, including the driver of the automobile, Charles H. Miller, a cousin of the injured woman, residing at Corbyville, Mrs. McMechan was walking along the north side of the third concession of Tyendinaga Township, while Mr. Miller was driving westerly. Apparently Mrs. McMechan did not see nor hear the motor car approaching from behind and stepped directly into the path of the vehicle as she was about to cross the road.

Provincial Police investigated the accident and stated it was purely accidental.

British Troops Dig In Somewhere Along The Western Front

In verification of news reports, this picture, passed by the British War Office, shows British troops digging in on the Western front somewhat in advance of the main fortifications. In the foreground is the co-ordinator, an ingenious machine that takes information from range-finders and other precision apparatus, and computes it in the twinkling of an eye. In the LEFT background a peasant can be seen at work with his horse and care, oblivious of the war.

HOME SECRETARY John Anderson informed the House of Commons today that internment had been ordered for only 348 of the 35,000 "enemy aliens" brought up for examination before government tribunals since the war began.

A number of Germans and Austrians not interned have been subjected to certain restrictions, he explained. Working permits have not been denied them, however.

Talk On Mission Work In Honan Proves Treat For Bonarlaw

MARMORA, Nov. 27 — (ENS)—Intimate glimpses of the work of the Anglican missions in the Chinese diocese of Monan were given by Mrs. G. E. Simmons, missionary on furlough at St. Mark's Parish hall, Bonarlaw on Friday evening before a large gathering. The meeting was under the auspices of St. Mark's W. A. with Canon W. G. Swayne presiding.

Following the singing of the hymn "Fling out the banner." Canon Swayne offered prayer.

Replying to the introduction given by Canon Swayne, Mrs. Simmons said she was particularly pleased to come to the scenes of her early life in Ontario and renew acquaintances with those friends whose prayers she felt were behind the work in which she was engaged. Her address which lasted about an hour and a half was well illustrated with a large number of beautiful and interesting slides which were shown by Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell of Marmora.

Features of the Country.

Dealing first of all with China as a whole she briefly sketched the features which differentiated the various divisions of the country. She told of the products of the different sections and referred to the fact that silk gowns and also gunpowder originated in China. With the advance of the Japanese troops into Honan in 1938, the schools in its capital, Harfeng, could not continue their educational work. Half of the population left but half including the business folk of the city remained. The mission workers devoted much of their time to assisting the wounded. School buildings were looked upon as places of refuge and accommodated 15,000 people.

Kaifeng fell entirely into the hands of the Japanese on June, 6, 1938.

Mrs. Simmons spoke of the three forms of religion which the Christian missionaries have to counteract in that vast country. Pictures of Keweitch hospital and the new Church of Truth in Haifeng aided the speaker in touching upon the devotion and labours of the Chinese converts. She mentioned that most of the buildings were of brick owing to little wood for building purposes being obtainable and also the right kind of stone being unavailable.

Cathedral Bombed.

Damage done to the Cathedral at Kaifeng and the demolition of a church in another part of the diocese by Japanese bombs were described in turn. She also mentioned that many of the young students had hiked to places miles away from their studies.

Included in the pictures shown, was one of a clas sof children with their teacher, Miss Greta Clark, who lived in Peterborough before going to Honan as a missionary After the singing of the hymn, "The love of Christ constraineth," and benediction by Canon Swayne, a hearty vote of thanks for her inspiring and realistic address was accorded Mrs. Simmons on motion of Mrs. Arthur Brown, seconded by Mrs. J. F. Baker.

Sinus Operations Curing Blindness

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 27—(AP) — Sinus operations, greatly feared by many sufferers from sinus trouble, are curing many cases of blindness.

The results of draining the sinuses far back in the head occur when there has been interference between them and the optic nerve due to infection, Dr. James B. Costen of St. Louis, Mo., told members of the Southern Medical Association at one of its closing sessions today.

In a series of 14 cases studied, both sudden blindness and progressive blindness were found, with some patients reporting spots before their eyes, blurring, bleeding from the nose, tonsil infections and headaches.

Drainage or flushing of the remote sinuses in the middle of the head brought about complete or partial improvement in 10 of the 13 cases, Dr. Costen said. The operations relieved both pressure on the optic nerve and infection of the sinuses.

Destruction of the optic nerve occurs very quickly in many interior sinsu infections. Dr. Costen added, and in cases where the eye is involved the sinuses should be drained and tonsils and bad teeth removed promptly.

Santa Will Fly Again For Lightkeepers

BOSTON, Nov. 27 — (AP). — Santa Claus flies again.

From the torrid Bolivian jungles this news brought cheer to-day to scores of lighthouse keepers along the bleak New England coast.

It meant that Captain Bill Wincspaw, who has earned the name of New England's "Flying Santa Claus," expects to arrive in Boston on December 19 to maintain a ten-year-old tradition, broken only last year when he was unable to get away from his job of flying gold in South America.

Back in 1929, the thoughts of Captain Bill, then operating an air service in Rockland, Me., turned during the Yuletide season to the many lighthouse keepers along the coast who had aided him in navigating through storms. He wrapped bundles of gifts, flew over the islands and promontories on Christmas Day and dropped his packages.

Ever since, Wincapaw and his 22-year-old son Bill, Jr., have flown over the lighthouses from Cape Cod to Eastport, Me., each Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

TRACTORS FOR IRELAND

In connection with the plan to increase the tillage of soil in Northern Ireland tractor teams will be organized in each county.

Traffic Worse Than Lions To Missionary

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—The lions in African jungles are not so fierce as motor cars and traffic on Toronto streets, in the opinion of Rev. J. T. Tucker, here on furlough with his wife and children after twenty-eight years in mission work in Africa.

"The motor traffic here is fearful," said Dr. Tucker Saturday. "The people here don't seem to notice it so much because they seem to have developed some sixth sense that guides them in it.

"We have lions in Africa—one came to a neighbor of ours and killed a couple of oxen a few nights before we left there—but the lions in the African jungle are not so fierce as the motor cars along St. Clair avenue here," said Dr. Tucker, who has been residing on Humewood Avenue. "We drive motor cars there, but one can drive a car along the mud trails for a full day without meeting another car."

John, 9-year-old son of the missionary, would like to stay on in Toronto, and attend Humewood school, which he likes. He was born in Angola, Portuguese, West Africa, but his 6-year-old sister, Catharine, who was born in Toronto, is looking forward to returning to Africa with her parents next month.

Another son of Dr. Tucker, Theodore, is studying at Union Theological Seminary at New York. Another son, Frank, 20, is in the Royal Air Force.

Here's How to Relieve MISERY of COLDS
Without Dosing

There's nothing to swallow. Massaged on throat, chest and back, Vicks' VapoRub acts two ways at once to relieve misery of colds.

FIRST: VapoRub acts on the skin, stimulates like a warming poultice.

SECOND: At the same time, VapoRub gives off soothing medicated vapours that are breathed direct into irritated air passages.

THIS DIRECT, 2-WAY ACTION loosens phlegm, clears air passages, checks tendency to cough—also relieves muscular tightness and soreness.

Because it's external and safe, VapoRub can be used freely and as often as needed, for children and grown-ups. No wonder it's used in 1 out of 3 Canadian homes.

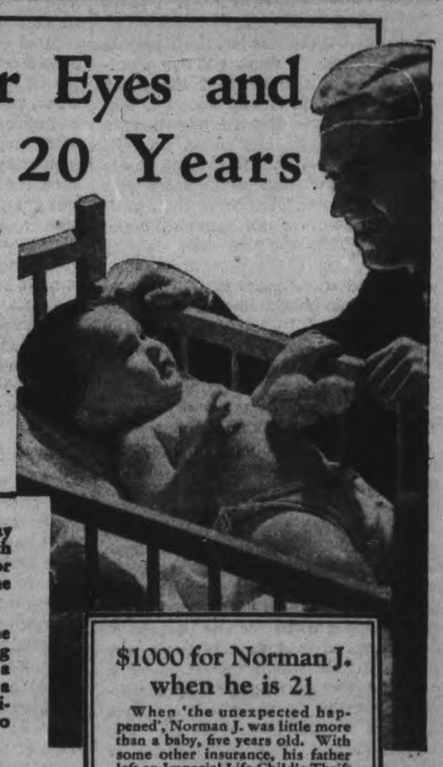
Let an Imperial Life Child's Thrift Policy give him a "head start"



A HAPPY father said the other day that his half hour daily romp with his young son more than repaid him for the hardest day's work. Yes, such is the priceless privilege of fatherhood!

But there's a responsibility, too—one that can only be discharged by looking forward and guaranteeing these tots a place in life. Adequate schooling, a professional career, perhaps a small business or partnership—a first step to independence—all call for money.

Many provident fathers, knowing the financial, business and health hazards of life, have guaranteed their children a head start at 21 through an Imperial Life Child's Thrift Policy. This guarantees the boy—or girl—a useful, brimful life.

Both amount and due date are specified by the father. Meanwhile, there is protection because if he dies the premiums will be paid by the Company until the child is 21. You will feel confident of the future of your son or daughter if you take the first step now—see the Imperial Life representative today.

$1000 for Norman J. when he is 21

When 'the unexpected happened', Norman J. was little more than a baby, five years old. With some other insurance, his father left an Imperial Life Child's Thrift Policy. Under its terms the Imperial Life will pay all premiums until Norman is 21. Then he will receive $1000—enough to give him a head start in life.

Norman's need will be all the greater because his father will not be here to guide him. And Norman's mother does not need to worry about the deposits—she knows that Imperial Life is looking after them.

Why not provide an Imperial Life Child's Thrift Policy for YOUR boy or girl?

It Is Becoming Chronic

There is a spirit of criticism growing in Canada, and it is finding a common target in the Dominion government, or more particularly the cabinet. Speakers who are called upon to deliver addresses here and there tell their audiences that the government appears to be unaware that a war in on; that our war efforts are weak things, and we are "not getting on with the war."

A fairly careful reading of these reports reveal that the speakers are not taking things to pieces one at a time, but the preference is to include the whole organization in a general way. Nothing is said regarding the exact course which should be taken, but we are left with the feeling that all through our course has been wrong and that we are guilty of fiddling while Rome burns, or something like that.

Against that there is evidence of another sort. One capable industrialist is authority for the statement that the entire equipment of all the plants operated by his organization has been catalouged by the government, and that this was attended to weeks ago. The sales manager of a steel company told the Examiner that Ottawa knew exactly where orders would be placed, and they would go only to firms with an established reputation for precision work. There would be no placing of war orders with those who were going into the business for war work only.

Reading the opinions of others we find there has been a tendency to hold back on war orders by Britain and France because the line-up in Europe appears to be changing, and it had not been determined whether the real struggle would be at sea, in the air or on land.

It is easy to understand that feeling of "let's get along with the war," but it is not so right and fair to translate that sentiment into continued attacks on the government in power. It looks too much like a deliberate attempt to try and persuade the people of Canada that their efforts are being misdirected; that there is no competence whatever in the administration and on that account whatever we do is bound to be poorly handled or entirely bungled.

Possibly Ottawa has left itself open to some such charge because it has adopted a policy of silence about war effort, something which it now shows a tendency to correct. But it is admittedly a fact that Ottawa has called some of our most competent men to serve in war offices; industrialists in whom we have every confidence. They know their business and we have not the least doubt they have been applying their training and experience to the work in hand.

It is only a few years since the average Canadian would stop in his tracks to have a look if there were an airplane above. It was a sight worth seeing. We were not in the least air-minded. Today we find ourselves in the position of being the place where most of the air training for the Royal Air Force is to take place; landing fields are coming into existence in places where the subject has never before been seriously considered.

Unquestionably there are things which we have not done which we should have done particularly in the light of developments of recent months, but that hardly justifies these continued attacks which appear to be for the purpose of convincing us that we are doing very little and that which we are doing is being more or less bungled by incompetent people. People who make such addresses are not helping at all. The political fabric of a government in power during a war period interests the Examiner not in the least, but helpful service is not being rendered by that continued bombardment by speakers who often enough have the markings of those who are not particularly well informed regarding the subject to which they address themselves.

War Against The World

There is no good purpose to be served in seeking to minimize the positive danger which has been created by the German method of scattering floating mines in sea channels which were previously regarded as safe for neutrals or any other vessels which could reach and make use of them. In order to do this Germany has disregarded all sea traditions and international law to which she herself had subscribed and by which she is still bound.

This latest deviltry on the part of Germany will hit Britain harder than any other nation for the simple and apparent reason that Britain has more vessels at sea. How serious the damage will become even the best informed cannot state nor do they attempt even an estimate. The danger is not only for the British but for every nation which has a vessel afloat in the North Atlantic. That great body of water is a restless thing at this season of the year and will pitch and toss and carry floating mines for a great distance regardless of where they were first planted. In that way Germany has carried into effect without declaration a positive form of warfare against the nations of the world. We cannot see where any of them have immunity. Their vessels are just as apt to strike a floting mine as those of the British or French. And by the same token Germany has started something which will be a force operating against herself if she is expecting to be made strong by imports landing in neutral ports to await transfer to her own territory.

The one advantage which Britain possesses is that many of her people are at home on the sea. For that reason Britain should be in a better position than any other nation when it comes to the serious business of effectively meeting this newest and most desperate banditry on the part of Germany. If there is a cure at hand Britain's seafaring men can be trusted to apply it. This is undoubtedly the new form of frightfulness to which Hitler has several times made reference.

Would Not Hurt Him

Samuel Hoffman was arrested and placed in jail at Cobourg on a charge coming under the Defence of Canada Regulations. Thereafter Samuel Hoffman became a centre of news, not so much for what he had done before going to jail but what he did after getting there.

The stories all centred around the fact that Samuel Hoffman had refused to eat. Apparently he was bent on what they term a hunger strike. He was not thinking up anything new because people the world over have done the same thing.

The last report was that the Hoffman strike lasted for a week and he lost 25 pounds. He is described as having been a large man and so taking off 25 pounds would not hurt him much. He drank a fair amount of water during the week.

The Examiner was informed by a competent authority that the prisoner might possibly have improved his health by fasting for a week when he was doing nothing but staying in jail. He would need water and if he had plenty of that he would be all right. His stomach and internal system would have a good rest and might benefit from that. In fact the gentleman from whom we secured information said a good many people could add to their sum total of health by giving their digestive system a rest now and then rather by keeping it running at top speed all the time with three meals per day and then something more to eat before they retired for the night. We are not advising anything in the nature of a hunger strike, but merely pointing out that because a large and able bodied man sought to arouse sympathy for himself by starving for a week he was not actually undergoing any physical punishment. It was quite a harmless sort of gesture, with possible benefits being shared by the prisoner and the man who had to prepare meals at the jail.

Church Slipping

When we say the charge has often been made that the church has lost its power there will of necessity be agreement because that complaint is registered frequently. Many church assemblies have studied the reasons and a good many folk on the outside who have little knowledge from personal contact are ready to arrive at the conclusion there must be something in it.

But there appears to be power left in a good sermon or a plain Gospel message. For this reason: Floyd Waters, 37 years of age, used to be a professional boxer, and after his days at that were dried up he was employed as a bouncer in taverns at several places. His job was to throw out those who became drunk and noisy. In more recent times he had become interested in robbing banks, and in June he participated in one at Newport, Ky., where $21,000 was the loot.

Last Sunday Waters was in Dayton, O., and he sat and listened to the radio broadcast of a sermon by Howard Cadle, an evangelist. Later in the day he went out and sought an interview with Cadle, and Waters' wife went along with him. Waters told his own story after which the three went down on their knees and Cadle prayed about it. When that was over it was Waters who made the suggestion it was time to send for the police, and his only comment was when leaving: "I feel better about the whole thing now."

So although people may claim the church is slipping, it seems plain enough that Mr. Preacher Cadle is holding his own fairly well.

Looking To The Future

The Reforestation Committee of Peterborough County Council presented a report at the last session of Council, and it was the sort of account which any person could understand. It spoke in terms of acres and dollars.

This work has been under way for several years, and the committee in charge has not been discharged. It apparently has taken hold of something which becomes more interesting as it proceeds.

Straddling the boundary between Dummer and Belmont in the northern section of the county the County secured in all 3,340 acres of land at an average price of $1.03 per acre. One would be correct enough in claiming that was not much of a price for land, but it is not farming land and never would be. But it will grow trees. It did so before and will do so again when given a chance. There has been a good deal of clearing done, taking away fallen timber and that which had been burned out by fire.

There is something entirely right in this business. People paying taxes today will probably get no returns on this investment, but it is providing something for the future, and that may be an object lesson to other organizations. For many years we have been taking a good deal out of the country and putting back just as little as possible. The Reforestation Committee of the County Council has reversed the process.

NOTE AND COMMENT

One farmer says he is worse off now than before the war started, and it is true the whole world can say the same thing and tell the truth.

United States naval vessels spotted 39 floating mines in the North Sea and reported their position. And that is about as useful a day's work as might be done.

Citizens of Exeter, Ont. collected scrap metal and sold the lot for $1,000. There is plenty of scrap overseas at the moment but the trouble is to try and make money out of it.

The marriage took place in Wooster, O., of John Lemon to Miss Mary Sugar. If you squeeze the Lemon and add a little Sugar then you have something pleasant.

Robber in Toronto left a storekeeper a nickel to pay for a phone call to the police after cleaning out his till. Possibly he figured it was a good thing for a man making a fresh start to have the law on his side.

It has been suggested that an enemy nation might come and make use of James Bay for an air base. But when they were at it would it not be much better to move farther south and be more comfortable.

A new political party, the Consumers of Canada, threatens to have a candidate in each of the 245 ridings for the next Dominion election. Interesting perhaps, but let's get this floating mine business attended to first.

Youth of 17 in London, Ont., court was ordered to be spanked by his father in the presence of police officials. And that again might be quite different from the old custom of going upstairs and attending to such business with the hair brush.

A woman of 28 years, a drug addict, asked to be sent to jail for six months in Toronto so she could be cured of the drug habit. She is in for a bad time as drug addicts are not readily cured, and she will suffer as only drug addicts can when denied further supplies of their favorite brand of narcotics.

MISSED

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I heard today from Cousin Jake, lamenting of his big mistake, and Jake was very sore; no trouble at the house he said, no relative was sick or dead, and all right at the store.

¶ But when elections come along, Jake always seems to hit it wrong, four times he tried to win; but when they counted votes at night, Jake never yet had won a fight, and never once got in.

¶ When nominations come this year, Jake figured how he best keep clear, he thought he couldn't win; and if he run and lost again, why all the women and the men, would sort of grin at him.

¶ Jake takes his losses kind of hard, for days he hangs around the yard, it seems to get him down; he sort of hibernates a while, before he learns to talk and smile, and meet the folk in town.

¶ This year Jake said he stayed at home, left nominations quite alone, the town could settle that; he'd tried the thing enough he thought, by running when he shouldn't ought, and they had left him flat.

¶ This year it wasn't quite the same, they looked for candidates in vain, they sent a deputation; but Jake laid low and never stirred, then afterward it was he heard—they won by acclamation.

Hitler Making Early Signs Of Desperate Acts

IT WAS NOT until 1917, nearly three years after the beginning of the last war, that Germany threw caution to the winds and in desperation opened unrestricted warfare by submarine, which meant that all shipping, neutral and belligerent, was sunk without warning. The rate of increase in losses was such that it seemed that the submarines would win the war for Germany. It is no secret, says the London Free Press, that at one time Britain's food supplies were reduced to only enough for three weeks. In February, 1917, no less than 260 ships, with a gross tonnage of 469,000, were lost. This was increased in March to 336 ships with a tonnage of 564,000 and the peak was reached in April with a loss of 430 ships and 862,000 tonnage. Then gradually the British admiralty gained the upper hand.

This time, since the declaration of war on September 3, the known losses to all nations have been 151 ships. The 25 of last week, bad as it is, is small compared with 1917. The unrestricted warfare by the Germans in the last war was begun when they were growing desperate and when the economic blockade was pressing upon the domestic front. It was the beginning of the end. Is the 1917 stage of the Great War already entered less than three months after this war has started? Is it the first sign of German weakening?

There are sound grounds for such logic. On land the Germans are unable to make progress. The Maginot Line could only be stormed by losses which might result disastrously for Germany. It is a stalemate on land. On sea the Germans are already beaten. Last war the Germans possessed a navy which was not far short of the strength of Britain's. This war Germany's navy is feeble and the submarine menace has already been largely conquered. German shipping has been swept from the seven seas. In the air the boasted German superiority has not materialized. The armada of airplanes, which it was expected would bomb London, Paris and the great industrial cities of Britain and France, has failed to materialize. So far, on the other hand, the Allies have held the upper hand in the air and as every day passes promise to exert greater superiority. German losses in the air are mounting. Since the war began the Germans have lost close to a hundred planes.

With a stalemate on the Western Front, the submarine campaign unsuccessful and the thrust by air a failure, Germany is desperately trying to break the economic pressure of the Allies by this new form of warfare, the scattering of murderous mines in the waters around England. It is aimed not only to break the strangulation of Germany, but to starve out Britain.

WILLSON WOODSIDE, well-known Canadian writer and authority on international affairs, spoke to the London Canadian Club this week. He believes that Germany will sooner or later be beaten by economic pressure. In a mechanized, modern war, copper, iron and oil are needed in enormous quantities. Last war Germany derived most of her iron from Lorraine, today in the possession of France. Sweden is the only source of supplies on a large scale and Swedish mines are not easily accessible. Even the Greater Reich has little oil. Rumania is the chief possible source of oil. The pressure being brought to bear on Rumania by Germany and the Cabinet crisis of this week in Bucharest can be laid to Germany's need for oil. Evidently Rumania does not propose to accede to German demands and a Cabinet friendly to the Allies is now in power.

Mr. Woodside said the only hope for Germany was to break this blockade and this is what Germany is evidently now attempting. Britain is already hitting back. The Allies are taking the same action that they were forced to take in the Great War when the German submarines attacked merchant ships of all countries without warning. They will seize German exports upon the high seas. Since trade is barter and goods are bought with goods, Germany's buying power depends upon her ability to sell. Her sales will be diminished by the Allied action. Premier Chamberlain summed up the action taken: "The chief purpose in addition to retaliation will be to cut off the Nazi income from sale of goods abroad, and thus further undermine German economy and her ability to buy goods that are essential to continuation of the war."

How effective this move will be towards breaking German morale and forcing an early defeat, it is hard to say. It will all help. In the meantime the admiralty is not sleep. The admiralty, through the help of the best scientific minds of the Empire, broke the submarine menace last war. Incidentally it is not perhaps generally known that a Canadian, Sir John Maclennan, an old Stratford boy and professor of physics at Toronto University for many years, was the inventor of the depth bomb, which was fatal to the submarines. Again the scientists have been called in and there is no doubt that the new menace to Britain's shipping will be broken.

• Rates Of Pay In Active Service

EDITOR EXAMINER: Sir,—Would you please publish the rates of pay of the Canadian Active Service Force in all ranks. I know the information has been made available before probably in your paper, but several people to whom I have been talking seem unaware of the pay, apart from the fact that a private gets $1.30 per day plus everything found and a certain allowance for a family man. Thanking you for this information.

READER.

Authorized daily rates of pay, not including allowances for dependents, nor for the soldier's food or clothing, are as follows:

All other warrant officers, Class I	3.90

A soldier on whose account dependents' allowance is issuable, must assign to the recipient not less than 15 days' pay of rank a month. In cases where no such assignment has been made, but where it has been decided that the dependent is entitled to dependents' allowance, a compulsory assignment of 15 days' pay of rank a month must be put into force against the pay of the soldier.

An outfit allowance of $150 is authorized to an officer on his appointment to the Canadian Active Service Corps. Nursing officers will also be entitled to $150 under certain conditions. An allowance of $100 is authorized to warrant officers, Class I. Other ranks receive their clothing from military stores.

If officers or soldiers are not living in public quarters or camp and are not receiving rations in kind, subsistence allowance will be paid officers at $1.70 a day, and other ranks, 85 cents.

Pay is issued in cash on the 15th and last day of each month.

PART TIME FARMERS

WE HOPE this war doesn't bring a recurrence of the idea of digging up the parks and all the backyards to grow patriotic onions and potatoes.

Vacant space around the city is scarce enough without digging up the yards and pushing the children out on the street—and Canada happens to be a spacious enough country with nothing to gain by such intensive cultivation.

The fact also remains that after the purchase of seed, water, fertilizer and whatnots, the produce grown will cost at least twice as much as its purchase price at the nearest green-grocer.

Then, too, the farmer practically starves to death most of the time. Even when he gets a crop and a market both in the same year the price is usually so low that he doesn't get a laborer's wage. When a war or a famine comes along, and the farmer does get a decent price—why should city men step in and compete with him?—Toronto Telegram.

ELECTION SAVING

HON. ERIC CROSS, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs, has told the Queen's University Conference on Public Administration that the saving in election expenses to the people of Ontario will be half a million dollars a year if the provincial Government's proposal to suspend municipal elections in wartime is adopted—as it will be if the Government insists or proceeding with the idea. That amount may seem like an enormous sum to Mr. Cross but it is only chicken feed to the people of this province if they can afford to surrender their principal controls, restraints and safeguards over the annual expenditure of several hundred million dollars of their own money. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

TAXES ON LIQUOR

THE OUTPUT of the brewing industry in 1938 had a selling value at the factory of $57,875,450. Sales tax and other taxes and duties paid to the Dominion and provincial governments totalled $15,496,597, leaving a net value of production of $42,379,853. Beer, ale, stout and porter were the main items of production with a total of 62,468,233 gallons valued at $56,841,181 compared with 63,466,906 gallons valued at $57,437,688 in 1937. Other products manufactured were: aerated beverages at $619,871, wet and dry grains at $295,004 and yeast $31,029.—Brandon Sun.

GERMAN GOODS

CANADIAN IMPORTS during September included goods from Germany valued at 1,399,000 this being a substantial advance over September last year of almost half a million dollars.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics explains:

"Much of the import from Germany had arrived earlier, had been in bond and was released in September. The figures, therefore, show the release of commodities rather than the arrival from Germany to ports in Canada during the first month of the war."

These German products were bought and paid for by Canadian dealers in peace times. Refusal to buy them, on the ground that they come from the enemy country, cannot hurt Germany but can hurt only Canadians who have their money legitimately invested in them.—Ottawa Journal.

WE'RE AFRAID Social Credit M.P.'s are becoming like Hitler, their word can't be depended upon. Here we have Orvis Kennedy, East Edmonton member, telling an audience that Social Credit does not favor conscription of manpower, while the House of Commons Hansard contains half a dozen declarations from Social Credit M.P.'s that the group stood for conscription of manpower. Mr. Kennedy is thinking of an election and is trying to fool voters. Hansard's record of what was said at the special session is something that cannot be overcome by speeches along an opposite line when facing the electors back home.—Lethbridge Herald.

"MY PRIME MINISTER"

IN HIS REPLY to the peace offer of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of Belgium, King George referred to Mr. Chamberlain as "my Prime Minister in the United Kingdom." Such a phrase recognizes the empire as a partnership of British nations, with the King ruling directly over each Dominion, as well as over the United Kingdom, and advised directly by the Prime Minister in each as to that particular nation's affairs. Perhaps some day the King will be able to refer to "My Prime Minister of India."—Toronto Star.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, and found in the temple those that sold oxen and sheep and doves, and the changers of money sitting: and when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables; and said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise....

Then answered the Jews and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things? Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up. Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

But he spake of the temple of his body.—John ii, 13-16, 18-21.

NOT SO NORDIC

THE GERMANS, says Dr. Earnest A. Hooton, Harvard University anthropologist of note, "are the most racially heterogeneous of the belligerents and have been for the longest time." He describes the pure Nordic type in the land of the Nazis as "a very rare bird indeed," and he poohpoohs the Hitler claim that nordicity is indigenous to Germany. Not until the close of the Bronze Age did the Nordic get there, Dr. Hooton declares, and the German racial strain was a "pretty mixed mess" by the end of the prehistoric period. Admitting that the Germans have a Nordic culture, the anthropologist points out that physically they are not so Nordic as they would have one believe.

Science disrupts the Nazi theory very effectually. We speculate on what Mr. Hitler would have to say to this. Oh, excuse us—Mr. Hitler doesn't believe in science.—Buffalo Courier-Express.

303 Red Cross Branches Are Organized

CAMPBELLFORD, Nov. 27.—(ENS).—Speaking before canvassers and members of the executive of the Campbellford and Seymour Red Cross Society, Captain C. C. Innes, Toronto, gave an inspiring address on the work of the Red Cross. He stressed the magnitude of the work which lies ahead of the local branch which will begin its canvass to raise $3,000 on November 27th and briefly sketched the first great work done by the Society in Canada during the Reil rebellion and later the South African war when $50,000 was raised. During the Great War in three appeals it raised 35 million in goods and money "which was a wonderful ttribute to the Canadian people." With reference to other organizations the speaker declared the most efficient Red Cross society was one where representatives of every other society was doing war work is represented on its executive.

At the outbreak of war heads of various organizations met in Ottawa offering to submerge any difference and co-operate fully with the Red Cross. Its primary duty is to care for the wounded and prisoners of war and secondly to care for our own troops. The tremendous growth of the Red Cross since the outbreak of war is clearly demonstrated by the fact there are now 303 branches in Ontario as against 70 on September 1st.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the seaker for his inspiring address and President N. Alex McColl moved a vote of thanks to A. Rappaport, manager of the local theatre who had contributed $51.75 the proceeds of the show last Tuesday, to the Society.

C. S. Haig, principal of the Public school, reported that pupils had colored 700 posters which had been sent to the homes in town and announced there were 500 more available for distribution to schools throughout the township. Each house that has been canvassed will receive a red sticker to place on the window and members of the executive and canvassers will all wear red buttons to identify them.

W. Kingston reported on the progress made toward preparing the office room on Front street which would be kept open during the campaign. He thanked those who were assisting in making the office possible including Miss B. Wallace, the Water and Light Commission, F. G. DeCarrol and A. D. Bennett.

In answer to a question, Captain Innes announced that local committees of the Red Cross were urged to buy locally though there are some materials which headquarters in Toronto are able to supply.

The Best Way To Pack Tobacco

Getting his product to the smoker in perfect condition is one of the important considerations of the tobacco manufacturer. A large, loosely filled package does not keep the tobacco in as good condition as a smaller package containing the same quantity of tobacco which is firmly packed. The tobacco in the small package not only keeps better, but it also smokes better and retains its full flavor. The latter type of package is that now used in connection with DAILY MAIL Cigarette Tobacco—the brand which has achieved such outstanding popularity among men who roll their own cigarettes. It contains the same quantity and quality and sells at the same price as formerly. You certainly get full value for your money in a ten cent package of DAILY MAIL Cigarette Tobacco. (Advt.)

Ottawa's Confident Rough Riders Seen Before Second Game With Argos

Jovialty, high spirits and plenty of self-confidence was the keynote when Ottawa Rough Riders arrived in Toronto for their Big Four playoff game with Argonauts, second game of a two-game total-point series, which they won 28-6 after an 11-point lead, acquired when they downed the Dominion champions the previous Saturday in Ottawa, 11-0. Symbols of the "Beef Trust" label that has become attached to the Ottawa team are the pair shown at the TOP LEFT, Bunny Wadsworth, 260-pound middle wing plunging star, wearing the cigar, and Tiny Herman, placement-kicking inside, who makes the scales quiver at 270. TOP RIGHT, 20-year-old Tony Golab, dynamic galloping backfielder, who was reason No. 1 for the Riders' win in the first game. Flying wing Tommy Daley, who caught the touchdown pass from Orville Burke for the first playoff score in the first game, receives a medical once-over before arising the day of the game. Discussing strategy and gate receipts at the LOWER RIGHT, are Ross Trimble, Rough Rider coach, left; James P. McCaffrey, team manager, centre; and T. Brown, treasurer.

Hastings, Prince Edward Regiment Advances To Serious Study Of War

(By ROYD BEAMISH,)

PICTON, Nov. 27—The medical examination process known as "re-boarding" and the new regulation barring men under 20 from overseas service has cut some sixty men off its strength, but the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, its recruiting office open for business once again, is keeping pace in training with its brigade brothers in Toronto.

Brigaded with the Toronto Scottish Regiment and the 48th Highlanders of Ontario in the First Canadian Infantry Division, the county regiment has progressed to the stage where advanced military training is its daily diet. Tactical schemes and field engineering have replaced the tedious drill hours of the first few weeks and Eastern Ontario's sole first division infantry unit has begun to study war in all its grim reality.

Quartered in Picton.

Quartered in roomy Picton Barracks, at the end of the long peninsula that curls around the Bay of Quinte, recruits from Trenton, Belleville, Madoc, Picton, Campbellford and Stirling, are training to continue a tradition handed down to them by their ancestors of more than a century ago.

Thirteenth infantry regiment of the line, perpetuating the memory of forces which fought in the war of 1812 and the Rebellion of 1837, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment is hardening into wartime shape under a colonel who has been with the unit since its reorganization nineteen years ago. Lieut.-Col. Sherman Young, a young subaltern in 1920, who entered the regiment upon its creation after the Great War, was busy preparing his men for participation in another world-wide conflict when reporters call on him to-day. And when he displayed the regimental history of his unit, the significance of his command was evident at a glance.

Colonel Young had brave tradition to guide him in his task, for the regiment is the direct offspring of the 16th Prince Edward Regiment of 1863 and the 49th Regiment of Hastings Rifles, 1866, and they in turn descend from militia units which fought in the War of 1812. And on the pay list of the Prince Edward Militia of that year a thrice great-grandfather of Colonel Young occupies an honored place.

Many Young Recruits

Hoary tradition ends in the records, however, for there is nothing about the colonel or the regiment to suggest that they are living in the past. The men are young—younger, perhaps, than in most city regiments—and the spirit of the unit has not been dulled by age. Instead of to the glories of those ancient units that preceded them, they look back more to the war of 1914-18 and the records of such units as the 38th, 80th and 254th Battalions, C.E.F., whom they perpetuate.

The training program of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment parallels that of practically every infantry unit mobilized for active service with the First Division, but this week the men had cause for celebration. Gas masks and battle dress have been issued them, and the novelty of the new equipment put new zest into their training periods.

Proudly and a little self-consciously officers and men of the regiment wore their respirators over their shoulders on parade today. Carefully they cleaned and disinfected them in the barrack ablution rooms after drill was over. With gratification and a certain sense of awe they eyed their comrades who had already been issued with new battle dress, and looked forward to next week, when the entire regiment expects to be thus clad.

The diversity of an infantry regiment's duties was apparent the moment newspapermen arrived at Picton Armouries. Part of the Battalion was out on a tactical scheme in the hills two miles from town. Part was on parade at the Fair Grounds, and the rest were either being re-boarded, or performing various fatigues at the Armouries as duty company for the day.

"Between innoculations, the dentist, and the Medical Board, we haven't had more than half the battalion together at once for more than a week," an officer explained, "but these things have to be done if we're going to be efficient, so we really don't mind so much."

Good Trench Diggers.

With Major A. B. Sutcliffe we visited the Fair Grounds where the greater part of the unit was preparing for O.C.'s inspection, and saw the first line of trenches the regiment had dug.

Three distinct types of trench sprawled across one end of the Fair Grounds—a regular firing trench, with parapet and parados; a string of "rifle pits" linked with "crawl trenches" and a zig-zag adaptation of the same theme.

"That represents half a day's work for a single company," the major said with pardonable pride. "The soil isn't made for trench digging, but they did pretty well."

Perhaps the fact that so many of the regiment are farmers and farmers' sons has made them more efficient in this way than the average city unit, but watching the men at work, and looking at the regiment's history, it was not hard to believe the colonel's terse assertion: "They're sons of soldiers, every one, and this war is just bringing it out for the first time."

Rush Point Ladies Organize For War

HAVELOCK, Nov. 27.—(ENS).—Women of the Rush Point district assembled on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. Curtis and organized the Rush Point United Church Women's Association, which is to undertake war service work in that community, co-operating with the Havelock Red Cross Society. Mrs. E. Curtis was chosen to head the newly formed society as its president, the other officers appointed being as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. Earl Pollock; secretary, Mrs. John Seeney; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Pollock. Mrs. Ross Hart was placed in charge of the distribution of wool.

The organization was carried out with the assistance of representatives of the local Red Cross Society, those who attended the meeting from here being the president, Mrs. Andrew McLauchlin, treasurer Mrs. A. Anderson, Mrs. R. J. McCutcheon, and Mrs. Clare Price, the latter being also the secretary of the Havelock United Church Women's Association. Meetings will be held regularly on the first and third Thursdays of each month at the homes of the different members.

A short devotional service was conducted and refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Tweed Returns Its Council; Fight For Reeve

TWEED, Nov. 27—(ENS).—In the village of Tweed, the 1939 council have been returned for the 1940 year by acclamation, together with the utilities commission. However, there is to be an election in the village when the present reeve will oppose a former reeve, Herb Sayers.

Following is list of council returned to office: J. Fobert, E. W. Jones, S. B. Rollins, A. McCarey.

Utilities Commission — Joseph Rashotte.

Reeveship — C. H. Kerr, present Reeve, to be opposed by W. H. Sayers.

At the nomination ten were nominated for councillorship of the village, but six withdrew their names by closing time on Saturday night, allowing the present council to remain in office.

In the office of utilities commission, Joseph Rashotte, present member of the board, was not opposed and was declared elected at the opening of the nomination meeting.

A very favorable report was given at the nomination on Friday night, at a very orderly meeting. All members were allowed to present their reports in a fair manner, and the meeting as a whole was the best ever held in the village of Tweed.

W. H. Sayers and C. H. Kerr, two prominent men of the village are out for the reeveship and a very close vote is expected, as bothe men have presented very good terms in the office

Villages Raise $2,232

In a statement prepared for Red Cross headquarters, President W. E. Tummon, issued the following:

Tweed village and Sulphide hamlet with a combined population of 1,500 persons have raised a total of $2,232.10 for Red Cross purposes according to returns up to Thursday, Nov. 23."

The returns have not been completed, and it is expected that the total will be increased considerably.

BUILDERS of CANADA

The R.M.S. Britannia, Canada's first steam packet, which made its first Atlantic crossing in July, 1840.

Sir Samuel Cunard

Born in Halifax in 1787, Sir Samuel Cunard was the founder of the Cunard Steamship Line and the pioneer of regular ocean steam navigation. His was the dream of "an ocean railway", as he termed it, with steam operated ships crossing with the regularity of railways on land.

This dream was realized exactly 100 years ago—in 1839—with the formation of the "British and North American Mail Steam Packet Company." The next year, R.M.S. "Britannia" arrived in Halifax, July 16th, 1840, completing her maiden voyage.

TWO TANK RECORDS BROKEN AT SUCCESSFUL "Y" SWIM MEET

Broadview Team Wins Meet Over Local "Y"

Two tank records were broken at the "Y" swim meet here Saturday night between Broadview and Peterborough Y.M.C.A. competitors. The successful program, witnessed by a big crowd, was won by the strong Toronto contingent with 61 to 31 points. Al Marshall broke his own tank record of 35 2-5 seconds when he did the 40-yard breast stroke in 24 1-5. The 40-yard back stroke record was made by Russ Waters of Toronto in 24 3-5 seconds.

Officials at the meet were: Judges, Alex Fitzgerald, Ross Thompson and Don Kelsey, the latter of Toronto; timer, John Dundas; starter, George Ewens of Toronto; recorder, Paul Hickey; master of ceremonies, Gord Minty.

Herb Cardwell and Dave Wilson gave an entertaining exhibition of canoe handling in the "Y" pool to earn applause. George Ewen, diving coach of the Toronto Granite Club, performed in a grand exhibition of diving. And other divers were Stan McBride, Will Wildman and Tom Macdonald. The crowd enjoyed the antics and comic dives of Ed Prete and Jerry Corbett. The Broadview team was coached by George Milburn, with Gord Minty in charge of the Peterborough team.

Stan McBride, with two firsts and a second, led the point-getters with 13 points. Ralph Rogow was second with eight points gained by a first and a second. Al Marshall took a first. PRO PUCK PERSONALITIES

RED HORNER
Toronto Maple Leafs
By Central Press Canadian

One of the most colorful figures of the past 10 years in the National league has been George Reginald (Red) Horner, defenceman for Toronto Maple Leafs and the big all-time penalty-getter in the circuit. Red spent 85 minutes in repentence last season to top the league for the seventh straight season, and his total time in penalties up to the beginning of the current campaign was 1,167 minutes, or 19½ hours. Red came straight from junior hockey ranks to the big time, making his pro debut 11 years ago, after being part of the 1927-28 Toronto Marlboro Memorial Cup winning team. Began acquiring his "bad man" reputation while still a junior during a game with North Bay Trappers, when he and one of the opposition had a much-publicized bumping set-to. "Best worst" season for Red was 1935-36 when he set a league record by sitting out 167 minutes. Of course, he doesn't spent all his time on the ice drawing down official wrath and he's been a sound defensive cog in the many good Leaf machines that have come and gone during his career. One of his best features is his ability to play just as well on the road as he does at home and his rough-and-ready consistent play has drawn many a customer through the turnstiles in every city on the N.H.L. circuit. Scoring totals are 41 goals, 101 assists, 142 points for his 11-year record.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

So it's curtains for the P.C.I.-ers this year, the local senior gridders dropping a tough-luck joust in Toronto on Saturday morn. 'Twas a sudden-death C.O.S.S.A. final, with Port Colborne snatching the 6-3 nod. A touchdown in the final four minutes of play, direct result of a blocked kick, handed the Ports the old ball game. Not too many fans braved the morning chill, but those who accompanied the squads saw a right tasty dish of grid action as served up by two good clubs, teams quite well-matched. Coach Bamforth's gang of Garnet and Gray footballers turned in a pretty fair effort and went down fighting. A spot of hard luck in the dying minutes is all that kept 'em from a Cossa championship.

* * * * * *

Thus ends football in Peterborough for 1939. Orfuns in the senior O.R.F.U. and junior P.C.I. lads concluded their schedules two weeks ago, but the senior P.C.I. pack won their group title and then knocked off the Bay of Quinte victor in playdowns. We don't believe the locals would have sought further honors in provincial competition had they won the C.O.S.S.A. pennant. They did well, the team being not overly strong in several departments, especially defensively. Some of their stars will be graduating this year. Tough luck, P.C.I.—and congrats, Port Colborne.

Soft As Eider Down

It was very comfortable Saturday aft to sit beside a radio and enjoy a big grid fray without getting the fingers frost-bitten trying to scribble off a running account of the thing. The Argos-Ottawa tilt was a lively one, apparently, though one-sided. As one listened to one Argo boner after another—and added up the final lopsided pasting—one wondered if perhaps the Orfuns were so wobbly after all, this season. Even the Orfuns stopped Tony Golab pretty well in this town a year ago. However, the Riders have a great squad, one built up over a period of time with liberal importations, and they should mop up on Sarnia and perhaps knock off the Bombers a week from next Saturday for Dominion honors.

* * * * * *

That victory for the Big Four title will cause some head-waggin' down in the Capital City, those cynics who claimed the fix was in when the Rough Riders dropped their only game of the season in Ottawa several weeks ago now talking out loud. But such ideas are screwy as ya can't fix a football game without a lot of leaks showing. Furthermore, when the fix is in it clicks when and where the average person never suspects—not at a time when a game is spotlighted. It took a year after the 1919 Black Sox scandal before anything gave—and then the public was nearly shocked goofy! We enjoyed listening to the fray Saturday, though Red Foster forgot he was an announcer and went fan at times. However, a calm assistant filled in when Red got out of control.

Ho Hum, The Imps Again

Sarnia Imperials are in again as senior O.R.F.U. champs, and our best wishes to the gallant young Imps—with a few veterans—Coach Art Massucci and Scribe Red Wilson. Who, incidentally, is the No. 1 football fan of the Tunnel Town. Massucci must rate among the best coaches, if not tops, in the Dominion. Year after year he trots out a winning club. This year he lost mainstays like Stirling, Golab, McWatters, Hayes, and others—yet the Imps, who barely nosed out the Orfuns here, trounced the mighty Montreal Westmounts in the playoffs and now meet Ottawa in the Eastern Canada final. Dunno how Art does it—maybe he uses mirrors, has an Aladdin's lamp, or prays a lot! Or maybe he is a smart grid mentor who can pick young talent and teach 'em the game.

Frank Buckland and Bill Jackson represented the local Hockey Club at the annual O.H.A. meeting in Toronto on Saturday. It was a big harmonious session with everything rolling along okay. Finances of this association are hunky-dory and the O.H.A. looks for another good season. Only two changes in the playing rules. One concerns the long shot down the ice by a team stalling. Previously, if the puck went over the rival team's red line, play was called back for a faceoff in the zone of the team shooting the disc away. But now, if a defenceman is in a position to stop the puck ere it crosses the red line, play is not called back. In other words, the guy can't stand there and let it roll over—expecting a faceoff. Other new rule has it that an offside play—when the wing tears over the blue line on the attack ahead of the puck carrier—is not called if a defender intercepts the puck. It's called a "slow whistle" play.

Still After Oshawa

Percy Bond and R. M. Glover interviewed the Oshawa contingent on possibility of a senior "B" team from that town in with Belleville, Fliers and Petes. At first, they wouldn't consider it at all, but later promised to think the matter over. Mr. Bond argued himself blue in the face for an hour or more before the Motor City gang would even concede that much. So, there is still hope. A possible junior "B" group may consist of Lindsay, Port Hope, Oshawa and Peterborough—thought this isn't definite yet. After the next executive meeting of the O.H.A., inside of a week, groupings may be announced definitely.

"Y" natatorium was packed to the doors and window sills Saturday e'en for the successful Broadview-Peterborough Y.M.C.A. swim meet. Coaches Geo. Milburn of Toronto and Gord Minty of the local "Y" had their charges in fighting form and keen competition resulted, including a busted tank record. Stan McBride helped himself to 13 points in a neat showing, Ralph Rogow was second, and Al Marshall copped a first, just to mention a few of the homebrew aqua artists. And Dave Wilson and Herb Cardwell earned applause with their clever canoe work in the pool. The strong Toronto team won the meet by 61 to 31 points. A successful water show all around.

Armstrong Must Swing Higher If He Hopes To Take Crown Away From Lou Ambers

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, down to his last boxing title, is going to raise his sights.

The husky, dusky little guy will have to, or he may be shorn of his world welterweight championship—the prize he and Lou Ambers will seek in a 15-round engagement Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

Last August, the two met for the lightweight title, then held by Henry, but the crown was shifted to Ambers' brow because Henry was guilty of firing too many low blows—blows which cost him a handful of rounds and the fight.

So he'll be in there peppering away Friday, with his sights aimed at Lou's head.

The prospect of seeing these two champions whaling away at each other is so pleasing that Mike Jacobs, promoter of the 20th Century Sporting Club—putting on his eighth 147-pound title match in five years—thinks there will be 13,000 persons in the house and $50,000 in the till.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Brooklyn Dodgers will not broadcast their Sunday games next summer . . . Tom Kester, 18-year-old Corning, N.Y., bowler who had a 300 game last year, rolled games of 214, 214, 214 in a league match the other night.

George Brown, who announced his retirement after a long sojourn with Les Canadiens, now is trying out for a defence job with Boston Bruins . . . another ex-star, Red Beattie, is trying to land a job with Vancouver Lions . . . Incidentally, what happened to Frankie Brimsek's goal-tending this season? Without Eddie Shore in there, Brimsek is just ordinary.

Sweeney Schriner, ace scorer of New York Americans who was traded to Toronto this season misses his former mate Art Chapman . . . Sweeney sure could use those scoring shots, Chapman used to set up.

Al Jensen, widely known fight manager, died at Daytona Beach recently. He was holder of one of the straight-away auto speed records at Daytona . . . Ten minutes after the deer season opened in Stuben County, N.Y., Thorn Thomas of Bath bagged a 10-point buck.

The other day a Connecticut paper printed that Charlie O'Keefe had kicked a 241-yard field goal . . . Next day the correction appeared in the paper as follows: "Typographical error department! The telephone has been buzzing since Monday night. We've had calls from New York the story we had in this pillar last night about Charlie O'Keefe's Yale University, Boston College, Fordham University, Dartmouth College, University of Connecticut and New York University after Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Green Bay Packers, Chicago Bears?—"241-yard" field goal."

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

One week from tonight, at 8 p.m. the winter meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club will be held in the club rooms on Charlotte street. Already notices to this effect have been mailed by the secretary, H. F. Foote.

At this meeting, no doubt, many topics will come up for discussion; many ideas will be argued, pro and con, and many suggestions will be offerd, but behind all these the main object of the meeting is to select the schedule rinks for the coming 1939-40 season.

We know that the membership committee has several new members lined up, with applications and money, and we also know there are a lot of last year's members who have not, as yet, signed applications for the season. In order to make this coming meeting a successful one it is important that before Monday, December 4, all curlers intending to curl this season should have their application and $2 or more with it in the hands of the secretary by that time.

Tom McArthur is chairman of the membership committee and H. F. Foote is secretary of the club. These two gentlemen will be glad to assist. We may have more information later on in the week, as the membership committee meets on Wednesday evening.

Births in Cuba in the last six years totaled 608,701, and deaths 343,000.

Ottawa Meets Sarnia Next Saturday

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—(CP)—Sites for the Eastern Canada and the Dominion senior football finals were set down today but not without protest from interested communities.

Ottawa Rough Riders, champions of the Big Four, were satisfied when the Canadian Rugby Union decided yesterday that they should play Sarnia's Ontario Union champions next Saturday at Toronto in the eastern final. The C.R.U. promised that if the Riders win that one their game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the national championship will be played at Ottawa, December 9.

Sarnia, however, wasn't entirely pleased at the agreement reached at yesterday's meeting here, for it meant the Imperials will end their season away from home. The C.R.U. ruled that if the Imperials beat Ottawa they will play the national test with Winnipeg in Toronto, too.

Gate Receipts Bigger

But Sarnia, realizing that gate receipts in Toronto will be about four times as great as at home, wasn't so loud in protest as Winnipeg. Manager Joe Ryan of the Blue Bombers thought the west, which sends its team east every year, should have some say in deciding the locale of the playoff, and he wanted it in Toronto.

"We couldn't please everybody," said J. E. DeLalanne, president of the C.R.U. "We tried to be fair and tried not to be governed too much by the matter of gate receipts. You can't trust the weather anywhere in December and we think there's a good chance of a favorable day in Ottawa Dec. 9."

But Ryan, though he said the Bombers would play "where the Canadian Rugby Union wants us to play," declared that "weather condition in that city (Ottawa) are always uncertain in December." From a weather standpoint and from the standpoint of crowd accommodations, he preferred Toronto.

"Surely we are entitled to some concessions, since we know we are likely never to get a title game on the prairies."

Delalanne explained that the consent of prairie members of the C.R.U. was obtained before the playoff arrangement was made.

LEAFS ARE HALTED BY AMERKS WHILE CANADIENS DROP GAME

Toronto Wins 4-3 Saturday Night But Drops Overtime Game For First Loss Of N.H.L. Season

By ROBERT CLARKE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Put back that ticket puncher, conductor, for it looks as if Mervyn (Red) Dutton isn't going to send down a bunch of the boys to the minor leagues after all.

Last Thursday, after New York Americans dropped a decision to Detroit Red Wings for their fifth straight National Hockey League loss, Dutton threatened a shake-up in the club and informed his players he wanted a victory or his men could start looking up railroad timetables to the minors.

Thus it was that the Amerks practically could hear train whistles tooting as they took the ice Saturday night in Toronto against the Maple Leafs. They dropped a 4-3 decision, running their losing streak to six, but they showed improvement in their play. Last night at New York they finally managed to break into the winning column with a 2-1 overtime victory over the same Leafs.

The ending of the American losing streak also meant an end to the undefeated record of the Leafs, who had gone six games unbeaten. The Toronto speedsters, in first place in the standing, have a record now of five victories, a draw and a loss in seven games.

The week-end also saw Montreal Canadiens knocked from the undefeated track. The Flying Frenchmen, boasting four victories and two draws in six games, were walloped 6-4 in their seventh contest by Detroit Red Wings Saturday. In Sunday games, Chicago Black Hawks beat Detroit 4-2 while Boston Bruins and New York Rangers played a 2-2 overtime tie.

Nearly 13,000 fans, largest crowd of the Toronto season, saw Gordie Drillon pace the Leafs to their Saturday victory. Drillon, leading all scorers in the N.H.L. with seven goals and five assists, bagged two goals while Bingo Kampman and Reg Hamilton scored the others. Wilf Field, Murray Armstrong and Harvey (Busher) Jackson scored for the Amerks.

In the game at New York, with 12,000 watching, little Eddie Wiseman scored the overtime goal that gave the Americans victory. Previously the Americans had taken the lead with a goal by Lorne Carr in the early part of the third period only to see Dave (Sweeney) Schriner, with the Americans last year, tie it up with only nine seconds from the end of regulation time.

Top-point getter of the week-end was youthful Gus Giesbrecht of the Wings, who assisted in three goals against Canadiens and had a goal and an assist as the Wings went down before the Hawks.

In the victory over Canadiens at Montreal, each Detroit goal went to a different man. The Wings scorers were Jimmy Orlando, Jack Keating, Ebbie Goodfellow, Mud Bruneteau, Don Deacon, and Syd Howe. Hector (Toe) Blake of Canadiens marked up his fifth and sixth goals of the season while Louis Trudel and Ray Getliffe supplied the other Montreal scores.

The Hawks, playing in Detroit, won over the Wings on a pair of goals by Joffre Desilets and singles by Cully Dahlstrom and Johnny Gottselig. Giesbrecht and Carl Liscombe scored the Detroit goals.

Eddie Shore, Herbie Cain and Art Jackson had a monopoly on the Boston scoring points, all three figuring in the two Bruins goals. Cain got the first with Shore and Jackson assisting, while on the second counter shore got the score with assists going to Cain and Jackson.

At least two of the Rangers—Clint Smith and Bryan Hextall found some consolation in gaining a draw with the Bruins. Last season Smith and Hextall were among five players in the league who managed to score 20 goals or more. This year the two Rangers aces had been goalless through seven games. They bagged the New York tallies in the encounter at Boston for their first scores of the season.

Rough Riders Being Picked To Meet West

By JACK CALDER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—(CP)—Winnipeg's football leaders are among the observers who think Ottawa's massive Rough Riders will play Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Dominion senior football final December 9.

Manager Joe Ryan and Coach Reg. Threlfall of the Bombers were among the 19,239 customers who saw the Riders storm over Toronto Argonauts 28-6 in the deciding game of the Interprovincial Union finals Saturday and came away convinced of the Ottawa power. They said their "information" indicated the Riders would sweep aside Sarnia in the eastern final this week.

The new champions didn't have to turn on fancy stuff to subdue the Dominion titlists of 1937 and '38 and they conserved the energy of their brightest backfield light, big Tony Golab, when the battle was well won.

Argo Backfield Crippled

Eleven points up on the round after their 11-0 victory in the first game, the Riders could afford to wait for the desperate Argos to come to them and make mistakes. The Toronto backfield was crippled and when Clary Burt, Frank Sirdevan and Art Evans were taken from the line with injuries in the early minutes the Argo ship was scuttled.

The Riders showed scarcely anything of the dazzling technique that has made them the most feared force in the east. True, they made 243 yards from scrimmage to 69 for the Argos. But they made only 10 first downs to 11 and a lot of their yardage came on two huge gains by Andy Tommy and Golab.

The first Argo mistake was a decision to plunge on third down in the Toronto half of the field. Teddy Morris failed to make yards, Ottawa took the ball and Ernie McWatters kicked a single point.

The second error was Bill Stukus' hesitation in picking up another kick of McWatters behind his goal-line. McWatters charged down and fell on the ball for a touchdown, converted by Tiny Herman.

By the time the second quarter ended Ottawa was another point up on a kick by Sammy Sward and the Toronto line was crippled so badly George Willis was carrying most of the tackling load on the secondary defence.

It was a rout from then on, with one brief interruption for the Argo touchdown

Tommy caught the kickoff in the third quarter and ran back eight yards to his 29. On second down he cut through the line and raced to the Argo one-yard line, where he was forced beyond bounds. On second down he plunged for a touch, Tiny Herman converting that as he did all the others.

Doug McPherson halted the procession when he broke through to intercept an Ottawa lateral and ran 22 yards for a touchdown. Earl Selkirk converted from placement.

Bill Stukus caught Herman's kickoff and ran back 13 yards to his 25, then passed to Bernie Thornton for a gain to the 54 on first down. He tried to pass again and Sward intercepted, kicking to the deadline on Ottawa's third down for a point.

When Argos scrimmaged on their 25, Golab intercepted another pass by Bill Stukus and hammered his way to the nine-yard line, from where the ball was advanced half the distance to the goal-line on a penalty. Golab plunged across on second down.

The last Ottawa touch came after the Argos' fourth unsuccessful onside kick. Golab caught it at the Toronto 39 and from there Orville Burke faded to pass. He was tackled twice, got up each time and finally threw a touchdown pass to Tommy Daley.

Sarnia Captures Its Ninth O.R.F.U. Title

MONTREAL, Nov. 27—(CP). — Like Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean of the baseball world, Sarnia Imperials offered proof today that the "nothing ball" has a place on the gridiron.

Almost blown off the field here Saturday by the force of Montreal Westmounts' attack, the Imperials still managed to win their ninth consecutive Ontario Rugby Football Union title through capitalizing on Westmount fumbles.

The Imperials didn't throw a forward pass, tried only a couple of end runs and made only one first down to 20 for the Westies. But they turned three of nine Westmount fumbles into touchdowns, winning the second game of a two-game, total-points series by 18-13. The Imps took the round 31-14, qualifying to meet Ottawa Rough Riders in the Eastern Canadian final.

Westmounts tried desperately with an air attack to overtake the Imperials. They tried 32 tosses and completed 12 for a gain of 204 yards, but generally when they got within striking distance of the goal-line the Sarnia pass defence tightened.

Two fumbles by Ray Mullins, kicking half, and one by Halfback Cliff McClay gave the Imperials their touches. Mullins made his first error on the opening kickoff, when he dropped a return kick by Hank Galloway. Ike Norris kicked the ball downfield and then scooped it up to race over for a try. In the second quarter Mullins fumbled on the one-yard line, and Nick Rapaich recovered for Sarnia. Mike Hedgewick went over. McClay fumbled a punt behind the goal-line late in the last quarter and Lyle Withers fell on the ball.

Tommy Burns and Jimmy Riddell scored touchdowns for Westmounts and both were converted by Johnny Ferraro. Burns' came in the third quarter while Riddell scored in the last frame on a quarter sneak, after setting the ball up on the four-yard line by taking a 15-yard pass from Ferraro.

Trojans Defeat Notre Dame

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The New Year's Day Rose Bowl prospectors, looking for gold in their tills rather than gold in them thar hills, will be doing their surveying in earnest this week as United States College football all but winds up the 1939 season in a blaze of glory.

Word from the West has Southern California and Tennessee lined up for the Rose Bowl. New Orleans is plugging for Tulane against the best available, probably Texas A. and M. for its Sugar Bowl. Dixie Howell's border conference champions from Temple (Ariz.) state will be hosts in the Sun Bowl.

Of the title-winners, Cornell was the most impressive Saturday. The big Red Brigade marched over Pennsylvania 26-0 to its first Ivy League title since 1923.

While Southern California's Trojans gained no championship, they added to their reputation by the manner in which they overcame Notre Dame 20-12. The winners showed so much power that there appears little likelihood of their being stopped short of the Pacific Coast crown.

Ohio State and Texas A. and M. backed into their championships. The Buckeyes were beaten 21-14 by Michigan. Despite the loss, the fact that a tired Iowa team, which lost Nile Kinnick on an injury after 402 minutes of play without relief, was tied by Northwestern 7-7, gave Ohio State the Big 10 title.

The Aggies, who play Texas Thursday in their finale, clinched first place in the Southwest Conference although they were idle as Southern Methodist upset Baylor, the last threat to Texas, 21-0.

MELTING SOUVENIRS

ADELAIDE, Australia—(CP). — City dwellers rushed out to Mount Lofty when a snowfall was reported there, and eagerly wrapped drift snow in newspapers. But the brief flurry, first in South Australia in years, soon melted.

Wells Are Low, Farmers Require Water

All last week farmers in this district took heart at the prevalence of east winds and white frosts, believing that the rain so badly needed in this section was at least on its way and all week bright sunshine continued to knock their hopes to the ground.

The situation in regard to water supply is admittedly bad. Many wells have gone dry and farmers have been forced to draw water from streams or from the wells of more fortunate neighbors. Creeks are running very low and dirt roads have been as dusty as in summer.

Farmers who were in attendance at the market on Saturady were hopeful that the old saying that winter did not set in in earnest until the wells were filled would hold good. "Water is scrace," George Mullen of Smith township told The Examiner. "We had to dig a new well in the hope of getting a supply and other farmers have been having their troubles."

"We are in a bad way in our district," said P. Carroll of R.R. 4, Port Houe. "Most wells are dry and if the real freeze-up comes now before there is a good rain it will be a tough lockout."

Offa W. Williamson of Bailleboro, on the contrary, said he had not heard any complaints from the area although rain would be welcome, he said.

In the section between Rice Lake and Cobourg, the drought seems to have been particularly bad, according to farmers from that district.

Bad In Hastings Area.

From Hastings, the report is the shortage of water in wells in this district has reached a serious stage, according to farmers and householders alike. Some farmers are forced to drive their cattle and horses distances up to a mile to the closest creek or the river. This means, in several cases, cross country as done by English brothers of Asphodel township. Cisterns in a good many cases have gone dry in the village and surrounding country and householders are forced to draw water to their homes from the nearest source.

Samuel Hatherly, pump repair man at Hastings for many years, said he believed there was a greater shortage of water at present than ever was before. He cited instances where wells, never before known to dry up, have refused to give up any more water and other cases where the quantity drawn is limited.

A well on the property of John Coveney in the village was, at one time, thought it would never dry up. Mr. Hatherly said that about forty years ago when the hand pumper was used to extinguish fires, this well gave up enough water to save a house from burning when the pumper drew its supply from it. However, it too went dry this fall.

Mr. Hatherly expressed opinion that unless rain falls in a few days, many more wells will be in the same category.

Salvage Boats For Aircraft On Both Coasts

OTTAWA, Nov. 27 — (CP). — Small, speedy motor boats equipped for aircraft salvage and life-saving and powerful enough to combat all weather, will operate shortly on the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts to aid Royal Canadian Air Force machines and crews which may be forced down at sea, it was learned to-day.

Tenders have been received for an initial order of eight of these craft and contracts will be awarded within a few days, an official of the War Supply Board said. Costing about $15,000 each, they will be unarmed.

These craft are in addition to the fleet of 30 "whale-catcher" type anti-submarine boats of steel construction which it was announced some time ago would be ordered from Canadian shipyards at a cost of about $12,000,000. Of these craft 20 are for Canadian naval duty and 10 for the British Government.

Designs also are being worked out for an additional eight larger aircraft salvage boats, wireless equipped, for similar work on both coasts in conjunction with the Air Force on tasks which would be beyond the capacity of the smaller life-saving fleet.

When the salvage fleet is in operation the danger of loss of life and property to reconnaissance and patrol work over the ocean caused by falling motors or other mishaps in flight will be largely removed.

Five of each class of salvage craft will operate on the Pacific Coast and three of each type on the Atlantic Coast. The smaller craft will be about 36 feet long with a top speed of 40 knots and wide cruising range. They will not have wireless.

Of mahogany plank construction with double skinned hulls, these speedy craft will be rushed to sea when news comes of a plane being being forced to the surface at sea. They will be prepared to give first-aid to crews, salvage the machine and tow it home if possible, or rush injured men to hospital.

The 30 anti-submarine vessels, for which contracts are expected to be announced shortly, will carry guns, torpedoes, and depth charges, and will be purely war craft ready for both defence and offensive operations. They will be steel-hulled and probably steam operated.

Reporting Days Are Recalled

Reminiscences, some of them gay, some grave, from his long experience as a newspaperman, were used by A. R. Kennedy, editor of The Examiner in addressing the Peterborough Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon at the Empress Hotel today.

Introduced by E. L. Sackville, president of the club, Mr. Kennedy described some of his interesting experiences in newspaper work, from the day he started as an apprentice at $1.50 a week. Among other things he told of his adventures as editor of a miners' publication at Fernie, B.C., where his principal duty was to follow Big Bill Heywood around the country as he delivered his inflamatory addresses to foreign-born miners, many of whom could speak no English.

"I formed my opinion then," said Mr. Kennedy, "that we were not making much of a job of making Canadian citizens of those newcomers. We left their education to these other folk."

The speaker told of some of the gruesome things that reporters encounter in their job of reporting the news, illustrating by personal experiences, and in a lighter vein, some of the amusing things that had happened during his reporting days. A tribute was paid to the remarkable memory of the late M. O. Hammond of the Globe who could recall dates and figures from perhaps a dozen interviews in a day, without taking a single note.

The thanks of Rotary were extended to Mr. Kennedy by President Sackville.

Before the address the president told Rotarians that Gordon Munro, who has been ill in Toronto, was making satisfactory progress.

Kimball Faces Second Charge

Ross Kimball, 19, of R.R. 3, Peterborough, who was arrested last week on a vagrancy charge after a fourteen-year-old girl who left her foster home on Hallowe'en had been discivered in Campbellford, faced a new charge in Police Court this morning.

It was that on October 31 he had aided the girl to escape from a training school within the meaning of the Training Schools Act. The girl is a ward of the Galt School for Girls.

Kimball was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., pleaded not guilty, and stated that he was ready for trial.

"I have to bring witnesses from Galt," said Crown Attorney McElderry in asking for a remand.

The case was enlarged until Friday, with bail fixed at $500.

Driving Is Dangerous After Dark In Britain

Cars Unable To Use Lights Hit Pedestrians

A letter received by a local resident from his sister in Scotland refers to the deaths caused by the black-out in Great Britain since that law came into force. One fatality in Scotland was related as follows:

Her cousin and a chum were returning from a picture show in Ayr, motoring to Prestwick. They saw a man stumble as he crossed the road ahead of their car. They stopped the car and were about to assist the man to the sidewalk. A bus came along as they were lifting the man to his feet, and ran over him, killing him instantly. The wheels of the bus also passed over the cousin's foot, grazing his face and bruising it. As a result of that experience he has decided to leave his car in the garage until spring. Such are the dangers of driving after dark in the Auld Land.

Two Bad Crashes On Highways

Four persons had a narrow escape from death or serious injury in two automobile crashes on highways in this area Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hall, 301 Margaret avenue, had an experience they will not soon forget when they missed death by inches as their car almost crashed head-on into a trailer load of poles on the Lakefield Road. Mr. Hall saw the obstruction on the highway just in time to swerve his car enough ao avert a complete collision with the load of poles, but one of the latter ripped the glass out of the right side of the Hall car from the front door back to the rear. Mrs. Hall was sitting on that side and fortunately the impact came just behind her and she escaped unhurt, although she was suffering from shock after the accident.

The truck belonged to Bruce Parker and was in charge of Frank Clarke, Edinburgh street. His machine had run out of gas near the Winonah tourist camp and was motionless when the Hall car came along.

Provincial Traffic Officer Gordon E. Broughton investigated the accident.

Later Saturday night R. W. Hallam of Toronto and a passenger in his car had a narrow escape when their machine failed to make the turn at the top of the hill north of Bewdley and rolled off the road into the ditch. Traffic Officer Lloyd McClure who investigated the accident reports the car as very badly damaged. The occupants fortunately escaped with a few bruises.

Four Men Given Jail Terms In Reformatory

Clarence Harrison, Peterborough, theft of goods from the Canadian General Electric Company, 22 months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

John William Frizelle, Peterborough, theft of goods from the Canadian General Electric Company, 18 months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

Harold Wynne, Peterborough and Thomas Wynne, Toronto, receiving stolen goods 15 months definite and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

These were the sentences imposed this morning by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., upon the four men who had previously pleaded guilty in connection with the theft of electric motors, wire and other articles from the Canadian General Electric Company. The sentences in each case are to date from the day upon which the accused pleaded guilty.

Harrison was the first man called for sentence and W. J. Arthur Fair addressed the court in his behalf.

"This is an unusual case in some respects," he said as he went on to explain that Harrison was a young man with a wife and family and a clean record up to this time. His client, he explained, had started by taking for his own use used articles that were of no particular value to the company. That had developed into the carrying off of other goods and Mr. Fair intimated that later this had been done under threats of exposure. "He is not bad at heart," said defence counsel.

Going On Two Years

"This has been going on for at least two years," said Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C. "A large number of small motors of from $10 to $16 in value were taken and the total would run into a large sum." He added that the goods had been taken out by Harrison and disposed of by the Wynnes.

"The offence to which you have pleaded guilty," Magistrate Langley said to Harrison "is viewed by the courts as more serious than ordinary theft for servants are in a position of trust. This was a very serious business and has been apparently been going on for some time. It is clear you had a guilty mind over a long period."

His Worship then sentenced Harrison to 22 months determinate and six months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory.

To Harold Wynne who was next sentenced Magistrate Langley said that he could find no evidence of innocence in his case. It was necessary not only to punish the offender but to warn others against such conduct. "It is too serious a business to treat lightly," he said as he imposed a sentence of 15 months definite and six months indeterminate.

A Serious Matter

Thomas Wynne, Toronto, a brother, received the same punishment.

"I am glad to hear that your employer has confidence enough in you to offer your job back again," said the magistrate. "However, you heard what I said to your brother. This is a serious matter and I have my duty to perform."

Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., who appeared for the two Wynnes had made his representations in their behalf at a previous session of the court.

John A. Bradshaw defended John William Frizelle, the last of the accused to be sentenced and on his behalf called a former employer who gave character evidence, stating that Frizelle has been scrupulously honest while in his employ.

Mr. Bradshaw pointed out that Frizelle had got into trouble because he was too good-natured and weak and had been led into it by others. He declared that his client had not carried off goods to sell. Further he added that the number of stolen motors mentioned in a statement given to the police was wrong and that the total was not more than 25 altogether.

Mr. Bradshaw declared that in such cases it was necessary for the crown to call evidence or else that the prisoner's statement should be accepted as correct.

Crown Attorney McElderry said that he did not propose to call witnesses. "My learned friend has named 26 motors," he said, "I am willing to leave it at that."

Magistrate Langley said that in view of what had been said by Frizelle's counsel and the fact that the number of motors taken by him was apparently not as large as had first been thought he would make the sentence in his case 18 months definite and six months indeterminate.

"I am sorry for all you men," he said as the prisoners were taken out of the court room.

Those Letters ENS

"ENS" are the letters that are puzzling readers of the Peterborough Examiner these days. They mean "Examiner News Service" and replace the old "(Examiner Correspondence)" of the past. The new letters are easier to set in type, identify the subject matter just as readily, and are perhaps more accurate since a great deal of news reaching this office from its many correspondents is not by letter but by telephone and telegraph. Any news story from now on carrying the letters "ENS" after the date line is the work of an Examiner correspondent.

Men Required To Train For Mechanics

A large increase in the number of mechanics to be trained at Galt for the R.C.A.F. is announced by the government and application forms are available at the Employment Service of Canada branch on King street.

Already three youths from this district are in attendance at the school. They are Frank McNulty of Peterborough, son of Dr. F. P. McNulty, Rex Forsythe of Bridgenorth, and Harold F. Lumsden of Norwood.

The class which they joined was to train 200 boys from all parts of the province as aircraft mechanics. Now another school is to be opened on April 1, and will last six months. Because the work of sorting out the best qualified men for the training requires considerable time, applications must be sent in soon. The course at Guelph will continue until 600 air mechanics have been trained, it was announced.

While no applicant is asked to enlist in the Air Force before enrollment in the classes, it is understood that he must be willing, on acceptance, to enlist for a period of five years on service at any point to which he may be transferred.

Applicants must be from 18 to 25 years of age, must be British subjects, medically fit and unmarried. They must have no other Army affiliations. They must be graduates of a recognized Technical school or have specialized in a trade allied to an air force trade, or have junior matriculation certificate. Free transportation will be provided to successful applicants to Guelph and a living allowance of $9 a week is provided for board and lodging. This course is under the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training scheme.

Radio Operators

Another field in which oportunity for training is being offered is through the Dominion government's Department of Labor, A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., revealed today. A class for radio operators is being held at Trenton, requiring the same qualifications as for air mechanics, and some practical experience is preferred. Another, similar, class is soon to open at St. Thomas and probably other trades allied with aerial training will be included.

Second Form Pupils Present Skit

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 27—(ENS)—The first regular meeting of the Lakefield High School literary Society was held on Thursday afternoon with a most interesting program, Isobel Millage, the new president, presided.

Votes of thanks were tendered Rev. George Kelly and J. A. Porter for the use of the United church basement to serve lunch to the Cobourg rugby team at the time of the game with the local team. Also to those who loaned cars for the transportation of the High School team to Cobourg.

George Wong extended a vote of appreciation to the old executive for their work during the previous term of office. Plans were made for a dance to be held in the Memorial Hall on December 8.

Archie Stewart was appointed critic for the meeting. A short skit taken from a scene of Pickwick Papers, was given by Second Form pupils with Mr. F. Munro as coach.

A trio composed of Helen Kelly, Betty Brown and Alvilda Pearson gave as their number, "The Man With the Mandolin." Murieta Hull's solo was entitled "Good-by Mr. Moon, Hello, Mr. Sun." A recitation by Joan Kelly gave a description of a woman's advice on driving a car from the back seat. "South of the Border," was the name of the number which a group of girls from Form Two sang. Alvilda Pearson sang a number entitled "Good Morning. A short sing-song followed with Minnie Charlton at the piano.

A piano solo, "Spanish Dance," was played by Jean Garbutt, which was followed by Jean Millio's tap-dancing number. Playing her own accompaniment on the guitar, Maxine Hunter gave a vocol solo.

Mable Hockaday also had a piano solo, and as there was still some time left, L. Mintchel proposed a debate, "Resolved, that Middle School department examinations be discontinued." George Tanner taking the affirmative and Gordon Hampton the negative. The decision was given in favor of the affirmative.

The singing of the National Anthem brought the program to a close.

Accompanists for the program were Minnie Charlton and Leona Murphy.

Citizens Come To Aid Of Lytle Family

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lytle are learning that people of this land are warm-hearted, generous, ready to sacrifice for others in time of need.

Already bedding, clothes to wear, even money have gone unsolicited to the unfortunate couple who lost three of their children when their home burned to the ground recently. Donations have gone from people in Dummer township, where they live, from the nearby village of Norwood, and from this city. Cash donations totalling $7.50 have been left at the Examiner as well as bundles of cooking utensils.

"Every man and woman on my concession has contributed something," declared Reeve Robert Martin of Dummer. "All over the township people have responded." He said the U.F.O. of South Dummer had contributed $30 and its members had added to that figure by personal donations of necessities. At the county council session here last week various reeves brought donations and Clerk Miss Jennie Batten burned over a quantity of articles she and her friends had collected, he said.

At Norwood Reeve Russell Thompson said that while his municipality need accept no responsibility, yet many residents had contributed generously toward relieving the plight in which the Lytles find themselves.

But despite this generous response, there is still great need of help. When a man's home burns to the ground and all its furnishings go up in flames, it takes a lot of donations to get started again. There is urgent need at the hunting shack where they now live for some kind of covering for the floor, because the cracks in the boards are wide and the draught is cold. The Lytles need chairs, tables, stove pipes, cooking utensils, dishes, a stove for heating, bedding, pillows, curtain, blinds, and food. They have enough bedsteads now, but that's about all that they have in plenty.

Appointments Are Confirmed

Two appointments of the week were confirmed by by-law at the final session of the county council Saturday. Mrs. Ethel Fry becomes officially superintendent and matron of the House of Refuge at $720 for the year beginning December 1, and Dr. H. E. Moore, of Lakefield, is physician to the House at $200 for the same year.

Reeve J. R. Thompson, Norwood, asked that some steps be taken for the improvement of Findlay's Bridge in the village. It had been patched up and was in satisfactory condition for the winter. His request was left to the January sessions, and in the meantime the road committee will determine whether the bridge is sufficiently long to qualify for county assumption.

Reeve McColl, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, gave an interim report on work done during the year. The complete statement will not be ready until January. The road leading to the county forest cost $929; the Westwood bridge $5,659; Ennismore grading $700! Smith grading $650; North Douro, $2,250; Asphodel road improvement $1,700.

The complaint of Golden Andrews of Asphodel of discrimination in the city against county auctioneers will be communicated to the city council with a request for reciprocal treatment in the city of auctioneers living in the county.

'Y' Dances Gain Increasing Popularity

The capacity crowd of young people who thronged the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium Saturday evening proved conclusively that the new "Y" Saturday night dances have planted themselves firmly in the hearts of local dance fans. The second in a series of dances that will run through the winter, the attendance topped the opening record of nearly 300, and at one time well over 150 couples were merrily swinging out on the dance floor at the one time.

Run in conjunction with the Peterborough-Broadview "Y" swimming meet, the dance was complete with decoration, fine music and well conducted dancing that made the first event such a stand-out success. Music was again furnished in the capable manner of Mose Yokum, and the gym was decorated with multi-colored crepe paper streamers billowing from the centre of the ceiling to the gallery railing. A new feature this year is an especially constructed platform for the band.

Bill Davies and Muriel Stinson, "Curly" Donoghue and Helen Johnston won the spot dances, and Chum Gillespie and Muriel Miles won the door prize, drawn for by the band leader, Mose Yokum.

Stewart-McGee Saturday Vows

HASTINGS, Nov. 27—(ENS).—The marriage took place at the United Church, Norwood, on Saturday of Marguerite Isobel, daughter of Mrs. Samuel McGee, and the late Samuel McGee, to Mr. Jack J. Stewart, son of Mrs. F. J. Stewart and the late F. J. Stewart of Norwood.

Believes Ribbed Socks Best For War Duty

Good stout, rib-legged socks for actual duty is the soldier's real need in woollen footwear, according to Mrs. David Miller of Warsaw, the wife of a farmer and soldier who is on his feet a great deal, and a woman whose work among the soldiers in the last Great War has made her fully aware of what provides comfort in socks.

While women are asked to follow Red Cross directions for knitting, which is 20 stitches on a needle, Mrs. Miller told an Examiner reporter that many of the women in her district feel this would make the sock too large—she herself uses 15 stitches to a needle when using Bonnerworth yarn, but says that a softer yarn might do with 15 stitches on 2 needles and 18 on one. In Mrs. Miller's opinion, fingering yarn may be all right for Sunday wear; for men at home; for officers who are or may be able to get their laundry done properly, or who are not on their feet so much, but for men on the march or in dugouts, with their socks washed "any old way," she believes a good wheeling yarn sock, ribbed, will give the longest and most comfortable wear. Because few of the men wear gaiters, the ribbed two-one sock will cling and stay up better than a plain knit. Mrs. Miller explained, a point which would not occur to women who have not had her experience.

Unless the men launder their own, they rarely get their own socks back, with the result that often a man with a small foot must wear a sock knit for a much larger size foot, or some other poor soldier must bear with a sock that is much too short.

Laughingly recalling her difficulties in the last war, Mrs. Miller remarked that she was "green enough even after what my husband had told me, to think the men would be returned their own socks, but the soldiers had the laugh on me when I started trying to get their own garments back to them—the only thing I could do was to try to get night-shirts, underwear and socks that came near the needed size."

Socks, according to our informant, should be made in number of sizes. A sock which fits a larger leg is cumbersome on a "spindle-shank," but if ribbed will stay up better; heels last longer if double-knit, and are more comfortable; the soles and toes should be plain knit—ribbed soles would be nearly as bad as peas in the shoes, Mrs. Miller said, in summing up her remarks.

We Noticed

....Before the party season is over, girls, you may be dancing in a formal gown that stops just before your knees instead of swirling prettily about your ankles.

....Short skirts for evening are indicated in Paris dress shows—the reason is early-closing in war time. Parisians must set out for their evening's fun about 5 o'clock, and be home early.

....In England short skirts are being worn because of air-raid difficulties and the danger of tripping over long skirts in the event of an alarm, and the prediction is that it will spread to America as well as all European fashions do.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, November 28

An eventful day, with several intriguing developments, is forecast from the dominant lunar aspects. An element of suddenness and surprise arise, with a demand for change of plans, associations and probably objectives and surroundings. There are factors obscure and tricky to be guarded against by alertness, tact and stratagem, when caught in treacherous predicaments. Shun impetuosity and strife; also refrain from extravagance or lavish indulgence. There may be peculiar reactions on the private life, secretive and dangerous.

Those whose birhtday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden, peculiar and intriguing twists to the affairs. These may be favorable if managed by precaution, vigilance and finesse rather than direct or audacious methods. Compromise rather than quarrels may win out, but beware of extravagance, doubtful outlay of funds and all manner of pitfalls and schemes. Change seems probable. Suspicious circumstances may have unhappy reactions unless tact and keen judgment are used.

A child born on this day, although having a generous, friendly and compassionate nature, at the same time may be fickle, changeable, and given to intrigue or irresponsibility in both business and private dealings.

Shops With Wheels Follow Trade

By DILYS THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Nov. 27—(CP).—Evacuation of city customers, blackouts and petrol rationing, have been giving leading dress designers and milliners plenty of headaches. Now they have solved their problem by taking their collections "on tour."

This is how it is done. A complete duplicate of the designer's London collection is made, and short tours planned, say, of three provincial cities at a time.

A saleswoman, a fitter and two mannequins then spend two or three hours in each town. Fashion parades usually take place at a big hotel. Orders are taken and first fittings given. The clothes ordered are then put in hand in London, and the next week the fitter returns with the garments to give customers a final fitting.

Wool is most popular for all-time wear according to Paris experts. Evening gowns, blouses, afternoon dresses and hats in wool are being offered in a generous assortment of styles.

At an International Wool Secretariat show here materials seen were colorful and soft. Woollen dresses these days are no longer exclusively one shade but may be striped or checked or printed as gaily as anything in cotton or silk.

Among woollen novelties were buttonholes of flowers in brilliant hues, greens, red and purples, while larger clusters look well for decoration purposes. Cuddly woollen toys shaped as ducks, donkeys and penguins proved as popular with adults as with the children for whom they were designed.

Several ships for American firms were made in Denmark this year.

The basement was tastefully arranged for the occasion in a color scheme of red, white and blue. A well-patronized supper was served from 6 to 8 p.m. The candy table presided over by Mrs. Frank Barnard and Miss June Finnie did a thriving business. Scores Of Towns, Five Cities Return Mayors

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—(CP).—Municipal campaigns reached the intensive stage in Ontario to-day with qualifications in and election day just a week away.

Five cities and about a score of towns in the province elected mayors by acclamation when the deadline for qualifications came Saturday night but prospects for interesting fights loomed almost everywhere else. The possibility that the civic officials will hold office for long terms intensified the campaigning.

Premier Hepburn has announced the government's plan to make the terms of all authorities elected next Monday, or at the balance of municipal elections Jan. 1, last two years or for the duration of the war. The Premier himself has forecast "a long war" and the provincial administration's plan is one of wartime economy.

Mayor Thomas E. Henry was returned to office in Stratford and Mayor Arthur Beattie in North Bay without the necessity of an election, while Glencoe Thompson became mayor-elect of Belleville in succession to a well-known political figure, Mayor Jamieson Bone, who did not seek re-election.

These men joined Mayor Allan Johnston of London and Mayor W. S. McKay of Galt in the list of elected. Mayor Johnston was elected a week ago when other nominees failed to qualify, while Mayor McKay was the only nominee on Friday.

All Back In Barrie

Mayor H. G. Robertson retained office in the town of Barrie along with his entire council and other officials. But Meaford showed even less tendency to present an election fight when both mayoralty nominees, Mayor William Booker and William Cramp, failed to qualify. A new nomination meeting will be needed there, while Meaford also has attained the unusual in the acclamation given to Mrs. A. B. Gardiner as a councillor — first woman ever elected there.

Mayoralty battles of interest were centred in Chatham and Kitchener. Mayor J. J. Zink of Chaham watched from the sidelines while Victor Lauriston, noted author, sought election to the seat the mayor vacated against Alderman Douglas G. Kerr and W. C. Hubbell. Alderman Joe Meinzinger, who instituted a police department inquiry at Kitchener this year, sought the mayoralty against A. J. Cundick and Alex Schaefer.

Mayor William Morrison of Hamilton, after four years in office was opposed by Controller B. W. Hopkins. Finley McCrae and S. Leonard Declaire opposed Mayor Stanley Lewis at Ottawa.

Among towns which returned mayors by acclamation were Goderich, which named Mayor H. J. A. MacEwan for a 10th straight term, and Simcoe, where James Holden, Jr., was chosen mayor at the head of a slate submitted by the Simcoe Chamber of Commerce, also elected by acclamation.

Hastings Orangemen Hold Euchre Party

HASTINGS, Nov. 27 — (ENS) — The second of the series of progressive euchres held under the auspices of Hastings L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. on Friday evening, in the Orange Hall, proved a delightful and successful event.

Ten tables of euchre were played with prizes awarded as follows: Ladies' first, Miss Ruth Oakley; Ladies' second, Mrs. H. Stephenson; Basil Johnston and Arnold Lobb tied for gent's first prize, the former winning by a draw; Vernon Warr won gent's second prize. Miss Frances Hoard was the winner of the lucky chair prize.

Refreshments were served and dancing filled in the remainder of the evening with music furnished by Messrs. Donald Beamish and Clifford Scriver.

Lakefield Nursing Class Completed

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 27 (ENS). — Lakefield Red Cross nursing class came to a close on Friday afternoon after completing twelve very successful classes. About forty members will receive certificates for having attended at least nine of the twelve meetings.

Mrs. W. Gillman, in a few words, thanked the two instructors, Mrs. Wallace Hendren and Miss B McKenzie and Mrs. E. Millage, secretary of the class, presented each with a handsome manicure set as a token of appreciation for their efforts in teaching the class.

Although taken by surprise each replied thanking the ladies for the gifts and for the splendid co-operation which the class had given them.

French Never Stop Their Fortifying Even On Fronts Where Guns Silent

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Nov. 27. —(CP-Reuters)—Ninety feet beneath a solid old fort built many years before anyone thought about this war or even that of 1914, a proud Colonel today showed war correspondents a long corridor and four "rooms" dug out of the hard, moist clay.

"In a few days' time this will be our new command base," he said.

The correspondents had slid and slipped down a steep shoot leading from an undergrcund passage, built long before of solid stone and brick, which was a sure refuge against cannon balls.

In this war one has to go deeper.

The correspondents were smothered in mud of the consistency of thick soup. They were standing in deep puddles of water. In a few days the passage and rooms with all the ground above them, will be snug and comfortable, still further protected by walls and ceilings of concrete and steel.

It is one more example of the ingenuity and enormous capacity for work of the French army in the field The correspondents were in the sector "somewhere between the Moselle and the channel," where there is no patrol action, where the artillery has not fired. It is a sector where there has been no need for heroics as yet, but which has been on the alert for days at a time.

Men Always Ready.

From one moment to another every officer and man is ready to pick up his rifle, to serve his gun. In the meantime, the correspondents were told, it is good to keep men busy up here. The lie of the land is totally different from that of Alsace and Lorraine, and accordingly the system of defence is of another order.

It is neither weaker nor stronger. But it is tremendously efficient and brilliantly thought out.

In these plains where even the slightest rise gives one a clear view for miles, the cunningness with which the batteries and guns have been made steady, in positions invisible to the eye, is a tribute to the French army technique of 1939:

Field gun emplacements are themselves connected by tunnels dug by men, and further connected to underground shelters that at no moment need gunners to show themselves on the surface, while the heavier artillery merges into a landscape which could not ordinarily hide a cat.

For these concrete defences still continue on the surface but they are supplemented by innumerable and intricate lines of tank traps and trenches each of them providing a new and unpleasant surprise for the attacking enemy These are supplemented by forts built at one time or other through the centures on one

The old forts have not perhaps the same purpos as they once had. But because of the new work put in on them they fill their place in the general scheme of events.

"It just shows," said the high officer accompanying the party. "That there is continuity in French military genius, and that the positions of old forts still remain the ideal postions of today."

Instead of ball cannon there are anti-tank guns, instead of water moats ther are tank traps— there lies about the only difference. And work goes on as it is doing on all the huge front from the English channel to Switzerland.

DAILY WAR SUMMARY

(By Canadian Press.)

Nazi Germany is in desperate need of a victory of some sort, not alone because of internal conditions but to bolster its prestige with certain neutral countries from which it must obtain supplies.

Following the quick success of German arms in Poland it is annoying and disappointing to Germans to find that in 2½ months of war no success has been registered against the British and the French. It is bad for German credit with the Balkan States, particularly Roumania, with the Scandinavian countries and with Holland and Belgium.

While a number of ships have been sunk by the new mine-laying tactics and more may be sunk this campaign at best cannot be expected to show immediate results. So far there is no indication the success achieved to date is calculated to convince any neutral country that Germany has a good chance of winning the war and so repaying any debts she may incur in its progress.

Must Get Supplies for Five-Year War

Just what steps Germans may take to achieve the desired victory remain shrouded in the mists of the future and the Hitlerian mind. Hitler, however, says he has given orders to Goering to prepare for a five-year war. If the statement is not a bluff he must count an getting supplies for a five-year war. It is possible Germany has accumulated supplies sufficient for six months or a year but after that will have to import heavily.

In order to get imports from neutral countries Germany must either pay cash, resort to intimidation or convince the neutrals her credit is good. After bellowing threats for weeks on end and accomplishing nothing against the Western enemies, Nazi credit has begun to slip.

So a victory of some kind, not necessarily a decisive victory, is becoming necessary. Under present conditions the prospect of achieving an early decisive triumph must look dim even to the Nazis. One of their problems is probably to reach a decision first on what limited victory is possible, and secondly on what limited victory would suffice to improve their prestige at home and abroad.

In Their Own Milk

CARTHAGE, Mo., Nov. 27.—(AP) —Toasts to two Missouri Jersey cows just returned from the New York World's Fair will be drunk in their own milk by Missouri Jersey breeders, meeting here today. The Jerseys, Dot Joyce and Observer Frolic, will be guests at the banquet, served at a hotel.

Germany has decreed that distilleries must make brandy from chestnuts.

Tender Leaf Tea is blended and packed in Canada in two convenient size packages and in tea balls.

● Whether you see it or not, all of us perspire every minute of the day. Is it any wonder that it is so important to guard against offending? Play safe—use Lifebuoy in your daily bath; it stops "B.O." Lifebuoy contains an exclusive ingredient found in no other popular toilet soap. Its rich, lavish lather is so refreshing and invigorating, yet actually milder by test than many so-called "beauty" and "baby" soaps. That's why it's grand for complexion.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

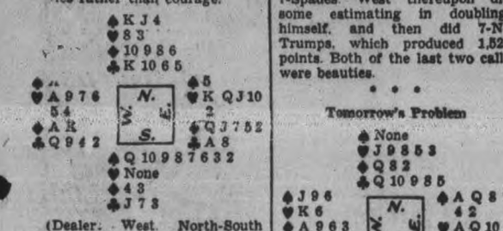
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

QUICK COUNTING HELPS

TO MAKE a deliberate sacrifice bid when vulnerable, especially one on which you expect to be beaten a number of tricks, requires not courage so much as ability to count quickly. If you are able to reckon that the probable points lost through your bid will be less than those which the opponents will score against you at their own contract, then making the bid is a matter of mathematics rather than courage.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

It takes quite a man to bid a grand slam when vulnerable on a hand which he had consistently passed up to that stage, but that is exactly what happened on this deal.

West opened with 1-Heart, East bid 3-Diamonds, West 3-Hearts, East 4-Hearts and West, using the Blackwood convention, now asked about aces with 4-No Trumps. When East showed one of these with 5-Diamonds, West went to 6-Hearts and East to 7-Hearts.

Until now South had not even considered bidding. But when he figured that the slam bonus of 1,000 and a non-vulnerable game worth about 300 would be added to the trick value of 210, making a total of 1,510 points, he reckoned that he would go down only about five tricks doubled at 7-Spades, costing 1,400 points. So he bid 7-Spades. West thereupon did some estimating in doubling, himself, and then did 7-No Trumps, which produced 1,520 points. Both of the last two calls were beauties.

Tomorrow's Problem

At either 6-Spades or 6-No Trumps, how should the spade suit be played?

Best Turkeys Offered In Years Seen On Peterborough Market, Prices Range From 25 To 27 Cents

A display of plump, symetrically-formed and white turkeys ranging in size from hen birds of around 14 pounds to toms as big as 22½ pounds, almost stole the show on the outdoor market on Saturday morning. These aristocrats of the turkey world were specimens of the Diamond P brand, raised by L. V. Pomeroy of Castleton, who said that he had a thousand just like these at home, all fed on special feed. The display was surrounded by a crowd all morning, and many farmers said they had never seen better turkeys anywhere. The price asked was 27 cents a pound for hen turkeys and 25 for the toms.

The Pomeroy birds were not the only turkeys on the market on Saturday, although the supply was not large. Twenty-five cents a pound was the prevailing price for the other turkeys shown.

The advent of snappy weather was responsible for the largest offering of wood of the season, a double lineup of vehicles being necessary. Body maple in 4-foot lengths was selling for $7.50 a cord, and there was some particularly good wood from Hall's Bridge offered at that price. Another man was asking $5.00 for 52 feet of bone dry maple. "It's as dry as you could find anywhere," he said. "It's been a great fall for drying wood." Mixed wood was selling at around $6.00 a cord.

Fishing Not So Good.

There were three fish men on the market on Saturday and all seemed to be doing a good business. One of them was F. L. Blake of Trenton who was selling lake trout at 18½ cents a pound and herrings six for a quarter. "Fishing is not what it was," he told a reporter. "One boat went out seven miles off shore on Thursday, and the crew fished all night, with an icy wind blowing, and only took 72 pounds of fish. I understand there will be a close season next year and no commercial licences are to be issued." Another fisherman was asking 12½ cents a pound for pike caught in the Bay of Quinte.

Good apples, in fact better than good, featured the outdoor market and prices were still low. C. E. Dean of Garden Hill had Spies at $1.10 and Snows at 80 cents a hamper, with a six-quart basket of the latter selling at 25 cents. P. Carroll of R.R. 4, Port Hope, priced his Spies at $1.25 a hamper, while E. Lloyd, 508 Sherbrooke Street, had Spies and McIntoshes at $1.00 a bushel, and Russets and Tolman Sweets at 75 cents. Norman Moncrief was asking 30 cents a basket for Snows, 35 cents for Spies and McIntoshes and 25 cents for Baxters.

Vegetable Prices

Potatoes ranged around $1.10 a bag. C. E. Dean of Garden Hill was asking that for White Stars and other varieties offered by other dealers were not far off that price.

Specimen prices for other vegetables were those quoted by the Hillcrest Gardens, Bailieboro, follow: Cabbage 5 cents each or six for a quarter, turnips three for 10 cents, the larger bringing 5 cents each, parsnips and carrots 20 cents for a six-quart basket, and onions 25 cents for the same quantity. Chinese cabbage lettuce 5 and 10 cents.

Offa Williamson, veteran apiarist from Bailieboro, who has been selling honey on the local market for many years, had a plentiful supply. The amber variety commanded 40 cents for a 4-pound tin and 75 cents for 8 pounds, while the white kind sold for 50 and 90 cents, respectively, for the same quantity.

Chickens Plentiful.

The upstair market was crowded and there was a pre-Christmas atmosphere about the place, probably because of the quality of poultry, especially chickens, that was available. The prevailing price at 11.30 o'clock for chickens was 18 cents a pound, although earlier sales were at a higher figure and probably the last-minute transactions were at a lower price. Butter ranged around 30 cents a pound and eggs were quoted at from 34 to 40 cents. Plump ducks were available at 20 cents a pound and a few geese could be had at from 20 to 23 cents and turkeys at 25 cents.

There was little beef, offered on the outside market. George Mullen, Smith Township, was asking 11 and 13 cents a pound for beef and 14 to 16 cents a pound for pork, while Alexander Gordon had lamb at 18 and 20 cents a pound, and veal at 16 and 18 cents.

MORE ABOUT—
County Council

Batten, county clerk and treasurer, following an oral address by Reeve W. A. Anderson of Otonabee, who was selected on Friday for that honor, during a temporary and requested retirement of the Warden from the chamber.

Warden's Address

Warden Milby himself presented the opportunity the council hoped for by a little concluding address before the final adjournment of the year. It was as follows:

"Gentlemen, I wish to extend to you my grateful appreciation of the loyal co-operation which you have given to me as Warden throughout the year.

In every enterprise which has been handled through committees, a sense of harmony and action for the good of the county as a whole has been in evidence.

Our country is at war now, and it is necessary for the county council to give the necessary local leadership so that this war may be brought to a successful conclusion, because when all is said and done it is peace that we want, not only peace among nations, but peace between capital and labor, between employer and employee, producer and consumer, between government and those who are governed, to ensure that peace and security which are so necessary for humanity's welfare.

Personal righteousness, not of creeds, but of earnest faith in whatsoever is esteemed to be right, just and virtuous, seemed to me to be the underlying motive of your work this year ,and gentlemen, I thank you."

County's War Record

"We appreciate what you have just said, Mr. Warden, regarding Canada's participation in the war," Reeve Anderson began. "Peterborough county will, I am sure, stand in a high place in that respect. It was so in the last war, and I feel certain it will be so again.

May I say on behalf of the council that we appreciate what you have said about us because we feel that it is true. I have been here a lot of years, and there is this significant thing to be said about this year and past years that every question was decided, as far as possible, on its merits. There were no factions pulling one way and another. All the members worked together as one. We may not have agreed on every point. My seat mate (Deputy-reeve Harry Reid, Otonabee) and I for instance, may have had some difference of opinion on one thing or another, but we were together on matters pertaining to the welfare of this county.

There has not been in this council one group of members trying to go one way all the time, and questions being affected by that state of affairs. We try to determine questions according to our abilities and the information we have, and when that is done I feel that we are going in the right direction."

The Milby Influence

Reeve Anderson said that the experience of this council had been unusual in several respects. "At the beginning of the year you, Mr. Warden, did something that was new in taking us into the hospitality of your home. That helped to bring about the co-operation and the close contacts which you have mentioned."

Reeve Anderson said that Warden Milby would always be remembered by the host of children of the rural schools of Peterborough for whom he was active in arranging "their expedition to Toronto to see Their Majesties." The year's work had been pleasant and very satisfactory, and in the several incidents contributed by the Warden, especially the trip to Toronto, it was unique.

Deputy's Tribute

Deputy-reeve M. H. Johnston, North Monaghan, said he had enjoyed this year's work and had broadened his knowledge of the county and its affairs. "In fact I have enjoyed the three years I have been here more and more each year as I got to know the work better. Warden Milby and I have been together five years. We didn't always see eye to eye on some things, but neither of us ever had a black eye over it. We always settled our differences agreeably, and I just want to add my tribute to what has been said about the reeve of our township.

Reeve Gifford said the municipal service brought rewards of friendships and an attachment to the work and affairs of the county the more they became understood.

"I have been here now six years, second to Mr. Anderson in length of service, and I can say that I become more interested in the work each year. I think that applies to every member, even when we all know there is no certainty about coming back to help carry it on. A great satisfaction of those six years has been the improvement in our roads. The council has now entered upon a program of reforestation which I firmly believe will bring great profits in the future. After all the people of today must build for the future."

After mentioning the loyal and educational features of the children's trip to Toronto, Reeve Gifford said he had heard some remarks at the beginning of the year that because Warden Milby lived in the suburbs of the city he was hardly a proper person to represent the industry of agriculture. "My answer to that is that never in my time in this council has our industry received more consideration and effort than it did this year. We have endeavored this yea rto organize the industry because we are aware of the need of organization. Some progress was made and other work done that we hope will bring results later on."

Reeve Allan B. Mann on behalf of himself and the ratepayers of Smith and their council affirmed Warden Milby's services in the county council this year as its Warden, and "we hope you will always have pleasant memories of us."

Warden Milby's concluding reply was that the spirit in which the members of the council work together "is one of the greatest gifts that could be given to you men."

Warden Milby and Mrs. Milby were guests of the council at dinner at the Elite Court at which a bouquet of flowers was presented to Mrs. Milby by Miss Batten on behalf of the council.

sia's demand that Finnish troops be withdrawn from the common border north of Leningrad, it appeared today from comment in government circles which suggested that Russian forces themselves fall back.

The Cabinet discussed the demand this morning, and Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko began immediately to draft an answer which may be presented to-day after Cabinet approval.

Despite the pressure implicit in the note delivered yesterday to Finland's Moscow Legation, a Finnish government spokesman chose to call it a "friendly proposal"—not an ultimatum.

The spokesman pointed out that the note carried no time limit. It called for withdrawal "without delay."

The spokesman said there would be an answer from the Helsingfors government, which to-day studied the demand, but he insisted there would be no withdrawal of soldiers sent to the frontier during the fruitless negotiations, October 7 to November 13, over Russian territorial demands.

Withdrawal north of Leningrad would nullify the protection afforded by border fortifications in a zone where, among other places, Russia had demanded territory.

Deny Red Charge.

Premier Aimo Cajander denied the Russian allegation that Finnish artillery fire yesterday killed four Russian soldiers and wounded nine—the immediate cited basis for the Russian demand that troops in the Karelian Isthmus be withdrawn to points from 12 to 16 miles from the border.

The Premier denied there had been any shooting by Finns.

A Foreign Office spokesman hinted that the Russians might have been killed accidentally and Finnish forces blamed.

Government circles generally were sceptical over Moscow's allegation of an artillery attack. They suggested that a better way to avert any further incidents would be withdrawal by the Russian themselves.

"complete confidence in our ultimate victory."

The Prime Minister charged the Germans with ignoring the "considerations of humanity," particularly in sowing "indiscriminately" a new kind of mine and "daily blowing up neutral ships as well as British, and thereby drowning or mutilating citizens of countries with which they are not at war."

He also drew a distinction between war and peace aims.

Britain's wa raim, he said, is the "defeat of that aggressive, bullying mentality which seeks continually to dominate other peoples by force."

And her peace aims: To "establish a new Europe, in which nations which inhabit it will approach their difficulties with good will and mutual tolerance" and "with some machinery capable of conducting and guiding the development of a new Europe in the right direction."

Reports Differ on Cause

A Press Association report said the Pilsudski was sunk by a mine in the North Sea, but the Polish Telegraph Agency in Paris said she was torpedoed off the English north-west coast.

The cause of the sinking of the Rawalpindi was not given.

These were the outstanding shipping casualties, which also included:

The 6,336-ton Swedish tanker Gustaf E. Reuter, disabled off the English northeast coast, possible by a mine, and 19 of her crew taken aboard a trawler;

A pilot boat, grounded in the Mersey River near Southport, with 20 men drowned;

The British trawler William Humphries, reported shelled by a submarine, with 13 of her crew missing since Tuesday in lifeboats;

A freighter which sank Thursday off the Kent Coast with two of her crew reported missing, identified as the British steamship Hookwood of 1,537 tons;

The 1,289-ton British steamship Stangate, damaged in a collision off the southeast coast.

The Allied economic coordinating committee announced yesterday the appointment of J. Monnet, French financial expert, as its head. Monnet was selected jointly by Mr. Chamberlain and Premier Edouard Daladier of France to direct coordination of British-French buying and avoid competitive bidding in foreign markets.

At the same time appointment of Arthur Purvis of Montreal as head of a new Anglo-French committee to coordinate British and French purchases in the United States was announced in Paris. Mr. Purvis, president of Canadian Industries Limited, previously had been appointed head of the British purchasing mission in the United States.

Allied purchases in Canada will be made through the Canadian war supply board headed by W. R. Campbell of Windsor, Ont.

RUSSIA DENOUNCES FINN NON-AGGRESSION PACT

Finns Shaken As Soviet Cancels Pact

Offer To Withdraw If Russians Do; Reds Cancel Leaves

HELSINGFORS, Nov 28—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman announced tonight that Russia had denounced her non-aggression pact with Finland in a note handed to the Finnish Minister to Moscow.

The Soviet action, although received with outward calm by the foreign office, shocked Finland more than any other single step in the "war of nerves" which mounted in the Baltic region after the German-Soviet partition of Poland.

A spokesman said the Russian note was "very unconciliatory," but declined further comment while the foreign office was receiving the communication line by line from the Moscow legation.

Finland yesterday sent a conciliatory reply to Soviet demands for withdrawal of Finnish troops from the frontier.

Red Leaves Cancelled.

Reports from Russia said Red army leaves in the Leningrad military district had been cancelled, with officers and men ordered to rejoin their regiments within 24 hours.

This order was issued by the commander of the district, reports from Leningrad said. All further leaves were cancelled.

The orders followed Finnish rejection of the Soviet demand that Finnish troops be withdrawn to a line 15 miles from the Soviet-Finnish border on the Karelian Isthmus, just north of Leningrad.

Denying alleged "hostile actions" toward Russia, the government last night notified Moscow it is ready to meet Soviet demands for withdrawal of Finnish troops along part of their common border on condition that Red army forces likewise retire.

The Finnish foreign minister advised Molotoff that an investigation had shown that no shots were fired across the border by the Finns, and asserted that "consequently there

Chamberlain Opposes Listing Peace Aims For New Europe Till Victory Won; Export Blockade Goes In Force Monday

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today warned the nation not to 'make the mistake of underestimating the strength of the enemy." He spoke in the House of Commons at the opening of the new session of parliament.

The Prime Minister told the House the Allies will need to focus every effort on winning the war without diverting too much attention at this stage to the proclamation of definite peace aims for a new Europe.

The new session was opened without the traditional color and ceremony associated with that even in peace time. The Speech From the Throne, delivered by the King in person, was extremely short.

Clement Attlee, Labor leader, stressed the need of clear-cut and definite peace aims, but the Prime Minister insisted this was not the time to proclaim them.

In a brief reference to Germany's mine warfare, the Prime Minister said:

"We are fighting an enemy who seems to have no code of honor, who breaks every convention on the flimsiest pretext if it thinks it will suit his purpose."

The plan to seize Germany's seaborne exports will go into operation next Monday, Mr. Chamberlain announced, and it will be designed to cause the minimum of inconvenience and loss to neutrals.

However, the Prime Minister continued, neutral nations should realize that even if it causes them inconvenience and loss, Britain and France are fighting in their interests and if Britain and France win, their victory will be in the best interests of neutral countries.

Mr. Chamberlain declared: "The members will have welcomed the announcement that an agreement

Empire Exchange Control Is Advocated

LONDON, Nov. 28 — (CP).—The Financial News to-day urged establishment of Empire exchange control, emphasizing the need for uniformity in the entire system of exchange regulations throughout the Empire.

"Since self-governing Dominions can hardly allow us to dictate how they should use sterling funds, it is clear that waste in avoidable only by the establishment of an Imperial Exchange Committee to agree on a common policy," the paper said in an editorial. "This would have to concern itself with more than mere exchange regulations."

One problem is whether the Dominions should take advantage of a favorable trade balance to allow their currencies to appreciate against sterling. This would be against the general interest, the paper said.

The paper admitted that the Empire's ability to supply basic raw materials was one of the main sources of Britain's economic strength, but said that unless the mutual trade between Britain and the Empire was restricted to a necessary minimum, the Empire as a whole would be drawing too lavishly on its produce for home consumption.

"We must restrict our own purchases from the Empire to a minimum to allow Empire producers to export as much as possible elsewhere and the Empire countries must allow as much as possible of this country's manufactures to seek foreign markets."

Monarch Opens New Session Of Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 28 — (CP).—The King opened a new session of Parliament to-day, the first of the war.

The speech from the Throne referred only briefly to war legislation.

"You will be asked," members of the House of Commons were told, "to make further financial provision for the conduct of the war."

The King, wearing naval uniform, took only a few minutes to read the Speech from the Throne.

No announcement was made that the King would open Parliament, and no crowds lined the route as he and the Queen drove from Buckingham Palace to Westminster in a closed motor car. Peers attended the opening in uniform or morning clothes instead of their robes.

The Speech from the Throne related that the war was commanding "the energies of all my subjects" and that "my Dominions overseas are participating wholeheartedly and with an effectiveness which is most gratifying to me."

It said the Navies of the Empire were "keeping free and open the highways of the sea." It ended with the traditional phrase:

"I pray that Almighty God will give His blessing to your counsels."

Divine Singing "Drops" Lawyer

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(AP) — Richard Knight, whose hand-stands and cartwheels in the Metropolitan Opera House last night provided a comic interlude to the opening night performance, explained today his acrobatics were induced by the "divine singing" of Elisabeth Rethberg and not by what some people thought.

Knight, society lawyer and clubman, did his acrobatic turn in white tie and tails and attracted almost as much attention—until he was escorted outside—as did the traditional parade of jewels and furs and the artists on the met stage.

"Here is exactly what happened, and you can quote me," explained Knight today.

"It was Elisabeth Rethberg. Her singing was so extraordinarily beautiful that she turned he divinely dizzy. Beyond that I deny everything. I was framed. You can say for me that Elisabeth Rethberg dropped me in my tracks and busted me at the seams and started me turning cartwheels."

Living Costs Up

Ottawa, Nov. 28 (CP)

SHARP increases in food prices and advances in coal and coke largely were responsible for the rise in the cost-of-living index in Canada to 84.7 in October from 83.9 the previous month, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today. In October last year the index was 83.9.

An index for retail prices alone, including foods, coal, coke, household requirements, etc., moved up from 77.2 in September to 80.1 in October. With foods removed from this index it was 80.3 in October, compared with 80.0 the previous month.

The index for forty-six foods increased from 74.2 in September to 79.8 on Oct. 1.

Falls Span Ready By April, 1941

TORONTO, Nov. 28—(CP).—It is confidently expected that the new international bridge at Niagara Falls will be completed and ready for traffic by April, 1941, it was indicated by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, at Queen's Park today.

Terms of the contract for the sale of bonds have, it is understood, been approved by the Attorney-General of New York State and the signatures of the Canadian and United States members of the Bridge Commission will probably be attached soon to the final agreement.

With the financing plan completed actual work on the structure will commence early in January. Some preliminary work is already under way but until the financial arrangements were completed the Bridge Commission was proceeding very cautiously.

When the first issue of bonds amounting to more than $3,500,000 was offered there were no bids but subsequently a contract with a New York investment house was proposed. It is this contract which has gained the approval of the New York State authorities.

Raider, Companion Vanish In Icelandic Storm After Unequal Sea Battle

Over 250 Of Ex-Liner's Heroic Crew Give Lives As German Guns Shatter Their Ship; British Save 11, Deutschland Picks Up 26

LONDON, Nov. 28 (CP) — A brief but deadly battle in which the salvos of two German warships sank the converted British merchant cruiser Rawalpindi and killed more than 250 of her crew spurred the admiralty today to extend its search in northern waters for the raiding Deutschland.

The admiralty told in a vivid communique how the Rawalpindi formerly a mail liner in the Orient service, was overtaken off the southern coast of Iceland Nov. 23, set afire and literally torn to pieces by 11-inch guns of the pocket battleship Deutschland and an unidentified companion ship.

Eleven of the Rawalpindi's crew of approximately 300 reached England today aboard the British rescue ship Chitral. The admiralty said about 30 others probably were picked up by the Deutschland.

All the rest presumably died in battle or were drowned when the flaming hulk of the 16,697-ton vessel went to the bottom.

The engagement began when the Rawalpindi, which was on contraband control duty, ignored a warning shot across her bow.

Then the admiralty said, the Deutschland, a 10,000-ton vessel, fired a broadside with her six 11-inch guns.

"The Rawalpindi replied with all four starboard six-inch guns," said the report, but at the distance of 10,000 yards, the Deutschland had the margin of power.

Three More Salvos.

Three more times the Deutschland fired salvos. Lights on the Rawalpindi were put out; electric winches were broken, making it impossible to bring up more ammunition, and finally the bridge and wireless room were shot away. The German ships closed in.

"By this time," said the Admiralty, "the second had gone around the Rawalpindi's stern and was firing from the port side."

The whole ship, with the exception of the forecastle and the poop was ablaze, but the Rawalpindi continued to fight until "every gun was put out of action."

Then, 30 or 40 minutes after the combat began, the Germans ceased firing.

Three boats, apparently the only ones left on the Rawalpindi, put over the side. Two were believed picked up by the Deutschland.

For four hours, flames leaped from the doomed British ship, until at last, "she turned turtle to starboard and foundered with all remaining hands."

The Admiralty and the British press hailed the Rawalpindi men today as heroes who fought gamely against overwhelming odds.

Hunt on Day and Night.

The Admiralty said a day and night search was being pressed for the German raiders, whose location thus was learned for the first time since the Deutschland captured the American freighter City off Flint off Newoundland October 9.

In less spectacular fashion, Britain prepared to strike back with a blockade designed to cripple German supply lines.

Other Ship Losses.

Other shipping losses reported yesterday in the continuing warfare at sea:

The 3,859-ton Netherlands freighter Spaarndam, sunk by a mine in the Thames Estuary with death of Mrs. Stephen Gobel, a Netherlands citizen who was a

Toronto Cabbie Outwits Thief

TORONTO, Nov. 28 — (CP). — Bert McGee, 27-year-old taxi driver, related to-day how he outwitted a would-be holdup man in a lonely suburban district early this morning and escaped with his cab, leaving the robber stranded.

McGee said he picked up a fare in the East-end shortly after midnight and was ordered to drive around the district. He then was ordered to drive into North York Township. McGee said he suspected a holdup was coming and in a dark lonely spot he was told to stop and hand over his money. The man appeared to have a gun in his hand.

The taxi driver said he stopped, leaving the engine running. He told the man he had no money, having left it at the taxi office. The robber then got out of the back of the car, intending to take the cab and leave McGee stranded, but was foiled when, the driver stepped on the gas and left him standing in the middle of the road.

Hunger Striker Gets 6 Months

BOWMANVILLE, Nov. 28.— Samuel Hoffman, Orono farm hand who staged an unsuccessful hunger strike following his arrest ten days ago on a charge laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations, yesterday was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

He pleaded not guilty before Magistrate F. S. Ebbs of Oshawa in police court here.

"Such remarks will not be tolerated at a time like this," Magistrate Ebbs said in imposing sentence.

The section under which Hoffman was charged reads: "That he did by word of mouth, make statements, false or otherwise, lively to cause disaffection to His Majesty."

R.C.M.P., who laid the charge, said Hoffman made remarks derogatory to the Allied cause and praised Hitler. He will serve the sentence in Cobourg County Jail, and the time he has already spent in jail will be deducted from the sentence.

Rationing Of Butter, Eggs Criticized By Beaverbrook

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(CP Cable)—Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express today criticized Food Minister W. S. Morrison for his proposal to ration butter and bacon and urged development of Empire sources, including those of Canada.

In an editorial the newspaper said:

"This afternoon Mr. W. S. Morrison is going to make another mistake. He will tell the public what date he has set for his rationing system for butter and bacon.

"Why does Mr. Morrison inflict this thing upon us? He must know that it is opposed to the British temperament.

"He is a former Minister of Agriculture (failed). He ought to know that in a semeter we could produce all the bacon that we need.

"He must have heard of the British Empire. He should mobilize all surplus butter from New Zealand, Australia and Canada. Dairy farming capacity of the Dominions can be immensely expanded.

"But Mr. Morrison pays no heed to all this. He plunges on with his scheme for inflicting more coupons on the public and presenting more jobs to officials."

Mine Destroyer

New Orleans, La., Nov. 28 (AP)

A FISHERMAN has suggested a counter-weapon against German mines. The Times-Picayune said a fisherman wrote that Great Britain should get 500 of Louisiana's biggest alligator gar fish. He suggested that steel bands be put around the gars and that the fish be liberated in areas suspected of being mined. Then, says the fisherman, the gar runs into a mine and explodes it, thus saving everyone—except the gar.

Tom Carter Dies

His wife, the former Elizabeth Perry of Toronto, and one daughter survive.

Born in England, his early business life was passed as a manager of the Hudson's Bay Company in Northern Ontario. A quarter century ago he came here as maritime manager for a large cereal company.

Britain Goes On Butter, Bacon Rations Jan. 8 Minister Acceding To Demands No Restrictions Be Placed For Christmas

LONDON, Nov. 28 (CP-Cable)—Compulsory rationing of bacon and butter will start Jan. 8, 1940, W. S. Morrison, Minister of Food, announced in the House of Commons today.

The ration for both commodities will be four ounces weekly for every person.

Although sugar is not included in the rationing scheme, "consumers are asked to register with a retailer and restrict their purchases to one pound per head per week," Mr. Morrison told A. V. Alexander, Labor, in reply to a question.

Mr. Morrison added he had received representation from private traders throughout the country not to introduce rationing in Christmas week, when trade will be above the normal volume. He himself, the minister commented, believed it would be the general opinion that Christmas would be enjoyed with the fewest possible restrictions.

Will Thorne, Labor, asked how it would be discovered if members of parliament got more than their fair share, but Mr. Morrison replied that the scheme provided for that.

W. Craven Ellis, Conservative, declared that if the minister had paid more attention to developing British agriculture there would not have been the necessity of rationing. (Mr. Morrison was formerly Minister of Agriculture.)

Tom Williams, Labor, asserted that large and small retailers throughout the country found themselves receiving less than 25 per cent of the requirements for the fixed ration set down by the minister to meet actual registration needs.

However, Mr. Morrison replied it was hoped the situation would straighten out as rationing was completed and a fuller picture of the situation presented itself.

Stoney Pt. Bank Robbed, Loot Found, Man Held

STONEY POINT, Ont., Nov. 28 (CP)—The provincial Bank of Canada branch here was robbed of approximately $2,000 today and the money was recovered shortly afterwards in a barn not far from the village 40 miles east of Windsor. Leonard Levesque, 26, was arrested by police.

J. B Griffin, manager of the branch who works in the bank alone, arrived today, discovered the door was jimmied open and the front window tampered with. He said the bank robber emerged from the washroom and motioned Griffin to go to the safe. The gunman wore a dirty white cloth mask over his face, the manager said.

Waving a gun, the robber motioned the manager to open the outer door of the safe. After he opened the heavy first door, the bandit placed a home-made gag over his mouth, tied his hands behind his back and locked Griffin in a telephone booth, taking the precaution to sever the phone cord.

Finding the inner door of the safe still locked, the gunman untied Griffin again, ordered him to open the safe. This done, he retied the bank manager, gagged him, scooped up approximately $2,000 in cash and fled just as Griffin was wriggling free of his bonds. The robber did not speak during the entire procedure and dropped his handkerchief in his flight.

Lads Get Sister Kidnap Style

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 28—(CP)—A kidnapping alarm startled Hamilton police here today But it was all over in 45 minutes, after two little boys, aged three and four, were found to have taken six-months-old Shannon Stiers home to their mother and announced their prayers for a little sister were answered.

Sergeant William Davidson solved the case, remembering he had helped two youngsters push a large baby carriage across the street and warned them never to bring the baby downtown again without their mother.

The baby and carriage had been left outside a downtown store by Mrs. Rose Stiers, who went inside to do some hurried shopping. When she came out they were gone.

The mother of the two boys had warned them to return the baby and was considerably worried by the time Sergeant Davidson reached their house and saw the carriage outside.

Last Minute News Flashes

PARIS, Nov. 28—(AP)—A French naval source, asked today for an opinion on the number of German submarines sunk by the French navy since the start of the war, expressed belief that the number was about 10, of which six were certain losses, having been previously reported.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 28—(AP) — Anti-aircraft batteries in Brussels, Malines, Ghent, Bruges and Ostend went into action today when a group of foreign planes flew over Belgium. Observers in Brussels saw three planes which informed persons said apparently were German. Belgian planes took off to intercept the foreign planes but the latter quickly disappeared.

Blue Book Shows U.K. Guilt Berlin Claims

BERLIN, Nov. 28—(AP)— The Nazi press, in an inspired article giving the German Government's version of events leading up to the war, attempted today to place blame for the war upon Great Britain.

The article, appearing in Adolf Hitler's Voelkischer Boebachter, was assertedly based on the British Government's September 21 blue book of documents on the pre-war crisis—particularly an exchange of telegrams between Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and Sir Howard Kennard, British Ambassador to Warsaw.

Sir Howard was accused in the article of having withheld from the Polish Government a communication from his Government advising Poland to begin direct negotiations with Germany in an attempt to settle differences.

"This refusal by Sir Howard to hand the Poles his Government's proposals was either gross insubordination or based on a pre-arranged game," the article said.

(The 195-page blue book contained the following statement:—

("On the 28th August, Viscount Halifax informed the Polish Government through Sir H. Kennard that in the British reply to Herr Hitler a clear distinction would be drawn between 'the method of reaching agreement on German-Polish differences and the nature of the solution to be arrived at. As to the method, we, His Majesty's Government, wish to express our clear view that direct discussion on equal terms between the parties is the proper means.")

The German article listed four other allegations which, it said, proves Britain's "crushing war guilt" and her "duplicity" during

Budapest, Nov. 28 (AP)

ADOLPF HITLER of Germany has conferred the order of the Eagle, high German decoration, upon Andros Mecser, a Hungarian Nazi leader defeated Sunday, in a parliamentary by-election.

As Nazi deputies appeared in parliament today wearing their black uniforms with high boots and green shirts they were ejected for violation of a rule against uniforms. They returned later in civilian garb.

Assures Peace If Finland Meets Terms

Red Troops Ordered To Exterminate Any Daring Attack

MOSCOW, Nov. 28—(CP-Havas).—The Soviet government today informed Finland it considered itself freed of the provisions of its non-aggression pact with Finland.

In a reply to the Finnish note of yesterday, Premier Vyacheslaff Molotoff today handed the Finnish Minister, Baron Arno Yrjoe-Koskinen, the Soviet reply which in effect denounced the Soviet-Finnish non-aggression pact concluded September 24, 1928.

Previously the Soviet radio had broadcasted in the Finnish language today, assuring the Finnish population "there will be peace" if the Finns come to terms with Russia in their current dispute.

The Soviet newspaper Red Star published an order of the commander of the Leningrad military district that in case of "repeated provocation" by Finnish troops, Soviet soldiers were "to answer with fire until those who have created the incident are exterminated."

Finn Reply Repressed.

While the Soviet press continued a bitter anti-Finnish campaign, no Russian newspaper printed the reply of the Finns to Soviet demands that Finnish troops be withdrawn from the Russian border.

In this reply, delivered last night, the Finns offered to negotiate with Moscow on a mutual withdrawal of troops from the border. They denied any shots had been fired from the Finnish side of the border on Sunday in reply to the Russain charge that Finnish soldiers had killed four Russian soldiers and wounded nine by artillery fire.

All Cargoes 25 p.c. German Listed Contraband Prey

PARIS, Nov. 28 (CP-Havas)—France's share of the Allied blockade of German exports, under which all Reich shipments will be seized on the high seas whatever the bottoms carrying them, was set forth in today's official gazette.

The decree warned that all ships sailing from Germany or neighboring countries must report to Allied control ports for inspection. For France these will be Dunkerque, Le Havre, Marseille and Oran; for Britain, Kirkwall, The Downs, Weymouth, Malta, Haifa, Port Said and Gibraltar.

Neutral shippers were advised to obtain certificates of origin from French or British consular officials in countries where merchandise was taken aboard.

Any cargo deemed to contain 25 per cent of German goods or German labor will be considered liable to the blockade provisions, as in the last war.

The new British order provides that a merchant vessel which sails from an enemy port or other port after Dec. 4 and "having on board goods which are of enemy origin property may be required to discharge such goods in a British or Allied port."

Such goods will be placed in custody of the marshal of a prize court and "unless the court orders that they be requisitioned for the use of His Majesty shall be detained or sold under the direction of the court. The proceeds of goods so sold shall be paid into the court."

R CAF Men Get New Planes Via Tow Rope Over Border

OTTAWA, Nov. 28 — (CP).—Royal Canadian Air Force men standing on the international boundary in the vicinity of Coutts, Atla., toss a rope over the border and drag United States-made aircraft on to Canadian soil, it was revealed to-day by the National Defence Department in announcing delivery of an additional 10 advanced training planes of the Harvard type manufactured in California.

Forbidden by the United States neutrality law from exporting aircraft by flying them out of the United States, the manufacturing company's pilots fly the new planes to a hastily-constructed flying field 50 yards from the border near Sweetgrass, Mont.

A towing rope is tossed over the border and attached to the planes which are hauled down grade over a new road 80 yards in length to a temporary landing field on the Canadian Prairie.

Still warm from their long flight from California, the engines are started up again, and wtih Canadian pilots at the controls, roar away eastward to the R.C.A.F. main training bases at Trenton and Camp Borden, Ont.

Five Harvards were delivered last week, and a number of others were purchased before the war broke out. Great Britain previously had ordered 400 of these 250-mile-an-hour advanced trainers, and doubled the order in recent months.

Late last week an all-metal transport plane took off from the eastern training bases and carried 10 R.C.A.F. flying men to Lethbridge to be on hand at the airfield near Coutts for delivery the new planes.

U.S. Asks Boost In Acreage For Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28—(AP).—The United States Agricultural Adjustment Administration to-day set the 1940 goal for soil-depleting crops at 270,000,000 to 285,000,000 acres, the same as this year.

It increased the acreage for wheat and cut the rate of soil conservation payments on that grain to nine cents a bushel from this year's 17 cents.

The corn acreage goal was lowered slightly and the payments to co-operating farmers set at 10 cents a bushel, compared with nine cents this year.

Cotton acreage was unchanged, and the rate lowered to 1.6 cents a pound from 1.8 cents.

Acreage goals were raised also for rice and some types of tobacco. They were lowered for peanuts and burley, flue-cured and fire and dark

1,000 Cleveland Jobless Threaten Riot

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.—(AP)—Mayor Harold Burton was ready to-day to "destroy" this city's regular services to feed hungry relief recipients, who have threatened to obtain food "on our own authority."

"Relief comes ahead of every obligation," Burton told 1,000 jobless last night as they stormed city hall to demand that the city take immediate steps to restore curtailed relief.

Answering their threat "to feed ourselves," Burton retorted sharply: "That is anarchy. That must not be permitted in America and will not be permitted in Cleveland. We have been meeting this relief situation, and we will meet it."

C. B. Cowan, head of the association of unemployed, demanded that city council restore regular relief orders, drastically slashed because of dwindling funds.

With approximately 70,000 on relief, the city has lopped off the rolls employables without dependents and reduced benefits to others.

Yesterday three relief stations were closed temporarily when crowds jammed into the buildings. Some of those cut off relief told reporters they had been without food for two days.

Burton placed responsibility for the crisis on the state. He has tried unsuccessfully to get Governor John Bricker to call a special session of the legislature to consider the relief problem.

Just to show there weren't any hard feelings, Danielson and Bardhal shook.

Regina Tosses Laborites Out Of Control

REGINA, Nov. 28—(CP)— Regina's civic election, in which Labor forces were shunted out of power in the council, was the high-light of municipal voting in Saskatchewan yesterday.

James Grassick, 70-year-old veteran of 27 years in various civic offices and mayor from 1920 to 1922, won the mayoralty from A. C. Ellison, laborite mayor of the past four years, by a majority of 942.

Grassick was a candidate of the civic voters association which also sponsored all six successful aldermanic candidates. The result makes the council standing: C. V. A. seven, labor three, independent one. The 1939 council had nine labor members and two independents.

Rev. R. S. Booy Dies Aged 71

Born in Cranbrook, England. Rev. Mr. Booy received his theological training in England where he acted for a time as a missionary. He was also stationed at Exeter before coming to Canada some years before the war. His first charge here was at Campbell's Bay, Que., and he successively served at Foster, Clarenceville, Temiskaming and for the past seven years at St. Andrew's East.

Active in the Church's work, he was also a prominent Mason. At the time of his death he was an honorary member of the lodge at Clarenceville. While rector at St. Andrew's East he had the honor of assisting at th unveiling in October, 1936, of a tablet in memory of Sir John Abbott, first Canadian-born Prime Minister of Canada. Lord Tweedsmuir officiated at the unveiling.

He is survived by Mrs. Booy, formerly Miss Kate Blundell. one son, Richard J. Booy of Teminskaming, and six daughters, Miss Gladys Booy of St. Andrew's East, Mrs. Ernest Draper of Peterborough, Ont. Mrs. Percy Judd of England, Miss Alma Booy of Montreal, Miss Winifred Booy of Granby, and Mrs. Ronald K. Miller of Clarenceville.

The funeral service was marked by an air of solemn yet serene dignity befitting the memory of his cheerful disposition. In spite of the weight of years and declining health he went about his duties so calmly and uncomplainingly that few realized the effort it must have cost him at times.

The casket was borne from the rectory to Christ Church on the shoulders of five members of his congregation: Percy Burwash, Fred Robertson, James Thompson, John Bridges, John Fraser, Sr., and Robert Elder of St. Andrew's Golf Club. (Golfing was the rector's chief form of relaxation). The following clergymen formed the procession which preceded the entry of the casket: Rev. J. A. Mowatt, St. Andrew's United Church; Dr. Wm. MacMillen, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; Rev. W. C. Le Cras, Lachute; Rev. T. W. Ball, St. Andrew's; Rev. C. H. Stone, Rawdon; Rev. J. V. Temple, Morin Heights; Rev. K. N. Brueton, Grenville; Rev. C. W. Earle, Montebello; Rev. S. Andrews, Montreal; Canon W. P. Garrett, Hawkesbury; Canon Whitley, Ste. Anne de Bellevue; Archdeacon A. P. Gower-Rees, Montreal.

The service was conducted by Rev. W. C. Le Cras. Rev. T. W. Ball read I. Corinthians xv. Prayer was offered by Ven. Archdeacon Gower-Rees.

Present at the service were all the family except one daughter, residing in England. This is the first break in the family circle, which was one of close friendship to each other. Mrs. Draper's son-in-law, J. K. Dinesen, of Peterborough, accompanied her to her father's bedside but was unable to remain for the funeral. Bishop Carlisle of Montreal, about to leave for a trip to Winnipeg, was with the Dean for the last two hours of his life. Before leaving St. Andrew's East, he appointed Rev. T. W. Ball (retired) as rector pro tem.

The remains were conveyed by motor hearse to St. Thomas Church Cemetery at Noyon Jct., Que., a former charge of the deceased. A Masonic service was held there.

Canadian Tools Prove Boon In Gun Making

LONDON, Nov. 28 (CP Cable)—Canada is supplementing the flow of ammunition and raw materials to Britain with machine tools for aid in the British arms efforts, A. A. Rowse, controller of machine tools, told The Canadian Press today.

"That is one of the contributions Canada is making and it is much appreciated," Mr. Rowse said.

Canada is sending mainly machines for boring gun barrels. The supply is not great, but it is important because in war time there is never an adequate quantity of tools.

The cutting tool, with tungsten carbide powder an important constituent, is responsible for the development of machine tools of high rate of production.

Germany has no tungsten. China is the main source and it is available to Britain through her control

Distribution is expected to start in a day or so. The work will be done in conjunction with the London County Council, but some clothing is going to Scotland and a few individual requests will be considered where known cases are Canadians.

FASHIONS

Home work is fun when you dress the part in a coverall apron that holds its own with the smartest frocks in your wardrobe. It's as easy to wear as it is to make, for its wrap-around design enables you to slip it on or off in a jiffy, without damage to your make-up or coiffure. The waistband and tie-sash assure a neat, snug fit through the midriff. Make the apron of a colorful print to brighten up the kitchen and your spirits....you'll get your work done in half the tim, and enjoy yourself in the bargain.

Loyalty Night Is Held By Y.P.S.

LAKEFIELD, Nov. 28.—(ENS).—"My utmost for His Highest" was the theme of the loyalty night program of St. Andrew's Young People's Society meeting on Monday evening.

In keeping with the theme were the hymns, chosen for the brief song service at which Jean Clark presided at the piano.

Ethel Blakely explained the work the Young People's society, especially in the missionary work, and the India project. The loyalty night offering gives the individual member opportunity to give freely to the work of the P.Y.P.S.

A solo, "No Longer Lonely," was rendered by Mrs. A. Boyce.

Mrs. A. H. Clark, devotional convener, who was in charge of the program gave as her paper "My Utmost For His Highest," stressing these things for which all should be thankful and giving in return a more earnest desire to follow Jesus and also to help others.

During the business period Mary Blewett and Evelyn Moore were chosen as captains of the teams in the drive for more members.

It is expected that the presbytery executive will be present and have charge of the program for the next meeting.

Mary Blewett was appointed pianist for the coming year.

Rev. J. Young brought the interesting meeting to a close with prayer and the benediction.

Muriel Windrim Is Reaboro Bride

A pretty wedding was solemnized at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, November 25, in the Baptist Church at Reaboro, when Miss Muriel Elizabeth Windrim, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Windrim, was united in marriage to Mr. Gordon Arthur Morden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morden. Rev. G. M. Holmes of Hamilton officiated, assisted by Rev. P. C. Reed of Lindsay.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of white French embroidered organza over satin, made on princess lines with Queen Anne collar, and the skirt flowing into a train. Her bridal veil was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman and Joanna Hill roses. She was attended by her two sisters, Miss Mayme Windrim of Toronto, and Miss Olive Windrim of Peterborough, gowned alike in rose and aqua blue taffeta with doll hats of maribou and feathers in contrasting shades, and carrying fan bouquets of baby 'mums and sweetheart roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Malcolm Morden of Capreol, Ont. Mr. P. D. Windrim, brother of the bride, and Mr. Keith Morden, brother of the groom, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Windrim was gowned in black alpaca crepe with corsage of Talisman roses, and Mrs. Morden wore brown sheer crepe and a corsage of Butterfly roses. The T-shaped tables were done in pink and white and decorated with carnations and tall tapers in silver holders. Sweet peas adorned the four-story cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Morden left for Windsor and points west, the bride travelling in a smart brown ensemble. The groom's gift to the bride was a luggage set of travel tweed.

Agnes Neill Is In Charge Of Nursing Staff

Already doing her part in war service work is Miss Agnes Neill, daughter of Mrs. Robert Neill of Peterborough, who is in charge of the 46 nursing sisters who help make up the staff of the military hospital organized to meet the requirements of a 1,200-bed overseas unit by the 15th General Hospital, R.A.M.C. Miss Neill wears three pips, the same as a captain, but still bears the civilian title of her position. The building was converted into a hospital to serve the soldiers in training at Exhibition Camp from the old Grace Hospital at College and Huron streets, Toronto.

It is equipped for 200 patients, and the staff consists of 35 officers, 46 nursing sisters, and 200 other ranks. Broken down into civilian terms, all the officers are doctors with the exception of the quartermaster, paymaster, chaplain and dentist. The "other ranks" consist of laboratory assistants, technicians, cooks, cleaners, clerks, orderlies and men to man the specialized services which go to make up a hospital organization.

The first patient was brought into the hospital on Friday, and by Monday there were sixty patients in the wards, suffering, for the most part, from common colds and the various complications which result from such colds.

"The feminist movement has not done all that was expected of it." said famous Suffragette Mrs. Charlotte Despard, who at 95 recently declared herself bankrupt in the Belfast Court. A sister of the late Sir John French, she became a leading "militant," went to prison many times, was called "the Desperado" by the police.

Hertha Glatz Renders Distinguished Song Recital

Tall and lissom, in a black gown with white flowing shoulder draperies that was a fitting frame for her natural charm, Hertha Glatz, distinguished young contralto of many European opera houses, sang her way into the hearts of a Peterborough audience Monday night in the Collegiate Auditorium by the sheer beauty of her voice and the intelligence of her performance.

The Viennese opera star, presented in concert by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Concert Association, sang not only with her colorful, vibrantly-alive contralto voice, but with her heart and her mind as well, and throughout a balanced and versatile program her stage mmaner and her sparkling personality won her readily to the hearts of her listeners.

Her enticingly-arranged program covered a wide range of styles and composers. Included in her presentation were excerpts from French, Italian, Mexican and Russian. In the "Habanera" from Bizet's Carmen, her concluding number, she gave a memorable performance. With flashing eyes, soft caressing expressions and an admirable display of style in singing, she brought out the varying moods of the music to perfection and plainly stamped herself as one well suited to portray this role in poera.

This, and "Mon coeur s'ouvre a ta voix" (Saint-Saens), which moved from the tender romantic mood of the French to a dramatic climax, ranked first in popularity with her audience. "My Heart Ever Faithful" (Bach), a stately and eloquent hymn, and "Dido's Lament" (Purcell), were next in favor in dramatic appeal, the singer's interpretation at all times making her listeners feel the exact mood of each song.

Unvarying quality over a two octave range was displayed in her Russian group. All the fine and characteristic energy of the Russian dance was in her voice as she achieved through the difficult speed of the song a vivid picture of the "Hopak" (Moussorgsky.) Nebbie (The Mists) by Respighi completed this group.

Animation and spirit marked by interpretative technique keynoted her English group. Her listeners thrilled to the familiar "Cherry Ripe" (Horn) and "Velvet Shoes" (Thomson). Her "May Day Carol," an English folk song, arranged by Deems Taylor, and "Love Went A-Riding" (Bridge), were invested with fluency and effective phrasing.

Her encores, graciously given, were accorded an enthusiastic reception, and included the quaint Scottish lyric, "Leezie Lindsay" arranged by Fritz Kreisler, a sparkling Mexican song, "Clavelitos," and the popular "Danny Boy."

The fine, sympathetic accompaniment provided by Gwdendolyn Williams of Toronto, marked her as an artist of the piano — her talent has been acknowledged with pleasure by Peterborough audiences on several previous occasions.

Miss Glatz was presented with a beautiful bouquet of Talisman roses from the Association, shyly proffered by Martha (Bubbles) Mitchell, three-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Mitchell, a tiny fair-haired baby in a blue frock and hair ribbons, whom the artist stooped swiftly to thank with her quick, unaffected smile of delighted pleasure.

Sound Financing

Municipal debts are contracted by the municipalities themselves; they are supervised by the province and finally placed into statistical array by the Bureau at Ottawa.

From that latter source we learn the 4,317 municipalities in Canada had bonded indebtedness of $1,337,207,183 in 1937, which was a decrease of some 16 millions from the previous year. Municipal indebtedness ought to be continually decreasing in most centres. We have passed the stage where there was a tendency to issue debentures freely and as though there was no other method by which financing could be done. In that way there is a certain amount coming off the total debt amount each year and little more is being added.

An example of the manner in which this is working out can be found in our own city. The last issue of debentures was in 1933, since which time the paying off of previously issued debentures has been going on with no interruption. The amounts paid off each year are shown in this table:

1934	$179,952
1935	265,958
1936	156,487
1937	201,401
1938	190,689
1939	337,381
Total	$1,331,868

In plain words it means that Peterborough has paid off that much of its debt. In the year just ahead, 1940, there will be a larger amount removed because debentures maturing in 1940 will amount to $491,019, so from the beginning of 1933 to the end of 1940 total debt reduction will have amounted to $1,822,887.

Whether municipalities will ever be able to beat their way back to the position which they occupied say in 1919 is doubtful. In that year the combined debt of the 4,317 municipalities in the Dominion amounted to $729,000,000, while the total in 1937 had risen to $1,337,207,183, and that figure is a decrease from previous high marks. So in a general way it would be correct to say the debt of all municipalities has doubled since 1919.

The Bureau of Statistics lists contributing causes:

Growing demand for local improvements.

Increase in educational facilities.

Extension of public and social services.

Providing for unemployment and relief problems.

Peterborough, very wisely we think, has not added to its debenture debt for relief and unemployment costs since 1933, but has paid each year's costs out of current taxes. That is one reason why this city has been able to write off each year since 1933 a substantial amount of its existing indebtedness. We have a feeling, unbacked by statistics, that if other municipalities had followed the same plan there would be a greater reduction shown today in the amounts still owing by Canadian municipalities.

We Need Some Rain

So far this month there has been a precipitation of but .92 inches in Peterborough which is fractionally less than one inch of rain and snow combined. The average for 39 years is 2.73 inches, so at the moment we are far removed from the amount of rain which we generally get and which is needed at this time of year.

People living in the city do not notice it nor are they affected to the extent of those residing in the country. Chief concern in the city is felt by firms which draw power from the river, and that is not now more than 40 per cent. efficient in some cases.

In the country rain is always needed in the fall to fill up the wells and creeks for the winter. Right now a good many wells which depend on rainfall are dry. One report tells of a farmer who is milking 24 cows and it is necessary to draw all the drinking water for these as well as other stock on the farm. Others are doing the same thing, and bringing in a supply of water for such a quantity of stock would make a large hole in the usual day's work.

This unfortunate condition is not the monopoly of this district as reports from other sections of the province tell of similar shortage.

War An Election Issue

United States has nothing much to do with the war except sell supplies to such of the belligerents as are able to come and take them away. The war is hitting U.S. shipping as nationals of that land are not permitted to go on vessels into danger zones.

But United States is going to face its presidential election in 1940, and the war is going to be an issue. And in a rather small way we think.

The Republicans want something on which to hang their appeal; something which would aid them in ousting the Democrats, and they believe they have it.

Already we read of speeches in which the theme is the war and the danger of United States being drawn into it. These appeals commence by reference to the fact that when United States entered the last war the Democrats were in power. The Democrats are again in power and there is another war on. Therefore the Democrats will do as they did before—get into the war. From there the argument proceeds that the Republican party is the one sure agency of peace, and therefore the one sure way to keep United States out of the war is to have the Republican party in power.

History has written that United States declared war on Germany because the Lusitania was torpedoed, and Woodrow Wilson, the then Democratic president of United States, had nothing to do with that.

But a presidential campaign in United States needs something on which to make a wide, sweeping appeal for votes. Something must be brought to the front to undo the "Don't shoot Santa Claus" feeling which has come into existence by reason of the tremendous spending by the present government to win prosperity and provide employment. "Keep us out of the war" is as good as anything else. It is better than spending too much time talking about incompetence, graft and all such. It will have a strong appeal in a good many quarters. The Democrats show no signs of going to war, but what does that matter? Winning an election at home is greater than anything which can happen in Europe.

Magnetic Mines

The man with the lay mind and the one possessed of scientific training are having their innings today about magnetic mines. It is possible to get many explanations. Some would have us believe that these mines are so magnetized that when a steel ship draws near they will at once rise to the point of contact and down goes the ship. The man with more learning is bound to smile at such explanation.

We read this is something new which German scientists have devised; that it is a secret process and not known elsewhere. Against that is the word of men who were engaged in the last war and who say there is nothing new in the magnetic mine either in principle or practice, and they say openly the British and Germans knew about it 25 years ago.

The consensus among scientists is that it is not magnetism which brings these mines to the point where a ship may be passing, but it is done by buoyancy. The nearness of a steel hull will set off some delicately timed apparatus within the bomb and probably set in motion some operation which will rid the bomb of a fluid which keeps it down. In that way buoyancy is imparted to the bomb and it then rises to do its work of destruction.

There is a well-founded tendency to discount entirely the belief that these mines can rise by magnetic attraction from any great distance. The material which lends itself to the greatest intaking of magnetism is an alloy containing aluminum, nickel and cobalt, and is so powerful that half a pound of it will hold ten pounds of steel. But a magnet of this material large enough to pull 10 pounds one inch distant will pull only 1-10th of a pound at 10 inches. From that diminishing ratio it can be seen that magnetism alone could not account for these floating mines coming into contact with steel vessels.

They Kept It Quiet

There is a branch bank in Dungannon and another in Auburn, and both places are in the district near Goderich, in Huron County. There is some plan by which money is transferred from one bank to the other, and recently $2,000 was missing. It was placed in a box or trunk compartment of a car, and at the end of the trip it was gone. Some claim is bounced out when the car was going over rough roads, while the other view is that it was stolen.

That happened several days ago and news was carefully guarded. Nothing was to be said as those in charge of the situation did not want it "to get out." Possibly they feared the papers would get wind of it. Investigations and tests occupied about three days, and it was demonstrated that money would not bounce out of the car as at first suggested, and in the end notices have been posted offering a substantial reward for the money.

The result of this secretive policy is that those who stole the money — and that is apparently what happened — have a start of a good three days or more.

Just why such news should not be published as broadly as possible as soon as the fact was known that the money was missing is a hangover from the days when people didn't want anything made known. They were certain if they worked quietly they could get along better. In some cases they may, but as a rule they can't.

We recall some years ago a worried mother who came to see the editor of a newspaper. Her daughter was missing, and the mother was afraid that something might get in the paper. The editor was a wise man with a good deal of tact and experience, and he placed this one plain question before her:

"What is the one thing you desire above all else? That people hear nothing about this or that you have your daughter home with you?"

There was only one answer and the mother gave it; she wanted her daughter. Then the editor told her plainly the one sure way to accomplish that purpose was to tell as many people as possible that she was lost so all those people could be on the lookout for her.

Honestly worded and well-stated publicity is the best treatment for all such situations, and those responsible for trying to keep it quiet that $2,000 was missing from a bank car have something to learn before they can qualify as knowing exactly the right way to deal with such a situation.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The next best thing to getting everything you like is to like everything you get.

Then there was the Scotsman who wrote to the editor of the paper saying if he didn't quit printing jokes about the Scots he would quit borrowing his paper.

There will be no strike in the film industry at Hollywood as 23,000 workers secured an increase of ten per cent. in their wages. That is one way of securing peace—purchase it and pay for it.

There are said to be 2,000 people in London, Ont., who have not secured a radio license for 1939. Of course radio is not entirely like a telephone where they can discontinue the service to those who do not pay.

Another explanation of the shortage of penny shortage in Canada is that all American coins of that denomination have gone out of circulation here. Wise little fellows, they have gone south for the winter.

When Premier Chamberlain was broadcasting on Sunday he used the word "Allies" but gave to it a pronunciation which is seldom heard in this country. He used it something like this—ALLIES—placing the accept on the last of the word.

There was a car crash in St. Marys, and two cars landed up on the lawn in front of the home of the chief of police. Very handy indeed to just step out of the door and investigate the situation, and tell the people how he wanted his premises cleared up.

It was found at Pittsfield, Mass., that a telephone extension which had been out for 20 years had been paid for regularly ever since, and the man who paid the money was given a refund of $200 with interest. And possibly that is $200 which he otherwise would not have today.

BETTER WAY

(By A. R. K.)

¶ The butcher sells me stuff to eat, good slabs of ham and cuts of meat, pigs' knuckles now and then; I often loaf around his shop, and gossip there a while and talk, and meet with other men.

¶ And when he sells me cuts of beef, that cause me times of woe and grief, 'tis then my feelings sink; right near the horns that cut was made, I'll talk as though I'm not afraid, and tell him what I think.

¶ Or if the bacon's far too fat, I'll speak my piece concerning that, he knows what pleases me; I wasn't looking at the time, to see what he cut off for mine, not like it ought to be.

¶ I have these on my mental slate, I'll up and chant my hymn of hate, I'll bawl him out real good; and if some folk are in the store, I'll likely tell a whole lot more, I'll shake him like I should.

¶ But then I stop and think a spell, of times he's served me mighty well, of that he never heard; for he has sent me roasts of beef, that go so easy on the teeth, I never said a word.

¶ Perhaps it's well I thought of that, instead of talking through my hat, and spoiling pleasant days; I can't just tell him stuff was bad, for hanged good meat I'd have to add—a little word of praise.

London Papers Find War Hits Revenue Hard

LONDON.—Newspapers here, reduced roughly to 40 per cent of their prewar size, are being produced with a view of saving money rather than making it.

All of the papers are suffering from the prevalent loss of advertising revenue, the enhanced cost of distribution and the necessity of conserving newsprint — conditions which explain why something like 30 per cent of the men working on editorial staffs of British newspapers—either have been dismissed or subjected to cuts in salary ranging from 10 to 25 per cent. Advertising staffs, too, have been drastically affected by a sudden cessation in the demand for space.

The Institute of Journalists and the National Union of Journalists have complained with some warmth that proprietors have been precipitate in effecting savings at the expense of employees.

Stewart Nicholson, Secretary of the Institute of Journalists, declared that proprietors would have served their own interests better in the long run and would have mitigated the hardships of their employees as well if they had waited for military conscription "to take toll of staffs as it inevitably must do when compulsory service for people over 20 gets really under way."

CONTRIBUTORY FACTORS

These are contributory factors in making a great glut of talent on the newspaper market. Some newspaper proprietors, rather than dismiss their staffs, have cut salaries from 10 to 25 per cent or have adopted "short time" systems.

Newspaper producers also have had to find other ways of saving money in addition to cutting down on their staffs. One of the many means adopted to this end are refusal to accept the return of unsold copies from retail news agents.

A certain note of sameness rings through the whole British press because the editors depend much on official communiques and political and diplomatic statements which are common property.

Moreover, there is a wide dependence upon news in the foreign neutral press, particularly news from Germany.

NOTICEABLE SIMILARITY

The similarity was most noticeable before correspondents were permitted on the Western Front, and when every newspaper had to depend on one agency man, appointed to supply the world's press through the Ministry of Information. Now there is a large number of special correspondents at the front.

Only a negligible amount of news of feature copy in the newspapers is free from war content. Even the characters in the strips find themselves affected by reflected hostilities in Cartoonia.

Columnists of all types have felt a space restriction.

Some of the columnists have attempted to widen the appeal of their writings by touring throughout Britain and showing how life is going on in the provinces. One paper commissioned the novelist, Mr. J. B. Priestly, to do this job. Unanimity of policy in this regard tended to exaggerate the regimentation of newspaper columns.

An effort to achieve originality has appeared in the dressing-up of "straight news" in feature trimmings, with trick headlines, light drawings and ingenious layouts.

The conservative Daily Telegraph now presents the more significant speeches made in the House of Commons verbatim on its editorial page, laid out so that they acquire quite an intimate appearance.

The London Times, however, retains its traditional treatment of news and on the day after war broke out had its front page devoted as usual to advertisements and conveyed the intimation of the great story inside only by three or four unemotional words in the top righthand corner.

NEWS ON FRONT PAGE

The Daily Mail, forsaking its time-honored policy of devoting the front page to high-priced advertising, now cedes this place to news.

Editorial pages carry "leaders" concerned almost exclusively with the war these days and an attempt to gauge readers' tastes has shown that editorials themselves carry much more weight with the public during war than they do in days of peace.

MADE LOVE BY CODE

ONE of the best censorship stories about Alberta that we've yet heard concerns two young school teachers who are "that way" about one another.

It seems that this young man and young lady, to circumvent possibilities of prying eyes in various school districts in which they have taught, have invented a secret communications code of their own.

Last week the young man, from his rural school out in the Hanna area, telegraphed an amorous message to his sweetheart at her school, which is somewhere within half a day's journey of Edmonton.

Apparently the coded telegram roused the suspicions of certain authorities. A copy went immediately to Ottawa where it was promptly analyzed.

Very soon afterwards, the young man received a call from a uniformed officer from the nearest police detachment with a request that he immediately translate the cryptic message himself. Exactly the same thing happened to the young lady the same day.—Calgary Albertan.

• Writer Confesses He Was Fooled

MOST of our readers, says Ottawa Journal, have probably read the attractive books of Mr. Vincent Sheehan. As the author of Personal History and Not Peace But a Sword, not to mention innumerable newspaper and magazine pieces, he was, to many, a combination of glamor boy and super-publicity man for the world revolution, his heart in Moscow and Madrid. Of American correspondents, only John Reed, whose Nine Days That Shook the World became something of a classic, had more of admiration for Russia. Or for Soviet Russia.

Now, writing in the New Republic, Mr. Sheehan, disillusioned, makes a confession. His roseate dawn of world revolution which was to turn the world away from an ugly, cruel capitalism has turned into a drab, grey day of personal military dictatorship, worse than anything preceding it.

Mr. Sheehan, writing more in sorrow than in anger, traces the Russian revolution from the beginning to the present day; tells of the emotions and ideals which first inspired it, notes the waning of enthusiasm for ideals, comes finally to the "terrorized bureaucracy operating under naked political control." This bureaucracy, he says, passed under the orders of "power unrestrained and irresponsible, concentrated more and more into the hands of a single man." With this result:

"In the political field the development of the tyranny of that one man has abolished every vestige of Soviet democracy, and even of the democracy inside the Communist party, has solidified the new social classes and expropriated the workers — immensely increased in number by industrialization—for the benefit of the state, bureaucracy and the army, the precise organisms which it was the aim of the Russian revolution to suppress."

And adds Mr. Sheehan:

"Every vital principle of Socialism from Marx to Lenin has been, it seems to me, vitiated, perverted or ignored....Ignoring every precept of revolutionary thought from Robespierre through Marx, Engels, Lenin, Trotsky and even his earlier self, Stalin has, as a personal dictator of an enslaved and terrorized state, embarked upon a militarist expansion, the end of which cannot be seen by any person now living."

Our young intellectuals, let us hope, and as well some who are not so young, will read this confession, or recantation of Vincent Sheehan. Good for his soul, it ought to be good for theirs.

• Stealing Silver and Linen

THE LADY who was said to have achieved a certain social standing by the fact that her household linen bore the imprint of the best hotels seemingly has numberless imitators. At the current national exposition at Grand Central Palace hotel keepers and restaurant proprietors reported that losses in linens and table silver are their chief items of expense.

A spokesman for the National Executive Housekeepers' Association declared that a hotel which recently served dinner to 2,000 persons missed 400 table napkins after the banquet. This, of course, represents a serious monetary loss, but it may have been an extreme example of souvenir hunting, inasmuch as the practice seems to have declined in New York this summer.

Further, to discourage these costly depredations in future it is proposed to furnish larger napkins. A departing diner who nears the door with what seems to be a small spinnaker broken out to port or starboard cannot complain if he is reminded that it might be well to carry less canvas. An alternative precaution for use in cocktail bars is to use small napkins bearing enough advertising matter to make up for their loss.

Unmarked linen and tableware seem to have less attraction for collectors than branded articles, but disappearance of these also runs into a major item of expense. The practice, by persons who seemingly are well supplied with money, is a standing puzzle to students of certain forms of behavior.—New York Herald Tribune.

• Friendly Words Across The Line

THIS is taken from the Official Paper of the West St. Louis, Mo., Kiwanis Club. The tribute is headed: "To the Best Neighbor in the World." The occasion for this is indicated clearly enough:

"At times the statements of those in the public light are given more serious consideration than they merit. We do not want to be guilty of this offense, but a recent utterance as it referred to Canada was so diametrically opposed to the principles, purposes and ideals espoused by Kiwanis that we want to join in the chorus of disapproval. Being a Kiwanis club located in the city which shared in the honors some twelve years ago, we feel it proper to do so. 'Tis only the Tom Sawyers of fiction who continue always to command our admiration and affection; hence the charitable thing is to try to remember only the young man who thrilled the hearts and captured the imagination of all people by his epochal flight.

"The present matter does furnish us with the occasion to speak a word of appreciation to you, our fellow-Kiwanians in Canada, and to your great nation, the best neighbor in the world.

"Your allegiance to the British Crown antedates our independence. Had this not been so, our declaration of July 4, 1776, might not have been made. You have worked out your destiny with the ties to the mother country intact; we with those ties severed. This, however, has not prevented our close co-operation with Britain in many important matters. Our Monroe Doctrine was conceived in Britain and fostered by Britain. Eloquent testimony to this fact and its importance is shown in the monuments throughout South America erected to the memory of George Canning, British Foreign Secretary in the 1820's.

"We have had similar problems, e.g., you your Canadianization, we our Americanization problem. (Pardon our presumption in appropriating this term.) You have often profited by our mistakes. When you drew up your constitution, the British North America Act of 1867, you saw the glaring and tragic defects in our document, as manifest by our civil war, and you left no ambiguity as to the respective authority of Federal and Provincial Governments.

"Seeing the lawlessness that existed as we opened our West, you established your Northwest Mounted Police, and wrote one of the most noble chapters for law and order in the annals of human history.

"We have admired your leaders of church, state, business and professions. We are proud that this continent has produced a statesman of the calibre of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Your methods of handling social and economic matters, of business and finance, have been given our unstinted praise.

"The recent demonstration of the moral fibre and virility of your nation, as sentiment, integrity and honor, and not selfish expediency dictated your action, thrilled us.

"We respect your institutions, we stand in awe and reverence before some of your traditions, we affectionately admire your people.

"A salute to Our Lady of the Snows."

WHAT'S WRONG?

THERE is indeed something wrong with radio. We wish it would do more to entertain rather than carry dull speeches for the supposed enlightenment of listeners. Good music is the form of entertainment in which it has least competition. Its often futile playlets can hardly compete with the theatre. But instead of making itself supreme in the providing of high-class music, radio appears to skimp that department of its usefulness. As a matter of fact, some of the best music heard over the radio is from records. A good recorded program is much to be preferred to a poor program coming direct from the performers. But a recorded program is not permitted after 7.30 p.m.—Toronto Star.

LESSON IN PUNCTUATION

A SCHOOL MANAGER paid a visit to a school which he had visited only a little while before, and was therefore not expected by the head teacher, who was annoyed at being caught unprepared. "What does the old ass want here again so soon?" he murmured to his assistant, and the manager overheard him. So he suggested a lesson in punctuation. Calling out one of the boys, he told him to write on the blackboard, "The head teacher says the school manager is an ass." The words were written, and the inspector added, "Now put a comma after 'teacher,' and another after 'manager.' This was done, and the whole school read the result.—Montreal Star.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and keep, and do them....

When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations. There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter to pass through the fire, or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a necromancer.

For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord: and because of these abominations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee.—Deut. v, 1; xviii, 9-14.

A Bit Of Nonsense

Everything Thought Of

The young inventor was trying to persuade the business man to market his patent keyless lock.

"It's too complicated," snapped the business man. "The average person would forget how to unlock the contraption."

"Not at all, sir," said the inventor, triumphantly. "You see, I've thought of that. Every lock will have complete instructions embossed on it."

OLD TIMERS GOING

HON. PETER HEENAN, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, is said to be slated for appointment to the Dominion Senate. When that takes place, only one of the five men who campaigned with M. F. Hepburn to gain victory in the 1934 Ontario election and later entered the Hepburn cabinet cabinet will be left with Mr. Hepburn—Hon. H. C. Nixon, the old reliable. Of the others, Arthur Roebuck and David Croll were kicked out of the back door and Duncan Marshall was beaten in the 1937 election. A seat was later provided for Mr. Marshall in the Senate. —St. Thomas Times-Journal.

CAN MARRY SOLDIERS

GIRLS in the employ of the province can marry soldiers and still retain their jobs, according to a Queen's Park ruling. This is an amendment to the regulation banning wedded women from the civil service.

The decision is a just one. Girls who wish to marry their sweethearts before the men go overseas should not be deprived of the privilege of doing so without losing their jobs. It would be a cruel policy that would take from a girl her position just because she wedded a man who has offered himself to his country. She will have sacrificed enough without giving up her employment.—Windsor Star.

Sound Financing

Municipal debts are contracted by the municipalities themselves; they are supervised by the province and finally placed into statistical array by the Bureau at Ottawa.

From that latter source we learn the 4,317 municipalities in Canada had bonded indebtedness of $1,337,207,183 in 1937, which was a decrease of some 16 millions from the previous year. Municipal indebtedness ought to be continually decreasing in most centres. We have passed the stage where there was a tendency to issue debentures freely and as though there was no other method by which financing could be done. In that way there is a certain amount coming off the total debt amount each year and little more is being added.

An example of the manner in which this is working out can be found in our own city. The last issue of debentures was in 1933, since which time the paying off of previously issued debentures has been going on with no interruption. The amounts paid off each year are shown in this table:

1934	$179,952
1935	265,938
1936	156,487
1937	201,401
1938	190,689
1939	337,381
Total	$1,331,868

In plain words it means that Peterborough has paid off that much of its debt. In the year just ahead, 1940, there will be a larger amount removed because debentures maturing in 1940 will amount to $491,019, so from the beginning of 1933 to the end of 1940 total debt reduction will have amounted to $1,822,887.

Whether municipalities will ever be able to beat their way back to the position which they occupied say in 1919 is doubtful. In that year the combined debt of the 4,317 municipalities in the Dominion amounted to $729,000,000, while the total in 1937 had risen to $1,337,207,183, and that figure is a decrease from previous high marks. So in a general way it would be correct to say the debt of all municipalities has doubled since 1919.

The Bureau of Statistics lists contributing causes:

Growing demand for local improvements.

Increase in educational facilities.

Extension of public and social services.

Providing for unemployment and relief problems.

Peterborough, very wisely we think, has not added to its debenture debt for relief and unemployment costs since 1933, but has paid each year's costs out of current taxes. That is one reason why this city has been able to write off each year since 1933 a substantial amount of its existing indebtedness. We have a feeling, unbacked by statistics, that if other municipalities had followed the same plan there would be a greater reduction shown today in the amounts still owing by Canadian municipalities.

We Need Some Rain

So far this month there has been a precipitation of but .92 inches in Peterborough which is fractionally less than one inch of rain and snow combined. The average for 39 years is 2.73 inches, so at the moment we are far removed from the amount of rain which we generally get and which is needed at this time of year.

People living in the city do not notice it nor are they affected to the extent of those residing in the country. Chief concern in the city is felt by firms which draw power from the river, and that is not now more than 40 per cent. efficient in some cases.

In the country rain is always needed in the fall to fill up the wells and creeks for the winter. Right now a good many wells which depend on rainfall are dry. One report tells of a farmer who is milking 24 cows and it is necessary to draw all the drinking water for these as well as other stock on the farm. Others are doing the same thing, and bringing in a supply of water for such a quantity of stock would make a large hole in the usual day's work.

This unfortunate condition is not the monopoly of this district as reports from other sections of the province tell of similar shortage.

War An Election Issue

United States has nothing much to do with the war except sell supplies to such of the belligerents as are able to come and take them away. The war is hitting U.S. shipping as nationals of that land are not permitted to go on vessels into danger zones.

But United States is going to face its presidential election in 1940, and the war is going to be an issue. And in a rather small way we think.

The Republicans want something on which to hang their appeal; something which would aid them in ousting the Democrats, and they believe they have it.

Already we read of speeches in which the theme is the war and the danger of United States being drawn into it. These appeals commence by reference to the fact that when United States entered the last war the Democrats were in power. The Democrats are again in power and there is another war on. Therefore the Democrats will do as they did before—get into the war. From there the argument proceeds that the Republican party is the one sure agency of peace, and therefore the one sure way to keep United States out of the war is to have the Republican party in power.

History has written that United States declared war on Germany because the Lusitania was torpedoed, and Woodrow Wilson, the then Democratic president of United States, had nothing to do with that.

But a presidential campaign in United States needs something on which to make a wide, sweeping appeal for votes. Something must be brought to the front to undo the "Don't shoot Santa Claus" feeling which has come into existence by reason of the tremendous spending by the present government to win prosperity and provide employment. "Keep us out of the war" is as good as anything else. It is better than spending too much time talking about incompetence, graft and all such. It will have a strong appeal in a good many quarters. The Democrats show no signs of going to war, but what does that matter? Winning an election at home is greater than anything which can happen in Europe.

Magnetic Mines

The man with the lay mind and the one possessed of scientific training are having their innings today about magnetic mines. It is possible to get many explanations. Some would have us believe that these mines are so magnetized that when a steel ship draws near they will at once rise to the point of contact and down goes the ship. The man with more learning is bound to smile at such explanation.

We read this is something new which German scientists have devised; that it is a secret process and not known elsewhere. Against that is the word of men who were engaged in the last war and who say there is nothing new in the magnetic mine either in principle or practice, and they say openly the British and Germans knew about it 25 years ago.

The consensus among scientists is that it is not magnetism which brings these mines to the point where a ship may be passing, but it is done by buoyancy. The nearness of a steel hull will set off some delicately timed apparatus within the bomb and probably set in motion some operation which will rid the bomb of a fluid which keeps it down. In that way buoyancy is imparted to the bomb and it then rises to do its work of destruction.

There is a well-founded tendency to discount entirely the belief that these mines can rise by magnetic attraction from any great distance. The material which lends itself to the greatest intaking of magnetism is an alloy containing aluminum, nickel and cobalt, and is so powerful that half a pound of it will hold ten pounds of steel. But a magnet of this material large enough to pull 10 pounds one inch distant will pull only 1-10th of a pound at 10 inches. From that diminishing ratio it can be seen that magnetism alone could not account for these floating mines coming into contact with steel vessels.

They Kept It Quiet

There is a branch bank in Dungannon and another in Auburn, and both places are in the district near Goderich, in Huron County. There is some plan by which money is transferred from one bank to the other, and recently $2,000 was missing. It was placed in a box or trunk compartment of a car, and at the end of the trip it was gone. Some claim is bounced out when the car was going over rough roads, while the other view is that it was stolen.

That happened several days ago and news was carefully guarded. Nothing was to be said as those in charge of the situation did not want it "to get out." Possibly they feared the papers would get wind of it. Investigations and tests occupied about three days, and it was demonstrated that money would not bounce out of the car as at first suggested, and in the end notices have been posted offering a substantial reward for the money.

The result of this secretive policy is that those who stole the money — and that is apparently what happened — have a start of a good three days or more.

Just why such news should not be published as broadly as possible as soon as the fact was known that the money was missing is a hangover from the days when people didn't want anything made known. They were certain if they worked quietly they could get along better. In some cases they may, but as a rule they can't.

We recall some years ago a worried mother who came to see the editor of a newspaper. Her daughter was missing, and the mother was afraid that something might get in the paper. The editor was a wise man with a good deal of tact and experience, and he placed this one plain question before her:

"What is the one thing you desire above all else? That people hear nothing about this or that you have your daughter home with you?"

There was only one answer and the mother gave it; she wanted her daughter. Then the editor told her plainly the one sure way to accomplish that purpose was to tell as many people as possible that she was lost so all those people could be on the lookout for her.

Honestly worded and well-stated publicity is the best treatment for all such situations, and those responsible for trying to keep it quiet that $2,000 was missing from a bank car have something to learn before they can qualify as knowing exactly the right way to deal with such a situation.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The next best thing to getting everything you like is to like everything you get.

Then there was the Scotsman who wrote to the editor of the paper saying if he didn't quit printing jokes about the Scots he would quit borrowing his paper.

There will be no strike in the film industry at Hollywood as 23,000 workers secured an increase of ten per cent. in their wages. That is one way of securing peace—purchase it and pay for it.

There are said to be 2,000 people in London, Ont., who have not secured a radio license for 1939. Of course radio is not entirely like a telephone where they can discontinue the service to those who do not pay.

Another explanation of the shortage of penny shortage in Canada is that all American coins of that denomination have gone out of circulation here. Wise little fellows, they have gone south for the winter.

When Premier Chamberlain was broadcasting on Sunday he used the word "Allies" but gave to it a pronunciation which is seldom heard in this country. He used it something like this—ALLIES—placing the accept on the last of the word.

There was a car crash in St. Marys, and two cars landed up on the lawn in front of the home of the chief of police. Very handy indeed to just step out of the door and investigate the situation, and tell the people how he wanted his premises cleared up.

It was found at Pittsfield, Mass., that a telephone extension which had been out for 20 years had been paid for regularly ever since, and the man who paid the money was given a refund of $200 with interest. And possibly that is $200 which he otherwise would not have today.

BETTER WAY

(BY A.R.K.)

¶ The butcher sells me stuff to eat, good slabs of ham and cuts of meat, pigs' knuckles now and then; I often loaf around his shop, and gossip there a while and talk, and meet with other men.

¶ And when he sells me cuts of beef, that cause me times of woe and grief, 'tis then my feelings sink; right near the horns that cut was made, I'll talk as though I'm not afraid, and tell him what I think.

¶ Or if the bacon's far too fat, I'll speak my piece concerning that, he knows what pleases me; I wasn't looking at the time, to see what he cut off for mine, not like it ought to be.

¶ I have these on my mental slate, I'll up and chant my hymn of hate, I'll bawl him out real good; and if some folk are in the store, I'll likely tell a whole lot more, I'll shake him like I should.

¶ But then I stop and think a spell, of times he's served me mighty well, of that he never heard; for he has sent me roasts of beef, that go so easy on the teeth, I never said a word.

¶ Perhaps it's well I thought of that, instead of talking through my hat, and spoiling pleasant days; I can't just tell him stuff was bad, for hanged good meat I'd have to add—a little word of praise.

London Papers Find War Hits Revenue Hard

LONDON.—Newspapers here, reduced roughly to 40 per cent of their prewar size, are being produced with a view of saving money rather than making it.

All of the papers are suffering from the prevalent loss of advertising revenue, the enhanced cost of distribution and the necessity of conserving newsprint — conditions which explain why something like 30 per cent of the men working on editorial staffs of British newspapers—either have been dismissed or subjected to cuts in salary ranging from 10 to 25 per cent. Advertising staffs, too, have been drastically affected by a sudden cessation in the demand for space.

The Institute of Journalists and the National Union of Journalists have complained with some warmth that proprietors have been precipitate in effecting savings at the expense of employees.

Stewart Nicholson, Secretary of the Institute of Journalists, declared that proprietors would have served their own interests better in the long run and would have mitigated the hardships of their employees as well if they had waited for military conscription "to take toll of staffs as it inevitably must do when compulsory service for people over 20 gets really under way."

CONTRIBUTORY FACTORS

These are contributory factors in making a great glut of talent on the newspaper market. Some newspaper proprietors, rather than dismiss their staffs, have cut salaries from 10 to 25 per cent or have adopted "short time" systems.

Newspaper producers also have had to find other ways of saving money in addition to cutting down on their staffs. One of the many means adopted to this end are refusal to accept the return of unsold copies from retail news agents.

A certain note of sameness rings through the whole British press because the editors depend much on official communiques and political and diplomatic statements which are common property.

Moreover, there is a wide dependence upon news in the foreign neutral press, particularly news from Germany.

NOTICEABLE SIMILARITY

The similarity was most noticeable before correspondents were permitted on the Western Front, and when every newspaper had to depend on one agency man, appointed to supply the world's press through the Ministry of Information. Now there is a large number of special correspondents at the front.

Only a negligible amount of news of feature copy in the newspapers is free from war content. Even the characters in the strips find themselves affected by reflected hostilities in Cartoonia.

Columnists of all types have felt a space restriction.

Some of the columnists have attempted to widen the appeal of their writings by touring throughout Britain and showing how life is going on in the provinces. One paper commissioned the novelist, Mr. J. B. Priestly, to do this job. Unanimity of policy in this regard tended to exaggerate the regimentation of newspaper columns.

An effort to achieve originality has appeared in the dressing-up of "straight news" in feature trimmings, with trick headlines, light drawings and ingenious layouts.

The conservative Daily Telegraph now presents the more significant speeches made in the House of Commons verbatim on its editorial page, laid out so that they acquire quite an intimate appearance.

The London Times, however, retains its traditional treatment of news and on the day after war broke out had its front page devoted as usual to advertisements and conveyed the intimation of the great story inside only by three or four unemotional words in the top righthand corner.

NEWS ON FRONT PAGE

The Daily Mail, forsaking its time-honored policy of devoting the front page to high-priced advertising, now cedes this place to news.

Editorial pages carry "leaders" concerned almost exclusively with the war these days and an attempt to gauge readers' tastes has shown that editorials themselves carry much more weight with the public during war than they do in days of peace.

MADE LOVE BY CODE

ONE of the best censorship stories about Alberta that we've yet heard concerns two young school teachers who are "that way" about one another.

It seems that this young man and young lady, to circumvent possibilities of prying eyes in various school districts in which they have taught, have invented a secret communications code of their own.

Last week the young man, from his rural school out in the Hanna area, telegraphed an amorous message to his sweetheart at her school, which is somewhere within half a day's journey of Edmonton.

Apparently the coded telegram roused the suspicions of certain authorities. A copy went immediately to Ottawa where it was promptly analyzed.

Very soon afterwards, the young man received a call from a uniformed officer from the nearest police detachment with a request that he immediately translate the cryptic message himself. Exactly the same thing happened to the young lady the same day.—Calgary Albertan.

• Writer Confesses He Was Fooled

MOST of our readers, says Ottawa Journal, have probably read the attractive books of Mr. Vincent Sheehan. As the author of Personal History and Not Peace But a Sword, not to mention innumerable newspaper and magazine pieces, he was, to many, a combination of glamor boy and super-publicity man for the world revolution, his heart in Moscow and Madrid. Of American correspondents, only John Reed, whose Nine Days That Shook the World became something of a classic, had more of admiration for Russia. Or for Soviet Russia.

Now, writing in the New Republic, Mr. Sheehan, disillusioned, makes a confession. His roseate dawn of world revolution which was to turn the world away from an ugly, cruel capitalism has turned into a drab, grey day of personal military dictatorship, worse than anything preceding it.

Mr. Sheehan, writing more in sorrow than in anger, traces the Russian revolution from the beginning to the present day; tells of the emotions and ideals which first inspired it, notes the waning of enthusiasm for ideals, comes finally to the "terrorized bureaucracy operating under naked political control." This bureaucracy, he says, passed under the orders of "power unrestrained and irresponsible, concentrated more and more into the hands of a single man." With this result:

"In the political field the development of the tyranny of that one man has abolished every vestige of Soviet democracy, and even of the democracy inside the Communist party, has solidified the new social classes and expropriated the workers — immensely increased in number by industrialization—for the benefit of the state, bureaucracy and the army, the precise organisms which it was the aim of the Russian revolution to suppress."

And adds Mr. Sheehan:

"Every vital principle of Socialism from Marx to Lenin has been, it seems to me, vitiated, perverted or ignored....Ignoring every precept of revolutionary thought from Robespierre through Marx, Engels, Lenin, Trotsky and even his earlier self, Stalin has, as a personal dictator of an enslaved and terrorized state, embarked upon a militarist expansion, the end of which cannot be seen by any person now living."

Our young intellectuals, let us hope, and as well some who are not so young, will read this confession, or recantation of Vincent Sheehan. Good for his soul, it ought to be good for theirs.

• Stealing Silver and Linen

THE LADY who was said to have achieved a certain social standing by the fact that her household linen bore the imprint of the best hotels seemingly has numberless imitators. At the current national exposition at Grand Central Palace hotel keepers and restaurant proprietors reported that losses in linens and table silver are their chief items of expense.

A spokesman for the National Executive Housekeepers' Association declared that a hotel which recently served dinner to 2,000 persons missed 400 table napkins after the banquet. This, of course, represents a serious monetary loss, but it may have been an extreme example of souvenir hunting, inasmuch as the practice seems to have declined in New York this summer.

Further, to discourage these costly depredations in future it is proposed to furnish larger napkins. A departing diner who nears the door with what seems to be a small spinnaker broken out to port or starboard cannot complain if he is reminded that it might be well to carry less canvas. An alternative precaution for use in cocktail bars is to use small napkins bearing enough advertising matter to make up for their loss.

Unmarked linen and tableware seem to have less attraction for collectors than branded articles, but disappearance of these also runs into a major item of expense. The practice, by persons who seemingly are well supplied with money, is a standing puzzle to students of certain forms of behavior.—New York Herald Tribune.

• Friendly Words Across The Line

THIS is taken from the Official Paper of the West St. Louis, Mo., Kiwanis Club. The tribute is headed: "To the Best Neighbor in the World." The occasion for this is indicated clearly enough:

"At times the statements of those in the public light are given more serious consideration than they merit. We do not want to be guilty of this offense, but a recent utterance as it referred to Canada was so diametrically opposed to the principles, purposes and ideals espoused by Kiwanis that we want to join in the chorus of disapproval. Being a Kiwanis club located in the city which shared in the honors some twelve years ago, we feel it proper to do so. 'Tis only the Tom Sawyers of fiction who continue always to command our admiration and affection; hence the charitable thing is to try to remember only the young man who thrilled the hearts and captured the imagination of all people by his epochal flight.

"The present matter does furnish us with the occasion to speak a word of appreciation to you, our fellow-Kiwanians in Canada, and to your great nation, the best neighbor in the world.

"Your allegiance to the British Crown antedates our independence. Had this not been so, our declaration of July 4, 1776, might not have been made. You have worked out your destiny with the ties to the mother country intact; we with those ties severed. This, however, has not prevented our close co-operation with Britain in many important matters. Our Monroe Doctrine was conceived in Britain and fostered by Britain. Eloquent testimony to this fact and its importance is shown in the monuments throughout South America erected to the memory of George Canning, British Foreign Secretary in the 1820's.

"We have had similar problems, e.g., you your Canadianization, we our Americanization problem. (Pardon our presumption in appropriating this term.) You have often profited by our mistakes. When you drew up your constitution, the British North America Act of 1867, you saw the glaring and tragic defects in our document, as manifest by our civil war, and you left no ambiguity as to the respective authority of Federal and Provincial Governments.

"Seeing the lawlessness that existed as we opened our West, you established your Northwest Mounted Police, and wrote one of the most noble chapters for law and order in the annals of human history.

"We have admired your leaders of church, state, business and professions. We are proud that this continent has produced a statesman of the calibre of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Your methods of handling social and economic matters, of business and finance, have been given our unstinted praise.

"The recent demonstration of the moral fibre and virility of your nation, as sentiment, integrity and honor, and not selfish expediency dictated your action, thrilled us.

"We respect your institutions, we stand in awe and reverence before some of your traditions, we affectionately admire your people.

"A salute to Our Lady of the Snows."
